PRESIDENT BRUCE D. BENSON

Bruce D. Benson is in his ninth year as president of the University of Colorado, as he was named to the position in March 2008. Since taking the helm of his alma mater, he has enhanced CU's standing as one of the nation's leading teaching and research universities, advancing the economy, health and culture of Colorado and beyond. He is the longest-serving CU president in more than 50 years.

During Benson's tenure, CU's research funding has reached record levels in each of the past four years (including the most recent, $878.3 million in 2014-15 and a record $884 million in 2010-11), supporting the university's research strengths in biotechnology, health care, renewable and sustainable energy, and aerospace engineering, among others. He has led efforts to promote cross-campus collaboration that have resulted in cooperative academic programs and research initiatives, most notably CU's Biofrontiers Institute, led by Nobel laureate Tom Cech.

CU has broken records for fundraising in each of the past six years (including a record $375.4 million in 2014-15) under his leadership. Benson and his wife, Marcy, chaired CU's $1.5 billion Creating Futures fundraising campaign, which exceeded its goal in November 2013. The campaign, the largest in university history, supports scholarships, academic enhancements (endowed faculty positions, programs), research projects and capital improvements across CU's campuses.

Benson, 78, has guided efforts to institute operational efficiencies, cut bureaucracy and improve business practices at the university. CU has secured legislation over the past eight sessions of the Colorado General Assembly that has allowed it to save millions annually in areas such as procurement, insurance and construction. He has also established a number of public-private partnerships to make the university more entrepreneurial and meet the needs of businesses in Colorado and across the country.

He oversees a system with four campuses (Boulder, Colorado Springs, Denver, and Anschutz Medical Campus in Aurora) where some 67,500 students pursue courses for credit. During his tenure, CU's four campuses have seen record enrollment. The university's annual budget is $3.55 billion, and the CU system is one of the largest employers in the state as over 30,000 people work at the four sites.

Before becoming CU's president, Benson had already made his mark in business, politics, philanthropy, education and civic endeavors. He founded Bruce Mineral Group in 1965, a year after earning his bachelor's degree in Geology from CU.

He has consistently been active in a variety of educational, civic and political endeavors, and was the Republican nominee for Colorado governor in 1994. Benson has received many honors recognizing his leadership in a variety of endeavors, but two are particularly notable: CU in 2004 granted him an Honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters, and in February 2009 he was inducted into the Colorado Business Hall of Fame.

He was born July 4, 1938 in Chicago, and has three children and 10 grandchildren.

CHANCELLOR PHILIP P. DISTEFANO

Dr. Philip P. DiStefano is in his eighth year as the Chancellor at the University of Colorado Boulder. Prior to his appointment on May 5, 2009, Dr. DiStefano was the top academic officer at CU-Boulder for eight years as the Provost and Executive Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs. He had also served as interim chancellor twice during pivotal times in the university's history.

Dr. DiStefano, 69, co-chaired the steering committee for CU-Boulder's visionary strategic plan, Flagship 2030, conceived with campus, community and statewide input, to guide the university for decades to come. Today, Dr. DiStefano is shepherding its implementation as Flagship 2030 has moved from vision to reality.

Dr. DiStefano has served CU-Boulder for 42 years. He joined the University of Colorado in 1974 as an Assistant Professor of Curriculum and Instruction at the School of Education. His academic career flourished as he assumed a series of academic and administrative positions, including Professor, Associate Dean, Dean and Vice Chancellor. He was appointed Provost and Executive Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs in 2001.

He has established new initiatives to support students in their success, including an increased graduation rate. He also has set forth plans to create alternative sources of revenue and further advance CU's reputation as a top comprehensive national research university.

Dr. DiStefano is considered a national authority on integrating intercollegiate athletics into the university academic mission. For the sixth consecutive year under Chancellor DiStefano, CU's NCAA Academic Progress Rate, which tracks student-athlete progress toward graduation, is the best in school history.

Dr. DiStefano began a three-year term this August on the Board of Governors of the NCAA representing the Pac 12.He also served five years as the University of Colorado's faculty representative to the Big 12 Conference, as he assumed the role on June 1, 2000, and held it until appointing Dr. David Clough to the position in the spring of 2005. He has been closely involved with the athletic program for most of his time at CU, and in June 2016, was recently accompanied by athletic director Rick George to Italy to promote the university and the success of its international students.

As Chancellor he works closely with students, faculty, staff, alumni, donors, governing officials, and business and community leaders in extending CU's legacy as a preeminent national comprehensive research university.

A first-generation college graduate, Dr. DiStefano earned a Bachelor of Science degree from Ohio State University in 1968 and a Master of Arts degree in English Education from West Virginia University in 1971. He holds a Doctorate in Humanities Education from Ohio State University, where he served as a teaching and research associate.

Dr. DiStefano began his educational career as a high school English teacher in Ohio. He has authored and co-authored numerous books and articles on literacy education.

He was born September 21, 1946 in Steubenville, Ohio, and graduated from Steubenville Catholic Central High School. He has been married to the former Yvonne Pasquarella for 47 years, and the couple has three grown daughters, Gia, Nicole and Jennifer, and two granddaughters.

In 2015, he served as the official starter for the 37th annual Bolder Boulder, the city's 10-kilometer race that is the fourth largest in the nation. He has been very active throughout his career in the Boulder Community, having previously served on numerous boards, including the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club.

PROVOST RUSSELL L. MOORE

Dr. Russell L. Moore has had a long and distinguished career at the University of Colorado Boulder, now serving in the capacity of Provost and Executive Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs, having assumed the position July 1, 2010.

Dr. Moore also previously served as interim vice chancellor for research from May 2009 to July 2010, and prior to that appointment, he was the associate vice chancellor for research since 2006.Dr. Moore served as chair of kinesiology and applied physiology (now integrative physiology) from 1994 to 2001, and was assistant professor (1984-86), associate professor (1993-96) and full professor (1996-present) in that department.

He holds an adjunct professorship in medicine (cardiology) at the University of Colorado's Anschutz Medical Campus at the University of Colorado Denver.

He was an assistant and associate professor (1986-91) in the departments of medicine, cellular and molecular physiology at the Pennsylvania State University College of Medicine in Hershey, Pa. He did postdoctoral work at the University of Texas Health Science Center in Dallas (1981-84).

Dr. Moore earned a Bachelor of Science degree in biochemistry from the University of California at Davis in 1976, and doctorate (1982) from Washington State University in Pullman, Wash.

FACULTY ATHLETICS REPRESENTATIVE DAVID CLOUGH

Dr. David Clough, professor of chemical and biological engineering, is now in his 12th year as the University of Colorado's Faculty Athletics Representative (FAR), as he was named to the position in March 2005.

Dr. Clough, 69, replaced current Chancellor Phil DiStefano, who had served as FAR from June 1, 2000 until just shortly after his appointment as Interim Chancellor of the Boulder Campus in 2005. Clough is only the sixth FAR in CU history, joining a very prestigious list: Walter Franklin (1947-1948), Warren Thompson (1949-1966), William Baughn (1967-1989), James Corbridge (1989-2000) and DiStefano (2000-2005).

Dr. Clough has had a significant impact on engineering education at CU Boulder and beyond through career-long efforts to enhance the learning of engineering students. He has pioneered active- and cooperative-learning techniques in the College of Engineering and Applied Science, and in 1989 he originated the concept of the Integrated Teaching and Learning Laboratory (ITLL). Clough's research has focused on the automated control of chemical and related processes.

He also has been involved with student-athletes for a long time, as he's had a relationship with the athletic department for over 35 years. For his entire faculty career, Clough has taken a special interest in engineering student-athletes, as early on he gained an appreciation for the combined challenges they face. He played an integral role in Rhodes Scholarship candidacy of former football player Jim Hansen, an Academic All-American who was awarded the Rhodes in 1993; he is now teaching at the Naval Research Laboratory Marine Meteorology Division in Monterey, Calif., and the two remain best of friends.

Dr. Clough received his bachelor's degree from the Case Institute of Technology (now Case Western Reserve University) in 1968 and his master's from CU Boulder in 1969, both in chemical engineering. He worked as an engineer for E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., from 1969 to 1972 before returning to CU Boulder to earn his doctorate in 1975. He joined the faculty of the Department of Chemical Engineering at that time.

From 1986 to 1992 he served as the College of Engineering's associate dean for academic affairs, playing a role in a number of important initiatives, including the Gemmill Engineering Library, the Minority Engineering Program, the Women Engineering Program, the Herbst Humanities Program, and the ITLL. From 1993 through 1999, he was associate chair of the Department of Chemical Engineering and was responsible for significant improvements to the department's undergraduate advising program.

Known for his willingness to experiment with new educational concepts and technology, Dr. Clough has worked to reform traditional lecture classes into an interactive workshop format that greatly enhances the learning of students. Through these efforts, he has helped to reshape the way engineering is taught. The student-run Engineering Excellence Fund chose him as the first recipient of the Sullivan-Carlson Inspiration in Teaching Award in 1998. He has received numerous teaching and advising awards from nominations by his students over the years. He also has been given the College's Hutchinson Teaching Award and Peters Service Award. He received the first Boulder Faculty Assembly Teaching Award in 1980 and the Boulder Campus Outstanding Advisor Award in 1996. His merit as an educator has also been recognized outside CU, as in 1995, the American Society for Engineering Education (Rocky Mountain Section) presented him with its first Outstanding Educator Award.

In April 2000, he received the college's Distinguished Engineering Alumnus Award in the Education category. It recognized his significant impact on engineering education through pioneering the active learning concept for the ITLL, and in leading the college in changing traditional lecture courses to an active learning format.

In his role as Faculty Athletics Representative, Clough represents CU to the Pac-12 Conference and the NCAA. He provides a liaison between Athletics and the faculty and works to enhance the educational experience of our ~350 student-athletes. He is also active on the national scene as a member of the NCAA Division I Committee on Academics and has served as President of the Faculty Athletics Representatives Association (FARA). In his time as FAR, Dr. Clough has established a reputation for his expertise in the NCAA's Academic Performance Program and that program's statistics that track the progress of student-athletes, the Academic Progress Rate (APR) and the Graduation Success Rate (GSR). He has developed tracking and predictive tools that have been shared with over 100 NCAA institutions.

He and his wife, Sydney, have four grown children, Astrid, William, Rodney and Damon, and four grandchildren. Dr. Clough's father, John W. Clough, was a chemical engineer, and his two brothers are retired engineers. The Clough family established a scholarship endowment in engineering at CU in honor of John Clough, who died in 1994. The family holds a strong belief in giving back to the educational institutions that have benefited its members.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR RICK GEORGE

Rick George was introduced as just the sixth full-time athletic director in University of Colorado history on July 17, 2013, returning to Boulder where he helped play a role in the school's first and only national championship in football some 23 years earlier.

George, 56, came to Colorado from the Texas Rangers baseball club of the American League, where he was named chief operating officer on October 5, 2010 with a promotion to president of business operations in February 2013. He agreed to a 5-year contract at CU, and he officially started on the job on August 12, 2013. In June 2016, the Board of Regents approved a contract extension that carries him through 2020-21 academic and athletic year.

His list of achievements in his first 1,000 days in the position were many, but none more significant than shepherding through a $156 million Athletic Complex Expansion from creation through fruition, gaining approval from the Board of Regents and then raising nearly one-half of the estimated cost to initiate construction, which began May 12, 2014. The project is the core of the Sustainable Excellence Initiative (SEI), the jewel of which was a long-awaited indoor practice facility. Once green-lighted, he spearheaded the most successful fundraising campaign in athletic department history, raising to date $95 million for the project.

George implemented the department's first-ever comprehensive strategic plan, which has mapped CU's immediate and long range purpose and goals. He also redesigned the management teams, made tough budget decisions that reduced deficits he inherited (and has since produced two budget surpluses), and canvassed the state, region and nation in both friend- and fundraising.

Near the end of his first year, he was recognized by CU's Student-Athlete Advisory Committee as its choice for Staff Member of the Year; no token award, the group acknowledged his attendance at most home athletic events, regular meetings with team captains of all programs to interact with them and receive their feedback, and willingness to meet with any student-athlete and that his door is always open to them.

George brought the most diverse background to the position than any before him at Colorado: all five others had extensive and primarily exclusive college athletic histories, the only exceptions being when Marolt left CU after 10 years as ski coach to lead the U.S. Olympic ski team before returning, and Tharp, who was a university attorney with strong CU-Boulder campus ties. While George began and worked in the college athletic world for the first half of his professional career, he stepped outside that box for the second half.

George is just the sixth full-time athletic director in Colorado history, following in the footsteps of Harry Carlson (1927-65), Eddie Crowder (1965-84), Bill Marolt (1984-96), Dick Tharp (1996-2004) and Mike Bohn (2005-13). Two others have bridged directors in interim capacities, Jack Lengyel (six months between Tharp and Bohn) and Ceal Barry (two months between Bohn and George).

George was with the Rangers for less than three years, but saw the team win two American League championships and compile a 243-176 record (.580 winning percentage) during his time there, second-best in the major leagues during that time frame. As the COO, he worked closely with team president and CEO, baseball Hall-of-Famer Nolan Ryan, and was responsible for all facets of the Rangers' business operations, including oversight of all sales and marketing efforts, broadcast and communications, ticket and suite sales, naming rights, etc., in addition to overseeing the finance, human resource and operations departments.

Among his many accomplishments with the Rangers was a comprehensive branding study that successfully rebranded the ball club, and an implementation of a new ticketing strategy that over the course of three seasons increased ticket revenues by over $30 million. The club's attendance saw an increase of 40 percent from the 2010 season to nearly 3.5 million in 2012, second in the American League (behind the New York Yankees) and third in the majors. The 2013 numbers were on pace to exceed the 3 million mark again when he left the franchise for CU.

Prior to joining the Rangers, George served as executive vice president and chief of operations for the PGA TOUR for two-and-a-half years (beginning in June 2008). While with the TOUR, he worked with the corporate marketing department in renewing sponsorships and creating new events. He also oversaw the Tournament Business Affairs division that worked with Tournaments to increase tournament revenue.

He also worked for the PGA TOUR as president of the Champions Tour from 2003-08, and as the executive vice president for championship management his last three years there. His major accomplishments included increasing revenues and sponsorships and the development of strategic plans, the latter including a vision and mission statement as well as core values. The Champions Tour had grown to a minimum 29 events with over $55 million in prize money when he left for the PGA TOUR.

From 1998-2003, George served as President and CEO of the Fore!Kids Foundation, a 501c3 organization that raised money for children's charities via golf-related events, where he led rebranding and organizational efforts that resulted in increases in charitable giving to the Foundation.

At the collegiate level, George worked in three major conferences (Big Ten, Big 8, Southeastern) in football operations, beginning with his alma mater, the University of Illinois, as football recruiting coordinator (1983-87).

He graduated from Illinois in 1982 with a Bachelor of Arts in Liberal Arts & Sciences Individual Study that had an emphasis on Sports Communication and Journalism. He was a four-year letterman at cornerback for the Illini, playing in 44 straight games and starting in 27 games in all, as he played two years each under coaches Gary Moeller and Mike White. He was a two-time recipient of the school's Bruce Capel Award, given for dedication and courage to honor Capel who lost his life serving his country in Vietnam; George received the honor for his junior and senior seasons.

Upon his graduation, White named him the assistant director for player personnel for the Illini, and a year later (1983), he assumed the all sports recruiting coordinator. In March 1984, George took over the recruiting chores solely for football, with his first class ranked No. 1 in the nation by the recruiting services with all in the top 20; he coordinated five classes in all at Illinois when the call came to take him out west to Colorado.

On March 2, 1987, Bill McCartney hired him as Colorado's football recruiting coordinator. Two-and-a-half years later (Dec. 21, 1989), George was promoted to assistant athletic director for football operations, not coincidentally after the Buffaloes finished the regular season with an 11-0 record and the school's first-ever No. 1 national ranking in the polls. CU lost to Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl and would finish No. 4, but came back to go 11-1-1 in 1990, this time defeating the Irish in the Orange Bowl to earn consensus national champion honors.

Shortly thereafter, he left the Buffaloes for Vanderbilt University, where he was reunited with former CU offensive coordinator Gerry DiNardo, who was named the Commodores' head coach a year earlier. In eight years at Vanderbilt (1991-98), he also served as associate athletic director for external operations in conjunction with overseeing the football program. This was where George first expanded his professional role outside of solely football, as he had oversight over all external departments, particularly in the area of managing budgets and developing marketing and promotional strategies for all sports.

George was born April 3, 1960 in Woodstock, Ill., and graduated from Collinsville (Ill.) High School, where he lettered in football, basketball and baseball. He is married to the former Nancy Green, and the couple has two grown daughters, Jenni Reed (husband Tom) and Christi, and two granddaughters (Harper and Maddie).

UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO

Founded in 1876 at the foot of the Flatirons, 140 years has transformed the University of Colorado from a lone building on a bleak, windswept hill to one of the nation's leading public research institutions. Established in 1861, the University was formally founded in 1876, the year Colorado became a state.

The Boulder campus encompasses almost 800 acres on the main campus, east campus (which includes a research park), Williams Village and the Mountain Research Station north of nearby Nederland (which supports ecology, chemistry and geology). In 1996 the Board of Regents purchased 308 acres of land in unincorporated Boulder County, now informally known as the south campus, in an effort to insure the growth of the University well into this century.

While almost 31,000 students are educated on the main campus, another 13,000 study at the University of Colorado at Denver, the University of Colorado Anschutz Campus (Aurora) and the University of Colorado at Colorado Springs. Nine elected Regents and President Bruce Benson lead the four-campus system, while each campus has a Chancellor who serves as the chief academic and administrative officer. Dr. Phil DiStefano is in his eighth year as the chancellor of the Boulder campus.

Students can enter any of 10 schools and colleges offering more than 2,500 courses in 150 fields, representing a full range of disciplines in the humanities, social sciences, physical and biological sciences, the fine and performing arts, and the professions. CU-Boulder is regularly ranked among the best of the United States' public universities by the Fiske Guide to Colleges, and a 2010 USA Today/Princeton Review survey rated the University of Colorado as the fifth-best value among American public colleges. CU was recently ranked as the No. 33 university in the world by the Times Higher Education.

CU-Boulder has played a major role in NASA space programs, designing and building many scientific instruments flown in outer space, and graduated 18 men and women who became astronauts, including the late Jack Swigert, one of the three astronauts in the crippled Apollo 13 mission who made it dock to Earth safely from the moon. When the Hubble Space Telescope was launched in 1990, it was carrying seven major instruments, including a high-resolution spectrograph to study the evolution of stars and designed and built by an international science team led by astronomer Jack Brandt of CU-Boulder. Since Hubble has been up, CU-Boulder faculty and students have been among the top users of Hubble of any institution in the world. CU- Boulder is the only university in the country where undergraduate students have operated a NASA satellite.

The University has produced 19 Rhodes Scholars, five of which were former football student-athletes at CU, with Jim Hansen the most recent recipient in 1992. Faculty member Thomas Cech, a distinguished professor of chemistry and biochemistry, won the 1989 Nobel Prize in chemistry. Other notable alumni include former United States Supreme Court Justice Byron "Whizzer" White, former big band leader Glenn Miller and actors Robert Redford and Christopher Meloni, the latter starring for years on Law & Order: Special Victims Unit, and the creators of South Park, Trey Parker and Matt Stone.

If the aphorism, "Somewhere between the Rockies and reality," seems too good to believe, then come for a visit. Start with a walk on the historic Pearl Street Mall, a downtown pedestrian mall that is the ceremonial heart of the city actually that works despite the efforts of its street theatre.

Visitors may be so taken in by the scenery, the mall, Tudors and Victorians they may forget the University that put it all together. From Pearl, Broadway leads directly onto campus where the University of Colorado Museum and the CU Heritage Center, in the original Old Main building, which introduces the University's past and present. The recently completed ATLAS building is one of the most state-of-the-art structures on any college campus.

Take in the fresh mountain air on any part of 100 miles of trails and 30,000 acres of open space. Climb the Flatirons or in Eldorado Canyon State Park. Swim or board sail at the Boulder Reservoir while elite runners sprint around it. Take in a pro sporting event down the road in Denver, just one of 13 cities with teams in all four pro leagues.

Rest assured, like the prophesy of an Arapaho Indian Chief, "If you leave Boulder, you will return."

PAC-12 CONFERENCE

Conference History

The roots of the Pac-12 Conference date back 99 years to December 2, 1915, when the Pacific Coast Conference (PCC) was founded at a meeting at the Oregon Hotel in Portland. The original membership consisted of four schools — the University of California at Berkeley, the University of Washington, the University of Oregon, and Oregon State College (now Oregon State University). All still are charter members of the Conference.

Pacific Coast Conference play began in 1916 and, one year later, Washington State College (now Washington State University) was accepted into the league, with Stanford University following in 1918.

In 1922, the PCC expanded to eight teams with the admission of the University of Southern California (USC) and the University of Idaho. In 1924, the University of Montana joined the league roster, and in 1928, the PCC grew to 10 members with the addition of UCLA.

The Pacific Coast Conference competed as a 10-member league until 1950, with the exception of 1943-45 when World War II curtailed intercollegiate athletic competition to a minimum. During that time, the league's first commissioner was named. Edwin Atherton was commissioner in 1940 and was succeeded by Victor Schmidt in 1944. In 1950, Montana resigned from the Conference and joined the Mountain States Conference, essentially replacing Colorado, which left for the Big 7 two years earlier. The PCC continued as a nine-team conference through 1958.

In 1959, the PCC was dissolved and the Athletic Association of Western Universities was formed and Thomas J. Hamilton was appointed commissioner of the new league. The original AAWU membership included California, Stanford, Southern California, UCLA and Washington. Washington State joined the membership in 1962, while Oregon and Oregon State joined in 1964. Under Hamilton's watch, the name Pacific-8 Conference was adopted in 1968. In 1971, Wiles Hallock took over as commissioner of the Pac-8.

On July 1, 1978, the University of Arizona and Arizona State University were admitted to the league and the Pacific-10 Conference became a reality. In 1986-87, the league took on a new look, expanding to include 10 women's sports. Tom Hansen was named the commissioner of the Pac-10 in 1983, a role he would hold for 26 years until 2009. Hansen was succeeded by current commissioner Larry Scott, who took on the new role in July 2009.

During the 2010-11 academic year, Scott helped deliver monumental changes that transformed the conference into a modern 12-team league by adding the University of Colorado and the University of Utah. The addition of CU and Utah led to an agreement to equal revenue sharing for the first time in conference history, created two divisions (North and South) for football only, established a football championship game for the first time ever, secured a landmark media rights deal that dramatically increased national exposure and revenue for each school and established the Pac-12 Network and Pac-12 Digital Network that guaranteed enhanced exposure across all sports.

Colorado accepted its invitation to join the Pac-12 on June 11, 2010, as the Buffaloes were the first domino to fall in a change of the national landscape which, in just one week, saw Nebraska also leave the Big 12 and join the Big 10, Boise State depart the WAC for the Mountain West, TCU jump from the MWC for the Big East, and then on June 17, Utah agreeing to join CU to make it an even dozen in the Pac-12. Big-time rivals for the first half of the last century, the Buffaloes and Utes officially became the 11th and 12th members of the Conference on July 1, 2011, the first additions to the league since 1978. During the 33 years between expansions, Pac-10 teams claimed 258 NCAA titles (130 women's, 128 men's).

At present, the Pac-12 sponsors 11 men's sports and 12 women's sports, and will add women's lacrosse for 2017-18. Additionally, the conference schools are members of the Mountain Pacific Sports Federation (MPSF) in four other men's sports and three women's sports. CU participates in the MPSF in indoor track and in lacrosse and has competed since 1950 in the Rocky Mountain Intercollegiate Ski Association (RMISA) in skiing, which is a coed sport.

The Pac-12 Conference offices are located in the heart of San Francisco's downtown district and are headquartered in the same building as the Pac-12 Network.

Conference of Champions

Built on a firm foundation of academic excellence and superior athletic performance, the Conference ushered in a new era on July 1, 2011, officially becoming the Pac-12 Conference with the additions of the University of Colorado and University of Utah.

Just 27 days after the Conference officially changed its name, Commissioner Larry Scott announced the creation of the Pac-12 Networks, solidifying a landmark television deal and putting the Conference on the forefront of collegiate athletics. The Networks, including one national network, six regional networks, and a robust digital network marked the first-ever integrated media company owned by a college conference. In addition, the "TV Everywhere" rights allow fans to access Pac-12 Networks outside the home on any digital device, including smartphones and tablet computers.

That same year, the Pac-12 also launched its Globalization Initiative to proactively promote the Conference and member institutions through student-athlete exchanges and sport. In the first four years, Pac-12 student-athletes have enjoyed unique cultural and athletic experiences in China, fielding full university and Pac-12 all-star teams in women's volleyball and men's basketball. The Conference and its member schools have gained significant brand exposure for the future and set a foundation for growth.

On the field, the Pac-12 rises above the rest, upholding its tradition as the "Conference of Champions®," claiming an incredible 150 NCAA team titles since 1999-2000. For the 11th consecutive year, the Pac-12 had the most or tied for the most NCAA titles of any conference in the country, winning at least six every year since 2000-01, including 10 in 2015-16 and nine in 2014-15 (two claimed by Colorado: men's cross country and skiing). Even more impressive has been the breadth of the Pac-12's success, with championships coming in 28 different men's and women's sports. The Pac-12 has led or tied the nation in NCAA Championships in 50 of the last 56 years, four of the exceptions being in 1980-81, 1988-89, 1990-91 and 1995-96 when the conference finished second.

Spanning nearly a century of outstanding athletics achievements, the Pac-12 was the first conference to reach 400 championships in 2010-11; with the inclusion of Colorado and Utah, the league teams zoomed past 450 titles, outdistancing the next conference by nearly 200. In all, Conference teams have won 488 NCAA Championships (295 men's, 164 women's, 29 coed).

Individually, the Conference has produced an impressive number of NCAA individual champions, as through the 2015-16 school year, 2,248 individual crowns have been won by Pac-12 student-athletes over the years (1,352 in men's championships, 717 in women's and 179 in coed (e.g. skiing, fencing).

On the women's side, the story is much the same. Since the NCAA began conducting women's championships 35 years ago, Pac-12 members have claimed at least four national titles in a single season on 26 occasions, including 17 consecutive years from 2000-2016.

2015-16 QUICK REVIEW

In the 2015-16 academic year, the Pac-12's 10 NCAA titles came in the form of four men's and six women's titles. Six different league schools claimed NCAA titles including three that won multiples crowns.

Living up to its well-deserved billing of "Conference of Champions®," the Pac-12 doubled up on the next league's title count, with the ACC, Big 12 and Big Ten each accounting for five NCAA crowns this year.

For the second year in a row, Oregon claimed three NCAA titles. The Ducks won their first men's golf title in dramatic fashion and claimed both the men's and women's indoor track & field crowns. Stanford claimed two (men's soccer and women's tennis) as did USC (beach volleyball and women's water polo). California (women's rowing), UCLA (men's water polo) and Washington (women's golf) rounded out the league's victories.

While Colorado did not win an NCAA title in 2015-16 and the school's count remains at 27, the Buffaloes finished second in three championships: men's and women's cross country and skiing. CU has won 20 skiing titles (11 men's, one AIAW women's and eight coed) and seven cross country (five men's, two women's); the Buffs also were the consensus national champions in football in 1990, but since it is not an NCAA-sanctioned championship, it doesn't count toward the Pac-12's total of 488.

Junior Mads Stroem claimed both the men's classical and freestyle individual titles in the 2016 NCAA Championships.

Career: Continues to grow into one of the top defensive players in the Pac-12 Conference, and among the select greats in Colorado history. He enters his senior year fourth in blocked shots (156) and 12th in rebounds (679). Well on pace to become the second Buffalo to reach 200 career blocks and has a legitimate shot at catching David Harrison (2001-04) and his school record of 225. He would need 69 blocks to catch Harrison, one more than his junior year total. Gordon's 91 career starts are 11th on CU's all-time list and could move into the top three. His 2,619 minutes played rank 19th on the school charts. Gordon, who has led Colorado in blocks each of the last three years, is one of only four Buffaloes since 1977-78 to record 40 or more blocks in three straight seasons (Ted Allen, 1992-95; Andre Roberson, 2010-13; Josh Scott, 2013-16).

Pac-12 All-Stars (July 2016) - Gordon was a member of the Pac-12 All-Star men's basketball team that played a three-game exhibition series in Australia. He led the All-Stars in rebounding at 7.3 per game, including a series-high 10 against the Melbourne Tigers of the SEABL. Gordon totalled 12 points hitting 5-of-11 from the field over the three-game set. The All-Stars played a pair of games against the Australian National Team, prepping for the 2016 Summer Olympics. The tour was part of the Pac-12's Global Initiative which began in 2011 and the league's first to Australia.

2015-16 (Junior) - Gordon topped the Buffaloes in blocked shots (2.0 bpg) while ranking second in rebounding (7.6 rpg) and fifth in scoring (7.2 ppg) - all career best averages. On the overall Pac-12 charts Gordon was third in blocks, fourth in offensive rebounds (2.9 orpg), 10th in overall rebounds and 13th in defensive boards (4.7 drpg). Given honorable mention to the Pac-12 All-Defensive team, Gordon averaged a team-best 8.3 rebounds in conference play and his 65 offensive rebounds topped the conference - and by a wide margin (next best was 54 by three players). While leading the Pac-12 in offensive rebounds during league games, Gordon also ranked third in blocks (1.9 bpg), sixth in overall rebounding and 12th defensive boards (4.7 drpg). He registered five of his 10 career double-doubles, including a stretch of three straight. His three-consecutive double-doubles came in crucial stretch. With All-Pac-12 forward Josh Scott going down with an injury at Oregon State (2/6), Gordon stepped up in that game with 13 points and 11 rebounds. With Scott out and the Washington schools visiting Boulder that next weekend, Gordon had 15 points and 12 rebounds in a career-high 45 minutes during the double-overtime win over Washington State (2/11). He then registered a career-high 17 points, including 9-of-11 from the free throw line, and 13 rebounds in the win over Washington (2/13). Gordon had nine double-digit rebound games including five in his final 11 outings. He led the team in blocked shots 17 times while pacing the squad in rebounds 12 times. His 68 blocks are the fourth best in a season at Colorado. Gordon had seven blocks against Nicholls State (12/18) and six on two other occasions. His seven blocks against Nicholls tied a career-high and matched the third best single-game performance in team history, shared with seven other instances. He joins Harrison as the only two Buffs to have seven or more blocks in a game multiple times in a career. Gordon also shared Colorado's team single-game bests for rebounds - 15 against Northern Colorado (11/29) - and steals - four at UCLA (2/20). He ranked 35th in the nation in total blocks while ranking 40th in blocks per game.

2014-15 (Sophomore): Played in all 34 games with 31 starts. Averaged 6.6 points, 6.9 rebounds, 1.4 blocks, and 1.2 assists per game. Led CU in rebounding (233), blocked shots (47), and field goal percentage (.550). He had four double-doubles. Scored a then career-high 16 points against Auburn in ESPN's 24-hour College Hoops Tip-off Marathon (11/17). Netted 11 games in double-figure scoring and seven games with 10 or more rebounds, including 17 boards with 10 points against Washington (1/22). Grabbed another 14 rebounds three days later in home win against Washington State (1/24). The 31 rebounds in back-to-back games were the second most by a Buff in conference play in 11 years. Career-high seven blocks in the Pac-12 home opening win against UCLA (1/2). Personal-best five assists in the home victory against Washington State (1/24). He had 14 games with at least two or more blocks; seven games 3-plus blocks. Had 20 games shooting over 50 percent from the field; 13 games over 60 percent; eight games shooting better than 70 percent. Picked up the defense presence when Scott missed eight games with an injury, averaging 10.3 rebounds, 1.9 blocks a game, also averaged two assists during that span with three double-doubles. 2015-16 (Sophomore): Named the Pac-12 Conference Most Improved Player of the Year averaging 13.6 points and 4.7 rebounds a game while leading the league in 3-point shooting at 45.6 percent (68-of-149). His percentage was the second-best single-season performance in team history (minimum 100 attempts), just short of Levi Knutson's 47.4 percent in 2010-11. King's 68 3-pointers rank as the 10th most in a season at Colorado. King is Colorado's second Pac-12 era player to win a Player of the Year award, joining Andre Roberson who was the league's Defensive Player of the Year in 2013. He was second on the team in scoring and in free throws made and attempted (89-of-119). He had a memorable home weekend against the Washington schools. First, he had 21 points and nine rebounds against Washington State (2/11), but most importantly hit a fade-away 3-pointer at the buzzer of the first overtime that allowed the Buffaloes to send it to another extra frame and the eventual 88-81 win. Two days later, he recorded his first career double-double with 10 points and a personal-best 10 rebounds against Washington (2/13). King led the Pac-12 in scoring average during the conference tournament at 21.5 points per game. He had 21 points on 7-of-12 shooting in the first round against Washington State (3/9). King had 17 points in the first half alone, a personal best and matching Josh Scott's team season best from the second half of the Arizona game on Feb. 24. King had 22 points in the quarterfinal against Arizona (3/10), hitting a career-high eight free throws. He had 24 double-figure scoring games and led the Buffaloes in scoring 11 times including a career and team season-high 27 points against Auburn (11/17). Along with his conference best 3-point percentage he also ranked sixth in 3-pointers made (2.0 3mpg), 15th in free throw percentage (.748) and 19th in scoring. He made 50-of-59 free throw attempts to end the season (.847), at one point hitting 14 straight. King had five games with at least four 3-pointers, hitting 68 percent in those outings (21-of-31). He was a key part in Colorado setting school records for 3-pointers made (252) and 3-point percentage (.389).

Year in the 2nd Division at Deurne High School. Although the Buffs didn't travel to Belgium to see Akyazili, they watched every Euro Championship game in which he participated, as well as some of his club games. Rated one of the top two Euro guards who could come to the United States and enroll in college. Akyazili visited two American schools – St. John's and CU – and ultimately picked the Buffs because he liked the campus, the facilities, the coaching staff and Boulder. His CU visit was only his second trip to the U.S.; he attended Stephen Curry's Under Armour Top 20 guard camp in the Summer 2014.

In six years, Tad Boyle has accomplished only what a select few have done before him in the annals of the University of Colorado men's basketball program. And yet Boyle continues to rewrite and lead the Buffaloes to greater heights not seen in a half of century.

Boyle, 53, enters his seventh year with the CU men's basketball program generating an impressive 130 victories, already ranking fourth all-time in team history.

Boyle is 130-80 as Colorado's head coach; his .619 winning percentage ranking second in school history with a minimum of two years on the bench; just behind CU Athletic Hall of Fame coach Forrest B. "Frosty" Cox who won 62.3 percent of his games between 1936-50. Boyle overtook the all-time lead several times during the 2015-16 season before finishing the season at .619.

Entering his 11th overall season as a collegiate head coach, Boyle has won 56 percent of his games with a record of 186-146.

He owns five of Colorado's nine all-time seasons of 20-plus wins. Boyle is the first CU coach to lead the Buffaloes to six consecutive postseason appearances and the first to guide the program to three consecutive NCAA Tournaments. His record at the Coors Events Center is stellar, leading the Buffaloes to an 88-15 mark at home (.854) over the last six seasons. He is the first CU coach to win 20 games in each of his first four years.

"Tad continues to make Colorado more than relevant," ESPN.com Senior College Basketball Writer Andy Katz said. "He has made them into one of the top teams in the West. Now you can count on Colorado being in play for the top tier in the Pac-12 and an NCAA bid. Colorado may have joined the Pac-12 for football first but the Buffaloes have been a boon in basketball."

Boyle has led Colorado to 12 wins over ranked opponents, by far the best in team history. In fact Boyle coached teams, with a record of 12-24, have accounted for 21 percent of the program's wins over ranked opponents (56) since 1949-50.

Boyle's postseason success is highlighted by a memorable run of four wins in four days to claim the 2012 Pac-12 Tournament championship. He owns half of Colorado's all-time conference tournament wins, with an 11-5 mark in that span (9-4 in the Pac-12, 2-1 in the Big 12). Boyle has led the Buffaloes to a conference semifinal or better in three of his six seasons. He is a perfect 6-0 as Colorado's head coach in the first round of a conference tournament. Overall Boyle's 16 postseason wins and .593 winning percentage (16-11) are tops in Colorado history.

Off the court, he has graduated every CU senior student-athlete on his roster (21), including current fifth-year senior Xavier Johnson who earned his undergraduate degree this past May.

The 18th head coach in school history, Boyle has also represented the Buffaloes on a national, and world, stage. He was an assistant coach for USA Basketball's 2015 Pan American team which took home the bronze medal in Toronto. Boyle was one three court coaches for the 2013 USA Basketball Men's World University Games training camp at the U.S. Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs.

Boyle is also an active ambassador in the community throughout the Centennial State. He is a two-time participant in the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC) Infiniti Coaches' Charity Challenge where coaches across the country compete against each other to raise money for their charities. In 2016, he helped Special Olympics Colorado earn $7,500 through the program.

In September 2012, Boyle was invited to Washington, D.C. with other college basketball coaches to urge Congress to protect federal funding for cancer research and prevention programs on Capitol Hill. In September 2011, Boyle joined 20 other coaches from the Front Range for a two-day coaching seminar with former Denver Nuggets head coach George Karl, the 2012-13 NBA Coach of the Year.

Boyle and his teams have also participated in a multitude of events. The Buffaloes participated in the 2015 Special Olympics Unified Relay Across America in Boulder. He was the official starter of the 34th Annual Bolder Boulder (May 2012), the largest road race in the United States where all participants are timed and the fifth largest road race in the world.

