PRESIDENT BRUCE D. BENSON

Bruce D. Benson is in his 10th year as president of the University of Colorado, as he was named to the position in March 2008. Since taking the helm of his alma mater, he has enhanced CU's standing as one of the nation's leading teaching and research universities, advancing the economy, health and culture of Colorado and beyond.

The 21st president in the history of the university, he has now served the fifth-longest of the group, and is the longest-serving CU president since Robert L. Stearns held the post for the better part of 15 years (1939-53) well over 60 years ago.

During Benson's tenure, CU's research funding has reached record levels, including its best showing of $994 million in 2016-17, supporting the university's research strengths in biotechnology, health care, energy and aerospace engineering. He has led efforts to promote cross-campus collaboration that have resulted in cooperative academic programs and research initiatives, most notably CU's Biofrontiers Institute, led by Nobel laureate Tom Cech.

CU has broken records for fundraising in eight consecutive years (including a record $386.3 million in 2016-17) under his leadership. Benson and his wife, Marcy, chaired CU's $1.5 billion Creating Futures fundraising campaign, which surpassed its goal in November 2013. The campaign, the largest in university history, supported scholarships, academic enhancements (endowed faculty positions, programs), research projects and capital improvements across CU's campuses.

Benson, 79, has guided efforts to institute operational efficiencies, cut bureaucracy and improve business practices at the university. CU has secured legislation over the past nine sessions of the Colorado General Assembly that has allowed it to save millions annually in areas such as procurement, insurance and construction. He has also established a number of public-private partnerships to make the university more entrepreneurial and meet the needs of businesses in Colorado and across the country.

He oversees a system with four campuses (Boulder, Colorado Springs, Denver, and the Anschutz Medical Campus in Aurora) with a total enrollment of 63,202. During his tenure, CU's four campuses have seen record enrollment. The university's annual budget is $4.1 billion. The CU system is the third-largest employer in the state, with some 35,000 employees.

Before becoming CU's president, Benson had already made his mark in business, politics, philanthropy, education and civic endeavors. He founded Bruce Mineral Group in 1965, a year after earning his bachelor's degree in Geology from CU.

He has consistently been active in a variety of educational, civic and political endeavors, and was the Republican nominee for Colorado governor in 1994. Benson has received many honors recognizing his leadership, but two are particularly notable: CU in 2004 granted him an Honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters, and in February 2009 he was inducted into the Colorado Business Hall of Fame. In August 2016, he was the recipient of the inaugural Courage in Education Award from the Steamboat Institute, as the honor is for encouraging intellectual diversity and the free and robust exchange of ideas.

He was born July 4, 1938 in Chicago, and has three children and 10 grandchildren.

CHANCELLOR PHILIP P. DISTEFANO

Dr. Philip P. DiStefano is in his ninth year as the Chancellor at the University of Colorado Boulder. Prior to his appointment on May 5, 2009, Dr. DiStefano was the top academic officer at CU-Boulder for eight years as the Provost and Executive Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs. He had also served as interim chancellor twice during pivotal times in the university's history.

Dr. DiStefano, 70, co-chaired the steering committee for CU-Boulder's visionary strategic plan, Flagship 2030, conceived with campus, community and statewide input, to guide the university for decades to come. Today, Dr. DiStefano is shepherding its implementation as Flagship 2030 has moved from vision to reality.

Dr. DiStefano has served CU-Boulder for 43 years, first coming to the University of Colorado in 1974 as an Assistant Professor of Curriculum and Instruction at the School of Education. His academic career flourished as he assumed a series of academic and administrative positions, including Professor, Associate Dean, Dean and Vice Chancellor. He was appointed Provost and Executive Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs in 2001.

He has established new initiatives to support students in their success, including an increased graduation rate. He also has set forth plans to create alternative sources of revenue and further advance CU's reputation as a top comprehensive national research university.