In December 2012, the men's basketball team visited the Children's Hospital at the Anschutz Medical Campus in Aurora. In December 2011, the team volunteered with the non-profit Share-A-Gift program, an organization helping families of need acquire children's toys for the holidays. Both programs are part of the CU Athletics Leadership Development Program. The program is designed to develop a culture of leadership in which CU student-athletes act with personal responsibility, integrity and accountability while staying committed in both principle and actions to the greater good.

"This is it (my dream job), there's no doubt," Boyle said after being named head coach on April 19, 2010. "I remember talking with (Maryland men's head coach) Mark Turgeon once when he asked me where I wanted to be in 10 years, and I said, the head coach at the University of Colorado. This is a destination job. I'm humbled and honored."

In his first season (2010-11), Boyle began to set the standard for exciting things to come, capping the season with a trip to the World's Most Famous Arena - Madison Square Garden and a National Invitation Tournament semifinal appearance. The Buffaloes won a school-record 24 games, including 18 school-best wins at the Coors Events Center, establishing one of the best home court advantages in all of college basketball.

"They're the heartbeat of this arena, they are the difference makers," Boyle said of the Coors Events Center crowd after a home victory. "To have that (student) section full is key; I just want them to know that we appreciate and need them."

His initial season saw CU rank fifth nationally in free throw percentage (77.8), 12th in scoring (79.6 ppg) and 19th in field goal percentage (47.3).

Boyle earned National Coach of the Week honors (Hoops Report, Jan. 10-16) after leading the Buffs to a 3-0 conference start, including wins over No. 9/8 Missouri and No. 21/20 Kansas State. The win over the Wildcats gave CU its first road win over a nationally ranked opponent since January 1997 (No. 20 Texas Tech). CU defeated four ranked teams, including a 22-point comeback win (second greatest comeback in school history) upsetting No. 5/5 Texas, 91-89.

In year two (2011-12), Boyle became the first CU coach to begin the conference season with back-to-back 3-0 starts, and was the first coach since Frosty Cox (1935-36, 1936-37) to win his conference opener in back-to-back years. He also won his 40th game (home win vs. Oregon) in just 61 games tying Cox (1935-39).

Boyle continued to make most of his "dream job" a reality for CU fans guiding the Buffaloes to the 2011-12 NCAA Tournament (third round), another 24-win season, and a conference championship in its inaugural season of the Pac-12, winning four games in four days at the Staples Center in Los Angeles.

For his efforts, Boyle became the first CU head coach to earn the District 20 Coach of the Year by the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC), an award voted among his coaching peers. The 48 wins were a school-best in any two-year span of the program.

"I'm a believer in Tad Boyle," said Jay Bilas, ESPN College Basketball Analyst. "He is not only a terrific teacher of the game with great basketball knowledge, he keeps it simple and gives his players an understanding of what you need to do to win, but a firm understanding of how teams lose, too. Boyle has tremendous toughness in him. He is demanding without being demeaning, and he puts his players in position to achieve together without fear of failing. That's what truly outstanding coaches do, and Tad Boyle is a truly outstanding coach."

In year three (2012-13), Boyle guided the Buffs to another NCAA Tournament appearance, the second year in-a-row, becoming the first CU coach in 50 years to guide the program to back-to-back tournament appearances. CU won 21 games, the third straight season the program eclipsed the 20-win plateau, also a school-first. After the team won their first mid-season tournament since the 2002-03 season, the Charleston Classic, the Buffs reached the nation's Top-25 polls for the first time since 2005-06 (No. 19 AP/USA Today Coaches' Poll, Nov. 26); AP No. 23 ranked, Nov. 19).

Attendance records also set a brand new high standard as the men's basketball team proved to be the best ticket in town setting a number of school records, including seven sellouts; 12 of 15 home games exceeded 10,000 fans or better, in addition to season total (155,884); season average (10,392); conference total (94,371); and conference average (10,486). The attendance surge ranked third nationally among all Division I programs for largest increased average from the previous year.

Success continued for Boyle and his coaching staff in year four (2013-14) as the Buffs won 23 games, the third most victories in school history. Another NCAA Tournament followed for a school record third consecutive season, in addition setting a pair of attendance records (season total: 173,429; non-conference total: 84,133). The staff enjoyed their best start to a season in four years (14-2 record) with a No. 15 nationally ranking, the highest a CU team has seen since 1997, and a 10-game winning streak, the fourth longest in the programs history.

In 2014-15, a 16-18 record marked the first time in five years the program failed to notch a winning season, however the Buffaloes reached the College Basketball Invitational (CBI) quarterfinals. The tournament marked the fifth consecutive season the program made a post-season tourney, a school-first. The Buffs did defeat NCAA Sweet 16 participant UCLA and the National Invitation Tournament Champion Stanford during the season.

Attendance remained steady for the fifth straight year, finishing with third place numbers across the board in all-time marks in season total, season average, and conference total. Conference average was fourth. Overall, Boyle and his CU teams, hold the top five attendance marks in season and conference total, and conference average since 2010-11; and the four of the top five attendance figures in season average.

The Buffaloes rebounded nicely in 2015-16, sporting a record of 22-12 and finishing in fifth place in the Pac-12 at 10-8. Boyle led Colorado to 11 straight wins during the nonconference schedule, the fifth longest in program history and best run since 1961-62. Colorado's 21 regular season wins tied a school record – joining the 2013-14 and 1996-97 teams – and 22 overall tied for fourth in the school annals. Colorado reached the NCAA Tournament for the fourth time under Boyle.

Colorado finished with a 16-1 record at home, averaging 8,540 fans per game, the fourth best mark in team history. That figure ranked fourth in the Pac-12, ahead of Pac-12 champion Oregon and traditional national power UCLA. The Buffaloes set school records for 3-pointers made (252) and 3-point percentage (.389). Colorado led the Pac-12 in free throw percentage (.734), 3-point percentage (.398), overall rebounding (42.1 rpg) and defensive boards (29.0 drpg) while ranking second in rebounding margin (+8.6) and offensive rebounds (13.1 orpg) and fourth in 3-pointers made (7.4 3mpg).

Prior to his arrival to Boulder, Boyle resurrected the basketball program at the University of Northern Colorado, where he guided the Bears to a 56-66 record (.459) the past four seasons, including a breakout season in 2009-10, when the Bears were 25-8 (.758) and finished second in the Big Sky Conference. For his efforts, he was awarded the NABC Division I All-District Coach of the Year, the Big Sky Coach of the Year by both The Sporting News and CollegeInsider.com, where he was also named a finalist for the National Mid-Major Coach of the Year award.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING ...

"Tad has bought back a resurgence to Colorado basketball with his energy and enthusiasm. I am impressed with his knowledge of the game and his ability to communicate to his Buffaloes team."

– Dick Vitale, ESPN College Basketball Analyst

"Tad has done something few thought possible – turn Colorado into a basketball school. The Buffaloes have as much of an impact in their new conference as any other team transitioning to a new league and that is a credit to Tad and his staff."

– Andy Katz, ESPN.com Senior College Basketball Writer

"I'm a believer in Tad Boyle. He is not only a terrific teacher of the game with great basketball knowledge, he keeps it simple and gives his players an understanding of what you need to do to win, but a firm understanding of how teams lose, too. Boyle has tremendous toughness in him. He is demanding without being demeaning, and he puts his players in position to achieve together without fear of failing. That's what truly outstanding coaches do, and Tad Boyle is a truly outstanding coach."

– Jay Bilas, ESPN College Basketball Analyst

"I've been blessed to work with many hall of fame caliber coaches during my career and I can say without reservation that Tad Boyle is as talented as any coach I've been around! Whether you're talking about X's-and-O's, in-game adjustments, or recruiting...he's the total package. And, best of all...he's an even better human being."

– Mark Johnson, Sports Director Newsradio 850 KOA

"This exciting process was all about both the young men we have currently and those in the future who will be joining our program, and is an investment in them and represents the competitive spirit, teamwork, passion and dedication they stand for," then-CU athletic director Mike Bohn said.

"Tad Boyle represents everything that is right about college basketball. We look forward to his leadership, poise and competitive drive to unite all our collective Buff interests to support our team and this enterprise that has so much promise for the long term."

A Greeley, Colo., native, Boyle was named the 17th coach in UNC history on April 25, 2006. At that point, the Bears were in the midst of a transition to Division I in its first season as a member of the Big Sky Conference. Northern Colorado finished 4-24 in his first season when squad finished last nationally in the final RPI rankings for that season. There were, however, flashes of times to come that season, including close losses to both Colorado (88-86) and Colorado State (75-66).

Over the next two seasons at UNC, he improved the team's win total from four to 13 and then 14. The Bears defeated Colorado State, 72-59, in his second season and also knocked off San Diego State, 72-59. The Aztecs were ranked among the nation's top 50 teams in the RPI rankings at that time. In year three, the Bears had improved from one conference win his first season to an even 8-8 mark and earned the school's first Division I post season trip, to the Sun Belt Conference Tournament.

It all came together for Boyle in his fourth season in Greeley, as the Bears advanced to the post season for the first time in school history, advancing to the quarterfinals of the CollegeInsiders.com Tournament while racking up a school record 25 victories. He coached one first-team All-Big Sky member and also the Big Sky Conference Defensive Player of the Year.

Prior to Northern Colorado, he spent six seasons as an assistant coach at Wichita State and was part of another turn around that saw the Shockers improve from 9-19 (.321) his first year there to one of the nation's top mid-major teams in 2006 when Wichita State went 26-9 and advanced to the Sweet 16 of the NCAA Tournament. The Shockers eventually lost to Final Four Cinderella George Mason in the regional semifinals, but not before they had secured the No. 21 ranking in the final collegiate polls.

Boyle played collegiately for legendary coach Larry Brown at Kansas (1981-85). He was a member of two NCAA Tournament teams (1984, 1985) and was part of the 1984 Big Eight Tournament championship squad. As a senior, Boyle captained the Jayhawks, which featured freshman Danny Manning, who three years later led the Jayhawks to the NCAA Championship.

After earning a bachelor of science degree in business administration from Kansas in 1985, Boyle went on to serve six years as a high school basketball coach at various Colorado programs. He was the sophomore basketball coach at Greeley (Colo.) West for a year and then was an assistant coach at Loveland (Colo.) High School for two years.

From there, he served at Longmont (Colo.) High School for three years before returning to the college ranks.

It was at Kansas that Boyle played alongside Turgeon, whom he also coached with at Oregon under Jerry Green. Boyle's first collegiate coaching job in 1994 was on Green's Ducks staff, where he spent three seasons and helped the Ducks to the 1995 NCAA Tournament and the 1997 National Invitational Tournament. In 1997, Boyle followed Green to Tennessee, where he was director of basketball operations when the Vols won 20 games and advanced to the NCAA Tournament.

Boyle reconnected with Turgeon the following year, this time as an assistant coach at Jacksonville State (Ala.), where they helped turn a team that was 8-18 into a 17-11 squad in just one season.

Before heading to play collegiately at Kansas, Boyle was a standout performer at Greeley Central High School, where he led the Wildcats to a state championship as a senior in 1981 and earned Colorado Player of the Year honors as well as being selected to the Converse All-American team. His high school jersey was retired at the conclusion of his senior season.

Boyle is married to the former Ann Schell of Greeley, and they have two sons, Jack and Pete, and a daughter, Claire.

Jean Prioleau enters his seventh year as the associate head coach with the University of Colorado men's basketball staff bringing a wealth of expertise on and off the court.

"Jean is ready to be a head coach, deserves to be a head coach," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "He is multiple-faceted in terms of his recruiting and coaching ability, relationship with the players, and his professionalism. Jean does a tremendous job and has for many years, not just CU's staff, but any staff he's been on."

Since day one of his arrival on the Boulder campus, Prioleau has helped bring Colorado Basketball to the forefront as one of the elite programs in the Pac-12 Conference, as well as the national stage.

During Prioleau's tenure in Boulder, the Buffaloes' have accumulated 130 victories, the most wins in any six-year span of the program (115 years). In addition he has helped guide the Buffaloes to six-straight seasons of postseason play (2010-16), a program first, including the NCAA Tournament in four of the last five years. CU's three straight trips to the NCAA Tournament (2012, '13 & '14), are also school firsts.

Prioleau has helped build the Coors Events Center into a dominant home court advantage, making the Buffs' one of the most feared arenas to play in with a five-year mark of 88-14 (.854). The 88 wins are a program-best over any six-year period with an average of 15 home wins per season.

The groundwork of the program's success was built during the first two years where Prioleau assisted with back-to-back 24-win campaigns of 2010-11 and 2011-12. The 24 victories continue to be a school record for victories in a single-season. The 24 wins in his first season were part of CU's run to the NIT semifinals at Madison Square Garden in New York City, the school's last year in the Big 12 Conference.

The following year (2011-12), the program equaled another 24 victories, CU's first year in the Pac-12 Conference. The Buffaloes became just the 10th team in the nation to win at least four games in four days to capture the tournament title at the inaugural conference tournament. The tournament title was the Buffaloes first since winning the Big Eight regular season crown in 1968-69.

With the automatic tournament berth, CU earned its first NCAA Tournament appearance since 2002-03 and saw the Buffs upset No. 6 UNLV in the first round.

Another successful season followed in 2012-13 (21 wins), where Prioleau and the Buffs earned back-to-back NCAA Tournament berths for the first time in 50 years (1961-62 & 1962-63). The following year (2013-14), another NCAA Tournament followed with 23 wins, seeting a school record with three consecutive NCAA Tourney appearances and four-straight 20-winning seasons.

The 2013-14 campaign saw CU register 23 wins, the third-most victories in school history. That CU team also tallied a third place finish in the final Pac-12 Conference standings, the program's highest placing in 18 years.

After a 16-18 campaign, and a trip to the CBI Quarterfinals in 2014-15, Colorado rebounded with its fifth 20-win season in six years in 2015-16. The Buffaloes sported a record of 22-12 and finished fifth in the Pac-12 at 10-8. Prioleau helped Colorado to 11 straight wins during the nonconference schedule, the fifth longest in program history and best run since 1961-62. Colorado's 21 regular season wins tied a school record – joining the 2013-14 and 1996-97 teams – and 22 overall tied for fourth in the school annals.

During his six years in Boulder, Prioleau has mentored a quartet of former CU student-athlete standouts who have made the next step professionally in their respective basketball careers.

Alec Burks, a sophomore, was CU's second-ever lottery pick and selected No. 12 overall by the Utah Jazz in the 2011 NBA Draft; Andre Roberson left after his junior year, was the No. 26 overall selection by the Minnesota Timberwolves in 2013 (later traded to Oklahoma City).

Spencer Dinwiddie, also a junior, was drafted by the Detroit Pistons in the 2014 NBA Draft (second round, No. 38 overall); and Cory Higgins, the school's all-time co-leader in points, played with the Charlotte Bobcats during the 2011-12 season.

Prioleau has also coached a number of CU student-athletes to conference excellence.

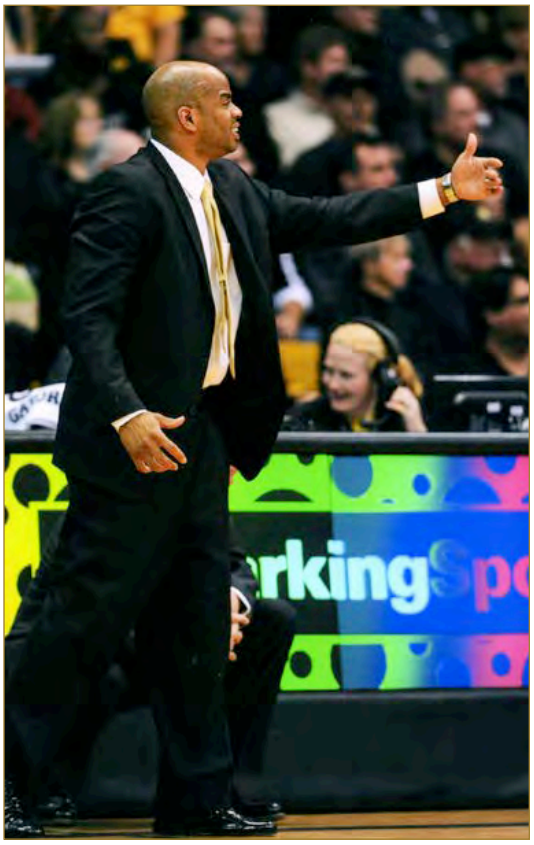

In 2010-11, Burks was a Wooden Award Top-20 finalist and unanimous All-Big 12 first team selection; Levi Knutson was the Big 12 Conference Sixth Man of the Year, and Higgins was All-Big 12 third team.

In CU's first year of the Pac-12, Roberson (first team, All-Defensive, All-Tournament team), Carlon Brown (second team, tournament's Most Outstanding Player), and Dinwiddie (freshman team) garnered all-Conference honors.

In year two of the conference, Roberson (first team, Defensive Player of the Year, All-Defensive team); Dinwiddie (first team) and Josh Scott (All-Freshman team) earned post-season accolades, and in year three, Scott continued CU's prominence among the elite Pac-12 Conference players selected to the first team.

Scott repeated his all-conference honor in 2015-16 and was a finalist for the Kareem Abdul-Jabbar Award, given to the nation's best big man. Scott was also on the Pac-12 All-Defensive team while front-court mate Wesley Gordon earned honorable mention. George King was named the Pac-12's Most Improved Player of the Year.

Prior to his arrival to CU, Prioleau was an assistant coach and recruiting coordinator at Texas Christian University from 2008-10. With the Horned Frogs, Prioleau not only served as the program's recruiting coordinator, but also was responsible for working with the TCU?guards. Prioleau guided the development of TCU freshman Ronnie Moss as he became the first freshman since the 2001-02 campaign to average double-digits as well as the progression of guards Edvinas Ruzgas and Keion Mitchem.

Prioleau spent two years on the coaching staff at Iowa State (2006-08) where he helped the Cyclones record 29 victories during his time. In his two seasons, the Cyclones had three All-Big 12 Conference performers in Mike Taylor, Wesley Johnson and Jiri Hubalek. All three were ranked in the top-100 among in a pair of defensive categories.

Soon after accepting the position at Iowa State, Prioleau played an instrumental role in signing one of the top players for the Cyclones in Wesley Johnson. The 6-7 forward from Corsicana, Texas, proved to be a valuable find for the Cyclones as he garnered All-Big 12 Rookie Team accolades as well as honorable mention freshman All-American laurels during the 2006-2007 campaign.

Prior to joining the Iowa State program, Prioleau spent the 2005-06 season as an assistant coach under former Marquette head coach and current Indiana University head coach Tom Crean.

In his lone season with the Golden Eagles, Marquette recorded a 20-11 overall record and a 10-6 mark in Big East Conference en route to securing a spot in the NCAA Tournament. Prioleau was part of a Marquette program that ranked 11th in the country in three-point field goal percentage, 22nd in three-point field goals made per game and 43rd in the nation in scoring offense in his lone campaign. That season, Prioleau watched as the Golden Eagles posted victories over a trio of nationally-ranked opponents, including a 94-79 triumph over top-ranked UConn.

Before his stint with Marquette, Prioleau spent five seasons on the coaching staff at Wichita State (2000-05) where he played a vital role in the resurgence and success of the Shockers in the Missouri Valley Conference. The Shockers earned a berth in the National Invitation Tournament on three occasions during Prioleau's tenure.

During his five-year tenure, the Shockers never finished below a .500 overall or conference mark while winning 18 or more games in four of five seasons. The Shockers collected 94 total victories, including a pair of 20-win seasons in each of his final two campaigns with the program.

In addition to signing the top recruiting class in 2001 in the Missouri Valley Conference, Prioleau helped ink Sean Ogirri (Colorado Player of the Year), Paul Miller (2006 Missouri Valley Conference Player of the Year and 2001 Freshman of the Year), Jamar Howard (Missouri Valley Conference Defensive Player of the Year) and Randy Burns (Missouri Valley Conference Rookie of the Year).

"Jean has grown tremendously in this business and what I like about him, the fact he's not only a good recruiter, a good basketball coach, he has a great basketball mind," Boyle said. "He's the full package in terms that some guys are labeled one thing or another, but he's got all the goods. I'm really fortunate to have him. He's been in the Big 12, the Big East, the Mountain West, so he knows this level of basketball, and he's well-connected throughout the country."

During his professional career, Prioleau played in both domestic and international territories with stints coming in the USBL and CBA as well as pre-season training camps for the NBA's New York Knicks and Indiana Pacers. He also spent time overseas where he competed in Turkey, Italy and Switzerland. Following his graduation, Prioleau played professionally for the USBL's Long Island Surf prior to attending training camp for the Indiana Pacers Rookie/Free Agent Summer League. Prioleau was invited to the Pacers' veteran camp where he was the final cut made by the team one day prior to the start of the season.

In 1992-93, Prioleau played for Yakima of the CBA before rejoining the Surf that summer. Prioleau made his second appearance at the Indiana Pacers' veteran camp before competing for Grand Rapids and Sioux Falls of the CBA. The following summer, he played for the New Jersey Nets' summer league team then signed a professional contract in Switzerland during the 1994-95 season.

Prioleau began his coaching career at his alma mater - Fordham University - following an eight-year professional basketball career. During the 1999-00 campaign, Fordham recorded a 14-15 overall record and a 7-9 mark in Atlantic 10 Conference action in the lone season with Prioleau on the coaching staff. That season, Duke Freeman-McKamey was selected as the Most Improved Player in the Atlantic 10 Conference while Bevon Robin earned third team all-conference accolades.

A former standout at Fordham, Prioleau was inducted into the Athletics Hall of Fame in 2000 after concluding his career ranked second in all-time steals and assists, third in free throw percentage, fourth in field goals made, and sixth in scoring. Prioleau guided the Rams to back-to-back Patriot League titles, including hitting the game-winning three-pointer in the 1992 Patriot League Championship Game.

The Rams advanced to the NCAA Tournament during the 1991-92 season for the first time since the 1971 campaign while Prioleau was selected as a first team All-Patriot League selection. He also guided the Rams to a pair of NIT Tournament appearances during the 1989-90 and 1990-91 seasons, including a 25-8 overall record during his junior campaign.

A 1992 graduate of Fordham University with a degree in physics, Prioleau is a member of the NABC (National Association of Basketball Coaches).

After his collegiate career, Prioleau was the last cut of the Indiana Pacers as an undrafted rookie in the fall of 1992. From there he would play professionally with the Yakima Sun Kings of the Continental Basketball Association. In the fall of 1995, he once again tried the NBA, only to be the last cut of the New York Knicks. Prioleau would then finish his pro career in Turkey and Italy.

Prioleau and his wife, Janelle, have a son, Elijah (5).

Mike Rohn enters his seventh year as an assistant coach/head recruiting coordinator with the University of Colorado men's basketball program.

Rohn is an integral part of the coaching staff that has re-energized the basketball program to national prominence and continues to do so each and every year.

"One of the steadiest people I have ever worked with," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "Mike is the ultimate grinder; works extremely hard and he's a guy that thinks, a forward-thinker. He's ready to be a head coach. He has all the tools in what it takes to be a head coach, and is invaluable to our staff, and to me."

During Rohn's tenure in Boulder, the Buffaloes' have accumulated 130 victories, the most wins in any six-year span of the program (115 years). In addition he has helped guide the Buffaloes to six-straight seasons of postseason play (2010-16), a program first, including the NCAA Tournament in four of the last five years. CU's three straight trips to the NCAA Tournament (2012, '13 & '14), are also school firsts.

Rohn has helped build the Coors Events Center into a dominant home court advantage, making the Buffs' one of the most feared arenas to play in with a six-year mark of 88-15 (.854). The 88 wins are a program-best over any six-year period with an average of 15 home wins per season.

The groundwork of the program's success was built during the first two years where Rohn assisted with back-to-back 24-win campaigns of 2010-11 and 2011-12. The 24 victories continue to be a school record for victories in a single-season. The 24 wins in his first season were part of CU's run to the NIT semifinals at Madison Square Garden in New York City, the school's last year in the Big 12 Conference.

The following year (2011-12), the program equaled another 24 victories, CU's first year in the Pac-12 Conference. The Buffaloes became just the 10th team in the nation to win at least four games in four days to capture the tournament title at the inaugural conference tournament. The tournament title was the Buffaloes first since winning the Big 8 in 1968-69.

With the automatic tournament berth, CU earned its first NCAA Tournament appearance since 2002-03 and saw the Buffs upset No. 6 UNLV in the second round, advancing to the third round.

Another successful season followed in 2012-13 (21 wins), where Rohn and the Buffs earned back-to-back NCAA Tournament berths for the first time in 50 years (1961-62 & 1962-63). The following year (2013-14), another NCAA Tournament followed with 23 wins, setting a school record with three consecutive NCAA Tourney appearances and four-straight 20-winning seasons.

The 2013-14 campaign saw CU register 23 wins, the third-most victories in school history. That CU team also tallied a third place finish in the final Pac-12 Conference standings, the program's highest placing in 18 years.

After a 16-18 campaign, and a trip to the CBI Quarterfinals in 2014-15, Colorado rebounded with its fifth 20-win season in six years in 2015-16. The Buffaloes sported a record of 22-12 and finished fifth in the Pac-12 at 10-8. Rohn helped Colorado to 11 straight wins during the nonconference schedule, the fifth longest in program history and best run since 1961-62. Colorado's 21 regular season wins tied a school record – joining the 2013-14 and 1996-97 teams – and 22 overall tied for fourth in the school annals.

During his six years in Boulder, Rohn has mentored a quartet of former CU student-athlete standouts who have made the next step professionally in their respective basketball careers.

Alec Burks, a sophomore, was CU's second-ever lottery pick and selected No. 12 overall by the Utah Jazz in the 2011 NBA Draft; Andre Roberson left after his junior year, was the No. 26 overall selection by the Minnesota Timberwolves in 2013 (later traded to Oklahoma City).

Spencer Dinwiddie, also a junior, was drafted by the Detroit Pistons in the 2014 NBA Draft (second round, No. 38 overall); and Cory Higgins, the school's all-time co-leader in points, played with the Charlotte Bobcats during the 2011-12 season.

Rohn has also coached a number of CU student-athletes to conference excellence.

In 2010-11, Burks was a Wooden Award Top-20 finalist and unanimous All-Big 12 first team selection; Levi Knutson was the Big 12 Conference Sixth Man of the Year, and Higgins was All-Big 12 third team.

In CU's first year of the Pac-12, Roberson (first team, All-Defensive, All-Tournament team), Carlon Brown (second team, tournament's Most Outstanding Player), and Dinwiddie (freshman team) garnered all-Conference honors.

In year two of the conference, Roberson (first team, Defensive Player of the Year, All-Defensive team); Dinwiddie (first team) and Josh Scott (All-Freshman team) earned post-season accolades, and in year three, Scott continued CU's prominence among the elite Pac-12 Conference players selected to the first team.

Scott repeated his all-conference honor in 2015-16 and was a finalist for the Kareem Abdul-Jabbar Award, given to the nation's best big man. Scott was also on the Pac-12 All-Defensive team while front-court mate Wesley Gordon earned honorable mention. George King was named the Pac-12's Most Improved Player of the Year.

In August 2014, Rohn was the head coach the Athletes In Action team, a school-first for any CU assistant. AIA is a worldwide Christian sports organization was also comprised of then-CU sophomore Tre'Shaun Fletcher and other college basketball players from around the nation embarking on an eight-day Baltic tour of Russia. Team USA won three of four games against professional competition.

Prior to his arrival to Boulder, Rohn spent the three years as the director of basketball operations at Texas A&M (2007-10) where he was part of the coaching staff that helped the Aggies to a trio of NCAA Tournament Round of 32 appearances. During those three years in College Station, the Aggies won 73 games, in addition to 28 Big 12 Conference games. A&M also led the conference in scoring defense (65.8 ppg.) for the first time in league history during the 2009-10 campaign.

During the 2009-10 season, Rohn helped the development of current NBA players Deandre Jordan, Kris Middleton, and Donald Sloan.

At Wichita State, where Rohn spent seven years (2000-07) as an assistant coach to Mark Turgeon, in addition with current CU Associate Head Coach, Jean Prioleau, the Shockers engineered an impressive resume, earning three-straight NIT trips (2003, 2004, 2005). During the 2005-06 season, the Shockers not only won their first Missouri Valley Conference championship in 19 years, they capped off a 26-9 record with a 2006 NCAA Tournament berth and a Sweet 16 appearance, a school-first in 18 years.

Rohn also helped coach fifth-year student-athlete Paul Miller cap off one of the best careers of any Shocker center by being named the MVC Player of the Year, the first Shocker to earn the award in 21 years, in addition to Jamar Howard (Missouri Valley Conference Defensive Player of the Year).

Prior to Wichita State, Rohn served three seasons as head coach from 1996-2000 at Dodge City (Kan.) Community College, where he built a 55-38 record and coached the Conquistadors to three consecutive state playoff appearances, including a 21-10 mark in 1999-2000. Rohn was also an assistant coach at Dodge City from 1993-96. In 1997, Dodge City was crowned the 1997 Jayhawk West Conference Champions.

Rohn was a graduate assistant coach at Fort Hays State (1991-93) while earning a master's degree in sports administration and coaching. He earned a bachelor's degree in physical education in 1990 from McPherson College, where he was a two-time all-conference selection. There he was named the league's newcomer of the year as a junior and was the conference player of the year as a senior. He also was named McPherson's Male Athlete of the Year in 1989.

He also served as an assistant coach at Colby Community College (1990-91) and at his alma mater, McPherson College (1989-1990). Rohn transferred to McPherson after playing two seasons at Dodge City Community College.

Rohn, and his wife, Stephanie, have two daughters, Raegen and Rylee.

ASSISTANT COACH BILL GRIER

Hometown: Cottage Grove, Ore.
High School: Cottage Grove
College: Oregon 1990

COACHING CAREER

2013-present
Assistant Coach, University of Colorado
2015-16
Assistant Coach, Oklahoma State University
2007-15
Head Coach, University of San Diego
1992-2007
Assistant Coach, Gonzaga University
1990-91
Head Coach, Creswell (Ore.) High School

Bill Grier is in his first season as an assistant coach for the University of men's basketball team, joining Tad Boyle's staff in April of 2016.

"It's a great opportunity to work for, and with Tad," Grier said. "I've watched what he's done as a head coach, at Northern Colorado and now at Colorado. It's very impressive what he's done, and he does it the right way. Tad has really raised the level of the program and I look forward to the opportunity to help him continue to build it. And for me, to learn from him and his staff, a terrific staff, I'm excited to be part of the program to help it continue to grow."

The addition of Grier gives Colorado an extra asset in West Coast recruiting. An Oregon native, Grier enters his 25th season as a collegiate coach, with 23 years spent in Washington and Southern California.

"We're fortunate to be able to add a guy like Bill Grier to our coaching staff because he brings a wealth of experience," Boyle said. "Most importantly he has recruiting contacts on the west coast, and internationally. He's one of those guys that I knew if I ever had an opening on our staff, he was a guy that I wanted to go after. . .we're lucky to have him."

Grier won 117 games in eight seasons as the head coach at San Diego (2007-15) and played an integral role in Gonzaga's rise to prominence in 15 years as an assistant with the Bulldogs (1992-2007). Most recently, Grier spent the 2015-16 season as an assistant coach at Oklahoma State.

The span of his experience, from serving as an assistant on a top-level program, to being head coach, to spending a year in the Big 12 Conference, will enhance the abilities of the Colorado coaching staff.

"Anytime you have the opportunity to hire a former head coach it's a plus," Boyle said. "It's not a requirement to be a good assistant, but I think when guys have been head coaches and then they become assistant coaches they're better assistant coaches because they understand what the head coach is going through; they understand the issues, they understand the decisions that have to be made."

The move to Colorado will give Grier and his family a sense of home being back in the west. He grew up in Oregon and met his wife, Nicole, in Spokane where they lived before moving to San Diego. Colorado is a place the Grier's are thrilled about to raise their two daughters, Giselle and Ashley.

"My wife is from Montana, we met in Spokane," Grier said. "We like that Colorado, Boulder, is that type of setting that we've become so accustomed to. I'm really excited for our children to be in that environment."

Grier led the Toreros to the 2008 West Coast Conference Tournament championship, and rode that momentum into the NCAA Tournament with a first-round upset of No. 4 seed Connecticut - the only NCAA Tournament win in school history.

He led San Diego to six wins over top 25 teams, took down Kentucky in Rupp Arena and racked up eight All-West Coast Conference selections and nine WCC All-Academic Team nods during his tenure. In 2014, the Toreros advanced to the quarterfinals of the CollegeInsider.com Tournament.

Grier finished his time in San Diego with a 117-144 record, including 51 WCC wins, which ranks 24th in the conference's history.

During his time at Gonzaga as the program's defensive coordinator, the Bulldogs led the WCC in field goal percentage defense six times, including the third best mark in the nation in 2004.

Grier served as the recruiting director for his last 10 years with the Zags, and his 2007 class was the program's best to that point. That class ranked 11th in the nation by Rivals, and boasted four recruits among the top-100 in the country.

"He was extremely well prepared and you could tell that in his practice and game preparations," said Dan Dickau, former WCC Player of the Year at Gonzaga and current Pac-12 Network analyst. "He's a guy that knows how to relate to coaches and players; parents during the recruiting process…a great hire by Boyle."

Grier also successfully developed both post players (1997-2003) and perimeter players (2003-2007). Post players Bakari Hendrix (1998) and Casey Calvary (2001) were both WCC Players of the Year. Perimeter players he worked with included Derek Raivio (2007), the WCC Player of the Year; Adam Morrison (2006), a First Team All-American and WCC Player of the Year; and Blake Stepp (2004), a Second Team All-American and two-time WCC Player of the Year.

"He is one heck of a basketball mind," said Gonzaga head coach Mark Few, prior to Grier's appointment to Oklahoma State. "Bill is hard working and loyal, and he played a huge part in building Gonzaga basketball to where it is now. I leaned on him heavily up here at Gonzaga, especially on the defensive side of the floor. When he went to San Diego he really evolved on the offensive side, and did some special things with those teams. Bill is an unbelievable student of the game who is always looking to learn and get better."

Grier started his coaching career at his alma mater, Cottage Grove High School in 1986. After serving two years as a freshman coach, Grier was elevated to junior varsity coach and varsity assistant. Grier left Cottage Grove to be the head coach at Creswell High School during the 1990-91 season.

He played two years in junior college (Central Oregon and Southwestern Oregon), then transferred to Oregon where he received a B.S. degree in Leisure Studies and Services in 1990.

Sean Kearney is in his fourth year with the University of Colorado men's basketball staff as the Director of Player Development, bringing nearly three decades of coaching experience to the Buffaloes.

He has enjoyed high-level success throughout his career at the collegiate level. Kearney has been on staff with 12 NCAA Tournament teams, including Colorado's last two (2014 and '16).

Regarded as one of the most respected and well-liked coaches in the game today, Kearney was the Associate Head Coach at the University of Notre Dame under head coach Mike Brey from 2000 through 2009. With the Irish, Kearney was part of nine postseason teams, including five NCAA Tournaments (Sweet 16 in 2003) and four NIT berths. Notre Dame posted a 188-101 record for a 61.0 winning percentage that included six 20-win campaigns and finished with an 88-60 record in Big East regular season play that included five seasons with 10-plus wins.

Kearney also coached at least one player in each of his nine seasons that was named to the Big East All-Conference team, including a pair of conference player of year nominees, one rookie of the year, and nine first team selections.

Kearney aided in the development of first-round NBA Draft picks Troy Murphy in 2001 and Ryan Humphrey in 2002. Also under his tutelage, 2006 graduate Torin Francis earned Big East All-Conference honors two of his four seasons (as an all-rookie team 2003 selection, 2004 all-conference honorable mention) and finished his career as one of only seven players in school history with better than 1,000 career points and 900 rebounds. Forward Luke Harangody was named 2008 Big East Player of the Year and is the first player in league history to lead the conference in scoring in back-to-back seasons.

"Sean is a great asset to our staff," Boyle said. "Sean brings a lot of experience as an assistant and head coach, has a great perspective. He's a great-sounding board for me based on all the years of his experience he has in the game.

"He has recruiting ties all-around the country," Boyle added. "Sean has recruited nationally from coast-to-coast and has a lot of ties back east that some of our coaches on staff don't necessarily have."

After Notre Dame, Kearney was the men's basketball head coach for one year at the College of the Holy Cross (2009-10).

Although not on the coaching sideline for three years after leaving Holy Cross (2010-13), Kearney was not far from the college game working as a color analyst for Irish radio broadcasts, in addition to Big East and Big Ten games with ESPN during the 2012-13 season. During October and November months, Kearney traveled throughout the country attending NBA training camps and early season basketball practices at numerous college campuses.

Prior to Notre Dame, Kearney spent nine years (1991-2000) at the University of Delaware where he helped the Blue Hens to four NCAA Tournament appearances (1992, 1993, 1998, 1999).

In each of his final three years at Delaware, the Blue Hens registered at least 20 wins, a first in that school's history. Kearney was instrumental in developing the Blue Hens' post players. Three of the players he worked with -- Greg Smith, Spencer Dunkley and Mike Pegues -- combine to hold over 20 Blue Hens records.

Kearney began his coaching career in 1981 as an assistant at his alma mater, Cardinal O'Hara High School in Springfield, Pa.

From 1981-86, he spent five years working with his former high school coach, Bud Gardler. While coaching at Cardinal O'Hara, he was employed as a senior systems analyst for Cigna. It was during that time that Kearney joined the staff of the prestigious Five-Star Basketball Camps. That association helped him move on to the college coaching ranks.

His collegiate coaching career began in dramatic fashion at Providence College as a volunteer assistant under Hall of Fame head coach Rick Pitino. There he was on coaching staff that included Herb Sendek (former Arizona State head coach), Stu Jackson (former NBA Executive Vice President, Basketball Operations), Gordie Chiesa (former Utah Jazz NBA assistant), and Jeff Van Gundy (former NBA assistant and head coach).

During his only season at the Providence, R.I. school, the Friars advanced to the 1987 Final Four in New Orleans by winning the Southeast Regional championship, marking the school's second national semifinal appearance.

After Pitino moved to the NBA's New York Knicks, Kearney became an assistant under Hall of Fame coach Herb Magee at Division II power Philadelphia Textile (now Philadelphia University). After just one season, he moved to Northwestern where he was an assistant coach under Bill Foster from 1988-91.

Kearney graduated with honors from the University of Scranton in 1981 with a bachelor's degree in political science, was a four-year member of the Royals' basketball team. In his final two seasons, Scranton finished with consecutive 18-11 records. He was a member of teams that won three Middle Atlantic Conference titles and earned three NCAA Division III playoff appearances. As a senior, he averaged 4.2 assists per game.

Born Nov. 14, 1959 in Darby, Pa., he is married to the former Kimberly Lancaster. The couple have two daughters, Erin and Shannon.

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. – When he agreed to play a top 10 team in the season opener, Colorado basketball coach Tad Boyle said he did so because he wanted to get some answers early in the season about his team.

Boyle got some answers Friday afternoon. Matched against No. 7 Iowa State, the Buffs played the Cyclones tough down to the end before finally dropping a 68-62 decision at the Sanford Pentagon.

"I love this team," Boyle said after the game. "Our guys battled. I know this group is going to be a resilient bunch. But in the end, we're not interested in just being in the game late. We want to win these."

The Buffs trailed 30-25 at the half, one that saw both teams put together mini-runs, and neither squad ever build a bigger lead than five

But after CU's Josh Scott scored the first bucket of the second half, the Cyclones caught fire and raced to a 14-point lead, 43-29, with 13:21 left in the game. The Cyclones fueled the run off turnovers — the Buffs committed 18 miscues on the night — and a powerful inside game for which the Buffs had no answer.

"We've got to be smarter with the ball," Boyle said. "Our defense wasn't what it needs to be and our rebounding wasn't what it needs to be."

But the Buffs did produce some solid 3-point shooting, which helped them back in the game. Immediately after Georges Niang hit a free throw to give ISU its 14-point edge, the Buffs reeled off an 11-0 run, boosted by a pair of 3-pointers from George King and another from Dominique Collier to narrow the Cyclone lead to 43-40 with just over 11 minutes to play.

King, coming off a redshirt season, finished with a team-high 14 points — including four 3-pointers — and had six rebounds. Collier, the sophomore point guard, had 13 points with three 3-pointers, but also had six of CU's 18 turnovers.

But just as soon as the Buffs closed the gap to three, the Cyclones bumped it back to eight, again taking advantage of a pair of Buff turnovers. Colorado managed to cut the deficit to four again several times down the stretch, but could never completely close the gap.

Scott finished with an 11-point 11-rebound double-double, but endured a 5-for-16 night from the field.

For Iowa State, Niang tallied 17 points, Abdel Nader added 14, Naz Mitrou-Long chipped in 13 and Monte Morris scored 12.

Iowa State scored 16 points off CU's 18 turnovers while the Buffs converted 12 ISU turnovers into eight points. The biggest difference came in the paint, where Iowa State rang up a 52-24 edge.

"You've got to take care of the ball when you have it," Boyle said. "We didn't defend great and we didn't rebound great (ISU held a 43-38 edge on the boards), but I also think we missed some shots that we will normally make."

Indeed, Scott suffered through a rough shooting night, hitting just two of his first 11 shots. Fellow frontliner Wesley Gordon, meanwhile, was just 2-for-7 from the field.

But the Buffs did a solid job against Niang, a consensus preseason All-America pick. Niang had just four rebounds to go with his 17 points, and did not hit a 3-pointer all night.

"This is a game we can build on," Boyle said. "This is an opportunity we're going to wish we had back later this season."

The game started slowly, with both teams missing their first four shots. The Buffs finally got on the board first on a Gordon basket inside before a Collier 3-pointer gave CU a 5-0 lead with 16:50 left in the half.

ISU, however reeled off a 10-0 run, and at the halfway mark of the half, the Buffs trailed 10-5.

While Scott continued to struggle from the floor — he hit just 1 of 9 field goal tries in the first 20 minutes — he helped keep the Buffs in the game with seven rebounds in the first 20 minutes.

Colorado finally ended a 6 minute, 30-second scoring drought when Scott hit his only basket of the first half. The Buffs then kept the Cyclones within range, and finally took the lead again, 17-16, on a Tre'Shaun Fletcher 3-pointer. The two teams then traded the lead several times before a King trey put the Buffs up 25-22 with 3:15 left in the half.

That, though, was the last time Colorado scored, as the Cyclones scored eight unanswered points to end the half and take a 30-25 lead into the locker room at intermission.

AUBURN, Ala. – Colorado basketball fans who wondered where the Buffs' offense would come from this year — aside from big man Josh Scott — received their answer Tuesday afternoon. Welcome back, George King.

CU's sophomore, who took a redshirt year last season after playing sparingly as a freshman, scored 27 points to go along with Scott's 24 to lift the Buffs (1-1) to a come-from-behind 91-84 win at Auburn.

King earned his first start as a Buff on the heels of a 14-point, six-rebound effort in the Buffs' season opening loss to Iowa State. Odds are, he earned another one with his game Tuesday.

"That's why I believe in redshirting," CU head coach Tad Boyle said after the game. "He's improved. He spent a lot of time working on his game."

King, who also had seven rebounds, was by no means the only standout for the Buffs, who rallied from a 44-29 deficit late in the first half to take control in the second and collect the win.

Scott proved his poor shooting night in the season-opening loss to Iowa State was an aberration, hitting eight of his 10 field goal attempts and eight of his 10 free throws for his 24 points. The CU senior forward also had nine rebounds, three blocks and a pair of assists.

Sophomore point guard Dominique Collier, meanwhile, had eight points, five assists and a steal; and shooting guard Josh Fortune came off the bench to score 11 points, including a big 3-pointer in a 7-0 run midway through the second half that gave the Buffs a 66-60 lead, one they would never relinquish.

But there may have been no bigger 3-pointer in the game than King's trey with 8:54 left in the game. With the Buffs up by eight, Tory Miller blocked an Auburn shot and Collier grabbed the loose ball. Collier then found an open King on the wing in transition, and King's 3-pointer gave the Buffs an 11-point lead.

Auburn didn't close the gap to single digits again until the waning minutes, and the Buffs easily held the Tigers off down the stretch.

"They hit a bunch of shots early, but we kept battling," King said. "We handled the adversity and bounced back."

The Tigers did indeed hit "a bunch of shots" early. After Colorado jumped to an early 17-10 lead, the Tigers unleashed a 3-point barrage that ultimately produced a 44-29 lead. Kareem Canty had four treys in the run and Cinmeon Bowers and Tyler Harris each added one. Colorado managed to stay close early in the run, but the Tigers put together a 13-1 stretch that gave them a 44-29 lead with just four minutes to play in the half.

The Tigers were 8-for-11 from 3-point range at one point in the first half, but missed their last three attempts, helping the Buffs get back in the game.

The Buffs managed to put together their own run in the final minutes of the first half, putting together a 13-2 burst that cut Auburn's lead to 46-42 at intermission. King had eight points in the stretch, including a pair of 3-pointers, Xavier Talton added a 3-pointer and Scott scored off an offensive rebound.

Auburn did manage to keep the Buffs at bay for the first six minutes of the second half, but a technical foul on Tiger big man Horace Spencer spelled the beginning of the end for Auburn.

Spencer drew the whistle for spiking the ball after a big dunk that gave the Tigers a 58-55 lead. Scott hit both ensuing technical free throws and seconds later, Fortune hit two more free throws to give the Buffs a 59-58 lead — their first since a 17-15 edge early in the first half.

Auburn momentarily regained the lead, but Colorado scored the next seven points to go up 66-60 and never trailed again. Fortune had a step-back 3-pointer in the burst and Collier and Wesley Gordon (eight points, five rebounds) each had a pair of free throws.

From that point, the Buffs steadily built their lead and the Tigers never really threatened again.

BOULDER – Three games and two wins into a basketball season might be too early to fret about handling success, but that's one of Tad Boyle's observations about his Colorado Buffaloes.

He saw his team falter at times Friday night in its 85-63 home-opening rout of Portland at the Coors Events Center, and he laid partial blame for the erratic play on perhaps the Buffs feeling too good about themselves too soon.

But there might good reasons for that, starting with what Boyle calls "that three-headed monster at the wing."

The monster reared all of its heads Friday night. George King led all scorers with 18 points -- he's been CU's leading scorer in all three games – while Josh Fortune and Tre'Shaun Fletcher added 17 each. Josh Scott rounded out the Buffs' double-digit foursome with 13 points.

Fletcher had a near-perfect shooting night from the field, with his 7-of-8 field goals including 3-of-4 from 3-point range. He was 0-for-1 from the free throw line.

Fortune's stat line was the best of his short CU career. In addition to his 17 points, he collected a game-best 14 rebounds and dished out a team-high six assists.

Fortune, who sat out last season after transferring from Providence, said the depth provided by him, King and Fletcher can make the Buffs "great in the long run . . . we can play all 40 minutes and play hard for all 40 minutes. We can be good."

The "three-headed monster's" totals: 52 points, 19 rebounds, 7 assists. Boyle's "dilemma" – a sweet one, he knows – isn't so much who to start as who should have the most minutes.

"Right now it's a rotation thing," Boyle said. "It's not about who starts, it's who plays (well)."

Not only is Boyle seeing a bigger picture, he's seeing a different CU team – different from any he's had in his previous five seasons in Boulder.

"This is an entirely different team from any year here," he said. "This team can be great, but this team needs everyone to be great. (It) has the highest upside of any we've had here, but it's not going to happen overnight."

CU (2-1) left its third game with plenty to improve on. The Buffs committed 18 turnovers but balanced that with 19 assists on 29 made field goals, with Boyle really liking the assist total. After an erratic first 20 minutes they opened the second half with a 20-7 run to push aside the Pilots (1-2).

"I'm not sure this team is a team that's learned to handle success," Boyle said. "We have to understand we're playing with and for each other."

Once that happens, Boyle believes there's no ceiling for the Buffs, who might have basked a bit too much Friday night in their eight-point first-half leads and dismissed defending the Pilots on the perimeter.

The result: A 13-2 run that enabled Portland to catch and pass CU before the Buffs recovered and regained their defensive intensity. Fletcher said Boyle "told us to pick it up on defense because they were shooting 40-something percent from the 3-point line.

Once that happened, the Buffs were off and running – as long as they were defending. Ask D'Marques Tyson about being defended. Tyson led the Pilots (1-2) with 12 points, but he got all of them in the first half on 4-of-6 shooting from beyond the arc.

He missed his four trey attempts in the second half and finished as the only Portland player in double figures. The Pilots' 53.8 percentage from long range in the first half dipped to 21.4 in the second.

Leading 42-35 at the half, CU effectively took over the night by outscoring Portland 20-7 in the second half's first 71/2 minutes to go ahead 62-42. CU increased its lead to 22 with 6:39 to play.

Averaging just over a dozen 3-pointers a game, Portland hit more than half that total (seven) in the first half, with four of the treys sparking the 13-2 run that sent the Pilots up 24-21 with 8:54 left in the half.

The Buffs got the message, either from Boyle or themselves – but probably from both sources. After a trey by Tyson tied the score at 28-28 CU turned up its defensive intensity.

A tip-dunk by Tory Miller started an 11-2 run that featured two layups by Fortune off of steals and produced a 39-30 lead in the half's final 2 minutes. Getting to the rim more than they had in the previous 6 minutes, the Buffs got another pair of layups from Thomas Akyazili and Xavier Talton and led 42-35 at the break.

BOULDER – Noon tipoffs aren't the norm, but they're no reason to sleepwalk through a first half – which the Colorado Buffaloes did Sunday against wide awake, fully alert, totally charged Omaha. The Buffs nearly paid. Dearly.

Trailing by 13 points early in the second half, lethargic CU finally shook itself awake, began defending, and finally overtook Omaha 87-82 at the sparsely populated Coors Events Center.

"I just said on the radio (KOA), that Nebraska-Omaha deserved to win . . . we snuck out with a win. I'm not sure we deserve it but we're going to take it," Buffs coach Tad Boyle said in his postgame news conference. "They outplayed us in lot of areas . . . our players walk in thinking (Omaha) is going to bow down to them; Nebraska-Omaha does not owe us anything."

As for the Buffs and the narrowest and most harrowing of their three November wins, Boyle said a great deal is owed to Josh Scott and Wesley Gordon: "Josh and Wesley bailed us out . . . without (them) we lose by 20 points. Our players need to understand where our bread is buttered."

Aside from his team's early lethargy, Boyle's chief gripe was the Buffs giving up 17 layups – a shortcoming that Scott (14 points, 12 rebounds, 3 blocks) and Gordon (12 points, 7 rebounds, 3 blocks) didn't have a hand in. "They weren't the ones getting beat off the dribble," Boyle said. "It didn't take an Einstein to figure out what we weren't getting done."

The afternoon wasn't without its positive for the Buffs (3-1). Of course, there was the win and the way it was achieved. CU's second-half comeback was ignited by defense, rebounding and free throw shooting. The Buffs shot only 38.7 percent from the field for the game, but in the second half they were at 42.9 percent (15-of-35).

And although their afternoon's free throw percentage was 73.9 percent, they were 22-of-26 (84.6 percent) in the second half – including 10-of-10 down the stretch after the Mavericks pulled to within three (83-80) in the final minute on back-to-back 3-pointers by Devin Patterson.

Patterson led all scorers (19 points) and gave the Buffs an afternoon-long headache with his ease in getting to the rim.

But when the Buffs had to rally they were able. Geroge King (16 points) Tre'Shaun Fletcher (15) and Dominique Collier (13) all played key roles in the second-half comeback. King scored six straight points during a 10-4 run that allowed CU to catch Omaha at 53-53 with 11:47 remaining.

Just under two minutes later, Fletcher hit a foul line jumper to push the Buffs up 57-55 – CU's first lead since 17-15. After two one-and-one Omaha misses, Fletcher drained a 3-pointer as the clock shot ticked to two, giving CU a five-point advantage (60-55) with 8:11 left.

It quickly became "Tre Time." He followed with both ends of a one-and-one, then hit another trey from the right wing, putting the Buffs ahead 65-57. A King floater just inside the left key gave CU its first double-digit lead of the afternoon – 67-57 – with 61/2 minutes to play.

The Mavericks weren't in a rollover mood, with Patterson pulling them to within 83-80. But Collier, who didn't shoot a free throw in the first half, hit all six attempts in the final 90 seconds, and Gordon's pair with 19.4 seconds to play put the game out of reach.

The CEC was boisterous when warranted, but it wasn't close to being full (7,199). Thank Thanksgiving break on campus – it began on Friday – for that, perhaps as well as TV competition with the Broncos-Bears 11 a.m. kickoff.

So maybe the Buffs needed a full house (or close to it) or maybe a later tip time to launch a better start. But whatever the reason, they slumbered through most of the first 20 minutes, allowing the Mavericks to lead by as many as eight points on two occasions and go to their locker room with a 38-32 halftime lead.

The Buffs needed a fast second-half start – and didn't get it. The Mavericks scored the half's first seven points, five by 6-8 Jake White, and took their largest lead of the afternoon – 45-32 – before the Buffs might have realized real trouble was brewing.

Their solution: Defense like they should have been playing for the first 20 minutes that keyed an 11-2 run and brought them to within four points (47-43) with 15:46 to play. The Buffs finally caught the Mavericks at 53-53 on a pair of Scott free throws.

BOULDER — Tad Boyle's Colorado Buffaloes did exactly what good teams are supposed to do against an overmatched nonconference foe Wednesday night at the Coors Events Center.

The Buffs built a big lead in the first half, kept the pressure on in the second and won handily, collecting an 81-70 win over visiting Air Force.

It was the 4-1 Buffs' fourth straight win after a season-opening loss, and CU's sixth in a row over the Falcons.

Colorado dominated the game in virtually every facet. CU had three players in double-figure scoring, led by 21 from Josh Scott and 18 from Josh Fortune. George King, CU's leading scorer in each of the Buffs' first four games, added 14 as CU overcame a slow start to build a 16-point lead by intermission, an edge that grew to as much as 26 and never dipped below double digits for the entirety of the second half.

The Buffs also outrebounded the Falcons, 38-31, and shot 52 percent from the field, including a 13-for-25 night from 3-point range. Wesley Gordon led CU with eight rebounds, followed by Scott with seven and Fortune with six. The 13 treys were the most by CU since a January 2006 game against Missouri.

"Overall I'm pretty pleased with the way our guys played," Boyle said. "We could still be a more consistent team. One of the challenges we laid out was to play 40 minutes of Colorado basketball … and I thought we played about 37 minutes. Consistency is something we're going to really try to talk about. This time of the season, our standards are set pretty high."

From the outset, the Falcons were obviously intent on taking away CU's inside game. AFA dropped into a tight zone defense in an attempt to force the Buffs to shoot from the outside — and CU was more than happy to oblige. The Buffs hit eight of their 14 3-point attempts in the first half, with Fortune (3-for-4) doing the bulk of the damage.

The Buffs were definitely open on the outside in the first half, as six different players hit at least one 3-pointer in the first 20 minutes.

After falling behind early, the Buffs took their first lead of the game at the 12:54 mark of the first half when King hit a driving layup and added a free throw for a 15-14 CU lead.

The Buffs never trailed again, quickly building the lead to eight, 25-17. The Falcons managed to stay close for the next several minutes, pulling to within 27-24 on a Dezmond James 3-pointer, but CU quickly reeled off a 12-3 run that bumped the margin to 39-27 with three minutes left in the half. Scott hit a jump hook to start the run, and the Buffs added a pair of 3-pointers in the burst, one each from Brett Brady and Fortune.

Fortune then added another 3-pointer a minute later and Scott scored CU's last four points of the half as the Buffs took a 46-30 lead into the break.

Scott was a perfect 3-for-3 from the field in the first half, and is now 24-for-31 from the field in CU's last four games.

The Buffs picked up in the second half where they left off in the first. Air Force loosened its zone and Scott immediately took advantage, scoring eight points in the first four minutes. CU opened the half with a 19-7 run to build a 26-point lead, 63-37, with 13 minutes still left in the game. The Falcons managed to reduce the margin back below 20, but never seriously threatened throughout the half.

Zach Moer led AFA with 13 points, Zach Kocur added 12 and Hayden Graham had 11.

Colorado also received some solid point guard play. Despite foul trouble for much of the game, starter Dominique Collier finished with seven points, two rebounds and a pair of assists. Freshman Thomas Akyazili saw the floor for 18 minutes and scored eight points on perfect 3-for-3 shooting, including 2-for-2 on 3-pointers, and added a team-high four assists. CU's point guards also had just two turnovers in the game.

BOULDER – For 20 minutes Sunday afternoon, the Colorado Buffaloes played the kind of basketball head coach Tad Boyle loves to see.

The Buffs rebounded, played defense, took care of the ball, took good shots and played team offense. And although things got a little sloppy in the second half — enough so that Boyle called a timeout to chastise his team when it held a 23-point lead — the 5-1 Buffs still had more than enough in their tank to carve out an 82-52 win over visiting Northern Colorado.

"Anytime you win by that kind of margin at home, you feel pretty good about things," said Boyle, whose team won its fifth straight game. "I really challenged our guys to hit our numbers, which we did tonight."

The Buffs put the game away early, building a double-digit lead, 17-6, less than seven minutes into the game, and steadily added to the margin throughout the half. CU closed the period with a 15-2 run, fueled by six points from Josh Scott and four from Tory Miller, to take a 46-19 lead into the locker room at intermission.

Boyle was obviously pleased with the quick start against an overmatched opponent.

"I think it's critical to come out and not give them any hope," Boyle said. "You have to punch them in the mouth, so to speak, and I thought we did that today. It's really important in games like this to get off to a quick start."

The Buffs dominated virtually every statistical category. Led by 15 rebounds from junior Wesley Gordon, CU held a commanding 48-29 edge on the boards over the smaller Bears. Colorado also limited UNC to just 32 percent shooting from the field (20 for 62) while the Buffs hit 48 percent of their shots (26 of 54), including a 10-for-23 day from 3-point range.

Scott just missed his third double-double of the season, finishing with 18 points and eight rebounds, and also had five blocks. Gordon just missed his first double-double of the season, scoring nine points to go with his game-high 15 rebounds. George King added 13 points for the Buffs and Josh Fortune finished with nine.

The Buffs' defense suffocated the Bears in the opening 20 minutes, as UNC managed to score unanswered baskets only twice in the half and never had a larger run than 4-0.

The flow of the game, though, changed significantly in the second half, much to Boyle's chagrin. After a particularly sloppy defensive effort, Boyle called a timeout and wasted no time in delivering a message in the huddle.

"We talk about playing the possession, not the scoreboard," Boyle said. "It's human nature to play the scoreboard and soften up a little when you're ahead. We can't allow that to happen."

Not that the Bears were ever a threat to completely close the gap. But with just more than nine minutes remaining in the game, the Bears had actually outscored Colorado in the half, 15-13, after a Spencer Mathis dunk.

"This team doesn't have that killer instinct yet that we need to have," Boyle said. "At this stage of the season, we have to stay hungry."

The Buffs, though, finally woke up long enough to regain control. A Fortune 3-pointer with 5:30 left in the game gave CU a 35-point lead, 73-38, and CU coasted down the stretch.

Nine different Buffs played at least 17 minutes in the game, and all 14 players in uniform saw playing time.

"Anytime you win by 30, it's big time," Scott said. "We accomplished all of our defensive goals. The only thing we didn't do was take care of the ball in the second half."

Indeed, after recording nine assists and just six turnovers in the first half, the Buffs added 12 turnovers to their total in the final period and just eight more assists. The Buffs have had at least 17 turnovers in five of their six games this year.

BOULDER – Tad Boyle warned the Colorado Buffaloes that Fort Lewis would not be impressed by either the Buffs' record or the names on their uniforms.

It took the Buffs 20 minutes of basketball Wednesday night to realize Boyle wasn't exaggerating. The Skyhawks matched the Buffs blow for blow in the first half and continued to make life uncomfortable for CU for much of the second before Colorado finally pulled away down the stretch for an 95-71 win.

CU senior Josh Scott finished with 24 points and 15 rebounds, his third double-double of the season and 26th of his career. Tre'Shaun Fletcher finished with 13 points and a career-high seven assists, Josh Fortune had 17 points and six assists and Wesley Gordon chipped in 10 rebounds and eight points.

"You've got to give credit to Fort Lewis," Boyle said after the game. "This is their Super Bowl. They came in loose and free and with nothing to lose, and they played like it."

While it wasn't the 6-1 Buffs' prettiest performance of the season — at least for a half — it was nevertheless their sixth straight victory, setting the stage for a noon contest Sunday at Colorado State (Root Sports) — a game that's no doubt on the Buffs' minds.

"We have an unbelievable challenge on Sunday," Boyle said. "CSU is a very, very good team."

The Skyhawks gave the Buffs a glimpse of what they expect to see Sunday in Fort Collins — a good outside-shooting squad that can hit from just about anywhere on the floor. Fort Lewis connected on 17 of its 31 field goal attempts in the first half Wednesday (55 percent), including a 7-for-13 effort from 3-point range that left the Buffs with a narrow 46-44 edge at halftime.

"They made some tough shots," Scott said. "But I also think that we aided in allowing them to feel comfortable and allowing them to get off to a good start. When you let a team like that think they can play with you, they are going to keep shooting and feel good. It was just a matter of contesting them, and we knew they eventually would stop falling."

Indeed, a more active CU defense cooled the Skyhawks down considerably in the second half. Fort Lewis hit just 33 percent of its shots after halftime (10-for-30), including just four 3-pointers.

"I thought defensively we did a much better job getting around screens and being aware of the ball in the second half," Boyle said. "It was a hard-fought win, but credit Fort Lewis — they played well."

The Buffs, meanwhile, cranked up their offense another notch and finally built a cushion the Skyhawks couldn't overcome. A Fletcher 3-pointer put the Buffs up by 13 at the 10:57 mark and the Skyhawks never cut the edge below double digits again. Colorado finally put the game away with a 14-2 run, capped by a Thomas Akyazili 3-pointer, that built the lead to 89-67 with just 3:34 left in the game.

Joshua Blaylock led the 5-1 Skyhawks with 13 points and Kofi Josephs add 11.

The Buffs finished the game with a season-high 23 assists and just 11 turnovers, a ratio Boyle was pleased to see. Along with seven assists from Fletcher and six from Fortune, the Buffs also received four from point guard Dominique Collier.

"When we have 23 assists and share the ball the way we did tonight, we're a fun team to watch and a hard team to prepare for," Boyle said. "If we can continue to play that way offensively and find an identity on defense, this team is scary good — but we're not there yet."

After falling behind 5-0 early, the Buffs put together a 17-0 run and threatened to blow the game open early. But almost before the late-arriving crowd could settle into their seats, the Skyhawks came back with a 16-4 burst that knotted the game at 21, and from that point until intermission, the Buffs couldn't shake the Skyhawks.

FORT COLLINS — Two true road games, two double-digit deficits — and two victories.

It might not be a formula that's good for Colorado head coach Tad Boyle's heart, but it's one that's worked twice this year for his Buffaloes.

Sunday, the 7-1 Buffs stampeded back from a 52-39 halftime deficit to claim an 88-77 win over rival Colorado State in front of a sold-out Moby Arena crowd, the largest crowd the Buffs have seen this season.

It was virtually a carbon copy of the Buffs' only other true road game this year, a 91-84 victory at Auburn. In that one, the Buffs withstood a withering 3-point barrage early and overcome a 44-29 deficit to record the win.

Sunday produced the same results. The Rams blistered the nets from 3-point range in the first half to take 13-point lead into the locker room before the Buffs clamped down in the second half, giving up just 25 points after yielding 52 before intermission.

CU senior Josh Scott made his final appearance against the Rams one to remember. After totaling just 12 points — combined — in his first three games vs. CSU, Scott tallied a 21-point, 11-rebound double-double, with 13 points and seven of those rebounds coming after the half. His frontline mate, junior Wesley Gordon, contributed a 15-point, 12-rebound double-double — including his first two 3-pointers of the season — and Josh Fortune added 16 points, six assists and a pair of rebounds.

For 20 minutes, though, it appeared as if the Buffs' difficulties in Moby Arena — they'd lost two of the last three in Fort Collins — would continue, as the Rams controlled the tempo and the scoreboard. Led by 16 first-half points from John Gillon and 13 from Gian Clavell, CSU blistered the nets in the first half, hitting nearly 60 percent of its field goals (19-for-32) and 70 percent of its 3-pointers (7-for-10).

The Buffs, meanwhile, went cold after a hot start and connected on just 12 of their 29 field goal attempts to head into the locker room trailing by 13 at the half.

After combining for 34 points in the opening half, Gillon and Clavell scored just five after intermission, with Gillon going scoreless.

The Buffs, meanwhile, began working the ball inside more and the payoff was 13 points from Scott and 12 from Gordon in the final 20 minutes.

Not all of Gordon's points, however, came inside. CU's 6-9 junior opened the half by draining a 3-pointer, sparking a 15-1 CU run that erased CSU's lead and gave the Buffs their first edge, 54-53, since early in the first half. Gordon added a second 3-pointer in the run while Scott had a traditional 3-point play and George King added four points.

The Rams, meanwhile, went stone cold from the floor, missing seven field goal attempts in a row.

CU extended its lead to five midway through the second half before the Rams made one final push, getting a 3-pointer from J.D. Paige at the 9:17 mark to tie the game at 68-68.

But after a three-minute scoreless stretch by both teams, Scott started a 15-4 CU run with a layup inside as the Buffs took firm control. Scott had eight points in the run, Gordon added four and Fortune had a huge three-point play off an offensive rebound. A Dom Collier layup with 1:49 left put the Buffs 82-73 and sent the Moby Arena crowd to the exits.

After their 19-for-32 first half from the field, the Rams hit just seven of 32 field goal tries in the second, as CU's defense ramped up a notch. The Buffs, meanwhile, shot 19-for-37 after intermission.

Along with balanced scoring — the Buffs had five players in double figures — CU also held a 42-36 edge on the boards and finished with 18 assists and just seven turnovers. Collier led CU with seven assists and had just one turnover. Tre'Shaun Fletcher, meanwhile, finished with 11 points and King added 10.

BOULDER — Colorado coach Tad Boyle has been waiting for his team to put together a beginning-to-end, solid 40-minute performance this year.

The Buffs came close Saturday night — "about 36 minutes" by Boyle's estimation — and it was enough to produce a 92-83 win over BYU, the 8-1 Buffs' eighth-straight victory.

"That was a really good win for Colorado basketball," Boyle said. "I've got a lot of respect for BYU and a lot of respect for (head coach) Dave Rose. They're going to win a lot of games as this season unfolds."

The Buffs received their third consecutive double-double effort from senior Josh Scott, who finished with 22 points and 10 rebounds. Buff sophomore George King led Colorado in scoring with 23 points, including a 4-for-6 night from 3-point range, while Josh Fortune added seven points, six rebounds and five assists and Dom Collier had a nine-point, seven-rebound, four-assist effort.

Nick Emery led BYU with 23 points, 18 of them coming in the second half, when the Cougars turned a potential blowout into a game that kept the biggest Coors Events Center crowd of the season (8,913) in their seats until the end.

The Buffs' pattern this year has been to start slowly and play well in the second half. Saturday night, they changed it up and put together probably their best first half of the season, taking a 48-36 lead into the locker room at intermission. Scott had 16 points in the first half and King and Xavier Talton each had eight as the Buffs took control midway through the half with a 12-2 run and seemed prepared to blow the game open.

That feeling didn't change in the early minutes of the second half. CU opened the period by outscoring the Cougars 13-0, and with 15:46 left in the game, Colorado held a 61-36 lead.

At that point, all that seemed left for the Buffs was to take care of the lead and coast home with the win. The Cougars, however, put the brakes on in a hurry. Almost before Colorado fans had a chance to revel in the big lead, the Cougars crafted an 18-3 burst that reduced the deficit to 10 with 11 minutes still left in the game.

"We knew they were going to make a run, no question," Boyle said. "We helped it with six turnovers in eight possessions. It went from a 25-point game to a 10-point game pretty darned quickly."

Indeed, in the few minutes when the Buffs were committing six of their 13 total turnovers, the Cougars were finding their shooting eye. Emery and fellow freshman Zac Seljaas (18 points) fueled a 13-0 BYU surge that saw the Cougars pull to within 64-54, finally forcing Boyle to call a timeout.

"I was going to call a timeout (earlier), but there was a media timeout coming," Boyle said. "I have confidence in our defense. We're up 13, then Emery comes down and and hits a 3 in transition and cuts it to 10. I called a timeout a possession too late."

But from that point on, the Buffs managed to keep the Cougars at bay. A King 3-pointer, two Scott free throws and a Tory Miller tip-in bumped the lead back to 16, 83-67, with 4:40 left, and while the Cougars cut the lead back to eight with 2:40 left and to six in the waning seconds, they never managed to get it back to a one-possession game.

An Emery basket with 1:10 left pulled BYU to within seven, 87-80, but King and Collier each hit a pair of free throws and Fortune hit one in the final minute to seal the win.

"Colorado is a really good team," BYU's Rose said. "They are very well-coached and they spaced the floor really well. They beat us in big, key moments. We did some really good things ... but overall, Colorado really impressed me with their team and how they play together."

The Buffs finished with a 49-41 edge in rebounding and held the Cougars to 39 percent shooting from the field (30 for 77). CU shot 46 percent (31 for 68) and recorded 18 assists against 13 turnovers.

BOULDER — Maybe it was the effects of finals week. Maybe it was rust after playing just two games in the last 15 days.

But whatever the reason, the Colorado Buffaloes did not look like a team worthy of their top-15 RPI ranking Friday against visiting Nicholls State (248 RPI).

Still, the Buffs finally woke up from a 30-minute slumber long enough to overcome a double-digit first-half deficit and slip away with an 85-68 win over the Colonels.

"Obviously, I'm not too pleased with the way we came out tonight," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "I thought our first-half performance was pathetic in a lot of different ways. If we're playing a Pac-12 team tonight, we'd be down 20 at halftime, not five."

Indeed, the Buffs struggled for much of the night in virtually every category. The Pac-12's leading 3-point shooting team (14th in the nation) hit just three of 15 tries from 3-point range in the first half — they finished 9-for-27 — and trailed by as much as 10 before finally cutting the deficit to five, 38-33, at the half.

But they finally awakened in the second half. The Buffs slowly chipped away at the Nicholls lead, and finally went ahead for good, 47-45, on a Tre'Shaun Fletcher dunk with 15:30 left in the game. The Colonels managed to stay close for a few more minutes before the Buffs put together a 22-7 run that turned a one-point game into a 75-60 CU lead with just more than four minutes to play.

CU's Josh Scott saw his run of consecutive games with a double-double halted at three, but he still finished with a game-high 20 points — 16 in the second half — and six rebounds. Josh Fortune added 17 points and five rebounds and George King chipped in 14 for CU.

It was the fourth time this year the Buffs have recovered from a double-digit deficit to record a win. But Boyle said he hoped this game would serve as a warning to his players — mainly that when their shooting is off, their defense has to fill the gap.

"This team wants to score their way out of their their problems," Boyle said. "We've done that. We're capable of that. But there's going to be nights like this. This program is based on defense and rebounding. If we don't figure that out, it's going to be a rude awakening on Jan. 1 when we tip off against Cal. I don't think our players understand that. If they did, they wouldn't continue to let this happen."

Not every Buff struggled on the defensive end. CU junior Wesley Gordon finished with just five points, but he added seven rebounds and seven blocks, tying his career high, and was a major defensive force in the second half.

"Wesley Gordon was the player of the game," Boyle said. " He had five points, took three shots — and we could not take him off the floor in the second half."

After allowing the Colonels to shoot 50 percent from the field in the first half, including 6-for-12 from 3-point range, the Buffs defense finally stiffened after intermission. The Colonels hit just 33 percent of their field goal tries in the second half (9-for-27) while the Buffs improved dramatically, connecting on 62 percent of their shots, including six of 12 3-point tries.

With 10:54 left, Nicholls cut CU's lead to 53-52 on a Jonathan Bell 3-pointer. But the Buffs proceeded to put together a 28-12 run to put the game away. Scott started the burst with a pair of free throws and finished it with a 3-pointer, scoring 12 in the run, while Fortune added a pair of 3-pointers and layup.

The Buffs struggled mightily throughout the first 20 minutes. After jumping out to a quick 12-5 lead fueled by a pair of King 3-pointers, CU gave up a 13-0 run to fall behind 18-12 and the Buffs never managed to cut the deficit to more than four the rest of the half.

While the Buffs' offense deserted them the Colonels were taking advantage of some shoddy defense to extend their lead. Nicholls stretched its edge into double digits, 38-28, with just under two minutes left in the half on a Quinton Thomas 3-pointer before CU managed to narrow the gap to 38-33 before intermission.

BOULDER — The Colorado Buffaloes played like head coach Tad Boyle expected them to Saturday night against Hampton.

One night after they struggled to produce a win over lightly regarded Nicholls State, the Buffs were a different team. They shared the ball, played defense and attacked the boards in one of their most dominant efforts of the year.

The result was a 95-53 victory for their 10th straight win, setting the table for a trip to Las Vegas, where the competition will be decidedly tougher. The Buffs play Penn State on Tuesday in an 8:30 p.m. game at Orleans Arena, then either SMU or Kent State the following night in another 8:30 p.m. game (Fox Sports 1).

"I wish they could all be like that," Boyle said after Saturday's game. "Good team victory. We really shared it offensively, we hit our defensive numbers and our rebounding numbers. It's good momentum and a feel-good victory as we head to Las Vegas. We know what's ahead of us."

The only bad news from the evening was a knee injury to starting forward Wesley Gordon. Boyle said Gordon banged his knee twice in the same spot and was taken in for precautionary X-rays, and expressed hope that the injury won't require much more than "ice and rest."

The Buffs will need Gordon back as soon as possible, as there are no more cupcakes on their menu. After Las Vegas, they'll take a couple days off for Christmas, then begin preparation for Pac-12 play, when they open the conference schedule with a pair of games on the road — Jan. 1 at Cal and Jan. 3 at Stanford.

"Every game from here on in is going to be a big-time opponent, big-time atmosphere," Boyle said. "We know our margin for error goes way down given where we are on our schedule. But our guys rise to the occasion."

Saturday night, they certainly did that, making sure the game was not in doubt after the first few minutes. Colorado led by 11 points midway through the first half, by 17 at intermission, and then continued to build on the margin in the second half. The CU lead hit 20 early in the second half for the second time in the game, then 30 and finally reached into the 40s over the final few minutes. The only drama left over the final two minutes was whether the Buffs would hit the century mark, which they missed by just five points.

Along with the scoreboard, the Buffs dominated virtually every statistical category. Colorado won the rebound battle 52-37, shot 47.7 percent from the field and had 23 assists and just six turnovers.

Buff big man Josh Scott finished with 21 points, seven rebounds and a pair of assists, his fifth straight game with at least 20 points. Sophomore Tory Miller came off the bench to score a career high 19 points and grab 10 rebounds for his second career double-double (first of the season), sophomore George King had 12 points and five rebounds and sophomore point guard Dominique Collier had a game-high eight assists to go with 10 points and four rebounds.

"We defended, we rebounded," Scott said. "That team is probably going to do pretty well in their league. For us to come out, especially after the performance we had last night, speaks volumes about this group, not to come out flat."

After trading the lead with Hampton the first few possessions, CU took a 6-4 lead on a Collier 3-pointer and never trailed again. A Scott dunk and free throw at the 11:22 mark pushed the Buffs' edge into double digits, 23-12, and a Thomas Akyazili free throw pushed the edge to 20, 42-22, with just more than a minute to play.

The Pirates scored the last five points of the half, but CU entered the locker room with a comfortable 42-25 edge, then dominated the second half.

The Buffs went up by 20 at the 17:26 mark on King 3-pointer, then by 31 on a Tre'Shaun Fletcher layup with 12:16 remaining. They finally pushed the margin to 40 on a Collier layup with 6:20 remaining, and Boyle took the opportunity to make sure all 14 players in uniform got some playing time

LAS VEGAS — When their offense struggled Tuesday night, the Colorado Buffaloes leaned on the three things on which they know they can always depend:

Defense, rebounding and Josh Scott.

That combination, along with some hot shooting in the second half, was enough to produce a 71-70 win over Penn State in the Las Vegas Classic semi-finals and set up a Wednesday night meeting with unbeaten and 18th-ranked SMU.

The 11-1 Buffs weren't at their best, and the game seldom approached a thing of beauty. But, as head coach Tad Boyle said, "Over a 30-plus game season, you're going to have those nights where you're not at your best and you've got to find a way to win. Tonight was one of those nights where we found a way to win."

Indeed, after struggling for much of the game on the offensive end, the Buffs finally hit a hot streak midway through the second half. Colorado hit five consecutive 3-pointers — including three from Josh Fortune — in a four-minute stretch to go up by 11, and still led by nine, 68-59, with less than two minutes to play.

CU then had to withstand a furious PSU rally in the final minutes, and it wasn't until George King hit two free throws with 7 seconds left for a 71-67 lead that the Buffs' 11th straight victory was clearly in hand.

"The first half we turned the ball over nine times, the second half we turned it over twice," Boyle said. "We took care of the ball and made some shots. Guys stepped up and made some big shots for us in the second half. We scored and we got stops in succession, and that's what allowed us to get the lead."

Scott led the Buffs with 18 points — 15 in the first half — and eight rebounds, while Fortune chipped in 13, Dominique Collier added 12 and Wesley Gordon tossed in 10. Gordon also had six rebounds and three blocks and Collier and Fortune each had three assists.

Shep Garner led Penn State with 26 points, with seven coming in the game's final 26 seconds.

"We needed a close game," Boyle said. "We're going to have some close games in conference play and we're going to have games like this in conference play where you've got to just grind it out and find a way to win, especially when you're not playing your best. I think our players showed great mental toughness. That's a great stride the team made tonight."

The Buffs were certainly not at their best offensively, particularly in a first half that never saw them in the lead and ended in a 25-25 tie. But despite shooting just 27 percent (6-for-22) from the field, they stayed in the game thanks to some solid defense, a dominant performance on the boards and 15 points from Scott, including a stretch when he scored 13 in a row.

Scott said he took it upon himself to carry the offensive load when his teammates were struggling. Scott shot 4-for-6 from the field in the first half; the rest of the Buffs were just 2-for-16.

"That was mentally a decision I made," Scott said. "If I miss, make — I need to be aggressive here. We're struggling and I'm talented enough to do those things."

Scott was indeed aggressive in his 13-point run. He opened it with an offensive rebound and basket (the Buffs outrebounded the Lions 22-13 in the first half), added a pair of conventional three-point plays and also threw down a dunk in the run.

"For them to see somebody was out there confident and being aggressive, it helps other people do the same thing," Scott said.

CU took the lead for the first time early in the second half on a Gordon jumper, then went ahead for good, 35-34, on another Gordon jumper from the paint at the 14:22 mark. The Buffs slowly built the lead into double digits with their 3-point burst, then did just enough down the stretch to keep the Lions at bay.

LAS VEGAS — Colorado's nonconference basketball schedule ended Wednesday night much the way it began in mid-November: a chance for a marquee win slipping through the Buffaloes' fingers.

The Buffs' season started with a six-point loss to then-No. 7 Iowa State, a defeat the Buffs followed with 11 straight victories.

Wednesday, that win streak came to an end when CU dropped a 70-66 decision to unbeaten and No. 18 SMU in the Las Vegas Classic championship game at Orleans Arena. The Buffs led the Mustangs by seven, 57-50, with seven minutes to play, but a stagnant offense and some defensive lapses down the stretch allowed SMU to put together a decisive 14-1 run that proved to be the difference.

"Extremely disappointed, extremely frustrated," head coach Tad Boyle said. "They out-executed us down the stretch. They were better than we were offensively and defensively. We got ourselves back in the game, we got control of the game, but we let it slip away."

Indeed, the Buffs did seize control of the game midway through the second period. After playing from behind for much of the first 30 minutes, CU put together a 14-0 run to take a 54-46 lead with 8:27 left in the game. Josh Fortune had six points, Wesley Gordon added a 3-pointer and Josh Scott also had three points to fuel the surge. A minute later, the Buffs were still up by seven, 57-50, after a Thomas Akyazili 3-pointer.

Defensively, the Buffs also took command in the stretch. The Mustangs missed five straight field goals in the stretch and CU also forced three consecutive turnovers.

But just as quickly as the Buffs took control, they gave it up, yielding the game-deciding 14-1 Mustangs run.

"I'm going to remember this loss for a long, long time," Boyle said. "It was a winnable game that we let slip away."

The Buffs were no doubt their own worst enemy at times. CU entered the game as the Pac-12's leading free throw shooting team (74.1 percent), but connected on just eight of their 17 tries from the line against the Mustangs.

Even more uncharacteristic was the fact that one of CU's best free throw shooters had the toughest night from the line. Scott, an 81 percent shooter, finished with 12 points and 12 rebounds, but was just 2 for 7 from the line.

"I'm pretty disappointed in myself," Scott said. "I would say a lot of this loss has to be shouldered by me because I need to make free throws. It's unexcusable."

But free throws weren't the Buffs' only shortcomings. CU finished with 16 turnovers and 13 assists, with the three starting perimeter players — George King, Dom Collier and Tre'Shaun Fletcher — combining for eight of those turnovers and only one of the assists.

"I don't put this loss on the players, I put it on myself," Boyle said. "We've got to spend a little more time on late-game situations in understanding the urgency. When there's three and half minutes to go in the game and you've got a six-point lead, you've got to understand how you keep it. They executed and we didn't."

For the first time this season, the Buffs were led in scoring by someone other than Scott or King. Fortune, one of the keys to the Buffs' second-half surge, came off the bench to score 15 points and Collier added 12. Talton had a solid defensive effort, finishing with four rebounds, three assists and a pair of steals.

The Mustangs finished with four players in double figures, led by 16 from Ben Moore.

"I love this team," Boyle said. "Tonight doesn't change any of that. We've got great fight, we've got great toughness, we've got great resolve. We just weren't good enough down the stretch to beat a top 25 team, so we have to learn from that. I don't worry about how we're going to respond. We're going to respond."

BERKELEY, Calif. — Things started badly for the Colorado Buffaloes against Cal on Friday — and then got worse.

The Buffs shot poorly, struggled on defense and were soundly dominated on the boards, and as a result took a 79-65 defeat on the chin in their Pac-12 opener.

The loss was the 11-3 Buffs' second in a row while Cal improved to 11-3.

Friday's game wasn't a matter of the Buffs not playing hard. They just didn't play well. CU shot a season-low 32 percent from the field (21-for-66), recorded a season-low six assists (only two Buffs had assists) and hit just 27 percent of their 3-point tries, also a season low.

"The effort wasn't the issue, it was the execution," head coach Tad Boyle said. "The intensity level went up and we didn't answer the bell tonight. It's the first time I felt all year where we got out-toughed and really got out-scrapped and outplayed. We didn't give up, which is a good sign. But a very, very disappointing first game of conference play."

In their two previous road games this season, the Buffs fell behind by double digits and managed to come back to win both of them.

They had no such magic against the Bears. Colorado fell behind early 10-0, and needed more than six minutes to get its first points, a pair of free throws. CU missed its first 10 shots from the field and didn't record its first field goal until the 12-minute mark.

And while the Buffs temporarily made a game of it early — pulling to within 16-10 at the midway mark of the first half — the Bears quickly re-established control with a 16-4 run. Colorado entered the locker room trailing 34-21 at intermission, and the deficit only grew in the second half.

Cal led by as much as 23 midway through the second period before the Buffs managed to close the gap in the waning minutes.

Josh Scott led the Buffs with 16 points and seven rebounds, but he shot just 4-for-16 from the field, part of the Buffs' woeful 32 percent shooting effort for the night (21 for 66). Wes Gordon added 11 for CU, the only other Buff with double-digit scoring. CU, which entered the game shooting 42 percent from 3-point range, hit just three of its 11 tries from beyond the arc.

The Bears had four players in double figures, led by 22 from Jordan Mathews, who had a 5-for-9 night from 3-point range. All of Matthews' 3-pointers came in the second half. Jaylen Brown added 17 points and Tyrone Wallace chipped in 16. Wallace also had eight assists.

While the Buffs were only outrebounded by one — 39-38 — the Bears had a 25-15 margin at the half and maintained that edge until late in the game, long after the outcome had been decided.

When Scott struggled early against Cal's big men it set the tone for a long evening. The Buffs were ineffective from the outside and never found a way to effectively penetrate the paint against a trio of Bears 7-footers.

Scott wasn't the only Buff who had trouble finishing. Cal's big men dominated inside, and when starters Ivan Rabb and Kameron Rooks ran into foul trouble, the Bears ran another 7-footer — Kingsley Okoroh — onto the floor. Okoroh finished with 10 points, five rebounds and four blocked shots, and while all three Cal big men ended up fouling out, they still accomplished exactly what they set out to do — negate Scott's presence.

Only one CU starter managed to shoot better than 30 percent from the field. Point guard Dominique Collier was 4-for-8, but did not have an assist. The rest of CU's starters combined to shoot just 12-for-43.

The Buffs also struggled defensively. Cal finished the night with 12 layups, including five fast break baskets while the Buffs managed just two. The Bears also shot a blistering 60 percent from the field in the second half.

If there is any silver lining to the conference opening cloud, it's that CU won't have long to chew on the loss. Directly on the horizon is Stanford, with the Cardinal coming off a big overtime victory over Utah in their conference opener.

STANFORD, Calif. — Above all else, Colorado basketball coach Tad Boyle is a believer in defense and rebounding. Boyle's philosophy is simple: when your offense goes stagnant, your defense can make the difference.

Boyle's philosophy was tested to its limits Sunday night. His Buffaloes scored 10 points in the final 17 minutes against Stanford — just four in the final 10 minutes — but still somehow, some way managed to escape Maples Pavilion with a heart-stopping 56-55 win over the Cardinal.

"The positive is our program is built for nights like this, when you're on the road and things go dormant for you offensively," Boyle said. "We don't want to have it happen; we're going to get better at that and we're going to learn from that."

Indeed, the Buffs did enough of everything — barely — to escape with the win and improve to 12-3 overall and 1-1 in Pac-12 play. Most importantly, they head back to Boulder for a three-game home stretch with a very valuable conference road win in their duffel bags.

For roughly 23 minutes Sunday, the Buffs appeared to be on the verge of a comfortable win. Just three minutes into the second half, they had pushed a 10-point halftime lead to 16, 46-30, on a Josh Scott putback.

But from that point on, CU's offense went dormant. The Buffs committed 10 turnovers in the second half (18 for the game), and the Cardinal were more than happy to convert those miscues into points. The 16 point lead dwindled to 10 by the halfway point of the half — 52-42 — and was down to three, 54-51, with 4:14 remaining.

The Buffs didn't help their cause even when presented golden opportunities. George King missed a pair of free throws with 2:31 remaining, and Xavier Talton missed the front end of a one-and-one — his first missed free throw of the season — a minute later.

But just after Stanford had pulled within one on a Michael Humphrey putback with 1:10 remaining, Scott drove the baseline and connected to give CU a 56-53 lead with 49 seconds left. Stanford's Malcom Sheffield then cut the gap to one with a pair of free throws, and on CU's next possession, Scott missed a 3-pointer. Stanford's Rosco Allen, however, stepped on the sideline chasing down the rebound, giving the ball back to CU with six seconds left.

The Buffs, though, turned it over on the inbounds play, and it wasn't until Allen's 3-point desperation shot from just past halfcourt missed its mark at the final buzzer that CU's win was in hand.

Scott finished with a 14-point, 14-rebound double-double, his seventh of the season and 30th of his career, while King added 12 and Josh Fortune chipped in 10. Humphrey finished with 19 points for Stanford, the only Cardinal player in double-figure scoring.

The Buffs led 37-27 at the half on the basis of 50 percent shooting from the field (13-for-26), a 22-15 edge on the boards and 11 assists — nearly doubling the six assists they had in the entire game Friday against Cal. Fortune had 10 points at the half, including three 3-pointers, King had eight and Scott had six points and seven rebounds.

Meanwhile, the Buffs' defense held Stanford's leading scorer, Rosco Allen, scoreless. Allen finished with just seven points — half his average — and shot just 2-for-10 from the field, as he was harassed for most of the evening by Wesley Gordon, who also had six points, nine rebounds and a pair of blocks.

But in the second half, the Buffs totaled just three assists and 10 turnovers, and Stanford converted CU's 18 total turnovers into 22 points. Colorado did, however, hold a 43-29 final edge in rebounding, and held the Cardinal to just 31 percent shooting (17-for-54).

BOULDER — A basketball team's shots are supposed to fall more frequently on its home court. And by that same theory, the home team allegedly should own any late advantage.

But try telling that to the Colorado Buffaloes, whose poor shooting and shoddy execution down the stretch Friday night doomed them in their Pac-12 Conference home opener.

Lorenzo Bonam's layup with 1.1 seconds left completed a late 11-2 Utah run and gave the Utes a 56-54 Pac-12 win – their first of the season – at the Coors Events Center.

The Buffs (12-4, 1-2) led by as many nine points in the second half and were up 52-45 with 5:25 remaining. But they made only one field goal and committed three of their 12 turnovers during that final stretch. Desperate for their first conference win, the Utes (12-4, 1-2) took full advantage and defeated CU for the fourth consecutive time and the fifth time in the last seven meetings.

Utah called timeout with 13.1 seconds left, and if Bonam's layup wasn't what was drawn up by coach Larry Krystkowiak it was all the Utes needed. Bonam's winning basket gave Utah 19 points off of CU's dozen turnovers while the Buffs managed only 4 points off of the Utes' 11 errors.

The Buffs were left with time for only an almost full court heave. There were no miracles on this night.

CU's most effective shooter was George King, who scored a game-best 21 points on 8-of-10 from the field, including 3-of-4 from beyond the arc.

King, who had averaged 10.2 points in his last five games, scored 13 of his total in the first half and kept the Buffs from withering offensively. King said a shooting regimen after practice began to pay off for him: "It's muscle memory after that, especially since I do most of my shooting here in that gym we just played in. It's the reason those shots went in."

The Buffs trailed 26-24 at halftime and undoubtedly went to their locker room thankful. In the game's first 6 minutes, no style points were awarded – and not many of the sort that show up on the scoreboard either.

At the 11:22 mark – which found CU trailing 9-5 – the teams had combined for nine turnovers and five field goals in 22 attempts. Ugly hung in the arena like a thick fog. But the Buffs had expected a grind and those expectations were met.

After Dominique Collier, who was 0-for-4 in the first half, hit consecutive layups to give CU a 32-30 lead, King followed with a nifty pivot and stretched to lay it in from the left side of the lane.

The Buffs led 34-30, and the roll was just starting. After Wes Gordon and Josh Scott hit inside baskets, Collier buried a 3-pointer from the left corner to give CU its largest lead of the game to that point – 41-34 – with just under 13 minutes remaining.

The Buffs stretched their lead to nine before the Utes found an offensive answer – Jordan Loveridge. His back-to-back treys and a uncontested dunk by Kyle Kuzma brought Utah to within 46-43 – finishing an 8-2 run with 8:21 left – and prompted a timeout by Boyle.

The Buffs went immediately to Scott for a quick basket inside, then got an elbow jumper from King. Their lead was back to seven, but the Utes weren't rolling over.

Two free throws by Poeltl and a 3-pointer by Bonam sliced the Buffs' lead to 52-50 and put Boyle in the mood for another timeout with 3:29 remaining.

A CU turnover and a Bonam layup tied the score 29 seconds later, and another Buffs bobble gave Poeltl the chance for a layup at the other end. Utah led 54-52 – its first advantage since 28-26.

King answered with a tying jumper (54-54) but Fortune's baseline pass was picked off by Bonam, who came up even bigger at the offensive end.

BOULDER — After a five-game stretch when his Buffaloes struggled in the final six minutes of games, Tad Boyle wanted his Colorado team to concentrate on finishing.

The Buffs did so with an exclamation point Wednesday night. Josh Scott and Wesley Gordon put up double-doubles and Colorado blew open a tight game in the final seven minutes to record a 71-54 win over Oregon State in front of the largest Coors Events Center crowd of the season (9,190).

The Buffs improved to 13-4 overall and 2-2 in Pac-12 play while the Beavers, who got a 26-point, 15-rebound effort from Gary Payton II, dropped to 11-4, 2-2.

Scott finished with 25 points and 12 rebounds for his ninth double-double of the season and 32nd of his career. Gordon scored 12 points, grabbed 14 rebounds and had six blocks for his second double-double of the season and seventh of his career.

But the key was how the Buffs did it down the stretch. Scott had 12 of the Buffs' 25 points in the final 7:33 as the Buffs outscored the Beavers 25-12 and turned a 46-42 lead into their 17-point winning margin.

"That was a great effort," Boyle said. "Wesley Gordon's offensive rebounding combined with Josh Scott's defensive rebounding was the difference in the game."

Gordon finished with seven of CU's 13 offensive rebounds, and the Buffs converted those second chances into 18 points. Scott had 10 defensive boards, and together, they combined for nine blocks.

"The thing about Wes is that he doesn't have to score to have an impact on this team," Boyle said. "That's what I love about him and what makes him such a valuable player to this team. We have some other guys, when they don't score they're not doing much to help our team. They're not rebounding or defending or taking charges. They have to figure that out."

While Payton posted the 12th double-double of his career, his points didn't come easily. The 6-3 guard hit just eight of his 20 field goal attempts.

"I thought our guys did a good job of making him work for everything he got," Boyle said. "We broke down a few times, but for the most part I was pleased with our defensive effort."

The Buffs held a 29-25 lead at intermission, and bumped the margin to seven early in the second half. But Payton fueled an OSU comeback that saw the Beavers take the lead, 38-37, with 12:27 left when he scored all nine points in a 9-2 Oregon State run.

Gordon, however, put the Buffs back in the lead a minute later with a pair of free throws, and CU never trailed again, slowly building the lead the rest of the game. A Thomas Akyazili 3-pointer gave CU a nine-point edge, 52-43, with 6:51 remaining and Dominique Collier pushed the lead into double digits for the first time with a pair of free throws a minute later.

Oregon State never came closer than eight the rest of the game.

The Buffs dominated the boards, finishing with a 48-33 rebounding edge. That was more than enough to offset 18 Colorado turnovers, a number that put a scowl on Boyle's face, especially when compared to just 12 assists.

"I'm not a big math guy, but 14 of the 18 turnovers came from perimeter players," Boyle said. "Those six guys have to take better care of the basketball."

While Scott and Gordon did the bulk of the scoring, the Buffs also got some key contributions from a variety of areas. Akyazili had a key 3-pointer with just under seven minutes to play and finished with eight points, and also had a stretch defending Payton in the final minutes. Akyazili entered the game tied for second in the league in Pac-12 games in assist-to-turnover ratio, and he finished with three assists and just one turnover against OSU.

Collier, meanwhile, finished with five of CU's 12 assists and had just two turnovers and Josh Fortune had 12 points.

BOULDER — Tad Boyle and his Buffaloes have been looking for a signature win all season.

Sunday evening, they produced one. Josh Scott scored 17 points and grabbed 11 rebounds for his fourth consecutive double-double, CU's bench tossed in 45 points — tying a season-high — and the Buffs hit their free throws down the stretch for a 91-87 win over Oregon.

The Buffs improved to 14-4 overall and 3-2 in Pac-12 play while the Ducks emerged with the same marks.

While the Ducks aren't currently ranked in the nation's top 25 in either poll, they've been included at different junctures of the season, and were receiving votes last week. Even more importantly, they entered Sunday's game with a No. 7 NCAA RPI, a ranking that means far more than national polls when it comes to the NCAA Tournament Selection committee.

"A big-time win for our program against a very, very quality team," Boyle said. "When you put this one in the win column you feel like you've done something. I told our guys I don't think we've beaten a bona fide, legitimate NCAA Tournament team yet, but tonight we did."

It didn't come easily. The Buffs led for most of the first half, but every time they threatened to build anything resembling a comfortable cushion, the Ducks bounced back, and CU led by just five, 46-41, at the half.

Oregon then put together an 11-0 run early in the second half to take the lead, and while the Buffs managed to slip back ahead, it set the stage for a see-saw second half in a game that featured 15 lead changes and seven ties, including a 78-78 score with just more than three minutes remaining. Not until Tre'Shaun Fletcher and Xavier Talton hit free throws in the final 10 seconds did CU have the win in hand.

Fletcher's 14 points and Talton's 13, along with 13 from Tory Miller, were a big part of the Buffs' bench production. The Buffs also received a solid effort on both ends of the floor from guard Thomas Akyazili, who had six points, three rebounds and three assists. Akyazili, Talton, Fletcher and starting point guard-Dominique Collier were all on the floor together with Scott down the stretch as the Buffs needed solid defense and ball security, which they produced.

The Buffs broke the 78-78 tie with 3:11 remaining on a pair of Fletcher free throws, then bumped the margin up to four when Fletcher scrambled for a loose ball and laid it in for an 82-78 lead. Colorado increased to 85-79 seconds later when Akyazili dished a beautiful pass to Scott, who laid it in and then added a free throw.

But the Ducks wouldn't go away. Oregon cut the lead to three on a Tyler Dorsey 3-pointer before Collier hit one of two free throws to make it a two-possession game again. Fletcher then forced a turnover on Oregon's ensuing inbounds play, was fouled and hit one of two free throws with 27 seconds left to bump CU's lead back to five, 87-82.

Casey Benson hit two free throws for the Ducks to cut the CU lead back to three, but Fletcher hit two more free throws with 8.5 on the clock, and after another Dorsey 3-pointer with 3.4 seconds left, Talton finally iced the game with two free throws at the 2.2-second mark.

Fletcher scored seven of his 14 points in the final three minutes, and also had a big rebound and forced turnover in the stretch. It was a stark turnaround from his zero-point, zero-rebound and three-turnover effort against Oregon State four nights earlier.

Talton also bounced back from a sub-par effort on the three-game CU homestand. After a scoreless game against Utah and two points against OSU, he added three assists and a steal to his 13 points against the Ducks.

Along with his 12 points, Miller also had seven rebounds — a key contribution, as the Buffs were without the services of Wesley Gordon for much of the evening after Gordon suffered a thumb injury.

SEATTLE – By the time the Colorado Buffaloes settled their turnover issues, found a little bit of themselves defensively and developed a sense of urgency, time wasn't on their side.

Long, lean, athletic (and don't forget young) Washington, up by as many as 22 points in Wednesday night's second half, staved off a frantic CU rally and defeated the Buffs 95-83 at Alaska Airlines Arena.

"Tale of two halves," said disappointed CU coach Tad Boyle. "You turn it over 12 times in the first half and dig a 14-point hole then you come out and have four turnovers in the second half and handle it pretty good and score 50 points."

But the excavation had been done and CU (14-5, 3-3) found itself buried. UW's 95 points were the most surrendered by the Buffs this season, and Huskies guard Andrew Andrews' 33 points were an individual seasonal high against CU.

Up 47-33 at intermission, the Huskies (13-5, 5-1) built their lead to as many as 22 in the second half before the Buffs pulled to within seven points with 1:32 to play.

Andrews and backcourt mate Dejounte Murray combined for 50 points, with Andrews – the Pac-12's leading scorer at 26.5 ppg – getting 33 of that total. He was 16-of-17 from the free throw line.

Dominque Collier had a career scoring night featuring a career-best six 3-pointers in seven attempts. He scored 12 of his total in the second half when the Buffs were making their futile run at the Huskies.

Josh Scott tied a personal high with his fifth straight double-double (18 points, 12 rebounds) and 11th of the season. George King also scored 18 points, hitting two of his four 3-point attempts. The only other Buff to make a trey was Josh Fortune (1-of-4, 8 points) as CU finished 9-of-23 from beyond the arc.

The Huskies outrebounded the Buffs 39-34 and outscored the visitors in the paint 34-30. UW, the NCAA leader in blocked shots (6.8 a game), blocked almost everything but the door to CU's locker room. The Huskies swatted away 15 Buffs shots – the most ever by a CU opponent. Malik Dime, a 6-9 junior, had seven blocks (10 points) and 6-9 freshman Marquese Chriss had five (17 points).

The Buffs stayed with the young Huskies until the 11:51 mark of the first half, when Andrews' two free throws produced a 17-17 tie and sent UW on a 16-5 run.

During that time, CU went scoreless for 3:12 and Scott picked up his second foul and went to the bench with 6:56 left in the half. After the Huskies' run the Buffs trailed 33-22, but a pair of back-to-back treys by King and Collier cut their deficit to 35-28.

That surge was snuffed quickly, though, as UW outscored CU 12-5 over the half's final 4 minutes and led 47-33 at intermission.

The Buffs' ball security – or lack thereof – was of little help. Their 12 first-half turnovers offered the Huskies 16 points, while UW's eight turnovers were converted into only five points by CU. The Buffs finished with 16 turnovers, the Huskies with 14.

With Chriss accounting for seven consecutive points and Murray and Andrews connecting on consecutive 3-pointers, the Huskies increased their lead to 20 – 62-42 – before the last half was 5 minutes old.

When Collier canned back-to-back treys, the Buffs fashioned a 10-0 spurt near the half's halfway point and cut the Huskies lead to 71-59. But the rally faded after Andrews and David Crisp hit 3-pointers and Andrews added another jumper just inside the arc.

CU crept to within seven (87-80) with 1:32 to play – the Buffs' first single-digit deficit since 37-28 – on a runner in the lane by King. But the Huskies put the game away at the free throw line.

At the end, Boyle bemoaned the Buffs' lack of consistency – both individually and as a team. Defense and rebounding, his program's cornerstones, were drifted in and out, and he also cited the dozen first-half turnovers dropping to four in the second half.

PULLMAN, Wash. – The Colorado Buffaloes got their Pacific Northwest split here Saturday night, but nothing about it was easy. CU held off embattled Washington State and escaped with a 75-70 Pac-12 Conference win.

The Buffs (14-5, 3-3) made 6-of-6 free throws in the final 1:06, two each by Josh Fortune, Xavier Talton and George King to deal the Cougars (9-10, 1-6) their fifth consecutive loss.

WSU had pulled to 71-70 before Talton's and King's trips to the line.

The Buffs finished 22-of-26 at the line, the Cougars 16-of-27.

King led CU with 22 points and Josh Scott added 11. They were the only two Buffs in double figures. Scott, who missed almost half of the opening half with foul problems, was two rebounds short of his sixth consecutive double-double.

Ike Iroegbu scored 27 points, Connor Clifford 18 and Josh Hawkinson 12 for the Cougars. Hawkinson also collected 10 rebounds.

The Buffs led by as many as 13 points in the first half, but went to their locker room at intermission up 39-32.

CU's first half was mostly solid, particularly in protecting the ball. They didn't commit their first turnover until the 6:45 mark and didn't commit another – a night-and-day turnaround from Wednesday night when they turned it over a dozen times in the first 20 minutes (16 for the night).

Boyle wanted the Buffs to attack and dictate against Washington, but that didn't happen. Against WSU, that plan fell into place. Crisp ball movement helped CU rally from an 9-3 deficit, put together a 20-2 run and never trail again in the first half.

The run featured a conventional three-point play by Wesley Gordon, another Gordon free throw and his short jumper. No other Buff had more than two points in the surge.

Gordon finished the half with 8 points – 5 fewer than King, who went 3-of-3 from beyond the arc and 2-of-2 from the free throw line. As a team, the Buffs were 10-for-13 from the line, while the Cougars struggled (5-of-12).

Most of CU's productivity was done minus Scott, who was whistled for his second foul with 10:12 before halftime, went to the bench and didn't return until the second half. He hit his only first-half field goal attempt, collected three rebounds and one assist.

Scott quickly made up for his bench time, opening the second-half scoring with a three-point play. But the Cougars were aware of his foul situation and went repeatedly to the 7-foot Clifford, who scored 11 of his total in the first half on 5-of-5 shooting.

But he picked up his third foul – as did Gordon – in the first 3 minutes of the half and took a seat. Gordon returned and was called for No. 4 with 13 minutes left.

Meanwhile, the Cougars kept the pressure on. They pulled to within 47-44 – the closest they'd been since 12-11 – with 15:39 to play. And when Clifford returned, he promptly converted a three-point play to cut the Buffs' lead to 51-50.

When Iroegbu hit a straightaway trey with the shot clock at 2, Wazzu had tied CU 53-53 with 11:37 remaining. One of two Hawkinson free throws half a minute later gave the Cougars their first lead – 54-53 – since 11-9.

A 7-0 run – a trey by King and in-the-paint baskets by Tory Miller and Scott – pushed the Buffs up 60-54. Another short Miller bucket and a trey by Tre'Shaun Fletcher gave CU a 65-59 advantage with 5:58 left.

But the Cougars kept scratching. They pulled to 71-70 on a Hawkinson jumper from the wing with 21 seconds to play. Talton's two free throws pushed the Buffs ahead 73-70 at the 18.7 mark, and Wazzu called a timeout with 14.8 remaining.

The Cougars might not have got the shot that was talked about at their bench. Iroegbu tried a tough 3-pointer, missed, and King's two foul shots at the other end sealed CU's win and Pacific Northwest split.

BOULDER — Tuesday afternoon, Colorado coach Tad Boyle said if wings George King and Josh Fortune are both shooting well at the same time, "we're scary good."

Wednesday evening, the Stanford Cardinal found out exactly what that means. Fortune and King both hit five 3-pointers — King finished with 23 points and Fortune finished with 21 — to lead the Buffs to a 91-75 win over Stanford before a crowd of 8,001 at the Coors Events Center.

The win improved the Buffs' record to 16-5 overall and 5-3 in the Pac-12, and accomplished part of what Boyle and Colorado set out to do this week — provide some separation in the standings. The win keeps CU directly on the heels of league co-leaders Oregon and Washington while Stanford, one of six teams tied for third in the conference when the night began, dropped another game back to 11-8, 4-4.

The Buffs started out hot and finished the same way, shooting 68.4 percent from behind the arc (13-for-19). Fortune, who had three treys in the first four minutes of the game, opened with a 3-pointer and the Buffs never trailed. King then came off the bench to hit three threes in a row in a 10-0 CU run to give the Buffs 25-11 lead midway through the half, and by intermission, the Buffs held a 42-28 cushion.

Stanford never closed the gap to single digits again.

"Obviously a great team victory for the Buffs tonight," Boyle said. "A lot of really good individual performances, and we played well as a team. ... We talked Monday in practice about this being a week of separation, and we have to continue that on Sunday (vs. Cal). We can't get too high off this."

But what the Buffs hope to do is build off one of their best overall performances of the season, one that came against a team that entered the game with a No. 49 NCAA RPI ranking (the Buffs started the day at No. 21).

"It's no doubt easier when we're shooting like that, especially at home," King said. "Those are our rims and we're used to shooting on them at practice. But if we can keep this up at home and then go out and do it on the road … yeah, we could be scary good."

The Buffs were certainly balanced against the Cardinal. Along with King and Fortune, CU also received double-figure scoring from Josh Scott (14 points) and Tory Miller (12). The Buffs also finished with a 46-38 rebounding edge, with Scott collecting eight and Miller and Xavier Talton nabbing six each.

But the number that put a big smile on Boyle's face was CU's assist total. The Buffs finished with 21, by far their best effort in that department in eight Pac-12 games.

"When you have 21 assists on 27 baskets, know you're sharing the ball," Boyle said. "When both those guys are making threes, we're going to be tough to beat."

But maybe the biggest assist of the game came midway through the second half on a simple feed from Dominique Collier, who drove inside and dumped the ball off to Scott for an easy layup. Scott's basket and ensuing free throw halted a 13-0 Stanford run that had narrowed a 23-point CU lead down to 10. Collier then hit four consecutive free throws and a King 3-pointer capped a 10-0 CU run to bump the edge back to 20, and the Cardinal never threatened again.

"That was a huge play," Stanford coach Johnny Dawkins said. "We had some momentum, we had a little rhythm going. That young man, Collier, made a nice play, had a lot of poise, and found Scott at the basket."

The Buffs shooting effort couldn't have come at a better time. Scott, Boyle said, wasn't feeling good before the game. While he never said anything to Boyle, CU's coach said, "You could just tell in shootaround he wasn't himself."

But, Boyle added, "He battled and George King and Josh Fortune were the recipients of Josh making some really unselfish plays. He had four assists and one turnover."

BOULDER — Minutes after the Colorado Buffaloes had walked off the Coors Events Center floor with a 70-62 win over Cal on Sunday, Tad Boyle drew a deep breath and said, "We don't make it easy on ourselves."

Indeed, the Buffs started off horribly, rallied to build a 17-point second-half lead — and then allowed what had the potential for a runaway to melt into a nail-biter over the final two minutes of the game.

But in the end, the Buffs once again managed to make the plays that made the difference. The win — their third in a row and fifth in their last six games — improved their record to 17-5 overall and 6-3 in Pac-12 play while the Bears dropped to 14-8, 4-5. The victory also kept the Buffs in no worse than a tie for second place in the conference standings.

After coming back from a nightmarish 1-for-19 start from the field, the Buffs rallied to build a 14-point lead at the half, 37-23. They extended the cushion to 17 at two different junctures in the second half, the latest coming at the 14:34 mark when a Josh Fortune baseline drive pushed CU's lead to 48-31.

But instead of calling it a day, the Bears began a comeback that saw them close the gap to five with 4:20 still remaining when freshman Ivan Rabb converted an offensive rebound into a bucket.

The Bears, though, never got closer. CU senior Josh Scott — who scored 10 points of CU's final 17 points — kept Cal at bay, hitting six free throws in the final four minutes, including a pair with just 18.5 seconds left to seal the win.

Scott finished with 18 points, while Dominique Collier added 14 - including two free throws with 29 seconds left - and George King chipped in 13.

But it was senior reserve guard Xavier Talton who turned in what Boyle called "the play of the game."

With 45 seconds left, Cal had cut CU's lead to five again and had the ball. Talton, however, knocked down a Sam Singer pass near midcourt, gained possession and was fouled. He hit one of two free throws to give CU a six-point cushion and the Bears never came closer again.

The Buffs also made it difficult on themselves from the free throw line. CU missed eight free throws in the final nine minutes, including the front end of two one-and-ones. But, the Buffs did hit their last five, enough to preserve the win.

Early in the game, it looked as if the Buffs weren't going to make anything. CU hit just one of its first 19 field goal tries while the Bears hit four of their first eight and six of their first 14. CU didn't score until the 14:43 mark of the half, and three minutes later, CU trailed 12-3.

But just when the biggest Events Center crowd of the season (9,423) began to get restless, the Buffs flipped the switch. CU increased its defensive pressure, started to force Cal turnovers — and began to make shots. The Buffs hit 12 of their last 17 field goal tries of the half and outscored the Bears 34-11 over the final 12 minutes to take a 37-23 lead into the locker room at intermission.

Scott certainly didn't have his best night from the field, hitting just five of 17 attempts. But he did have two big assists in the first-half comeback — one to Collier and one to Talton — that resulted in 3-pointers, and he also had the big plays down the stretch that kept the Bears at arm's length.

CU's first-half comeback required contributions from virtually everyone.

Thomas Akyazili started the 34-11 run by chasing down a loose ball, connecting on a scoop layup underneath and then adding a free throw. Collier and Talton then both connected on 3-pointers — with Scott getting the assist on each — and Collier added a layup.

Talton's 3-pointer started a 12-0 CU run that gave the Buffs a lead they would never relinquish. Colorado took a 16-15 lead at the 6:49 mark on a pair of Scott free throws before Tory Miller added an offensive rebound and jam. Cal momentarily stopped the run with a Jabari Bird 3-pointer, but CU came back to outscore the Bears 16-5 — including eight straight points from King — over the last five minutes of the half

EUGENE, Ore. — One vs. two turned out to be very one-sided Thursday night — and when the final buzzer sounded, Colorado coach Tad Boyle minced no words about his team's 76-56 loss at Oregon.

"Tonight was the biggest game we've had all year and we laid an egg," Boyle said. "That's disappointing. … We were not good enough tonight on a big stage, the biggest game of the year. For that, we've got to live with ourselves."

Indeed, it was an opportunity the Buffs may not see again this year. They entered the game in a tie for second in the Pac-12 standings and with an opportunity to nab a share of the conference lead. But they walked out of Matthew Knight Arena with a 17-6 overall mark and a 6-4 Pac-12 record — good enough for only a tie for fourth.

Oregon, meanwhile, improved to 19-4 overall and maintained its Pac-12 lead at 8-2.

From the beginning, the Buffs struggled. They hit just three of their first 19 field goal attempts while the 16th-ranked Ducks opened up 6-for-12. But unlike last week, when CU overcame a 1-for-19 start against Cal to come back and win, they never managed to reverse the trend. CU shot poorly all night, turned the ball over with alarming frequency — particularly in the first half — and the Ducks were more than happy to take advantage.

"Going into this game there was two points of emphasis to beat the Oregon Ducks," Boyle said. "One was take care of the ball and the other was limit them to one shot."

The Buffs didn't do either. Oregon converted 14 CU turnovers into 21 points and added another 12 second-chance points off of offensive rebounds. The math added up to a 19-point halftime deficit, one the Buffs never narrowed back to single digits again.

"They had 33 points in those two categories," Boyle said. "Thirty-three and we lose by 20. Those are things we can control. We can box out. We can take care of the ball. But we get four points off their turnovers and they get 21 off ours, it's the ballgame."

Neither did the Buffs help their cause with their shooting. While they did improve slightly after their horrendous start, they still finished the night shooting just 33.8 percent from the field (22 for 65). Josh Scott led CU with 17 points, George King added 16 and Tory Miller scored 10, but the rest of the Buffs together combined for just 13 points.

Oregon, meanwhile, shot 41 percent (25-for-61) had four players in double figures, led by Elgin Cook's 18.

The game got away from the Buffs early. After a Miller tip-in pulled the Buffs to within 11-7 at the 13:30 mark of the first half, the Ducks went on a 13-0 run to take a 24-7 lead. CU never closed the gap to single digits again the rest of the night.

Unlike their first meeting, when the Buffs dominated the boards, the Ducks beat the Buffs to the punch on both ends of the floor. While CU ended up winning the rebound battle, 42-38, Oregon held a 19-17 rebound edge at the half, and more importantly, collected eight second-chance points before intermission. Oregon also had 11 points off turnovers in the first 20 minutes.

King shot just 6-for-19 from the field, but did finish with a team-high eight rebounds. Josh Fortune finished with only five points and had five of the Buffs' 14 turnovers and Tre'Shaun Fletcher had three.

"The kind of turnovers we had — lazy passing, bad footwork, just ridiculous turnovers for this time of year," Boyle said. "I know we're not going to have zero. But you cut those numbers in half and we're right in the ballgame."

After trailing by 19 at the half, CU managed to narrow the gap to 10 midway through the half when a King 3-pointer narrowed Oregon's lead to 50-40. The Ducks, though, answered with a 7-0 run and the Buffs never seriously threatened again.

CORVALLIS, Ore. — After a horrendous first half, the Colorado Buffaloes still gave themselves a chance to win Saturday.

But after rallying from an 11-point halftime deficit to take the lead late in the game, they couldn't hold the edge and Oregon State claimed a 60-56 win.

The difference in the game was simple to deduce: the Buffs turned the ball over 24 times — 13 in the first half — and the Beavers were more than happy to convert those miscues into 21 points.

"The first half — that's when we lost the game," said CU head coach Tad Boyle, who watched his team drop to 17-7 overall and 6-5 in Pac-12 play. "You don't turn the ball over 24 times and win."

That the Buffs were even in the game down the stretch was a minor miracle, especially after losing senior Josh Scott to an ankle injury late in the first half. Throw in the fact that CU got just two points — total — from their two leading scorers (Scott and George King), and it made CU's second-half comeback even harder to fathom.

But in the end, the comeback wasn't enough to secure a win.

After trailing 30-19 at the half, the Buffs battled back to take a 52-50 lead with just under four minutes to play. But the Beavers regained the lead, then hit five free throws in the final minute to secure the win.

Xavier Talton hit a 3-pointer just before the shot clock expired with 1:52 remaining to pull the Buffs into a 55-55 tie. CU then regained possession after an OSU miss with 1:13 on the clock but couldn't convert.

The Beavers then got a pair of free throws from Stephen Thompson with 28.3 remaining to take a 57-55 lead. King drove to the bucket on CU's final possession and was fouled at the 14.8 mark, but he missed the first and made the second and the Buffs trailed 57-56.

The Buffs had one more chance when Thompson missed the second of two free throws with 14 seconds left, but CU failed to corral the rebound. Gary Payton II then hit two free throws with 11.2 remaining to seal the Buffs' fate.

Tre'Shaun Fletcher led the Buffs with 15 points and Wesley Gordon added 13. Gordon also had 11 rebounds, his second double-double against the Beavers this season.

Talton — who earned his first start of the season — opened the second half with a pair of 3-pointers to spark a 12-3 run that pulled the Buffs to within two. CU finally gained its first lead since early in the game on a Fletcher 3-pointer with 9:56 to go in the game, 38-36.

Fletcher's 3-pointer came after he had stolen the ball following an OSU miss. The play was indicative of a host of second-effort plays that were missing from the Buffs' first-half performance. Seconds after Fletcher's bucket, Talton saved a ball from going out of bounds and flicked it to Fletcher, who then dished to Wesley Gordon for a bucket for a 40-39 CU lead.

That set the stage for a see-saw final five minutes.

Colorado's turnover issues hit a new high — or low, depending upon the point of view — in the first half. In the first 20 minutes, the Buffs committed 13 turnovers, which the Beavers gladly converted into 16 points. CU, meanwhile, forced just four turnovers for two points.

Poor shooting also haunted the Buffs again. CU hit just 31 percent of its field goal tries (8 for 26), and entered the locker room trailing 30-19. The Beavers shot just 35.5 percent (11 for 31), but three of those field goals were 3-pointers while the Buffs managed just one from beyond the arc.

Three different Buffs had at least two turnovers in the opening 20 minutes, with Dominique Collier totaling four, Josh Fortune three and Gordon two. Collier's four turnovers were one more than he had in the previous four games combined.

BOULDER — With the Colorado Buffaloes' NCAA Tournament hopes ostensibly teetering on the brink Thursday night, a George King buzzer beater at the end of overtime gave the Buffs new life.

The Buffs didn't waste the opportunity. Colorado then outscored visiting Washington State 10-3 in the second extra period and the Buffs claimed a vital 88-81 win. The win improved the Buffs to 18-7 overall and 7-5 in the Pac-12 while also bumping them up into a tie for fourth in the conference standings.

Saturday, they'll have a chance to break the tie with one of those teams when Washington visits the CEC for a noon game.

"That was a big-time win for us, and we needed it," said CU head coach Tad Boyle, who watched his team scrape out the win without the services of injured big man Josh Scott (ankle). "We showed great toughness through the overtimes. We didn't play our best game, but it's a testament to how good this league is. It was a good win and we'll take it."

Truth is, the Buffs came oh-so-close to taking their third straight loss after watching a 10-point lead in the second half melt to nothing. When WSU's Que Johnson hit one of two free throws with 10.8 seconds remaining in the first overtime to give the Cougars a 78-75 lead, not many in the Coors Events Center gave the Buffs much of a chance.

But King rebounded Johnson's miss on his second free throw and dribbled the length of the floor. He angled to the right wing and with WSU's 6-10 Josh Hawkinson in his face, launched a fadeaway jumper directly in front of CU's bench. When it swished through the net as the buzzer sounded, the bench — and the entire Coors Events Center Crowd — erupted.

"When it got halfway there, I thought 'this thing might have a chance,'" said King, who finished with 21 points and nine rebounds in 41 minutes of playing time. "He (Hawkinson) was really close. That's why I had to fade a little bit."

Given a second chance, the Buffs took care of business. Wesley Gordon scored the go-ahead bucket on a big assist from Xavier Talton with 2:05 left in the second overtime and a minute later, Gordon boosted CU's lead to 84-80 with an offensive rebound and basket.

King then grabbed a rebound of a Cougar miss on WSU's next possession and Talton sealed the win with four free throws in the final 28 seconds.

Gordon did his part in Scott's absence, finishing with a 15-point, 12-rebound double-double in 45 minutes on the floor. Talton added 13 points, five rebounds and three steals while Josh Fortune scored 11 and Thomas Akyazili had a career-high 10.

WSU's Johnson led all scorers with 25 points while Hawkinson had 18 points — 11 in the second half — and 13 rebounds.

In both meetings between the two teams this year, free throws have played a huge role. In a 75-70 CU win earlier this season, the Cougars missed 11 charity attempts. Thursday night, they missed eight, none bigger than Johnson's final miss.

While Boyle welcomed the win, he was by no means overly pleased with his team's overall effort. The Buffs allowed WSU to shoot better than 50 percent from the field (32 for 63) and also came out on the short end of the rebound battle, 40-36.

But, the Buffs did address their turnover issues. One game after committing 24 in a loss at Oregon State, they turned it over just eight times against the Cougars, with none in the two overtime periods.

The Buffs led by as many as 13 in the first half, had a nine-point cushion at the half, 41-32 and led by 10, 51-41, with 13 minutes to go.

But an 11-2 run fueled by nine points from Hawkinson closed the gap and set up a see-saw final few minutes of regulation, a stretch that saw five ties and five lead changes.

BOULDER — Not this time.

One year after falling to Washington on a buzzer-beater in Boulder, the Colorado Buffaloes dodged a repeat Saturday, holding on for an 81-80 win over the Huskies in front of the Coors Events Center's biggest crowd of the season (9,476).

It was the Buffs' second straight win without the services of injured big man Josh Scott (ankle injury), the second straight nail-biter — and the second game in a row in which the Buffs saw a double-digit lead melt away.

Thursday, the Buffs used a George King buzzer-beater at the end of the first overtime to pave the way for an 88-81, double-overtime win over Washington State.

No extra time was necessary Saturday, but it still came down to the very end. UW's Andrew Andrews — who hit the game winner against CU a year ago — just missed a jumper with 2.4 seconds left and CU clinging to its one point lead. Wesley Gordon rebounded for the Buffs, and while he missed two ensuing free throws, the Huskies tossed the ball out of bounds on the in-bounds play following a rebound and CU walked away with the win.

"We all knew the ball was going to him," said Gordon, who finished with 17 points, 13 rebounds and four blocks for his third straight double-double. "We just didn't want it to happen again. We didn't want last year, Part II."

The Buffs wouldn't have had to endure the drama if they could have protected a lead. They were up by 17 in the first half, 12 at intermission and — after the Huskies pulled to within one early in the second half — up by 15 with 7:37 to go in the game after a 24-10 run.

"This game didn't have to be as close as it was, but you have to give Washington credit," said CU coach Tad Boyle, whose team improved to 19-7 overall and 8-5 in the Pac-12. "Our defense for the most part of the game was good, but for the last 5 minutes and 11 seconds, it wasn't very good."

Still, as Boyle noted, the Buffs did enough to win, and they did it without the help Scott, their leading scorer and rebounder.

"This team has shown toughness and grit all year long," Boyle said. "That's what you have to do if you want to be where we want to be, which is in the top half of the league, competing for a championship."

The Buffs will no doubt be in the top half of the league when the Pac-12 dust settles from the weekend. Saturday's win assures that they will be in no worse than a tie for third with five conference games remaining.

The Buffs played brilliantly at times on Saturday, getting contributions from all eight pieces of their regular rotation. Along with Gordon's double-double, King chalked up his first career double-double (10 points, 10 rebounds), while Josh Fortune finished with 13 points and nine rebounds and Dominique Collier and Tre'Shaun Fletcher each scored 10.

That balance — and a whopping 55-35 edge on the boards — led to perhaps the Buffs' best first half of the year. Colorado broke an 11-11 tie early in the game with a 6-0 run and never trailed again, building the cushion to as much as 17 when back-to-back Fletcher 3-pointers gave CU a 33-16 edge.

But the Huskies did manage to narrow the gap to 12 by the half, then quickly closed CU's edge to just a single point early in the second half. Six CU turnovers in the first five minutes of the second period — the Buffs finished with 22 — helped UW close CU's lead to 48-47.

But almost as quickly as the Huskies narrowed the gap, CU once again opened up a cushion, putting together a 24-10 run. Guard Thomas Akyazili fueled the burst with nine straight points, and with less than eight minutes to play, the Buffs held a 15-point edge, 72-57.

The Huskies had one more rally in them. Andrews scored 11 of his 18 points down the stretch — including a pair of free throws with 56 seconds left for UW's final points — before missing his 14th shot of the game to preserve CU's win.

LOS ANGELES — What could have been the Colorado Buffaloes' biggest road win of the season Wednesday night instead turned into one of their most disappointing defeats.

A stunning late-game collapse saw the Buffs lose a 15-point second-half lead as Southern California rallied to snatch a 79-72 win at the Galen Center, dealing a major blow to any hopes the Buffs had of claiming a conference championship.

A win would have moved the Buffs into third place in the league standings with a game at UCLA on Saturday and a chance to be playing for the Pac-12 lead a week from now when Arizona visits Boulder.

Instead, Colorado dropped to 19-8 overall and 8-6 in the Pac-12, good enough for only a tie for fifth in the conference standings. USC, meanwhile, improved to 19-7 and 8-5, a half-game ahead of Colorado.

"We had them on the ropes," an obviously disappointed CU coach Tad Boyle said. "We had them where we wanted 'em but we weren't good enough down the stretch. I take responsibility. I'm the head coach and I've got to do a better job."

Boyle may have been ready to take the blame, but the players on the floor had a share of the responsibility in a stunning 31-10 USC run over the final eight minutes of the game.

With just under nine minutes to play, Colorado led 60-45 after a 10-2 run. With just more than eight minutes to play, the lead was still 14 after a Wesley Gordon basket gave Colorado a 62-48 lead.

But Gordon's basket proved to be CU's last field goal until a meaningless Xavier Talton 3-pointer in the final seconds. The Buffs were suddenly stonewalled by USC's zone defense and began turning the ball over to fuel Southern California's winning run. Colorado finished with 20 turnovers in the game, which the Trojans converted into 20 points — 18 of them coming in the second half.

CU, meanwhile, missed eight consecutive field goal attempts in the final eight minutes while USC hit eight of its last 11 shots.

Josh Scott returned to the lineup for the Buffs, coming off the bench to finish with 17 points and three rebounds in 23 minutes of play. George King added 13 points and nine rebounds and Gordon had 13 points and seven rebounds.

USC's Jordan McLaughlin led all scorers with 25 points — 15 in the second half and 11 in the deciding run.

With 7:30 to go in the game, the Buffs still led by 12, 64-52, after a pair of Gordon free throws. But a USC bucket, a CU turnover that led to another Trojan basket and the missed front end of two one-and-one free throw tries by CU paved the way for the USC rally. The Trojans then whittled Colorado's edge down to three, 65-62, with 4:00 on the clock and finally took the lead with 2:49 to go on a McLaughlin 3-pointer — set up by a Buffs turnover.

Colorado never came closer than three again.

After turning the ball over eight times in the first half and surging to a 37-29 lead, the Buffs committed 12 miscues after halftime. It was the third time in the last four games they have totaled at least 20 turnovers.

"We're just not mentally quite there yet on the road," Boyle said. "People always ask about why you can't win on the road … it's all between the ears. We play this game at Coors, we blow them out. We're not mentally tough enough to handle the crowd when things get loud and adversity hits."

The Buffs were in control for much of the game, making the final minutes even more painful. After falling behind early, 14-9, the Buffs put together a 9-0 run to take the lead. Scott had four points in the run,Tre'Shaun Fletcher had a 3-pointer and Thomas Akyazili had a banker off the glass.

Colorado slowly built the lead for the rest of the half, and a Talton floater just before the buzzer at intermission sent Colorado into the locker room with an eight-point edge, 37-29. It was the first time this season the Trojans had trailed at the half on their home floor.

LOS ANGELES — A Colorado Buffaloes road trip that started out on a sour note Wednesday with a loss at USC turned into a nightmare on Saturday.

The Buffs went west searching for at least one win and hopefully two on their foray into Los Angeles. Instead, UCLA sent Colorado home empty, carving out a 77-53 win over the lethargic Buffs at Pauley Pavilion. It was CU's largest margin of defeat this season, as the Buffs finished with their lowest point total and their worst shooting percentage of the year.

"Really disappointing road trip," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "We had the USC game and we gave it away, and then tonight we just roll over like a wet noodle. They opened up a can of whoop on us and they gave it to us in every way."

Now, the Buffs return to Boulder for their final two conference home games with a 19-9 overall record and an 8-7 Pac-12 mark. The team that one week ago was in position to perhaps be playing for a share of the conference lead now sits in a tie for sixth in the Pac-12 standings with just three games remaining.

Colorado fell behind early in this one and never recovered. The Buffs trailed by only five, 30-25, with 4:23 left in the first half, but the Bruins put together a quick 9-0 run with three straight 3-pointers and finished the half on a 14-3 surge to take a 44-28 lead into the locker room at intermission.

The Buffs never came closer again.

"It's a five-point game and we said, 'Guys, this last four and a half minutes is important. We've got to finish strong.' And then they come out and go on a 14-3 run. We put ourselves in a hole at halftime, then they come out in the second half and hit their first six shots."

Indeed, if the Buffs had any idea of a comeback in the second half, the Bruins methodically erased those hopes. CU's 16-point deficit grew to 24 in the first four minutes of the half on back-to-back Bruins 3-pointers and the UCLA lead stayed in the 20s for much of the rest of the game.

Colorado shot just 31 percent from the field (19-for-61) while the Bruins were 50 percent from the field (30-for-60), including an 11-for-20 night from 3-point range.

Xavier Talton led the Buffs in scoring for the first time this season, finishing with 12 points. Josh Fortune added 10 for CU and Josh Scott had nine points and 10 rebounds. UCLA had four players in double figures, led by Isaac Hamilton with 22 and Tony Parker with 16. Colorado also lost the rebound battle, 39-37.

"This stuff doesn't happen by accident," Boyle said. "UCLA executed and we didn't. We've got to be tougher than we are right now. Our toughness factor is not very good. That concerns me as a coach because that's how you have to win some games on the road, when you're not at your best, and we haven't been at our best for a while.

"We'd better figure it out, because we've got Arizona coming up and Arizona State and then at Utah."

After experiencing troubles with turnovers, the Buffs did manage to reduce that number Saturday, finishing with just 11 against the Bruins. But UCLA didn't have to worry much about defense, as the Bruins' hot shooting never let Colorado get close. In the decisive closing minutes of the first half, CU hit just three of its last 16 field goal tries while the Bruins hit 11 of their last 17.

BOULDER — In a week that began with a multitude of questions, the Colorado Buffaloes delivered a resounding answer Wednesday night, carving out a 75-72 win over No. 9 Arizona in front of a Coors Events Center crowd of 11,309.

The Buffs got 26 points and nine rebounds from Josh Scott, 14 points and seven rebounds from George King, and a very important addition to their NCAA Tournament resume´ in the process.

The win was also Colorado's first against a ranked team in its last 12 tries, and it ended a six-game losing streak at the hands of the Wildcats.

"This was an NCAA Tournament atmosphere, it was an NCAA Tournament-level game and there were two NCAA teams playing tonight," Colorado coach Tad Boyle said. "As you go into the stretch run of February, you need to show you can beat quality teams and we showed tonight that we can beat a quality team."

Indeed, while the win by no means cemented an NCAA Tournament bid for the Buffs, it no doubt went a long, long way in improving their chances. Colorado now boasts a 20-9 overall record (9-7 in the Pac-12), an NCAA RPI that will likely move back into the 20s and three wins over top-25 RPI teams.

Scott not only answered the bell, he rang it and his teammates followed, much to the joy of the third-largest CU home crowd in history.

With the Wildcats threatening to regain a lead Colorado had held since late in the first half, Scott took over with 10 minutes left in the game. After the Wildcats had narrowed an 11-point CU margin to five, Scott proceeded to score 10 of CU's ensuing 12 points — most of them coming against 7-foot Arizona center Kaleb Tarczewski. Scott's first four buckets of the run came in the paint before he delivered a 15-foot jumper with 6:34 left to give CU a 73-64 lead.

The Wildcats then had one more run in them, but the Buffs held on. Scott added another basket off an offensive rebound with 3:29 left for CU's final points of the night and a 10-point lead, and the Wildcats managed just seven more points down the stretch. When Alonzo Trier's 3-point shot at the buzzer clanged off the rim, it set off a wild Events Center celebration that included students storming the court.

Scott finished with 17 of CU's final 25 points of the game.

While Scott's night was no doubt the headline performance, the Buffs also delivered what may have been their most balanced effort of the year — and their most complete. Along with King's 14 points, CU also got 13 points from Josh Fortune and an eight-point, 12-rebound, six-assist night from Wesley Gordon.

After a see-saw first 15 minutes that saw five lead changes and four ties, the Buffs finally took the lead for good, 25-23, on a pair of Tre'Shaun Fletcher free throws with 4:45 left in the half. CU managed to extend its lead to as much as six, 33-27, on a pair of Wesley Gordon free throws, but the Wildcats closed the gap to four at the half, 37-33.

The Buffs then slowly built the lead to as much as 11 at two different junctures in the second half. King fueled a pair of runs with steals and ensuing baskets — one a 3-pointer — and a Fortune 3-pointer gave the Buffs a 59-48 lead with 12:29 to go.

Each time, though, the Wildcats had an answer, setting the stage for the frantic final few minutes.

Boyle summed up his team's effort in a quote from famed UCLA coach John Wooden.

"You need to be at your best when your best is needed," Boyle said. "And tonight was a great example of that. We needed to be our best when our best was needed and we were. We didn't play perfect but we were at our best."

BOULDER — Colorado coach Tad Boyle called Sunday's 79-69 win over Arizona State a "workmanlike" effort for the Buffs.

In that regard, it was a fitting Senior Day home finale for CU star Josh Scott. The CU senior and four-year starter put forth a microcosm of his career: a workmanlike 15-point, six-rebound, two-assist effort in what will almost certainly be his final appearance in the Coors Events Center.

The win improved the Buffs' record to 21-9 overall and 10-7 in the Pac-12. More importantly, it added another victory to their NCAA Tournament resume´. With one more regular season game remaining — Saturday's 7:30 p.m. affair at Utah — and the ensuing week's Pac-12 Tournament, the Buffs continue to build a tournament-worthy body of work.

It also marked just the third time in CU history that the Buffs have reached the 21-win mark in the regular season. The first came in 1996-97; the second in 2013-14.

For Scott and his three fellow seniors — Xavier Talton, Eli Stalzer and Brett Brady — it was an emotional afternoon, played out before 10,325, the second-largest Events Center crowd of the season. Scott in particular spent the last several weeks discussing how his final game at the Events Center would be a difficult moment, and the moment live up to the anticipation.

"I don't think there's one word that would describe it," Scott said. "It was kind of a culmination of four years here with a lot of memories, a lot of struggles and a lot of blood all put into one moment.

"It hit me when my name was announced for the last time. … I'm just glad we came out with a win, not just for me, but for the other seniors as well."

It wasn't particularly easy. The Sun Devils, still smarting from an 81-46 loss at Utah earlier in the week, put forth one of their better efforts of the Pac-12 season.

But when the opening tip went up, Scott and his teammates went to work. While they had more trouble than maybe expected in shaking the Sun Devils, they were in control for much of the afternoon. Colorado led by 14 midway through the first half, endured an ASU run that gave the Sun Devils a brief lead late in the half, and took a 38-35 edge into the locker room at intermission.

After the half, it was more of the same. The two teams traded runs, with an 8-0 ASU surge tying the game at 45-45 with 14:41 left in the game. Colorado, though, answered with an 8-0 run of its own, sparked by five straight points from Josh Fortune for a 53-45 lead, and the Buffs never trailed again. The Sun Devils managed to close the gap to three two more times down the stretch, but Colorado had an answer each time.

Fortune finished with his second straight solid game, leading CU in scoring with 17 points on 6-of-8 shooting to go with four assists and two rebounds. Tre'Shaun Fletcher added 13 for Colorado, while Dominique Collier contributed nine points and five assists and George King chipped in nine points, four rebounds and a pair of assists.

"It was a great team win," Boyle said. "It wasn't a real pretty win but I think Arizona State had a lot to do with that. Their backs are against the wall a little bit."

Offensively, it was one of the Buffs' most efficient games of the year. CU hit 52 percent of its field goal tries (25 of 48), including an 11-for-21 day from 3-point range. The Buffs also committed just eight turnovers — their second straight game with single digits in that category — and finished with a 35-25 edge on the boards.

Defensively, though, the Buffs did allow ASU to also shoot nearly 50 percent (24 of 50). Tra Holder led the Sun Devils with 16 points and Gerry Blakes added 15 — all coming in the irst half.

Now, the Buffs must figure out how to take their show on the road. Their only home loss in a 16-1 season at the Events Center was a 56-54 loss to Utah on a buzzer beater early in the Pac-12 season.

They'll have a chance to even the score on Saturday.

SALT LAKE CITY — Saturday night proved to be deja vu of the worst possible kind for the Colorado Buffaloes.

For the second time in three weeks, the Buffs let a double-digit lead on the road slip away in the final eight minutes.

This time, it was a 14-point lead in Utah that melted into thin air. The Utes put together a 19-0 run immediately after a 16-0 Colorado run late in the second half, then held on to claim a 57-55 win in the regular season finale.

The 21-10 Buffs thus finish with a 10-8 Pac-12 record, good for the fifth seed in next week's Pac-12 Tournament. They will open play Wednesday at the MGM Grand in Las Vegas in a 3:30 p.m. (Mountain Time) game against 12th seed Washington State.

Colorado swept the regular season series from Washington State, but neither game was easy. The Buffs won 75-70 in Pullman on Jan. 23, then took a heart-stopping 88-81 double overtime win in Boulder on Feb. 11.

Saturday's game was starkly reminiscent of CU's 79-72 loss at USC on Feb. 17. In that game, the Buffs saw a 15-point lead disappear in the final eight minutes.

The nightmare repeated itself at the sold-out Huntsman Center. Following a timeout after CU's 16-0 run gave the Buffs a 45-31 lead with 8:10 to go, the Utes put together a 19-0 burst that gave them a 50-45 lead with 2:27 left.

Utah's game-winning run started innocently enough when Brandon Taylor hit the first of two free throws. But the Utes rebounded the miss and Jordan Loveridge banked in a 3-pointer and the Buffs were suddenly on their heels. Loveridge added five more points in the run, bringing the crowd back into the game and Colorado had no answer.

"We stopped being aggressive, we stopped playing offense, we stopped doing all the things that we were doing the whole game," said CU's Tre'Shaun Fletcher.

The Buffs managed to close the gap to 53-52 on a Josh Fortune three-point play, but Utah answered with a pair of free throws and the Buffs missed on their next possession. The Utes then closed the game out at the foul line.

The Buffs had just 10 turnovers in the game, but four helped fuel the Utah run. "Very disappointing," said CU coach Tad Boyle. "Free throw box outs and turnovers have been our Achilles heel. Until we figure that out, it's going to continue to hurt us."

Fletcher led the Buffs with 12 points and Josh Scott added 11. Jakob Poeltl and Lorenzo Bonam each had 16 for the Utes.

Scott, however, struggled from the floor all night. He hit just three of his 13 field goal tries, a big part of CU's 30.5 percent shooting effort (13-for-59). The Buffs also lost the rebound battle, 43-42. Utah shot just 31 percent from the field (18 for 58), but made 17 of 24 free throws while the Buffs connected on 13 of their 16 tries.

The Buffs trailed for much of the first half, thanks in large part to a 7-for-32 effort from the field. The Utes, however, weren't much better — 8-for-29 — and Colorado took a 21-20 lead into the locker room at intermission when a Scott fadeaway jumper found the bottom of the net with just 14 seconds left in the half.

While the Buffs weren't shooting well overall in the first 20 minutes, they stayed close on the 3-point shooting of Fletcher. The junior wing hit three of his four 3-point tries and Xavier Talton hit one of two from behind the arc to keep the Buffs close.

The Buffs also managed to keep Poeltl in check for the most part in the first half. The Utah big man scored the Utes' first four points of the game, but added just two more free throws the rest of the half.

CU held a 28-21 edge on the boards in the first half, with Wesley Gordon collecting six rebounds and Scott five

LAS VEGAS — Tad Boyle's Colorado Buffaloes might just be saving their best for the postseason.

The true test will come Thursday against Arizona.

But Wednesday, the Buffs were definitely at their best, running away with an 80-56 win over Washington State in their Pac-12 Tournament opener. The Buffs executed their offense with efficiency, took care of the ball, rebounded and played solid defense — and did it for 40 minutes.

"The first game's always the hardest in tournament play, and you never know if your guys are going to be ready," Boyle said. "But we came out with great intensity. The biggest challenge I issued to our guys yesterday and certainly today as we prepared for this game was to play 40 minutes of defense and not have any letups, because we've had some leads evaporate in the second half."

Indeed, in their two previous game against the Cougars, the Buffs saw second-half double-digit leads disappear, including a game in Boulder that saw CU escape with a win in double overtime.

The third meeting provided no such drama. The Buffs broke open a relatively tight game late in the first half, built a 19-point lead by intermission — the largest against any Pac-12 opponent this season for CU — and steadily added to the margin for most of the second half.

Colorado improved to 22-10 with the win while Washington State lost its 17th straight game to end its season at 9-22. The victory was Boyle's 11th in conference tournament play as CU's head coach, giving him half of the Buffs' 22 total conference tournament wins in program history. The Buffs are also 6-0 in conference tournament openers under Boyle, 5-0 in the Pac-12.

George King led CU with 21 points, 17 coming in the first half, and Josh Fortune added 13. CU leading scorer Josh Scott finished with just six points, but he also had five rebounds and a team-high five assists, while Tory Miller came off the bench to add eight points and seven rebounds.

After taking a 41-22 lead at the half, the Buffs put the game away for good in the first 10 minutes of the second half. Colorado outscored WSU 20-12 to start the period and at the midway point of the half, CU's margin reached 27 points, 61-34. Freshman guard Thomas Akyazili sparked the roll with a coast-to-coast layup that finished a 7-0 CU run to open the half, then added an exclamation point with a 3-pointer that bumped CU's lead to 57-31.

Akyazili finished with seven points, three rebounds, a pair of assists, a steal and no turnovers.

The Buffs finished the game shooting 45.5 percent from the field (30-for-66), with King leading the way with a 7-for-12 afternoon. The CU sophomore hit his first shot of the game — a 3-pointer on an assist from Scott — and kept up the pace, finishing with 17 points in the first half.

The Cougars managed to keep it close for roughly 12 minutes. With 8:35 to go in the first half, they closed to within five, 21-16, on a Charles Callison free throw.

But the Buffs then put the game away for all intents and purposes, closing the half with a 20-6 run to take a 41-22 lead into the locker room at intermission. King kickstarted the burst with nine straight points in an 11-2 CU run that bumped Colorado's lead to 32-18 and the Cougars never closed to within single digits again.

CU dominated in virtually every statistical category. The Buffs held a 43-32 edge on the boards, held a commanding 37-19 edge in bench points and limited WSU to just 35 percent shooting from the field (19-for-54). The 17-10 assist-turnover differential was also the Buffs' second best effort in Pac-12 play, eclipsed only by an 18-assist, eight-turnover performance in a win over Arizona State.

LAS VEGAS — Now begins the waiting game for the Colorado Buffaloes.

Thursday afternoon, the Buffs' stay in the Pac-12 Tournament came to an abrupt end, as a furious rally down the stretch fell just short and 15th-ranked Arizona held on for an 82-78 win at the MGM Garden Arena.

Sunday, the Buffs hope the NCAA Tournament Selection Committee will see things the way most of the national "bracketologists" have seen Colorado: as a team worthy of an invitation to the NCAA's annual postseason party.

The announcement will be made late Sunday afternoon from New York. The general consensus is that 22-11 Colorado is an NCAA Tournament team with a strong RPI, strong strength of schedule and a solid list of wins over top-100 RPI teams.

Tad Boyle, though, wasn't in the mood to speculate or campaign for his team Thursday evening. Asked if he believed his team's resume´ is worthy of an NCAA berth, Boyle said, "Short answer, yes. Realistic is it doesn't matter what I think."

But later in his press conference, Boyle did reference his team's postseason chances one more time when discussing CU's four seniors.

"These four guys really deserve to finish their college career on a high note," Boyle said, "and boy, I sure hope we get that opportunity because we're a team that I don't think a lot of people are going to want to play. There's going to be a lot of good teams in this tournament, but we'll figure out if we're part of it. If we are, we'll relish the opportunity."

If the Buffs do earn an NCAA bid and play like they did in the second half Thursday, they will indeed be a tough out. CU trailed by as much as 21 in the first half and 20 in the second half before storming back late in the game to pull within five with 33 seconds to go, four with 19.3 remaining and two with just under two seconds to go.

CU ended up outscoring the Wildcats 58-45 in the final 20 minutes, and it took eight UA free throws in the final minute — including two from Gabe York with just under two seconds to play — to seal the win for Arizona.

"Obviously, we're extremely disappointed," Boyle said. "We came here to win this tournament and felt like we were in a good place mentally and physically to do that. We came up short tonight. But the one thing about our team is there is no give-up. They've got tremendous fight, tremendous resolve, and I'm really proud of the comeback we staged to get ourselves back in the game."

George King led the Buffs in scoring for the second day in a row, finishing with 22 points — 19 coming in the second half. CU senior Josh Scott recorded his 12th double-double of the season, tallying 16 points and 13 rebounds, and Josh Fortune chipped in 10.

But the Buffs couldn't quite overcome the hole they dug for themselves in the first half. CU shot shot just 25 percent from the field (8-for-31) while Arizona was a hot 48 percent (15-for-31), including 5-for-8 from 3-point range. Arizona jumped out to 13-2 lead six minutes into the game, stretched the margin to 21-8 with seven to play in the first half and held a comfortable 37-20 cushion at the half.

But to their credit, the Buffs didn't quit. After Arizona extended its lead to 20 early in the second half, Colorado began chipping away at the lead. A King basket with 6:13 to play cut the edge to 10, and the Buffs finally brought it back to single digits minutes later when a Scott offensive rebound, basket and free throw narrowed UA's lead to 64-57.

Arizona briefly rebuilt its lead to 10, but the Buffs cut the margin to seven, then five, four and two in the final minute on a King 3-pointer — but could never quite get over the hump, as the Wildcats made just enough of their free throws to hold on to the win.

CU took 45 shots in the second half compared to just 17 for the Wildcats, and finished with a 51-35 edge on the boards. Arizona, though, shot 44 free throws — 12 in the final minute — while the Buffs hit 21 of their 25 tries from the line.

Allonzo Trier led Arizona with 23 points and Ryan Anderson added 17.

DES MOINES, Iowa — A game that began with great promise for Tad Boyle's Colorado Buffaloes on Thursday ended in even greater disappointment.

In a way, it proved to be a reflection of Colorado's season. The Buffs played well early but allowed a nine-point halftime lead to slip away, and their season ended with a 74-67 loss to UConn in an NCAA South Region opener at Wells Fargo Arena.

When the Buffs were good, they were very, very good. But when they were bad, the issues that plagued them in too many key stretches this season proved to be their downfall one last time. Turnovers at the worst possible moments, missed free throws, an inability to finish when absolutely necessary and an inexplicable collapse of their usual rebounding prowess spelled the difference.

The Buffs thus ended their season with a 22-12 record. CU has been to the NCAA Tournament four times in the last five years, but the last three appearances have been one-and-done affairs.

"It's a bitter pill to swallow because we felt like we had this game in hand and we didn't finish," Boyle said. "It was a tale of two halves. Credit (the Huskies), they made their free throws and they made big threes when they had to."

Thanks to solid defense, good shooting and an expected edge on the boards, the Buffs took a 36-27 edge into the locker room at intermission. CU senior Josh Scott scored 13 of his 23 points in the first 20 minutes and had four of his 11 rebounds in the period.

"They're a good defensive team and we wanted to attack them inside," Boyle said. "We did a good job of that in the first half. We knew when we kicked it out, we had to make some plays. … We wanted to take what they gave us."

The Buffs shot 13-for-26 from the field in the first half, including 2-for-6 from 3-point range, and they held a 20-15 rebound edge.

But as was the case in several other losses away from home this year, Colorado couldn't protect the lead after halftime. It was a bug that bit the Buffs vs. SMU early in the year, at USC and Utah in the Pac-12 season — and it hit one more time in the NCAA Tournament.

The roof didn't cave immediately. CU did manage to maintain its nine-point edge for the first four minutes of the second half. But when the ceiling began to crumble, it happened in a hurry.

Immediately after Wesley Gordon missed a pair of free throws that would have bumped CU's lead to 11, the Huskies went on a 7-0 run in less than a minute, a burst fueled by a pair of CU turnovers — both of which led to easy baskets.

Colorado managed to momentarily stem the tide and briefly push its cushion back to four on baskets from Tre'Shaun Fletcher and Tory Miller, but the Huskies then responded with a 15-2 run over the next five minutes. UConn hit three 3-pointers in the burst — one of which gave the Huskies their first lead of the game — and with just under eight minutes to go, CU's nine-point halftime lead had been transformed into an 11-point deficit, 57-46.

Colorado never regained the lead.

To the Buffs credit, they did make a last run at the Huskies. With UConn leading 66-53 with just under three minutes to play, CU put together a 10-0 run that narrowed the Huskies' edge to three with a minute still left on the clock. Colorado then stole the inbounds pass after two Xavier Talton free throws — but almost as quickly as the Buffs were given a chance to tie the game or pull within one, they turned it back over. The Huskies then hit eight consecutive free throws in the final minute to clinch the win.

Scott finished his last game in a CU uniform as the game's leading scorer and rebounder with 23 points and 11 rebounds. CU, though, didn't have another player in double figures, as Gordon's nine points and nine rebounds were next.

Rodney Purvis had 19 point for UConn and Daniel Hamilton added 17.

UConn finished the game with a 22-for-23 effort from the free throw line; the Buffs were 19-for-30. Colorado also ended up losing the rebound battle, 36-33, and the Buffs were 0-for-4 from 3-point range after halftime.

2015-16 IN REVIEW

The University of Colorado finished the 2015-16 season at 22-12 overall and claimed sole possession of fifth place in the Pac-12 Conference regular season standings at 10-8. It's the fourth time in head coach Tad Boyle's tenure that Colorado has finished with at least 10 conference wins and fifth time in six seasons the Buffaloes have finished league play with a record of .500 or better.

Colorado reached 20 wins for the ninth time in program history and fifth in six years. The Buffaloes reached their overall win total from 2014-15 (16-18) in 13 fewer games (16-5).

Colorado advanced to postseason play, past the conference tournament, for the sixth straight season, the best stretch in program history. The Buffaloes are 16-11 in postseason games under Boyle (11-5 conference, 3-1 NIT, 1-4 NCAA, 1-1 CBI). His .593 postseason winning percentage ranks first in school history.

Boyle owns half of Colorado's all-time conference tournament wins. He is 11-5 in conference tournament action, including a 2-1 mark in Colorado's final year of the Big 12. He has led the Buffaloes to a conference semifinal or better in three of his six seasons. Boyle is also 6-0 as Colorado's head coach in first round conference tournament games.

Colorado's NCAA RPI on Selection Sunday was 35. The Pac-12, had a phenomenal season as a whole, had six teams ranked in the top 50 and 10 in the top 100. Colorado was 9-10 against NCAA RPI top 100 teams during the regular season and 4-8 against the top 50. The Pac-12 advanced seven teams to the NCAA Tournament led by conference champion Oregon, which claimed a No. 1 seed and advanced to the Elite Eight.

Colorado led the Pac-12 in free throw percentage (.734), 3-point percentage (.398), overall rebounding (42.1 rpg) and defensive boards (29.0 drpg) while ranking second in rebounding margin (+8.6) and offensive rebounds (13.1 orpg) and fourth in 3-pointers made (7.4 3mpg).

All-Pac-12 senior forward Josh Scott finished off his illustrious career by leading the Buffaloes at 16.3 points and 8.8 rebounds while hitting 53 percent from the field and 75 percent from the free throw line. He was one of 10 finalists for the 2016 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar Award given to the nation's top big man. Scott's 523 points in 2015-16 rank 21st on CU's single-season list.

Scott had 13 double-doubles, the fourth best total in the Pac-12. He had double-doubles in his final two games with 16 points and 13 rebounds in the Pac-12 quarterfinal game against Arizona and then 23 points and 11 rebounds in the NCAA Tournament against UConn. COLORADO BASKETBALL HISTORY

Over the last six years of Colorado Basketball, head coach Tad Boyle and his coaching staff, have built the Buffaloes into one of the elite Pac-12 Conference basketball programs, if not the nation.

Six years have produced six-straight postseason appearances, a school-first three consecutive NCAA Tournament berths; five 20-plus winning seasons, and a Pac-12 Conference Tournament championship. Under his tutelage, Boyle has won an impressive 130 games at CU, and his winning percentage of .619 ranks second in school history.

Very impressive for coach and a basketball program that had only four 20-plus winning seasons before his arrival during the spring of 2010.

In those short six years, CU basketball history has been re-written altogether. Boyle's success has brought ESPN College GameDay to Boulder (Feb. 22, 2014); he has won a school record 24 games in a single-season, twice; home dominance at the Coors Events Center with an 88-15 record (.854), in addition to school attendance records being broken, then re-broken a year later; and most importantly every senior that has made his final year on the Buff roster, has graduated (Boyle's staff is 21-for-21).

On the court, there have been seven all-tournament team selections; six conference first-team recipients; one Most Improved Player of the Year, two tournament most valuable players; one Pac-12 Conference Defensive Player of the Year; and one Wooden Top-20 Finalist.

Over the last six years, three student-athletes have left the program to pursue the next step of their basketball endeavors. Spencer Dinwiddie left school after his junior year (2013-14), where he was selected by Detroit in the second round of the 2014 NBA Draft (No. 38 overall); in 2012-13, Andre Roberson was selected in the first round (No. 26 overall) by Minnesota then traded to Oklahoma City, and in the 2011 draft, Alec Burks, became CU's second-ever lottery pick, selected No. 12 overall by Utah.

Rounding out the four former players who have played for Boyle while at CU is the school's all-time co-scoring leader, Cory Higgins (2,001 points). Higgins played with the Charlotte Bobcats from 2011-13.

Colorado recorded its ninth 20-win season in 2015-16, and fifth in six years while also advancing to the program's 14th NCAA Tournament. The Buffaloes won 21 regular season games, tying a school record, before finishing off the campaign at 22-12.

In 2013-14, the Buffaloes produced another banner year for the program by being seeded eighth at the NCAA Tournament, the highest seed since being the number nine in the 1997 tournament. The 23 victories were the third-most in school history and the Buffaloes' third place Pac-12 finish was the program's best in 18 years.

Attendance records fell once again as the Buffaloes drew 173,429 overall and 84,133 during the nonconference schedule.

For the first time in program history the men's basketball team had seen four-straight seasons where conference attendance exceeded 9,000 fans per game while overall season attendance reached 124,000 each year.

During the 2011-12 and 2012-13 seasons, CU basketball saw back-to-back NCAA Tournament berths for the first time in 50 years.

The Buffaloes have reached unprecedented heights in the win column. CU won a school record 24 games in each of the 2010-11 and 2011-12 seasons, with another 21 victories in 2012-13. The 69 victories were the most victories in any three-year span in school history.

Also in 2011-12, the Buffs won their first in-season tournament since the 2002-03 campaign winning the Charleston Classic that catapulted the Buffs into the national rankings for the first time since the 2005-06 season earning a No. 23 spot in the Associated Press top-25 poll. The following week, CU earned a No. 19 nod in the AP/USA Today Coaches' Polls.

It was also the first year of the Pac-12 Conference and at inaugural conference tournament, the Buffs became just the 10th team in the nation to win at least four games in four days to capture the tournament title (CU's first since winning the Big 8 title in 1968-69). CU earned its first NCAA Tournament appearance since 2002-03 when the Buffs would go on to upset No. 6 UNLV in the second round.

In CU's first year of the Pac-12, Andre Roberson (first team, all-defensive, all-tournament team), Carlon Brown (second team, tournament's most outstanding player), and Spencer Dinwiddie (freshman team) were all named to conference teams.

In year two of the conference, Roberson (first team, defensive player of the year, all-defensive team); Dinwiddie (first team) and Josh Scott (all-freshman team) all earned post-season accolades, and in CU's last year of the Big 12 Conference in 2010-11, Alec Burks (first team, Big 12 All-Tournament team), Cory Higgins (second team), Levi Knutson (co-sixth man award) were all recognized.

Although the 2012-13 season did not capture the exciting moments of another Pac-12 Tournament championship, the Buffs did see another exciting year ranking No. 1 in Pac-12 Conference-only defense (62.2 ppg.); No. 1 in Pac-12 Conference Team (all games); 3-Point Defense (32.0). They also defeated four ranked opponents, a first since 2002-03 and won three-straight road conference games for the first time since 2000-01.

The conference regular season had its ups and downs where at one point, CU could have ended the season as the number one or two seed in the tournament. However, losing three of its last four games and dropping to the No. 6 overall seed, the Buff overcame No. 12 seed Utah, 53-41 on 34.9 percent shooting on the opening night at the Staples Center in Los Angeles.

On the day two and against No. 3 seed Oregon, CU edged the Ducks, 63-62 for the second time in three meetings this season. Sophomore forward Andre Roberson put back with 13 seconds remaining and a defensive stand by senior point-guard Nate Tomlinson proved to be the difference in the one point win. In the semifinals, CU took care of No. 2 Cal, 70-59 on 59.1 percent shooting from the field in the second half. Senior guard Carlon Brown breakaway windmill dunk served as an exclamation point in the final minute of CU's victory. The play was No. 4 on SportsCenter's Top Ten plays of the day.

In the finals, the Buffs held on again for another upset, edging No. 4 seed Arizona, 53-51 after leading the Wildcats by 12 points in the second half. CU scored only three points in the last nine minutes of the game, however, Brown had a highlight reel dunk in the final minute, snapping a streak of 8:19 without a field goal. CU became the first team to win four games in Pac-12 Conference Tournament history, and just the 10th team from the "big six" conferences to do so since 1952. At the NCAA Tournament, the Buffs, seeded No. 11 upset No. 6 and No. 23/25 ranked UNLV in the second round, then fell to No. 3 Baylor, 80-63, two days later.

Carlon Brown was named the tournament's most outstanding player, in addition being named to the all-tournament. Andre Roberson also earned all-tournament team had a superb sophomore year becoming the first CU player to average a double-double for the entire season (11.6 ppg., 11.1 rpg.) since Stephane Pelle (2001-02; 12.8 ppg., 10.8 rpg.). Roberson also became the 12th player in school history to lead the team in rebounding in back-to-back seasons, and just the third CU player to lead the team in rebounds, blocks, and steals in the same season, duplicating that feat during his freshman season.

In addition, Roberson set the single-season rebounding record (401) breaking a 58-year old record (Burdette Haldorson, 1954-55); set the single-season defensive rebounding record (290) breaking the 225 by Shaun Vandiver (1989-90), 23 years ago; and shattered sophomore season record for most rebounds (401) topping old mark of 337 (Cliff Meely in 1968-69, 44 years ago.

Roberson ranked third nationally in rebounds per game with 11.1 and trailed the national leader (Siena's O.D. Anosike) by 1.4 rebounds per game. Roberson's third place finish is the highest finish by a CU player in rebounding was Alex Stivrins who finished sixth in the nation with an 11.7 average in the 1984-85 season. Roberson finished the season with 20 double-doubles, fifth nationally and was No. 54 nationally in blocked shots (1.86).

CU's freshman duo of Spencer Dinwiddie and Askia Booker added to their designation of the highest scoring frosh pair in CU history. Dinwiddie (360 points) and Booker (317) combined for 677 points, well outdistancing all other rookie twosomes (the only two with 250-plus points). Dinwiddie was No. 101st nationally in free throw percentage (81.6).

Attendance records also set a brand new high standard as the men's basketball team was the best ticket in town setting a number of school records, including seven sellouts; 12 of 15 home games exceeded 10,000 fans or better, in addition to season total (155,884); season average (10,392); conference total (94,371); conference average (10,486); and non-conference total (61,513). The season and non-conference total would fall in 2013-14.

The attendance surge ranked third nationally among all Division I programs for largest increased average from the previous year.

Boyle made the most of his "dream job" in his first year on the University of Colorado campus guiding the Buffaloes to a school-record 24 victories in 2010-11. In addition to setting the standard of the most successful season ever by a CU head coach, capping the season with a trip to the World's Most Famous Arena - Madison Square Garden, and a National Invitation Tournament semifinal appearance.

Named the 18th head coach in CU men's basketball history (on April 19, 2010), Boyle, 52, also etched his name among the school's great coaches becoming first head coach in 20 years to win his coaching debut; becoming the first CU coach since H.B. Lee (1950-51) to win his first two conference games in his first year, in addition to becoming the first Buff head coach since Henry Iba (1933-34) to win his first three conference games.

"This is it (my dream job), there's no doubt," Boyle said. "I remember talking with (with Maryland head coach) Mark Turgeon once when he asked me where I wanted to be in 10 years, and I said the head coach at the University of Colorado. This is a destination job. I'm humbled and honored."

From 2007-10 the program was led by Jeff Bzdelik, who came from the United States Air Force Academy, where he led the Buffaloes to a 36-58 (.383) record. His best season was his last, a 15-16 mark and 6-10 in the Big 12 in 2009-10. Over his three seasons with the Buffs, Bzdelik experienced a series of near-misses, losing 27 single-digit games, 18 of those in the Big 12. The 27 losses were an average of 4.6 points.

Entering the 2015-16 season, the Buffalo program boasts a winning record of 1,236-1,155 (.517) in 115 years of basketball being played with the 1942-44 seasons not played due to World War II.

A program first known as the Silver and Gold, won its first game back on Jan. 10, 1902 defeating State Prep School, 34-10. That game marked the beginning of what was to become an outstanding tradition of basketball at CU.

Although there have been many changes over the years from that first victory, the Silver and Gold became known as the Buffaloes in 1934, after CU students rented a buffalo calf for the final football game that year. Colorado has been a member of six conferences, joining the Rocky Mountain Conference in 1909, and then the Mountain States in 1937. The Buffs became a member of the Big Seven Conference in 1947, which became the Big Eight in 1958, and now are a member of the Big 12 Conference as teams from the Big Eight and Southwest Conferences merged in the 1996-97 season. In 2011-12, CU along with the University of Utah joined the Pac-12 Conference.

Another major change in Colorado basketball came in 1979, when the team moved into the Colorado Events/Conference Center with its spacious seating capacity of 11,076. The facility was renamed the Coors Events/Conference Center in 1990, in honor of a donation made by Coors to the campus. Many names and faces have helped make Colorado basketball special. There have been those, however, whose contributions stand out. Today, it's simply called the Coors Events Center.

A total of 18 coaches have guided the Buffs to victory, but none more so than past leaders of Forrest B. "Frosty" Cox, H.B. Lee, Russell "Sox" Walseth, Ricardo Patton, and Tad Boyle. The first coach to make a solid presence on the coaching sideline was Cox, who spent 13 years roaming the Balch Fieldhouse from 1936-50. Cox collected a 147- 89 (.623) record with his 1937-38 team reaching the championship game of the National Invitation Tournament before falling to Temple. While at the helm, Cox's teams won four Mountain States Conference (MSC) titles and he concluded his CU career with the best CU greats Jay Humphries and the late-Cliff Meely on the night when the Coors Events Center set an attendance record Dec. 5, 2012. The Buffs defeated Colorado State, 70-61 in front of 11,708 spectators.

CU IN THE HISTORY BOOKS

Colorado is just one of just 12 schools to have ever qualified for the NCAA Tournament and the National Invitation Tournament (NIT) in the same year, as the Buffaloes made dual appearances in 1940, becoming the first school to ever do that. That year, CU won the NIT and finished fourth in the NCAA West Region. The other schools that have matches this feat are: Arizona (1951), Bradley (1950), Brigham Young (1951), City College of New York (which won both tourneys in 1950), Dayton (1952), Duquesne (1952), Kentucky (1949), North Carolina State (1951), St. John's (1951 and 1952), St. Louis University (1952), and Utah (1944).

David Harrison

won-lost percentage (.623) of any CU coach of more than one season.

Some of CU basketball's finest moments were orchestrated by Lee from 1951-56. Lee took control of the CU squad in 1950, and in four short seasons he guided the Buffs to their first NCAA Tournament appearance in eight years (1953-54). During that season, the Buffaloes established themselves as a contender defeating NCAA runner-up Kansas on Feb. 2 (70-62).

The following year (1954-55), CU performed a feat not familiar in present day basketball, sweeping the Jayhawks in the season series, a feat only accomplished four other times (1948-49, 1958-59, 1961-62, 1962-63). Colorado made its only trip to the Final Four falling to San Francisco in the semifinals, however redeeming themselves in the third place game, defeating Iowa. That season saw Lee's squad win a then-school-best 19 games and secure a pair of Big 7 titles (one shared). From 1957-76, basketball was under the direction of Walseth. His 261 wins are the most by any coach in school basketball history. Walseth led the Buffs to back-to-back Big Eight Conference titles in 1961-62 and 1962- 63, and both teams reached the NCAA second round before being eliminated by Cincinnati.

Walseth also engineered six Big 8 placings were his teams finished third or better in the conference, including three first place tallies (one shared). During the 1968-69 season, Walseth's team won a then-school best 21 games and during his tenure won 14 or more games in a season, 11 times. His teams also had 13 winning seasons. Today, CU now plays on the "Sox Walseth Floor" in the Coors Events Center, a tribute to Walseth's success as a Buff.

Coaches are not solely responsible for the success of each season, and the Buffs have had a wealth of outstanding talent on the hardwood in its proud past. Outstanding Buff performers range from Jack Harvey, CU's first All-American; to Burdette Haldorson, who led CU to consecutive Big Seven titles in 1953-54 and 1954-55; Cliff Meely; Scott Wedman; Jay Humphries to Chauncey Billups, CU's highest NBA Draftee (drafted third overall in the first round of the 1997 NBA Draft by the Boston Celtics).

The "Big Burd," as Haldorson was called, won the league scoring race in both championship seasons, netting 21.3 and 23.9 points per game, respectively. After CU finished third in the 1955 NCAA Tournament, Haldorson was selected to the AAU All-America team. His 13.8 rebounds per game that year is still a CU single season record. He also owns the record for most rebounds in a game, pulling down 31 in a 1952 effort against Oklahoma.

Meely became another familiar name to CU fans and opponents from 1968 to 1971. The sensational center-forward is CU's second all-time rebounder (971 boards, 12.1 avg.). In addition, Meely held a number of Big Eight scoring marks when his collegiate career ended in 1971.

Named an All-American for his performance during his senior campaign, Meely averaged of 28.0 points and hauled in 11.9 rebounds per game. His 47-point, 25-rebound outing against Oklahoma was one highlight of that milestone season. That 1971 season capped a highly successful college career for Meely, as he led the Buffs to the conference title in 1968-69.

The next Buff to make an impact was Wedman, a sharp-shooting forward from 1971-74. Wedman came to CU from Denver's Mullen High School and led the team in scoring and rebounding for two years, field goal percentage three years, and free throw percentage one year. Before leaving Colorado, Wedman was firmly established in the school record books.

His numbers have placed him sixth in rebounding (No. 10 today), seventh in scoring (No. 18 today), and eighth in field goal percentage. After enjoying a successful 12-year stint in the NBA, Wedman concluded his professional career in 1987 with the Boston Celtics.

Arguably the best and most exciting Buff of the 1980s was guard Jay Humphries from 1980-84. While running the offense, Humphries became the school's all-time assist leader (562), where he still is today and finishing fourth in scoring (1,306 points; today he's No. 14). His specialty, however, was defensive play. He finished as the Buffs' all-time leader in steals, a record he still holds today with 309 (2.8 spg.), and led the nation in hefts during the 1982-83 campaign with 115.

CU closed out the 1980s and began a new decade of Buffalo basketball with two greats, Shaun Vandiver and Stevie Wise. Both Vandiver and Wise were instrumental in the school's run through the 1991 National Invitation Tournament, CU's first postseason appearance since making the NCAA Tourney in 1969. And before it was over, the Buffaloes had played to a standing room only crowd in the Coors Events Center, cutting down the nets there after defeating Arkansas State to advance to the NIT's Final Four in New York City, and eventually finished third in the tournament.

Vandiver, a 6'10" center, a transfer to CU in 1988 after leading Hutchinson CC to the junior college national championship, worked his way up the Buff charts with an excellent shooting touch and a desire to hit the boards. He finished his three-year career as the Buffs' all-time leader in field goal percentage (.574, 750-of-1307). His 1,876 points and 962 boards, today rank fifth and fourth, respectively in school history. He currently stands third on the field goal percentage chart.

Wise too, left his mark in the CU record books. Coming to Boulder as a guard in 1987, he managed to suit up for 119 games in a Colorado uniform, the fifth-most (today tied for ninth). Like Vandiver, he too loved to shoot, and is one of the Buffs' all-time three-point specialists, holding several of CU's three-point shooting marks. Wise also finished his career as the No. 3 scorer (1,727 points) and sits in sixth today. Wise still ranks among the top nine in career minutes (4th), steals (t-4th) and assists (8th).

Donnie Boyce marked the onset of the 1990s, as the Maywood, Ill., product took CU and the Big Eight by storm. After four incredible seasons, Boyce walked away as the then-all-time leading scorer (1,995 points) in school history and led the Buffs to an NIT bid at the end of his senior season, 1994-95. He became the first of two CU Buffs (Richard Roby, 2004-08) to lead the team in scoring all four years. His 1,995 career points is now third overall.

Boyce, however, never enjoyed postseason play, as he suffered a broken leg that ended his collegiate career during CU's game with Oklahoma in the opening round of the 1995 Big Eight Tournament. Nonetheless, Boyce was drafted by the Atlanta Hawks with the 42nd pick in the second round of the 1995 NBA Draft. With numerous school records in tow, Boyce is remembered as one of the best players in CU history.

Chauncey Billups continued CU's tradition of great players as he made his mark early in his career. In only his fourth game as a freshman, Billups posted the first triple-double in CU history. His 24-point, 11-assist, 11-rebound game against George Mason was a harbinger of great things to come for the 6'3" product from George Washington High School in Denver.

As a sophomore, Billups would lead Colorado to its first NCAA appearance (1996-97) in 28 years and earn many postseason accolades, including All-Big 12 first-team honors and first-team freshman All-America kudos from Basketball Weekly and Basketball Times. In two years, Billups scored over 1,000 points (1,020), becoming the 20th player in CU history to accomplish that feat (he's 30th today).

The next great point-guard, Jaquay Walls, guided CU toward back-to-back 18 win seasons, both of which brought NIT invitations. A college transfer who made his impact immediately, Walls was named honorable mention All-Big 12 and to the All-Newcomer team in his junior season. As a senior, he was twice named Big 12 Player of the Week and had a 42-point performance against Iowa State, which became the Big 12 season high, all-time conference record, as well as the top scoring performance by a Buff at the Coors Events Center. His 15 overtime points in that game was also an NCAA record. That spring, he was selected by the Indiana Pacers in the NBA Draft.

Continuing the powerful scoring tradition, Jamahl Mosley ended a four-year CU career as the 13th highest scorer ever for the Buffs finishing with 1,171 points (22nd today). He brought many accolades to himself and the Colorado program including Academic All-Big 12 as a freshman, All-Big 12 and named to the AP's All-Improved team as a junior, and as a senior, received numerous accolades as the Buffs' veteran leader. CU saw another dominant player emerge on the Boulder campus.

Seven-footer David Harrison made his presence felt during the 2001-02 season being named to the Big 12 All-Freshman team and leading the Buffaloes in scoring (13.9 ppg.). The only other players in CU history to stand over seven feet are Frank Wilcox (1955-56) and Ben Mills (2010-14). Harrison also rewrote the CU record book in field goal percentage finishing the season with a stellar 63.8 percentage and third nationally, in addition to making his name synonymous with the CU blocked shot record lists.

Harrison set a school-record 106 swats during the 2002-03 season, shattering the previous mark of 73. He also became the first player in school history and in the Big 12 Conference to record a pair of triple-doubles (31 pts., 17 reb., 10 blocks against Stetson; 20 pts., 11 blocks, 10 rebs. versus Nebraska).

Also during this span, Stephane Pelle emerged as another dominant player in CU basketball. Pelle, a four-year standout, was the first CU player in 11 years to average a double-double during the 2001-02 campaign. Averaging 12.8 points and 10.8 rebounds per game, Pelle was named to the Big 12 All-Underrated team.

In 2002-03, CU enjoyed one its finest seasons to date, capping it off with a NCAA Tournament berth for the first time since 1996-97. With 20 victories on the season, another feat only accomplished twice before by Patton in 1996-97 (22-10) and Sox Walseth in 1968-69 (21-7), the Buffaloes also upset four nationally ranked teams – all at home for the first-time ever.

Individually, the Buffaloes received four All-Big 12 honors with Michel Morandais (second team) along with Pelle earning conference third-team. Morandais and Harrison also were named to the Big 12's specialty teams as two of the conference's most-improved players. Pelle capped his four-year career with 1,367 points and 1,054 rebounds becoming the first of two CU men's basketball players to secure both 1,000 plateaus (Andre Roberson: 2010-13: 1,012pts., 1,045 rebs.). Pelle would go on to become – and to this day – is the school's all-time leading rebounder (1,054); he's No. 10 in scoring (1,367 pts.).

During the 2003-04 campaign, CU won 18 games for the fifth time under Patton and earning its third NIT berth in eight years. More impressively, the Buffaloes won 10 conference games, the most since recording 11 back in 1996-97 and earning the number four seed at the Big 12 Tournament in Dallas. Harrison also broke the school record for blocks in a career (225) and would on go to rewrite the blocked shot record book despite playing only three years and opting for the 2004 NBA Draft (29th overall, first round, Indiana Pacers).

Other outstanding performances came from Blair Wilson breaking the CU career record for 3-pointers made (257). Earlier in the season, Wilson played "in the zone" draining six treys against Iowa State. In that game, Wilson set or tied four school records against the Cyclones making his first six 3-pointers without a miss (CU Record); tying a half record (6), tying for 3s made in a conference half, and tying consecutive

Stephane Pelle

Morandais became the 21st player in CU history to score over 1,000 points in his career. He finished seventh overall with 1,428 (today, he's ninth). Wilson reached the 1,000-point plateau and finished with 1,253 points (17th today). Harrison rounded out the 1,000-point scorers finishing with 1,317 and is now 13th (the jersey number he wore) entering the 2014-15 season.

A near upset at the Big 12 Tournament highlighted a not-so popular 14-16 record in 2004-05. After upsetting No. 6 seed Texas, 81-69 in the first round of the conference tournament, the No. 11 seed Buffaloes became the first school in the nine-year history of the Big 12 to pull off the improbable upset. CU again played beyond its expectations narrowly upsetting eventual conference champion Oklahoma State, 87-85 in the quarterfinals.

The Buffaloes saw the arrival of freshman Richard Roby in 2004-05 as he would become the first freshman since Billups (1995-96) to lead CU in scoring with 16 points per game and net over double-digits 26 times in 30 games. He would become only the fourth CU player ever to make seven 3-pointers in a game, twice (Stevie Wise made seven treys, three times).

The 2005-06 Buffaloes won 20 games for the fourth time in their history en route to the National Invitational Tournament, with 14 of those coming at the Events Center tying the 2002-03 season for the most ever up until that time. The Buffs also re-wrote the school's 3-point record for made (240) and attempts (701), and Roby became the first CU player since 2003-04 and only the fourth player since 1996-97 to be named All-Big 12 first team. CU also reached the national stage by being ranked in back-to-back ESPN/USA Today Coaches' Polls, a school first since the 1996-97 campaign.

The 2006-07 season would not be one of its best seasons to reflect on, a 7-20 record and a 3-13 mark in the Big 12, school lows since the 1993-94 campaign. Entering his final year of his contract, Patton closed out his 11th full year of coaching with a school-record eight freshmen, the most on a team at one time, since 1993-94. However, it did see some positive headlines on the court.

Roby led the team in scoring for the third-straight year (17.3 ppg.), while senior guard Dominique Coleman became the first guard since Donnie Boyce in 1994-95 to lead CU in rebounding. Coleman grabbed 185 boards and averaged 6.9 caroms a game. One of the team highlights was the upset victory over No. 12/14 Oklahoma State. It marked the fifth straight season a CU team defeated a nationally ranked opponent at home.

In 2007-08, Richard Roby set the school scoring record becoming the first male player to eclipse the 2,000-point barrier netting 2,001 points (Cory Higgins would tie the mark from 2007-11). He would go on to set numerous school records over his outstanding four-year career. The Buffaloes became the first team in Big 12 history as the No. 12 seed in its post-season tournament to beat a No. 5 seed (Baylor).

Roby became the second Buff in its history to lead the team in scoring all four years (Boyce was the other).

During the 2008-09, CU saw sophomore guard Cory Higgins become one of only 13 players nationally to lead or finish second on his team in five major statistical categories (points, rebounds, assists, steals, blocked shots). He also ranked nationally in a trio of categories (steals, FT%, scoring).

In 2009-10, the Buffs provided a duel offensive punch with Higgins and super freshman Alec Burks. Higgins, garnered his second straight All-Big 12 third team honor, while Burks performed a CU first in the Buffs Big 12 history becoming the first Boulder athlete to earn conference freshman of the year honors.

Higgins and Burks each scored 587 and 512 points, respectively becoming the first tandem to net over 500 points in the same season since the 1990-91 campaign. Burks would also lead the team in rebounding, only the second freshman since Matt Bullard (6.4, 1985-86).

Burks was also named to a number of post-season teams including the Big 12 All-Rookie Team, CollegeInsider.com All-America Freshman Team, 2009-10 Basketball Times' All-Freshman first team, CU Sports Performers of the Year (CUSPY) Male Freshman of the Year, and Sporting News Magazine All-Freshman second team.

He became the first CU freshman to surpass 500 points in a single-season (512). He ranked fourth nationally of all freshmen in points per game (17.1) and field goal percentage (53.8).

As a team, CU ranked third nationally in FT% (76.6) and for the first time led the Big 12 from the charity stripe. CU also ranked 21st nationally in 3-point percentage, 26th in FG percentage, 30th in steals. The 47.3 field goal percentage tied for 10th in school history, was also the highest from any CU team since 1989-90 (47.9) and the 409 turnovers committed, was a team low over 30 games played in a season since the stat first kept in 1977-78.

The 2010-11 saw a season unlike no other in quite some time for Buffalo Basketball. With first-year head coach Tad Boyle running the bench as the 18th coach in school history, CU also won a school-record 18 home games at the Coors Events Center and achieved their highest Big 12 finish (t-5th) since 2005-06.

Statistically, CU ranked first in the Big 12 and fifth nationally in free throw percentage (77.8). Boyle's efficient attack also ranked 12th nationally in scoring (79.6 ppg) and 19th nationally in field goal percentage (47.3).

Individually, the Buffs were led by sophomore guard Alec Burks, who subsequently left early to enter the NBA Draft, became CU's second–ever lottery pick and selected No. 12 overall by the Utah Jazz. Burks would score a single-season school record 779 points, in addition setting the school mark for most free throws made (249) and attempts (302) in a single-season. He would also become the first player at CU to score over 770 points, 240 rebounds, 100 assists in same season.

A Top-20 Wooden Award finalist and unanimous Big 12 Conference first team selection, Burks was 18th nationally in scoring with 20.5 points per game. He would also become the only Big 12 Conference player to rank in the top-12 in the conference-only games in points (20.0; 2nd), rebounds (7.6; t-3rd), and assists (2.8; 12th).

Burks also became the only second CU player in history to average over 20 points, 6 rebounds, and 2.5 assists per game for a season (20.5 ppg., 6.5 rpg., 2.9 apg.), joining Donnie Boyce, who averaged 22.4 points, 6.7 rebounds, and 4.5 assists in the 1993-94 season.

And for the first time in the 15-year Big 12 Championship history, the Buffs advanced to the conference semifinals where Burks became the first CU player to be named to the all-tourney team. Later in the season, the Grandview, Mo. native would be named to the NIT All-Tournament Team (97 points in four games, 24.3 ppg.).

Cory Higgins

The 2010-11 team was not comprised by one individual, but a cast of others who led to the Buffs success throughout the season. Cory Higgins would end his stellar four-year career tying the school mark for most points in a career (2,001) tying former teammate Richard Roby, who starred in Boulder from 2004-08. Higgins was a three-time third team conference selection, also set a number of school records also becoming the career leader in minutes (4,478), games (132, today he's second), starts (131), and single-season minutes played (1,222) set in 2010-11.

Higgins would also became the first CU player male or female to score over 2,000 points, 500 rebounds, 300 assists, and 150 steals during his collegiate career.

Sharp-shooter Levi Knutson ended his career making the fifth most treys (81) in a season during CU's NIT run. The Littleton, Colo. native set the single-season mark for 3-point efficiency (47.4 percent) and notched his name among long-range shooting greats finishing third overall in career 39.3 career percentage, and tied for sixth in treys made (129).

Andre Roberson also made his presence felt during his initial season setting the freshman rebounding (297) and blocked shot (42) records. Roberson also became the first freshman to lead any CU team in rebounds, steals (51), and blocks. The feat among the Big 12 was a rarity, as Roberson became only the fourth conference player to accomplish it. Averaging 7.8 rebounds per game (100th nationally), Roberson also tied for fifth nationally in freshman rebounding (only player with zero starts).

The 2011-12 season welcomed a new addition to the Coors Events Center since the building first opened in 1979. The brand new basketball and volleyball practice facility resides directly adjacent to the north side of Events Center. The facility is 43,000 square feet of space featuring two basketball/volleyball courts; women's basketball locker rooms; and volleyball coaches' offices costing $10.8 million, funded from private funds.

Each practice court is 11,000 square feet, and both mimic the playing surface in the Coors Events Center exactly, down to the lines and logos. The structure will match the campus architectural Charles Klauder theme, a northern Italian, rural Tuscany influence, with varicolored sandstone and red-tiled roofs to match the other 200-plus buildings on the CU-Boulder campus.

It was nine years since CU last danced in the NCAA Tournament and in one of the greatest seasons ever, then-second year head coach Tad Boyle equaled the previous season's win total (24), advanced to the NCAA Tourney third round, and won the inaugural Pac-12 Tournament championship by winning four games in four days as the No. 6 seed.

The conference regular season had its ups and downs where at one point, CU could have ended the season as the number one or two seed in the tournament. However, losing three of its last four games and dropping to the No. 6 overall seed, the Buff overcame No. 12 seed Utah, 53-41 on 34.9 percent shooting on the opening night at the Staples Center in Los Angeles.

On the day two and against No. 3 seed Oregon, CU edged the Ducks, 63-62 for the second time in three meetings this season. Sophomore forward Andre Roberson put back with 13 seconds remaining and a defensive stand by senior point-guard Nate Tomlinson proved to be the difference in the one point win. In the semifinals, CU took care of No. 2 Cal, 70-59 on 59.1 percent shooting from the field in the second half. Senior guard Carlon Brown breakaway windmill dunk served as an exclamation point in the final minute of CU's victory. The play was No. 4 on SportsCenter's Top Ten plays of the day.

In the finals, the Buffs held on again for another upset, edging No. 4 seed Arizona, 53-51 after leading the Wildcats by 12 points in the second half. CU scored only three points in the last nine minutes of the game, however, Brown had a highlight reel dunk in the final minute, snapping a streak of 8:19 without a field goal. CU became the first team to win four games in Pac-12 Conference Tournament history, and just the 10th team from the "big six" conferences to do so since 1952. At the NCAA Tournament, the Buffs, seeded No. 11 upset No. 6 and No. 23/25 ranked UNLV in the second round, then fell to No. 3 Baylor, 80-63, two days later.

Carlon Brown was named the tournament's most outstanding player, in addition being named to the all-tournament. Andre Roberson also earned all-tournament team had a superb sophomore year becoming the first CU player to average a double-double for the entire season (11.6 ppg., 11.1 rpg.) since Stephane Pelle (2001-02; 12.8 ppg., 10.8 rpg.).

Roberson also became the 12th player in school history to lead the team in rebounding in back-to-back seasons, and just the third CU player to lead the team in rebounds, blocks, and steals in the same season, duplicating that feat during his freshman season.

In addition, Roberson set the single-season rebounding record (401) breaking a 58-year old record (Burdette Haldorson, 1954-55); set the single-season defensive rebounding record (290) breaking the 225 by Shaun Vandiver (1989-90), 23 years ago; and shattered sophomore season record for most rebounds (401) topping old mark of 337 (Cliff Meely in 1968-69, 44 years ago.

Roberson ranked third nationally in rebounds per game with 11.1 and trailed the national leader (Siena's O.D. Anosike) by 1.4 rebounds per game. Roberson's third place finish is the highest finish by a CU player in rebounding was Alex Stivrins who finished sixth in the nation with an 11.7 average in the 1984-85 season. Roberson finished the season with 20 double-doubles, fifth nationally and was No. 54 nationally in blocked shots (1.86).

CU's freshman duo of Spencer Dinwiddie and Askia Booker added to their designation of the highest scoring frosh pair in CU history. Dinwiddie (360 points) and Booker (317) combined for 677 points, well outdistancing all other rookie twosomes (the only two with 250-plus points). Dinwiddie was No. 101st nationally in free throw percentage (81.6).

Austin Dufault set the school record for most games played in a career (136) and career conference games played (66).

In a review of the 2013-14 season, CU back-to-back NCAA Tournaments for the first time in 50 years (1961-62 & 1962-63) and coach Boyle became the first CU head coach since Sox Walseth to lead the Buffs to back-to-back NCAA Tournament appearances. CU won 21 games for the fifth time for a CU team has won that many games in a season, and was ranked No. 19 AP/USA Today Coaches' Poll (Nov. 26) and No. 23 in the Associated Press (Nov. 19).

The Buffaloes won the Charleston Classic Champions (first in-season tourney title since 2002-03, Pepsi Classic) with Askia Booker being named the most valuable player. A number of other CU players brought home conference hardware: Andre Roberson: Pac-12 Defensive Player of the Year, conference first team, All-Defensive team; Spencer Dinwiddie: conference first team; Josh Scott: Pac-12 Conference All-Freshman team. Scott also became the 13th freshman to average 10 or more points in his rookie year; and Roberson (11.2) finished second nationally in rebounding (behind Siena's O.D. Anosike, 11.4), however was the first player from a major BCS school to finish at the top, since 2008-09, and fourth since 1995-96.

In a review of the 2013-14 season from the opening portion of the text, CU won 23 games, the third most victories in school history; was ranked for six-straight weeks (Dec. 9-Jan. 20); the highest being No. 15. CU earned a school record third straight NCAA Tournament berth and won 10-straight games, tying for the fourth longest in history.

Josh Scott was named All-Pac-12 first team; Askia Booker was an All-Pac-12 honorable mention; and Wesley Gordon an honorable mention on All-Freshman team. Wesley Gordon finished with 41 blocks, the second-most by a freshman. The 2014-15 season was dominated by close games and a number of injuries to key players, as the Buffaloes ended the season with a disappointing 16-18 record. In games decided by nine points or less, CU went 7-10 overall compared to an astounding 15-2 during the 2013-14 season. However, it was also the fifth straight season the Buffaloes went to a post-season tournament, a quarterfinal appearance in the College Basketball Invitational (CBI). The five consecutive post-season tournaments, is a school record. CU finished Pac-12 Conference play with a 7-11 mark tying for eighth with three other schools. The Buffs defeated NCAA Sweet 16 participant UCLA and the National Invitation Tournament Champion Stanford. Despite missing eight games during conference play, Josh Scott became just one of three players in school history with over 1,000 points, 600 rebounds, 100 blocks, 60 steals (1,186 points, 692 rebounds, 110 blocks, 60 steals). Scott still led the Buffs in rebounding (8.4 rpg) and was second in points per game (14.5), blocks (46) and field goal percentage (.544). Senior guard Askia Booker, a Pac-12 second team selection, averaged a team-best 17.2 points per game. He also led the Buffs in field goals (173), 3-pointers (55), free throws made (131) and attempts (157), assists (99) and steals (44). Booker also did what no CU player has done since Chauncey Billups (1996-97), lead the team in points, assists and steals. For the second straight year, the men's basketball program sold out its season tickets allotment. Of the other 11 Pac-12 schools, only Arizona has accomplished this feat. Head Coach Tad Boyle won his 100th CU victory on Jan. 2 against UCLA. It was also the first time the Buffaloes defeated the Bruins in Pac-12 play and first time head-to-head since the 1962-63 season. Booker scored the most points by a Buff since Donnie Boyce (46 points, March. 5, 1994), when he scored 43 in CU's triple-overtime victory at USC (Jan. 29, 2015). The 43 points tied for third-most points scored in Division I. On the career list, Booker is one of three players in school history to play over 3,600 minutes, score 1600 points with 400 rebounds, 300 assists, and 140 steals.

ESPN COLLEGE GAMEDAY

ESPN's basketball rendition of College GameDay, in existence for a decade, made its first appearance at the University of Colorado, February 22, 2014.

The telecast from the Coors Events Center was a spectacle from start to finish, with the C-Unit making its presence more than apparent to the national TV audience.

For over two hours, the collective body of CU students – dubbed the C-Unit in 2004 – brought energy, costumes, and witty signs to the GameDay party as a way to kick off the day's national basketball schedule. The lead attraction was Saturday night's Pac-12 Conference game matching CU against No. 4 Arizona.

GameDay was hosted by Rece Davis and featured insights from former Notre Dame head coach Digger Phelps and former Duke star Jay Williams.

After the morning event, Davis spoke with CU athletic director Rick George and told him the "environment and the enthusiasm was right up there with the best that they have seen" for GameDay. "The crowd was attentive, they were into it, they listened to what we were saying on the show and responded accordingly," Davis said. "CU put on a great show."

Students began lining up outside the Events Center, Friday at 11 p.m. and by 5:45 a.m. Saturday there was about 300 students clamoring for their chance to be on national TV. Conditions weren't ideal (high winds and low temperatures), but that wasn't going to stop any crazed fans.

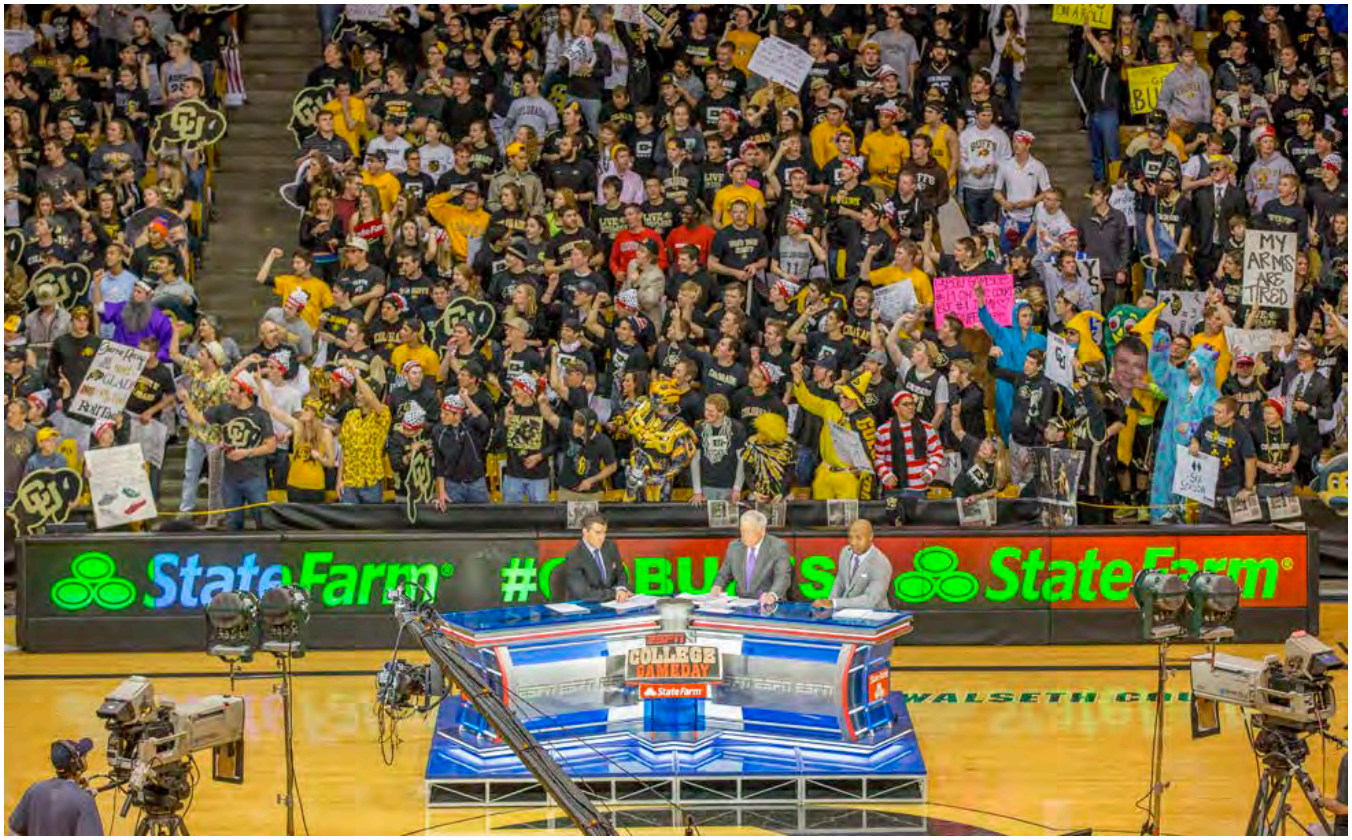

The event goes beyond students showing off their creative humor and asking parents for money via home-made signs; it provides the university a stage to tell the rest of the country what CU is all about – and the school did that Saturday.

Colorado coach Tad Boyle is also hoping to use the exposure for his own recruiting purposes as he seeks to build a national power in Boulder.

Boyle had previously said that being selected to host GameDay was, "a testament to our players, a testament to our fans, a testament to our coaches and how far this program has come."

It's no coincidence that GameDay chose to come to Boulder when the Buffaloes host the nation's fourth-ranked team. However, Saturday's event was more about CU basketball and the atmosphere that has developed at the Coors Events Center during the Boyle regime.

Arizona hosted its first GameDay event on January 28, 2012, and according to Bruce Pascoe of the Arizona Daily Star, the turnout Colorado received was comparable – if not better – than that of the Wildcats, who boast four Final Four appearances and one national championship.

Colorado is proving that its fan support belongs with some of the best in the nation and hopes to prove that its level of play belongs in the same category.

Reflecting on the days when the average attendance at the Coors Events Center was about 3,000 – compared to the nearly 10,000 this season –GameDay being on campus is a culmination of everything we could have ever envisioned when we first moved the C-Unit to behind the basket where they stand today.

"Our students showed themselves well, and their enthusiasm to be out here at six in the morning says a lot about our fans," George said. "It was awesome, you can't measure this kind of exposure."

PAC-12 TOURNAMENT CHAMPIONS

LOS ANGELES - Dust off those dancing shoes, Buffs fans. Pac-12 hoops, who's your Taddy?

The improbable, unflappable, and in the very end undeniable Colorado Buffaloes made history, outlasting Arizona 53-51 at the Staples Center to win the Pac-12 Conference tournament championship in their debut season in the expanded league.

CU is a conference tournament champion for the first time in program history and in the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 2003 after earning the Pac-12's automatic berth.

A season after being denied an NCAA Tournament berth and losing 75 percent of his offense, CU coach Tad Boyle reloaded as best he could and hoped for the best. But Boyle constructed his second season in Boulder with more determination than dreams, ultimately squeezing and coaxing every ounce of effort out of the Buffs during a taxing four-day Pac-12 run that followed a dismaying regular-season finish.

Losing three of its final four games, CU dropped from regular-season title contenders to a sixth tournament seed. No problem; rising up in L.A. was the Buffs' mission. They did it in grand - if gut-wrenching -style, and they did it the hard way, winning four games in four days.

CU (23-11) almost squandered a 12-point lead, scoring only three points in the last 9 minutes but still denying No. 4 seed Arizona (23-11) in its comeback attempt.

"Saying I'm proud of these guys is the biggest understatement I've ever made," Boyle said. "If you believe in destiny, you believe in the Colorado Buffaloes."

Freshman Spencer Dinwiddie led CU with 14 points, and senior Carlon Brown - the Buffs leading scorer in the tournament - added 13, including a dunk in the final minute that was his team's last field goal. Sophomore Andre Roberson submitted his third double-double (10 points, 11 rebounds) in four tournament games.

Brown was named the tournament MVP, highlighting a two-week run that saw him hit lows, highs and finish as high as he's ever been.

Said Boyle on Brown: "I think what you saw out of Carlon these last four games is he's a guy who put this team on his shoulders. He's been more vocal than he's been all year in timeouts, in huddles, on the floor, encouraging his teammates . . . (He) deserves the MVP of this tournament because he was big when we needed him to be big."

Brown, the only member of the CU roster to play in the NCAA Tournament (with Utah), said the late-season scoring slump he encountered finally was put behind him: "I just tried to put everything in the past, knowing I had this opportunity to be aggressive and play in this tournament . . . I just let everything go."

Roberson also was named to the all-tournament team, joining Jared Cunningham (Oregon State), Kyle Fogg (Arizona), Solomon Hill (Arizona) and Jesse Perry (Arizona). That trio led the Wildcats in scoring Saturday - Fogg with 14, Hill with 13 and Perry with 11.

Arizona coach Sean Miller was effusive in congratulating CU and Boyle: "I want to say the job that Tad Boyle has done at Colorado and what Colorado represents to the future of the Pac-12, I can make the argument that there's been no greater gift to college basketball in the Pac-12 than adding Colorado."

Miller said whoever draws CU in the NCAA Tournament "is running into a hungry, well-coached, disciplined team. I really believe that's the story of today. They beat us. They were the better team."

CU had 8- to 10-point cushions in the final 10 minutes of the previous two games and held on - barely against Oregon, handily against Cal. But could the Buffs stay composed in their biggest tournament game thus far?

Some doubt surfaced when Arizona scored five straight and cut its deficit to 50-43 on one of two free throws by Perry with 5:29 remaining. And no nerves were calmed when Tomlinson and Askia Booker both misfired badly on consecutive possessions from the same spot in the left corner.

The Wildcats capitalized on those botched trips with a layup by Hill to cap a 7-0 run and close to 50-45 with 4 minutes remaining. At the 1:41 mark, without a field goal in almost 8 minutes and seven consecutive missed shots, Boyle called a timeout.

It might not have been what Boyle had drawn up, but Roberson drove to the basket as the shot clock wound down and was fouled with 1:23 showing. He hit one of two, sending CU up 51-46.

At the other end, 22 seconds later, Perry sank two free throws, but Brown drove the lane and countered with a thunderous dunk to push the Buffs ahead 53-47 with 49 seconds to play.

CU's first trip to the NCAA Tournament in nine seasons appeared all but booked . . . but not quite. Fogg's pair of free throws at 34.5 cut CU's lead to 53-49, and Hill also converted at the other end to make the score 53-51.

Dufault, who let a pass from Tomlinson bound away from him for a turnover, also missed a pair of free throws with 14.4 to play.

"It would have been nice if we had ended the game smoother . . . if I could have knocked down a couple of free throws or caught that pass," Dufault said.

Arizona had a final chance, but Fogg's tightly contested shot with 1.4 seconds left was badly off to the left.

Continued Dufault: "We went down to the other end, and once again we just dug in defensively and got a stop."

It was done . . . CU in the Big Dance.

For the first time in 112 years of CU basketball, the three consecutive post-season appearances (2010-11 NIT semifinal, 2011-12 NCAA 3rd Round, 2012-13 NCAA 2nd Round) - are a school-first in post-season play. This was just the 10th known time in CU history that CU was perfect from the FT line and just the sixth time with 10 or more FTA.

Mar. 13, 2014 — Colorado's last three wins in March were all by the same score, 59-56, the first time that has occurred in program history, including two back-to-back (a 66-65 overtime loss is wedged in there after the first one).

2013-14 NCAA Tournament

The University of Colorado basketball team earned their third straight NCAA Tournament with an eighth seed in the South Region played in Orlando. It was CU's highest NCAA Tourney seed since the 1997 when they were ninth in the East Region. The Buffaloes won 23 games, the third most victories in school history, in fact, it was the fourth straight season CU won at least 20 or more games in a season (a school record). The team won 10-straight games during November and most of December, tying for the fourth longest streak in school history. CU was nationally ranked for six straight weeks in the AP Poll (5-straight in the Coaches' Poll) reaching its peak at No. 15 with a 14-2 record. With a 3-0 Pac-12 record, junior guard Spencer Dinwiddie suffered a season-ending ACL injury to his left knee at Washington on Jan. 12. From there, the Buffs closed the season with a 9-9 record, however still defended their home court winning five of seven games. They still managed to reach the Pac-12 Tournament semifinals and finished the conference season with a 10-8 record, tying four other schools for third place. It was CU's highest conference finish in 18 years. The faithful Buff Nation reached a record number who attended games at Coors Events Center with a school-best 173,429 spectators over the 18 home games, and of the nine non-conference home games, another school-best of 84,133 fans were in attendance.

The defending Pac-12 Tournament champions won their first six games of the season en route to being nationally ranked for the first time since the 2005-06 campaign. CU made the national tournament for the second straight season, a school-first in 50 years (since Sox Walseth). Head Coach Tad Boyle and his staff won 21 games, the third-straight season over 20 wins (a school-first) and the 69 victories over the last three years, are the most in any three-year span. The Buffs finished fifth in the conference standings and earned an at-large seed at No. 10 in the East Region falling to No. 7 Illinois, 57-49 in Austin, Texas. Andre Roberson was named Pac-12 Defensive Player of the Year as well as a first team selection. Spencer Dinwiddie led the Buffs in scoring, assists and free throw shooting, was also named to the conference first team, while Josh Scott was named to the freshman team. The fifth place conference finish was the first time since the Cliff Meely era (1968-71), the Buffs finished fifth or better in three straight years. The Buffs also set a number of attendance records including seven sellouts, 12 of 15 home games exceeding 10,000 fans, in addition to season total (155,884); season average (10,392); conference total (94,371); conference average (10,486). Over the last three years, there have been 16 sellouts with 13 wins. The Buffs would finish second Pac-12 attendance average (all games) and third in conference-only games.

It was nine years since CU last danced in the NCAA Tournament and in one of the greatest seasons ever, second year head coach Tad Boyle equaled the previous season's win total (24), advanced to the NCAA Tourney third round, and won the inaugural Pac-12 Tournament championship by winning four games in four days as the No. 6 seed. The conference regular season had its ups and downs where at one point, CU could have ended the season as the number one or two seed in the tournament. However, losing three of its last four games and dropping to the No. 6 overall seed, the Buff overcame No. 12 seed Utah, 53-41 on 34.9 percent shooting on the opening night at the Staples Center in Los Angeles. On the day two and against No. 3 seed Oregon, CU edged the Ducks, 63-62 for the second time in three meetings this season. Sophomore forward Andre Roberson put back with 13 seconds remaining and a defensive stand by senior point-guard Nate Tomlinson proved to be the difference in the one point win. In the semifinals, CU took care of No. 2 Cal, 70-59 on 59.1 percent shooting from the field in the second half. Senior guard Carlon Brown breakaway windmill dunk served as an exclamation point in the final minute of CU's victory. The play was No. 4 on SportsCenter's Top Ten plays of the day. In the finals, the Buffs held on again for another upset, edging No. 4 seed Arizona, 53-51 after leading the Wildcats by 12 points in the second half. CU scored only three points in the last nine minutes of the game, however, Brown had a highlight reel dunk in the final minute, snapping a streak of 8:19 without a field goal. CU became the first team to win four games in Pac-12 Conference Tournament history, and just the 10th team from the "big six" conferences to do so since 1952. At the NCAA Tournament, the Buffs, seeded No. 11 upset No. 6 UNLV in the second round, then fell to No. 3 Baylor, 80-63, two days later.

2002-03 NCAA Tournament

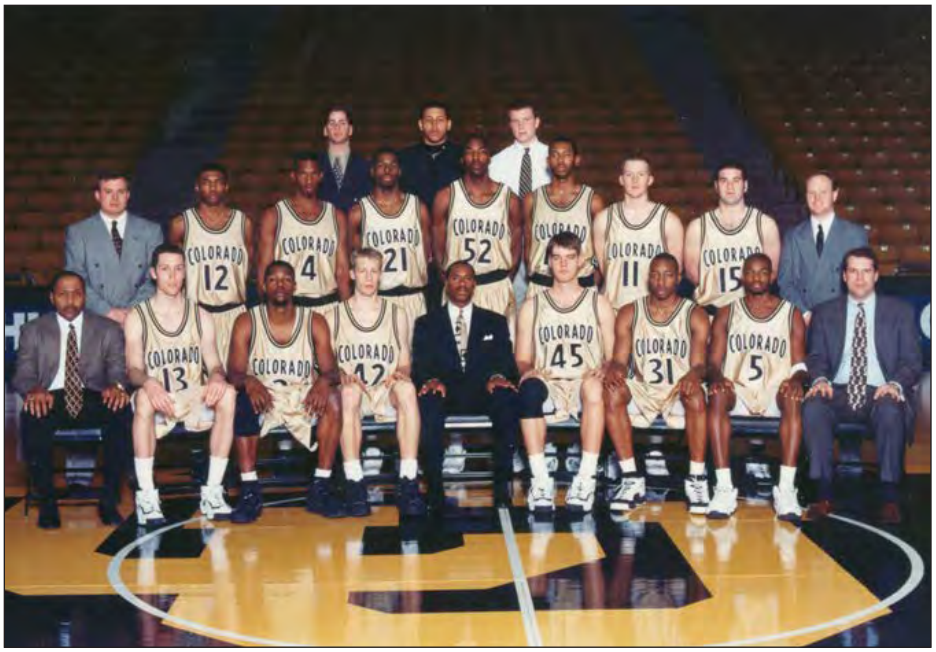

The 2002-2003 season was one of the most successful campaigns in Colorado history. Standards were set high as the team returned five of their top six scorers from a year ago. Rarely in athletic competition can a team live up to the expectations of the media, and the fans; but the Buffs were able to not only meet expectations, but surpass them. CU finished the season 20-12, the third time in school history that a 20 win season had been accomplished. That included a nearly perfect record at home, as they went 14-1 on Sox Walseth Court. The game of the year came on January 22nd when the Buffs were able to topple the #6 ranked Kansas Jayhawks; a feat not accomplished since 1991. Sophomore David Harrison had a breakout year, setting several school records. Harrison broke, and then re-broke the record for blocked shots in a game when he recorded 10 against Stetson, and then 11 at home against Nebraska. Harrison also added two triple-doubles that year against Stetson and Nebraska.

1996-97 NCAA Tournament

The Buffs were back. Not since the late 1960s had CU basketball made the NCAA tournament, or had an AP top 25 ranking. Both of those droughts ended during '96-'97 season, as Colorado made it back to the big dance. Led by sophomore phenom Chauncey Billups, the Buffs stormed to a 22-10 record. Conference play did not change their winnings ways, as they went 11-5 in the Big Twelve. The 22 wins, along with their 11 Big Twelve victories each are school records. With their stellar record, the Buffs were able to break the AP Poll and receive a #24 national ranking. This was the first time since the 1968-1969 season that CU had been ranked in the top 25. The season was highlighted by two upsets, as the Buffs were able to defeat #20 ranked Texas Tech, and then exactly one week later topple the #8 ranked Cyclones of Iowa State. Chauncey Billups turned in one of the best seasons ever by a Buffalo. Billups finished the season with 555 total points, the first time a sophomore had scored that many points since Cliff Meely put up 667 points during the '68-'69 season. Electing for the NBA draft, Billups left Colorado after his sophomore year, but not after becoming the 23rd all time scorer in school history in just two years.

1968-69 NCAA Tournament

Coming off an uninspiring 9-16 overall record the previous year, Colorado was looking for a way to get the program back on track. A 3-11 conference record had coach Sox Walseth reeling. The Buffs were in need of a spark plug; and they found it in Cliff Meely. Never in school history had a first year player given the program a jolt in the way Meely was able to do in the 1968-1969 season. The Buffs tore through the season, finishing with a 21-7 mark and an 11-4 conference schedule. That record included a perfect 11-0 on home court. The 21 wins marked at the time, a school record for wins in a season. Colorado earned a #18 national ranking for their success, the first time the Buffs were able to crack the top 25 since 1963. This success was fueled by the inspiring play of Cliff Meely. Meely finished the season with 667 points, the most ever by a sophomore and 4th all time for any class. His ability to score was complimented by superb rebounding. Meely finished the '68-'69 campaign with 337 rebounds. This mark is also the most by any sophomore, and ranks 2nd all time in CU history.

1962-63 NCAA Tournament

The 1962-1963 season opened with all eyes on the Buffs. Coming off an impressive 19 win campaign and NCAA tournament berth the year before, Colorado was receiving national attention. Coach Sox Walseth knew his team was under the microscope from the very beginning. Some critics thought a team who was not used to being in the spotlight would crumble under the pressure; these Buffaloes proved them wrong. CU stormed through the season, accumulating a 19-7 record while going 11-3 in conference play. It was the second year in a row that Colorado had gone 19-7 overall. A perfect home record and a #10 national ranking helped to keep Boulder in a basketball induced frenzy. The previous year had ended with CU having 499 wins as a program, and they seized first opportunity they had during the '62-'63 campaign to reach that milestone. December 3rd 1962 saw CU defeat Wichita State 79-69 in double overtime, the 500th win of the programs illustrious history. Senior Ken Charlton paced the Buffs in scoring for the season. En route to an All-American selection, the 5th in CU's history, Charlton put up 514 points and 214 rebounds. His point total was well above the rest of the team, outpacing the 2nd best scorer, Jim Davis, by 154 points. Charlton currently ranks 10th all time on the career scoring list.

1961-62 NCAA Tournament

A 19 win season was something the Colorado Buffaloes had seen only once in their history. The last time they won 19 games (in 1955), was the last time CU received a bid to play in the NCAA tournament. With that goal in their heads, Sox Walseth and his Buffs marched to a 19-7 record, and a near perfect 13-1 mark in conference play. The #9 ranked Buffaloes finished the regular season on a torrid pace, winning 14 of their 15 final games. The one loss was their one conference loss as well, falling at Kansas State. That span included a 12 game winning streak, as CU decimated their Big 8 opponents. The #9 national ranking was, and continues to be the highest position CU has ever had with the AP polls. Colorado scorers were paced by junior forward Ken Charlton, who finished the season with 498 points and 216 rebounds. Charlton was the only member of the team to record 400 points and 200 rebounds. One of the great storylines of the season was the play of senior forward Wilky Gilmore. Gilmore was the only member of the team to play in all 26 contests, as he accumulated 330 points and 163 rebounds. Gilmore left the program as the 2nd all time leading scorer in CU history with 1026 career points. He currently ranks 22nd.

1954-55 NCAA Tournament (FINAL FOUR)

It was a season of first for the Buffaloes. The year marked the first time in school history the Buffs were offered an invitation to the NCAA national tournament. Once they arrived, the success they had during the big dance is unmatched in school history to this day. Advancing to the national semifinals, they were eventually defeated by San Francisco. CU won the consolation game 2 days later, to finish the season as the #3 team in the country. The season also saw the first time Colorado could put the number 19 in the win column. They finished with a 19-6 overall record, going 11-1 in tournament play. Their one blemish in Big Seven play came while playing at rival Nebraska. The season opened with a bang, as CU set a school scoring record as they took down Brigham Young by a score of 88-66. Colorado had an amazing winning streak during the season, capturing 15 of 16 games spanning from December to March. A #15 national ranking was also given to the Buffs during the regular season, which marked the first time in school history that CU had broken the AP top 25 poll. The '54-'55 Buffs were blessed to have the single most dominating rebounder in the history of Colorado. Senior Burdette Haldorson tore apart record after record, many of which are still standing today. His accomplishments were highlighted by a 21 rebound effort against Oklahoma, and later a 22 rebound game against Nebraska. His season mark of 346 rebounds is still the school record, as his single season rebounds/game average. He stands 6th on the career list, with 711 rebounds. He also knew how to put the ball in the basket; his 1125 career points was the best in school history when he left. He currently stands 18th on the all time list.

1953-54 NCAA Tournament

Under the direction of coach H.B. Lee, the Buffs finished the season with a less than stellar 10-10 regular season mark. It was their inspired 10-2 Big Seven record, however, that helped the Buffs reach the NCAA tournament for the 4th time in school history. Colorado started their season losing 7 in a row. Fans and the media had already stuck the proverbial fork in the Buff's season. After a loss at home to Iowa State though, a fire was lit under the Buffs, and they went flying to finish out the season. They won 11 of their next 13 games to storm back into tournament contention. That win streak was highlighted by a home win against the defending champion Kansas Jayhawks, along with road wins against contenders Iowa State, Nebraska, and Oklahoma. At season's end, the impressive winning streak was not enough to ensure an NCAA berth. The selection was eventually made when Colorado's name was literally pulled out of a hat. Talk about luck of the draw. CU was paced by junior center Burdette Haldorson. The 6'7 center led the team with 367 points and 199 rebounds. At the time, Haldorson's average of 9 rebounds per game tied him for the all time high with Frank Gompert.

1945-46 NCAA Tournament

One of the youngest CU teams to ever make the NCAA tournament came in the 1945-1946 season. The Buffs did not have one senior to help coach Forrest Cox direct the untested youth. Thankfully for Coach Cox, and for Buffs fans, they didn't need one. Colorado battled their way to a 12-6 overall record, and a 9-3 Mountain States Conference record. The season was highlighted by a 5 game win streak during the heart of the schedule. During that span they were able to defeat conference foes Denver, Colorado State, Utah, and Brigham Young. The inexperienced Buffs were lead by center Hank Knocke. The sophomore transfer exploded out of the gates: scoring 49 points in his first four games as a Buffalo. With a sturdy 6'4 frame, Knocke was able to control the area under the basket, and maintain CU's distinction as a force to be reckoned with. Knocke's season was highlighted by two 26 point efforts; once against Utah State, and again just two weeks later against Denver. At the time, those stood as the 3rd and 4th all time single game scoring records. The Buffs ended their season with a consolation victory over the University of Baylor.

1941-42 NCAA Tournament (FINAL FOUR)

Very little could stop Colorado in their march towards their second all time appearance in the NCAA tournament. The Buffs decimated their competition, going 15-1 in the regular season. Behind the direction of head coach Forrest B. Cox, CU's explosive attack and stingy defensive work won them their first 14 games in as many attempts. The Buffs finally lost their first game of the seas on March 3rd, a 40-39 loss to conference foe Wyoming. A perfect 6-0 home record had the fans in Boulder excited; and their 9-1 away record had the rest of the nation trembling. Colorado would eventually finish their season 16-2, as they took down Kansas in the NCAA western regional semifinals. They would later bow out to Stanford in the regional finals. Their stellar play helped the Buffs capture their 4th Mountain States Conference title in 5 years. Two All-American players helped to pace CU during this dominating season: Robert Doll and Leason McCloud. Robert Doll was the big play man for the Buffs. His imposing presence down in the paint allowed him to out rebound all of his opponents. Doll would later go on to play for the Boston Celtics in the NBA. Doll was supplemented by the stellar play of McCloud. The leading scorer on the team, McCloud was seen by coach Cox as the Buffs "go to guy". McCloud's inspired 19 point performance was the turning factor in Colorado's first round victory against Kansas.

1939-1940 NCAA and NIT

Coming off of an impressive NIT tournament championship, Colorado was invited to play in the NCAA tournament for the first time in school history. Under the direction of coach Forrest Cox, the Buffs had compiled an impressive 17-2 record previous to the NCAA tournament. This included a near perfect 11-1 record in conference play, a flawless 8-0 home performance, and a mid-season 12 game winning streak. Although CU had to bow out after the first round of the tournament, they did not end the season without some hardware to show. They had earlier defeated Duquesne University for the NIT championship. A 52-37 romping of the University of Denver had given the Buffs their 3rd straight Mountain States Conference title. Colorado was lead by Jack Harvey: a two time All-American selection. Over a two year span, CU went 31-8 with Jack Harvey wearing the silver and gold. Harvey was a dominating presence in the defensive end of the court; as well as being the catalyst in an explosive fast break offense. Harvey is Colorado's only two-time All-America selection.

NIT TEAMS

2010-11 NIT Team

In Tad Boyle's first season as Colorado's head coach, the Buffs won a school-record 24 games (14 losses) in reaching the NIT semifinals at Madison Square Garden. Considered by most analysts to have been the NCAA Tournament's biggest snub, CU made the most of their NIT appearance by winning three straight games before ultimately falling to Alabama in the semis. Led by senior Cory Higgins, who tied Richard Roby for CU's all-time career scoring title (2,001 points), and All-Big 12 unanimous first team selection Alec Burks, the Buffs boasted a potent offensive attack that ranked 12th nationally in scoring (79.6 ppg) and 5th nationally in free throw percentage (77.8 percent). Burks set a CU record for most points in a season with 779, surpassing Cliff Meely's mark that stood for 40 years. The season marked the first time that the Buffs had six players record over 100 made field goals in a season (Burks 251, Higgins 200, Levi Knutson 158, Marcus Relphorde 148, Austin Dufault 104, Andre Roberson 101). Roberson set a CU freshmen record by recording 297 rebounds for the season, and also became the first freshman in school history to lead the team in rebounds, steals (51) and blocks (42). Knutson was honored with the co-Big 12 Sixth Man of the Year Award.

2005-06 NIT Team

Led by a veteran roster of 10 seniors and an All-Big 12 first team selection, in sophomore Richard Roby, the Buffs tallied a 20-10 overall record to earn the school's eighth NIT berth. Coach Ricardo Patton's club ran off to one of the best starts in the program's history, with a 10-1 record before conference play. The season marked the first time three players had made over 50 3-pointers in a season (Roby 63, Andy Osborn 53, Chris Copeland 50). CU became nationally ranked for the first time since the 1996-97 season, coming in at No. 25 team in the country by the USA Today/Coaches' Poll for two straight weeks (Jan. 30-Feb. 12), and tied the school record for home wins in a season, with 14.

Colorado won 18 games for the fifth time under coach Ricardo Patton, including 10 in conference play, the most since recording 11 back in the 1996-97 season, and earned a number four seed in the Big 12 Tournament in Dallas. The trio of David Harrison, Blair Wilson, and Michel Morandais each surpassed the 1,000 points in a career mark, en route to the Buffaloes' third NIT berth during Patton's eight years as head coach. Harrison would break the CU record for blocks in a career with a three-block performance against Utah. Harrison went on to block 85 shots during the season and after only three years in a CU uniform, would hold every blocked shot record category. Wilson also broke a bundle of records during the season, as the senior made six treys in a game against Iowa State to break or tie four school records, most notably the school record for career 3-pointers. The Buffaloes ended the year with an overtime loss in the NIT tournament to Oregon 72-77.

Standing (l-r): Marcus Hall, Jayson Obazuaye, Glean Eddy, Keith Smith, Scott Senger, Chris Copeland, Andy Osborn, David Harrison, Amadou Doumbouya, Lamar Harris, Blair Wilson, Michel Morandais, Trennis Jones, Brett Mattingly, Billy Boidock. Sitting (l-r): Michel Lasme, Manager Mark Ost, Athletic Trainer Derek Fitts, Assistant Coach Jason Shelton, Assistant Coach Paul Graham, Head Coach Ricardo Patton, Director of Operations Gerald Harris, Assistant Coach Terry Dunn, Equipment Manager Mike Smith, Manager Jackson Drieling, Antoine McGee.

1999-2000 NIT Team

The Buffaloes marched out to an 11-5 pre-conference record to start out the 1999-00 season, led by senior guard Jaquay Walls' 17-point scoring average and Jamahl Mosley and Stephane Pelle's control of the paint, with 7.1 and 6.9 rebounds per game, respectively. On December 3 in Hawaii's Rainbow Classic, Colorado defeated Gonzaga 81-77, making it the Buffs' third straight victory over 1999 NCAA Tournament teams. In what many CU fans believe to be the best game at the Coors Events Center, CU came from behind to defeat Iowa State 102-90 in overtime. Walls scored a NCAA-record 15 points in the overtime, on his way to an astounding 42-point performance. At regular season's end the Buffs were invited to play in the NIT, only to fall in the first round to Southern Illinois 92-94. The invitation marked the third time in four years the Buffs had played in post-season tournaments.

Colorado opened the 1998-99 campaign with a 9-3, where it would see five Buff players average double digits in scoring over the season. By the year's end, many Colorado players had established themselves as some of the elite in the Big 12. Junior Jaquay Walls was named to the All-Big 12 All-Underrated Team, as well as earning All-Big 12 Honorable Mention status. Senior guard Kenny Price was named to the All-Big 12 Third team, while also ranking third in the conference in points per game. Price's nine three-pointers in a Big 12 second round game against Texas would set a single game record, breaking his mark of eight from the year before. With his nine treys, Price would bring his total for the year to 97, the highest single-season total in CU history. In March, Colorado was selected to the NIT, marking the second time in three years that the Buffs made a post-season appearance. 1994-95 NIT Team

Colorado started off the 1994-95 season with a 10-3 record, including a convincing win of the Mile High Classic. The Buffs beat Eastern Washington and Hofstra by a combined 39 points for CU's fifth consecutive victory of their home tournament. On January 7 in Boulder, the Buffs ended their 16-game losing streak against ranked teams, when they defeated No. 16 Iowa State 71-57, forcing a school record 31 turnovers by the opponent. After throwing down a fast break dunk, senior guard Donnie Boyce surpassed Cliff Meely (1967-71) to become Colorado's all-time leading scorer, finishing his illustrious career with 1,995 points. Boyce remains the only Colorado player to lead his team in scoring for four consecutive years. On January 17 against Texas-San Antonio, senior Ted Allen blocked five shots to become CU's all-time leader in blocks, finishing with 53 on the year. At the season's end, Colorado qualified for the NIT, for only the second invitation to post-season play in 25 years and the first since the 1900-91 season. The Buffs finished the year with an above .500 winning percentage, for the first time since coach Joe Harrington's debut season with the team.

The inside-outside combination of Shaun Vandiver and Steve Wise led the way for the Buffaloes in the 1990-91 season, where the duo combined for an average 41 points per game. The Buffs scored a school record 124 points, twice, in pre-conference match-ups against Central Connecticut State and Tennessee State, both ending in CU victories. Colorado ended a 22-year post-season drought by receiving an invitation to play in the NIT tournament. The Buffaloes beat Michigan (71-64), Wyoming (83-75), Arkansas State (81-75), and Massachusetts (98-91) en route to a third place finish. Vandiver finished the year with a 21.2-point scoring average and 10 rebounds per game, which was good enough to earn the senior center first team All-Big Eight honors, and a spot on the NIT All-Tournament team. Colorado finished the season with a 19-14 record, the team's best in 21 seasons.

ALL-AMERICA SELECTIONS

Jack Harvey
1939 & 1940

In his back-to-back All-America campaigns, Jack Harvey led the Buffs to two conference championships and a trip to the NCAA Tournament in his senior season. During those two years, CU posted an amazing 31-8 mark and received recognition as the No. 1 team in the land. Known for his tough defense, Harvey proved to be key in numerous Buff victories. He was also an outstanding ball-handler for a big man and was a key component in the CU fast break. A solid All-Conference performer, Harvey is the only CU cager to be selected twice as an All-American

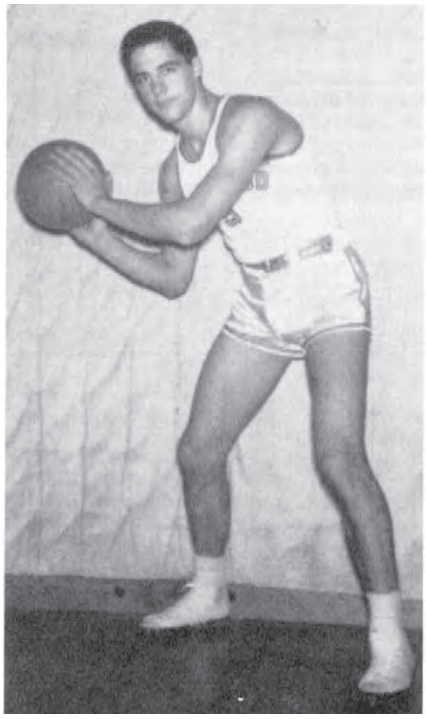

Robert Doll

Bob Doll was the big-play man for coach Frosty Cox's 1941-42 Big Seven Championship squad. Doll, along with fellow All-American Leason McCloud helped lead CU to a 16-2 record and the NCAA Western Tournament finals as a senior. He scored 168 points (9.4 ppg.) and was known as an outstanding rebounder and controlled the paint in many CU wins. He was also renowned for his shooting prowess, finishing second to McCloud in scoring. An unanimous All-Big Seven selection, Doll was selected to All-America teams by Look, Pic and Time magazines. He was also tabbed as MVP of New York's Metropolitan Tournament as a sophomore and was a huge factor in CU's three conference titles in a four-year span. After graduation, Doll went on to play for the Boston Celtics.

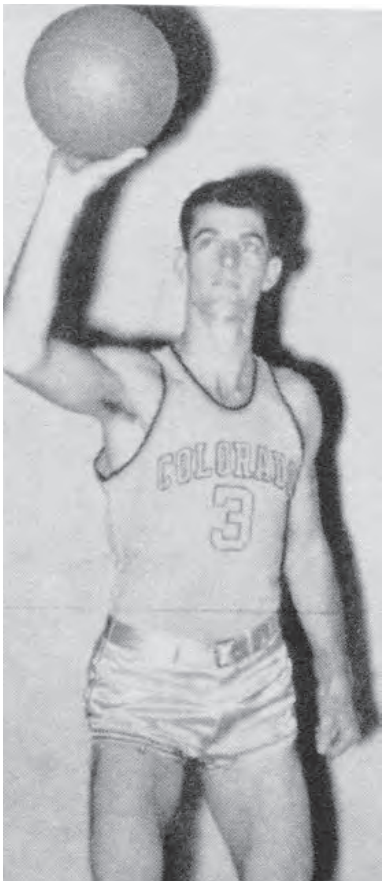

Jim Willcoxon

Known for his defense, Jim Willcoxon continued Coach Frosty Cox's tradition of talented cagers. Willcoxon helped anchor the 1937-38 and 1938-39 Big Seven Championship teams with tough play on the defensive end. He also led the Buffs to national prominence with strong showings on East Coast road trips. His hard-nosed style of play earned him both All-Big Seven and All-America honors as a senior.

Leason McCloud

The leading scorer for the 1942 Big Seven Champion Buffs, Leason McCloud was Coach Frosty Cox's "go-to guy." Known for his silky-smooth shot, McCloud was also a great passer and rebounder. McCloud was key in CU's NCAA Western Tournament semifinal win over Kansas, pacing the Buffs with 19 points. His play caught the attention of national media and he joined fellow Buff Bob Doll on the Look, Pic and Time magazines' All-America squads and was a unanimous All-Big Seven selection.

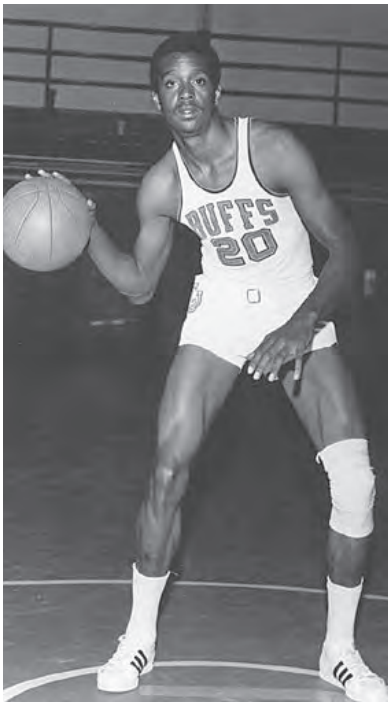

Burdette Haldorson

Burdette Haldorson was virtually unstoppable in 1955. Prior to the season, Coach H.B. Lee said, "We'll be just as good as Haldorson. We need the big man to play well for us." And play well he did, leading CU to a conference championship and a third-place finish in the National Collegiate Tournament. The big man led the Big Seven in scoring at 23.9 points per game and set what still stands as a CU record with an amazing 346 boards on the year. For his efforts, the Amateur Athletic Union tabbed Haldorson a first-team All-American. Haldorson's talents were nationally recognized, as the standout was selected to the 1956 and 1960 U.S. Olympic teams. Upon graduation, Haldorson turned down a $7,000 contract with the NBA's St. Louis franchise. He did continue playing, however, and led amateur powerhouse Phillips 66 to a National Industrial Basketball League title. Haldorson joined Cliff Meely as the only two Buffs to have their jerseys retired in 1994, and was named to the CU Hall of Fame in 1999.

Cliff Meely

In 1971, Cliff Meely was a scoring machine. He tallied a then-CU record 729 points and set a Big Eight record with 427 points in conference. He was named to several All-America teams as a junior and senior and played in numerous all-star games after graduation. Meely went on to play in over 300 games in the NBA for the Houston Rockets and the Los Angeles Lakers.

Ken Charlton

Ranking No.12 on CU's all-time scoring charts, Ken Charlton battled through a history of knee problems to lead Colorado to two Big Eight titles and in 1963, Charlton was named an All-American by the United States Basketball Writers Association and Look magazine. Along with his penchant for scoring, Charlton was also a force inside, ranking in the top 10 on the CU rebounding charts with 671 career caroms (No. 11 at CU). He also succeeded in the classroom and was named an Academic All-American in 1963 as well. Buff Coach Sox Walseth said of Charlton's play, "On a leg and a half, he's better than anyone else in the Big Eight." Charlton was elected to the CU Hall of Fame in 2010.

Chauncey Billups

One of CU's top perimeter threats in hoops history, Chauncey Billups graced the CU campus for two seasons before departing for the NBA. As a sophomore in 1997, Billups was named a first-team All-American by Basketball News, becoming the eighth All-American in Colorado history. Known for his playmaking skills and ability to penetrate, Billups also led the Buffs to their first NCAA Tournament in over two decades, where CU topped perennial-power Indiana in the opening round. Billups went on to be the third pick in the NBA draft by the Boston Celtics. In 2004, Billups helped lead the Detroit Pistons to the NBA title, in addition was named The NBA Finals Most Valuable Player.

Traded to Oklahoma City, 2013-present

After three record-breaking seasons at CU, Roberson chose to forego his senior year and enter the 2013 NBA Draft. The decision proved to be a wise one as the 6-7 power forward was selected with the 26th overall pick in the draft. Roberson left Boulder as the only CU men's basketball player with 1,000 points (1,012), 1,000 rebounds (1,045), 150 blocks (150), 150 steals (164), and 100 assists (119). He was also the first CU player to lead the team three straight years in rebounding, steals, and blocked shots. His 1,045 rebounds were only 10 boards short of the school record set by Stephane Pelle; however Pelle did so over the course of four seasons (1999-2003), while Roberson only played three seasons. Roberson's 150 blocks ranks fifth all-time at CU. In 105 career games, he tallied double-digit rebounds in 59 games, and scored in double-figures 52 times. Roberson also holds the freshman (297), sophomore (401), and junior (347) season rebounding records. Roberson helped Oklahoma City to the 2016 Western Conference Finals.

HALDORSON NAISMITH HALL OF FAME

Burdette "Burdie" Haldorson, one of the early stars in the history of the University of Colorado men's basketball program, was inducted along with his teammates from the 1960 United States Olympic team into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame. The 2010 class was inducted on August 13 in Springfield, Mass.

That 1960 team brought home the gold medal from Rome and also featured Jerry West (West Virginia), Oscar Robertson (Cincinnati), Jerry Lucas (Ohio State) and Walt Bellamy (Indiana). The 12-man squad cruised to an 8-0 record, the average winning margin a gaudy 42.4 points. The team beat Brazil, 90-63, to clinch the gold after disposing of the USSR (81-57) and host Italy (112-81) leading up to the gold medal contest.

The 1992 "Dream Team" also will be inducted, along with Karl Malone and Scottie Pippen, among others. The 1960 and 1992 squads are generally considered the top two men's basketball teams in U.S. Olympic history.

They will become the seventh and eighth teams that the Hall is inducting, the first Olympic ones, joining others that include the Harlem Globetrotters, the original Celtics, and the 1966 Texas Western team that shattered the race barrier when it beat Kentucky to win the NCAA title. Members of inducted teams go into the Hall as a full group, not as individuals.

"I don't really know that much about it yet, but it will be a real honor to go into the Hall with the group of players that was on that team," Haldorson said from his winter home in Scottsdale, Ariz. "There were 12 guys, and all but two of us went into the NBA. I was one of those two, and I had invitations to turn pro as well, but I was basically ending my career. Some of those guys were outright starts, and I really believe Jerry West and Oscar Robertson would be stars in the game today."

"I've run into Oscar and Jerry a few times, but we all really went our own directions, so most of us haven't really seen each other since we parted ways that summer," he added. "We've never had a reunion so we kind of lost track of each other, but I can't think of a better way to finally get us all together again."

Haldorson averaged 2.9 points and 4.3 rebounds per game on the '60 team, and also won a gold medal as a member of the '56 team, when he averaged 8.6 points per contest. With Haldorson as a team member, the United States went 16-0 in the two Olympic games.

Haldorson's uniform, No. 22, is one of just two retired basketball jerseys in CU history. He left quite an imprint in the school's basketball annals, and the 6-foot-7 Austin, Minn., native still holds four school rebounding records some five-plus decades after his CU playing days, including the most in a half (21), game (31) and season (346).

As a senior in 1954-55, he led the Buffs to the Big Seven Conference title by averaging 23.9 points per game, and was named a first-team All-American. CU eventually went on to finish third in the nation, losing in the Final Four to eventual champion San Francisco and the legendary Bill Russell.

He averaged 15.0 points and 9.5 rebounds for his CU career, and was the first of only eight players to this day to score at least 1,100 points and record 700 or more rebounds. He was inducted into CU's Athletic Hall of Fame in the school's second class in 1999; he previously had been inducted into the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame, the first with ties to CU's basketball programs, in 1977.

Haldorson went on to have a brilliant career in the National Industrial Basketball League as a member of the Phillips 66ers, the team entry for Phillips 66, who then hired him after his career. He then moved to Colorado Springs to form his own gas and oil distribution business. In October 2011, Haldorson was inducted into the 12th class of the Colorado Springs Hall of Fame at the Colorado Springs World Arena, and in March 2012, he was named to the Pac-12 Conference Men's Basketball Hall of Honor, recognizing former men's college basketball players and coaches who have made a significant impact to the tradition and heritage of the conference.

A three-time letterman for Sox Walseth at Colorado, he still ranks 19th all-time on CU's scoring charts with 1,251 career points (16.7 per game, which remains eighth-best for a player with 75-plus games in a Buff uniform) … At the time of his graduation, he was CU's fourth all-time leading scorer and rebounder … In 75 games, he converted 516 of 1,046 field goal attempts, a solid 49.3 percent … He twice earned All-Big Eight Conference honors, leading the Buffs in scoring as a junior (17.7 per game in 1972-73) and as a senior (20.0 in 1973-74); he was second as a sophomore with a 12.8 average in '71-72 … One of just 12 players in school history to average 20 or more points in a season … Scored a career-high 32 points against Long Beach State his senior year … Led the team in rebounds with 9.3 per game both his junior and senior campaigns, with his 684 career boards still the 11th-most ever by a player in a CU uniform (his career-high of 19 came against Nebraska his junior year) … Selected as a second-team member of the conference's all-decade team for the 1970s … Sixth overall pick in the 1974 NBA Draft by the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, he was just the second CU player in history at the time to be drafted in the first round, as well as the highest pick; to date, only Chauncey Billups has been a higher selection (third overall); he was the second pick in the '74 ABA Draft by Memphis but opted for the NBA … 13-year NBA veteran with Kansas City, Cleveland and Boston, he played in 906 games with a 13.2 career scoring average, pouring in 11,916 points; he shot 48.1 percent from floor, 79.4 percent from the free throw line and averaged 4.8 rebounds per game … Also played in 85 playoff games (with a 10.4 scoring average) … The first former Buffalo to play on an NBA championship team, he won two rings with the Celtics (1984, 1986) as he participated in all three of the classic Celtic-Los Angeles Laker NBA Finals battles in the mid-80s … A two-time NBA All-Star … Shares the mark for field goal perfection in the postseason with two others when he hit all of 11 of shots, including four three-pointers, for 26 points in a win over the Los Angeles Lakers in Game 1 of the '85 NBA Finals (a 148-114 win come to be known as the "Memorial Day Massacre") … His jersey was officially honored by CU in the spring of 2006 … Inducted into the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame in 2007.

LARRY ZIMMER, Announcer

Larry Zimmer is the first inductee into the Hall who is not a former athlete, coach or administrator; but he's been a part of more football and men's basketball games than perhaps anyone else in school history, calling 478 for football, including a string of 251 in a row until he fell ill, along with 525 men's basketball contests … Zimmer enters his 42nd and final season behind the microphone in 2015, with the first 30 handling play-by-play and color commentary since 2004 … He is a member of both the Colorado Sports and CU's Athletic Hall of Fames … The 2015 football season will also be the last for Zimmer, 79 … His final home game will be Friday, Nov. 13 against Southern California, which also happens to be his 80th birthday … When all is said and done, he will have been involved in either play-by-play or commentary duties for 50 football seasons, 42 at Colorado … Almost as synonymous with CU as Ralphie, the school's live buffalo mascot, Zimmer has spent 41 years in the booth at Folsom Field and traveling with the team, broadcasting some of the Buffaloes' greatest moments … "Zim" has missed only 12 football games CU overall; prior to the six due to illness, he had missed three bowls (two due to contracts forbidding teams to originate broadcasts) and three regular season games due to travel conflicts; his 400th at CU was also the 1,000 of his professional career … At their current school, only Bob Robertson, Washington State (535) has called more games than Zim, who is tied for fourth in consecutive years calling major college football (41st) behind Robertson (48), Bill Hillgrove, Pitt (45) and Don Fischer, Indiana (42) … Awarded an Honorary "C" in 1992, and was honored as the 15th recipient of the Chris Schenkel Award by the National Football Foundation in 2009, which recognizes those who have enjoyed a long and distinguished career broadcasting college football at a single institution.

SEASON NOTES

• The Buffs were the Big Seven co-champions, earning their first major [Big Seven] league title.

• CU received a NCAA Tournament Western Regional berth on a draw from a hat.

• Started the season with a seven-game losing streak, the first time a Buff team would begin a season with that many consecutive losses.

• On Feb. 2, CU established itself as a serious championship contender by defeating defending conference champion Kansas, 70-62, to move into a first-place tie.

• An eight-game conference win streak was highlighted by road wins at Iowa State, at Nebraska and at Oklahoma.

• In the game at Ames, CU trailed at the half by 12 points and by two points with seconds to play. Wilbert Walter made a free throw, then Jim Ranglos tipped-in Walter's second free throw at the buzzer.

• Burdette Haldorson led the Big Seven in conference scoring at 21.3 ppg.• During CU's eight-game winning steal, Haldorson averaged 21.9 per game, including 33 points at Oklahoma.

SEASON NOTES

- The CU head-coaching job was taken over by 30-year-old Russell "Sox" Walseth, who replaced H.B. Lee.
- In his first season, Walseth was named Big Seven Coach of the Year.
- On Dec. 3, the Buffs stunned highly regarded Oregon State, 67-58, in Sox Walseth's coaching debut. Jim Jochems scored 18 points, Bob Helzer and Dave Mowbray each added 14. Jochems would be plagued by a knee injury the rest of the season, played in only 10 games.
- After upsetting Missouri, the Buffs set a Big Seven Christmas Tournament record shooting 42-of-49 from the free throw line in a 90-87 victory over Michigan State. This marked the first time a CU team reached the finals of the tournament. CU lost the title game to Kansas, who was led by Wilt Chamberlain's 45 points.
- CU guard Dave Mowbray was selected to the All-Big Seven All-Tournament second team. Mowbray led the Buffs in scoring with 273 points, an average of 11.9 points per game.
- After pre-season predictions labeled CU for not much success (five top scorers from a year ago did not return), the Buffs finished 14-9 and tied for fourth in the conference. Only six other CU teams: 1937-38 (15), 1938-39 (14), 1939-40 (17), 1941-42 (16), 1949-50 (14), 1954-55 (19)—had won more than 14 games.

SEASON NOTES

- On Dec. 7, the Buffs shot 57.7 percent from the field to beat Montana and former CU coach Frosty Cox, 77-60.
- On Jan. 20, CU upset conference leader Iowa State to earn Colorado's first victory in Big Eight Conference play.
- On March 8, CU's Gerry Schroeder tipped in a shot at the final buzzer to beat Nebraska, 54-52, for a thrilling finish to the basketball season.
- Schroeder was the lone CU player to average over 10 points a game (13.2 ppg.). His 304 points was the most scored ever by a CU guard.
- On Feb. 10 against Kansas, the Buffaloes "held" Wilt Chamberlain to his lowest point total in his high school, college, and professional career of six points. Chamberlain deliberately held onto the ball choosing to pass the ball to his teammates opposed to shooting.
- Gerry Schroeder (8-of-14) and Larry Pitts (7-of-12) combined for all of CU's 15 made field goals (the rest of the team went 0-for-14) in CU's 59-45 victory at Missouri (Mar. 3). The only two players to score all of CU's points from the field, is believed to be a school record for fewest players to score a basket.

Wilky Gilmore

SEASON NOTES

- Wilky Gilmore earned UPI All-Big Eight first team honors. He led CU in scoring (13.9 ppg.) and rebounding (10.6 rpg.). It's just the second time a Buff player averaged a double-double for a season (Burdette Haldorson (21.0 ppg, 13.8 rpg., 1954-55).
- On Feb. 6, CU, without two starters, managed to down Kansas State, 65-50, to snap the Wildcats 19-game conference winning streak.
- On Feb. 27, the Buffs lost to Iowa State, 83-80, in five overtimes, which was the longest game ever played in the Big Eight.
- On March 5, Wilky Gilmore ended the Buffs season on a winning note by tipping in a missed Russ Lind shot with two seconds remaining to give CU a 41-39 victory over Oklahoma State.
- Gilmore scored the most points (334) and rebounds (254) by a first-year player.
- Gilmore (13.9 ppg.), Russ Lind (11.8) and Stan Williams (10.0) ranked the top-15 in Big Eight scoring. Gilmore was seventh, Lind was ninth, Williams 14th.
- The 1959-60 team also marked the first time four players eclipsed the 200-point plateau in a single season.
- CU also played four overtime games (going 2-2),it's the most overtime games in any season entering the 2013-2014 campaign.

%-In a special ruling by the Big Eight Conference faculty representatives in September, Colorado was forced to forfeit seven victories during the 1960-61 season, six in conference play and the Buffs' lone victory in the pre-season tournament the previous December. The ruling came as a result of CU's Wilky Gilmore's playing in an organized summer league during 1960. At that time, such play was prohibited by conference rules, since rescinded. The ruling revised Colorado's record from 15-10 to 8-17, and the conference finish from a fourthplace tie to last.

SEASON NOTES

- CU won 19 games for the second straight season, a school-first. The 38 overall wins and 24 conference truimphs are the best in school history over a two-year span.
- CU went unbeaten at home (12-0) for just the third time with a minimum of 10 home games (1937-38, 1961-62).
- Ken Charlton and Jim Davis became the third CU pair named to All-Big Eight Conference AP & UPI teams (Gilmore/Charlton, 1961-62; Haldorson/Jeangerard, 1954-55).
- Charlton scored 514 points, only the second CU player to reach the 500-point plateau in a single season. He would be named to the All-Big Eight All-Tournament team and lead the conference in scoring (19.2).
- Davis led the Big Eight in rebounding (329). He would become the fourth CU player to average a double-double in a season (13.8 ppg.,12.7 rpg.).
- On Dec. 3, CU beat Wichita State, 79-69, in double overtime for the 500th win in CU history.
- On March 9, CU's 69-56 victory over Kansas State in Manhattan gave CU a share of the Big Eight title with the Wildcats. The Buffs advanced to the NCAA playoffs because they had more wins.
- On March 16, CU defeated Oklahoma City in Lawrence, Kan., 72-82, to advance to the NCAA Midwest Regional championship for the second straight year. CU would lose to familiar foe Cincinnati, who had beaten the Buffs in the Midwest Regional championship the previous year.

SEASON NOTES

- Injuries plagued the 1965-66 season: Pat Frink did not play due to an injury that he suffered at practice in early November; Lynn Baker injured his knee in the season opener against Texas Tech and was forced to sit out the remainder of the season.
- Chuck Gardner earned All-Big Eight first team honors (AP & UPI). He led the conference in scoring, finished second in rebounding and field goal percentage and finished fourth in free throw percentage. This 1-2-2-4 finish was the best the Big Eight had on record.
- Gardner became the three player in school history to score over 500 points in a season. His 506 total ranks third all-time.
- On March 5, CU defeated ninth ranked Nebraska 95-88 to knock the Cornhuskers out of a Big Eight Championship tie. CU forward Chuck Gardner drove Nebraska's middle defense crazy scoring 42 points to set a new school scoring record.
- Gardner led the Big Eight (conference-only games) in scoring (20.3 ppg.).

- CU won 17 games, the most in four years, in addition winning 10 games in conference play.
- Although the Buffs and the Huskers had identical 10-4 records tying for second place, CU was snubbed by the National Invitational Tournament, despite beating tournament-bound Nebraska in the final game of the season.
- On Dec. 30, the Buffs beat Nebraska 73-66 to win the Big Eight Christmas Tournament.
- Pat Frink and Lynn Baker were both selected to the All-Big Eight second team.
- Bob Bauer capped his collegiate career leading CU in rebounding (7.4) and finishing second in scoring (13.5). Both were career highs for a season average.
- On Dec. 5, Frink scored 36 points in a 93-89 victory over Utah. This was Frink's first season back after a year of inactivity due to a knee surgery.
- On Jan. 7, CU shot 59.9 percent from the field and stunned highly touted Kansas State 71-68.
- On Jan. 17, CU upset Kansas 62-59 at the CU Fieldhouse. The Jayhawks suffered their lone conference loss and would finish the season No. 3 (AP) and No. 4 UPI in the final polls.

Matt Bullard

SEASON NOTES

- Matt Bullard was named to UPI's All-Freshman team, as he became only the second player ever to lead CU in scoring as a freshman. He was named an AP & UPI conference honorable mention.
- Bullard's 12.7 ppg. average was the second best ever by a frosh, topped only by Emmett Lewis (14.9 his rookie season back in 1975-76). Bullard also shot school record 60.4 FG%, that ranked second in the conference. Bullard is the fourth CU frosh to average 10+ or points a game.
- On Dec. 11, CU's 78-65 victory over Colorado State marked the 800th win in the program's history.
- On March 1, a 94-86 loss to Missouri gave Colorado the dubious distinction of being the only team in Big Eight history to go winless in league play.
- This was only the second 20-loss season in CU history, as the Buffs also ended the year with a seven-game home losing streak and a nine-game road losing skid.
- Mike Reid was named to the Big Eight All-Academic first team.
- The 1985-86 team had at least three seniors on the roster for the fifth straight year.
- Tom Apke coached the Buffs for four years from 1981-86 (59-81, .421).
- On April 2, Tom Miller was named CU's 14th head basketball coach.

SEASON NOTES

- Donnie Boyce led the team in points (14.9 ppg.), was second in assists (3.1 apg.), third in rebounds (4.8 rpg.); and was selected to the Big Eight All-Freshman team.
- Boyce became the third freshman to lead the team in scoring and first since Emmett Lewis (1975-76) and Matt Bullard (1985-86). Boyce would go on to accomplish this feat all four years of his collegiate career, becoming the first of two players to do (Richard Roby: 2004-08).
- CU earned the nickname of "Wednesday Warriors" after pulling off three upset defeats of top-ranked teams on successive Wednesdays. During the first three Wednesdays of February, the Buffs surprised No. 22 Oklahoma, No. 2 Oklahoma State, and No. 9 Missouri.
- Poncho Hodges finished No. 16 nationally in blocked shots (73). Today that ranks third most in a single season. When he graduated, Hodges finished third overall with 131, today he ranks fourth.
- Randy Robinson led the Buffs from the field with a 54.9 FG% tying for 10th at CU.
- Boyce scored 21 points in first game with CU making it the second-best debut since Emmett Lewis (31 pts.) in 1975.
- CU played their way to an 11-4 home record and a .733 winning percentage.

SEASON NOTES

- Chauncey Billups became the fourth CU freshmen to lead the Buffs in scoring with a school record 17.9 ppg. He would score 31 points in his second career game, the most points by any CU freshman. He's the sixth CU frosh to average 10 or more points at the end of the season.
- Midway through the season, after suffering an 82-80 overtime loss to Southern Utah, head coach Joe Harrington resigned and Ricardo Patton was named interim head coach.
- On Jan. 29, 1996, Ricardo Patton won his first game as CU's head coach, as his Buffs beat Missouri 106-94. The game was televised on ESPN's "Big Monday," and the win was CU's first on ESPN since they upset No. 2 Oklahoma State in 1992.
- Billups earned Big Eight Freshman of the Year and the coaches second team. He scored the most points by freshman (465) and the only CU frosh in history to break the 30-point in a single game (he did four times).
- On Dec. 2, Billups recorded the first ever triple-double by a Buff, and the sixth in Big Eight Conference history. He scored 24 points, added 11 rebounds, 11 assists in this historic performance in home win over George Mason.
- CU suffered the worst season-opening loss in school history falling to UC Santa Barbara 71-47, a 24-point deficit.
- On Feb. 7, CU turned in one of its best performances of the year in a 64-63 overtime win at Kansas State. The win marked the first one-point victory since beating Purdue in 1988, and the first overtime road win in Big Eight play since beating Missouri 81-79 in January of 1973.
- On March 5, Patton was named head coach on a permanent basis, making him CU's 16th head coach in 93 seasons.

- The Big Eight Conference adopted Texas, Texas A&M, Texas Tech, and Baylor and became the Big 12 Conference.
- Chauncey Billups was a first team Basketball Times All-American, a Big 12 first team section and AP second team All-American. He's the eighth CU All-American (ninth overall honor).
- On Dec. 5, Chauncey Billups surpassed the career 500-point barrier. With his 17-point performance against Texas Arlington, Billups matched Shaun Vandiver as the fastest CU player to reach the 500-point plateau after only 28 games as a Buff.
- On Jan. 11, CU upset No. 20 Texas Tech in Lubbock, 80-78 breaking what was the nation's longest current home-court winning streak (35 games). It was also CU's first road win against a nationally ranked team since 1973. The win improved the Buffs' conference record to 3-0 for the first time since the 1968-69 season.
- With a win over Wofford in February, CU recorded 20 wins for only the second time in program history.
- For the sixth time in its history, CU won 12 games at home (1 loss).
- The Buffaloes were selected to play in the NCAA tournament for the first time since the 1968-69 season.
- In the first game of the NCAA tournament against Indiana, Chauncey Billups scored 24 points and became just the 19th player in CU history to record 1,000 points in his career. The win over Indiana was the 22nd of the season, a then-school record.
- At season's end, Chauncey Billups closed the book on his storied collegiate career and declared for the NBA draft. He was selected third overall by the Boston Celtics.

Kenny Price

- Kenny Price made nine three-pointers in a Big 12 second round game would set a single game record, breaking his mark of eight from the year before. With his nine three's, Price would claim the most treys ever by a Buff – 97, a record still to this day.
- By year's end, many CU players had established themselves as some of the elite in the Big 12. Jaquay Walls was named to the All-Big 12 All-Underrated Team as well as earning All-Big 12 Honorable Mention status. Kenny Price was named to the All-Big 12 third team, while ranking third in the conference in points per game.
- Nick Mohr became the seventh CU freshman to average double-digits points (10.6 ppg.) in his first year. He played only 10 games because of a torn ACL.
- With a win over Iowa State (March 4), the Buffs broke a nine-game conference tournament losing streak.
- In March, CU was selected to play in the National Invitational Tournament. It marked the second time in three years under head coach Ricardo Patton that the Buffs qualified for post-season play.

SEASON NOTES

- In the opening game of the season, sophomore Jose Winston tied his career-high with eight steals, the second-highest single-game total in CU history.
- On Dec. 30 in the Rainbow Classic, the Buffs defeated Gonzaga 81-77; marking the first victory over a 1999 NCAA tournament team.
- On Jan. 19, CU beat No. 17 Oklahoma 88-80, breaking an 11-game losing streak to the Sooners.
- With a victory in late January over Kansas State, head coach Ricardo Patton moved into sole possession of fourth on the all-time coaching wins list at CU with 68.
- In what many CU fans believe to be the best game at the Coors Events Center, CU came from behind to defeat Iowa State in overtime 102-90. Jaquay Walls scored an NCAA-record 15 points in the overtime on his way to an astounding 42-point performance. Today, it ranks fifth in school history.
- A low point in the Buffs' season came in the Big 12 quarterfinal game against heavily favored Texas. CU was held to just 18 percent shooting from the field, and a record low 12 field goals on their way to a 78-35 loss.
- The Buffs were once again invited to play in the National Invitational Tournament. They lost to Southern Illinois in the first round, 94-92. The invitation marked the third time in four years that the Buffs had played in a postseason tournament.

SEASON NOTES

- The Buffs' 20 wins marked the third time in program history, and the second time under head coach Ricardo Patton, that a CU team has reached that milestone. Colorado finished the 1968-'69 season with 21 wins and the '96-'97 season with 22 wins.
- 2002-03 was the year for quite a few program firsts. For the first time in school history, CU went undefeated at home in Big 12 play (8-0); with a victory over Nebraska on March 8, CU secured their 14th home win, the most wins at home in any year.
- It was the first season in which CU defeated four ranked teams in the same year. CU defeated No. 6 Kansas 60-59, No. 3 Texas 93-80, No. 22 Missouri 89-68, and No. 20/18 Oklahoma State 68-56.
- On Nov. 24, against Stetson, David Harrison set the single-game record for blocked shots at 10. Harrison would break his own record with 11 blocked shots in Colorado's final home game against Nebraska. For the season, Harrison recorded 107 blocks, shattering the previous record of 73 set by Poncho Hodges in the 1991-92 season.
- CU lured their highest home attendance average in 20 years, 8,995 fans.
- David Harrison recorded CU's first triple-double in Big 12 play, and second triple-double in program history with his 31 points, 17 rebounds, and 10 blocked shots against Stetson on November 24. Harrison would add another triple-double against Nebraska with 20 points, 10 rebounds, and 11 blocked shots, making him the only player in CU and Big 12 history to record two tripled-doubles in a career.
- For the first time in school history, CU had three players selected as the Phillips 66/Big 12 Players of the Week: Blair Wilson (Feb. 24), Stephane Pelle (Jan. 27), and David Harrison (Nov. 25).
- Michel Morandais earned Al-Big 12 second team honors, while Stephane Pelle made the conference third team.
- Head coach Ricardo Patton led the team to a .500 record or better for the fifth straight year, and for the fourth time in seven years as head coach, he led the team to more than 18 victories.

David Harrison

SEASON NOTES

• CU earned its third NIT berth during Coach Patton's eight years as head coach. Despite David Harrison's 26 points and 12 rebounds, the Buffs fell in the first round to Oregon, 77-72 behind the strength of a 40-point performance by Oregon's and All-American Luke Johnson.

• Harrison and Michel Morandais would be named to the Big 12 Conference first and second teams, respectively.

• CU won 18 games for the fifth time under Patton.

• The Buffs won 10 conference games; the most since recording 11 conference wins in 1996-97, and earned the fourth seed at the Big 12 Tournament in Dallas.

• Morandais became the 21st player in school history to eclipse 1,000 career points. He would finish his career ranked seventh on CU's all-time scoring charts with 1,428 points. • Blair Wilson reached the 1,000-point barrier on Dec. 31 against Richmond. He would leave Boulder ranked 14th on the Buffs' all-time scoring list with 1,253 points. • David Harrison scored his 1,000th point during the 2003-04 campaign amassing 1,317 career points for 11th on CU's all-time list.

• Harrison opted to declare for the NBA draft after his junior season, forfeiting his final year of eligibility.

• Harrison broke the CU record for career blocks with three against Utah. Harrison bettered Ted Allen's eight-year mark of 161. Harrison would go on to block 225 shots in only three years and would subsequently hold every blocked shot record category.

• Wilson broke CU's record for career 3-pointers made with six against Iowa State. In that game, Wilson set or tied three more school records: he made a school record six 3-pointers without a miss; he tied the school mark for treys in one half (6); he also tied the school record for 3-pointers in one half of a conference game.

• Wilson tied his personal best with seven 3-pointers at home against Kansas State. Ironically, it's the second time in his career he has netted seven treys against the Wildcats (Jan. 1, 2002). He also became one of three players to make seven 3-pointers in a game, twice.

- The Buffaloes shattered the school record for 3-pointers made in a season, bettering a mark of 218 set in 1998-99. CU made 223 and fell one attempt short of the record for three-point attempts in a season (633 in 1998-99). The Buffs made 129 treys against Big 12 opponents, besting the previous school record for 3-pointers made during conference play (114 in 2003-04). CU's 380 three-point attempts during conference play topped a previous mark (297 in 2001-02).

SEASON NOTES

- Richard Roby was named to the All-Big 12 first team. He's only the fourth CU player to be named in this category. Roby was also named NABC District 12 first team, Big 12 Player of the Week (Jan. 10-16), Co-Big 12 Player of the Week (Jan. 16-22) and The Sporting News Player of the Week (Jan. 16-22).
- The 2005-06 season was the first time three players made over 50 3-pointers in a season (Roby 63, Osborn 53, Copeland 50).
- The Buffs broke school records in 3-pointers made (240, old: 223) and 3-pointers attempted (701, old: 633). CU's 10-1 start to the season matches the 1978-79 season for best starts after 11 games.
- CU won at Oklahoma State for the first time since Jan. 12, 1980 (20 games). The Buffaloes notched a road win at Missouri for the first time since 1996-97, which also marked the Buffs second win in Columbia since Jan. 15, 1973 (a span of 32 games).
- The Buffs started Big 12 play with a 5-2 record, a first since 1996-97. The 5-2 start is the 14th time CU started 5-2 or better in league play in 59 years.
- CU earned a NIT berth, their eighth appearance in school history.
- CU won 14 home games, tying the number of home wins from 2002-03.
- CU was nationally ranked for the first time since the 1996-97 season (USA Today). They were ranked No. 25th in the USA Today/Coaches' Poll for two straight weeks (Jan. 30-Feb. 5; Feb. 6-12).
- Head Coach Ricardo Patton recorded his 175 career victory when CU defeated Missouri, 78-60 (Feb. 25).

SEASON NOTES

- The Buffaloes youth of freshmen and sophomores attributed 72.3 percent of the team scoring, the highest percentage of any Buffs team since the Big 12 Conference began in 1996-97.
- CU fell short by single-digits 11 times, an average of 4.6 points; and in conference play on eight occasions by a 5.3 point margin. Four of those single-digit setbacks came against NCAA Tournament opponents, Texas (in overtime), at Kansas, at Oklahoma and Texas A&M.
- In two seasons, there have been 20 single-digit losses (15 in Big 12 play).
- All-Big 12 Conference third team selection Cory Higgins turned in a successful sophomore campaign that saw him become one of only 13 players nationally to lead or finish second on his team in five major statistical categories (points, rebounds, assists, steals, blocked shots). He also ranked nationally in a trio of categories (steals, FT%, scoring).
- Higgins scored 538 points finishing 13th all-time in school history for most points in a single-season. It ranks third all-time among CU sophomores and seventh all-time among guards for a season.
- Dwight Thorne II made great strides putting together his best season-to-date recording a 12 ppg. He made 48 percent of his shots and led CU from the three-point arc with 45.
- Levi Knutson was an All-Big 12 Academic first team selection. During the spring 2009 semester, the men's basketball team achieved their highest grade point average on record a 2.926. The 2.926 GPA shatters the spring 2001 semester of 2.744.

Jim Davis is one of six players in school history to grab at least 860 career rebounds. Of the six players, only three, including himself only played three years (Meely, Vandiver).

In his three years at CU, Andre Roberson was second nationally in rebounding during the 2012-13 season, and third nationally in 2011-12. He led the Pac-12 Conference on the glass (all games and conference-only) in each of those two seasons.

Dec. 7, 2013 Kansas (Boulder) W, 75-72
Askia Booker hit the biggest shot of his Colorado career grabbing an inbounds pass, dribbled twice, took two long steps, then launched the 3-pointer that gave Colorado a 75-72 victory over No. 6 Kansas. After a timeout, Buffs forward Xavier Johnson squeezed an inbounds pass from the corner of the backcourt to Booker, who dribbled just past the back foot of the massive Buffs logo at center court – or about even with where John Elway's courtside seats were located – and launched the shot from 30 feet. Nothing but net.