Dr. DiStefano is considered a national authority on integrating intercollegiate athletics into the university academic mission. For the sixth consecutive year under Chancellor DiStefano, CU's NCAA Academic Progress Rate, which tracks student-athlete progress toward graduation, is the best in school history.

Dr. DiStefano began a three-year term in August 2016 on the Board of Governors of the NCAA representing the Pac-12, within that role he was a member of the NCAA's revenue distribution working group. He also served five years as the University of Colorado's faculty representative to the Big 12 Conference, as he assumed the role on June 1, 2000, and held it until appointing Dr. David Clough to the position in the spring of 2005. He has been closely involved with the athletic program for most of his time at CU, and in June 2016, was recently accompanied by athletic director Rick George to Italy to promote the university and the success of its international students.

As Chancellor he works closely with students, faculty, staff, alumni, donors, governing officials, and business and community leaders in extending CU's legacy as a preeminent national comprehensive research university.

A first-generation college graduate, Dr. DiStefano earned a Bachelor of Science degree from Ohio State University in 1968 and a Master of Arts degree in English Education from West Virginia University in 1971. He holds a Doctorate in Humanities Education from Ohio State University, where he served as a teaching and research associate.

Dr. DiStefano began his educational career as a high school English teacher in Ohio. He has authored and co-authored numerous books and articles on literacy education.

He was born September 21, 1946 in Steubenville, Ohio, and graduated from Steubenville Catholic Central High School. He has been married to the former Yvonne Pasquarella for 48 years, and the couple has three grown daughters, Gia, Nicole and Jennifer, and two granddaughters.

In 2015, he served as the official starter for the 37th annual Bolder Boulder, the city's 10-kilometer race that is the fourth largest in the nation. He has been very active throughout his career in the Boulder Community, having previously served on numerous boards, including the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club.

PROVOST RUSSELL L. MOORE

Dr. Russell L. Moore is entering his ninth year as the Provost and Executive Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs for the University of Colorado, having assumed the position July 1, 2010.

Dr. Moore had enjoyed a long and distinguished career at CU, having previously served as interim vice chancellor for research from May 2009 to July 2010, and prior to that appointment, he was the associate vice chancellor for research since 2006.

Dr. Moore served as chair of kinesiology and applied physiology (now integrative physiology) from 1994 to 2001, and was an assistant professor (1984-86), associate professor (1993-96) and full professor (1996-present) in that department.

He co-chaired the Flagship 2030 Task Force on Research, Scholarship, and Creative Works.

He holds an adjunct professorship in medicine (cardiology) at the University of Colorado's Anschutz Medical Campus at the University of Colorado Denver.

He was an assistant and associate professor (1986-91) in the departments of medicine, cellular and molecular physiology at the Pennsylvania State University College of Medicine in Hershey, Pa. His research focused on adaptations of the heart to physiological and pathological stress, particularly as they relate to the development of heart failure.

Dr. Moore earned a Bachelor of Science degree in biochemistry from the University of California at Davis in 1976, and a doctorate from Washington State University in 1982. He did postdoctoral work at the University of Texas Health Science Center in Dallas (1981-84).

FACULTY ATHLETICS REPRESENTATIVE JOE JUPILLE

Dr. Joseph (Joe) Jupille, an associate professor of political science, is in his first year as the University of Colorado's Faculty Athletics Representative (FAR) to the Pac-12 Conference, as he assumed the position on July 1, 2017.

Dr. Jupille, 46, replaced Dr. David Clough, who had served as FAR for 12 years starting in March 2005 until his retirement. Jupille is only the seventh FAR in CU history, joining a very prestigious list: Walter Franklin (1947-1948), Warren Thompson (1949-1966), William Baughn (1967-1989), James Corbridge (1989-2000), current CU chancellor Phil DiStefano (2000-2005) and Clough (2005-2017).

Now in his 13th year at CU, he joined the faculty in 2005 and became an Associate Professor in 2007. He founded and served as Director of the Colorado European Union Center of Excellence (CEUCE) from 2008-15.

Professor Jupille's research specializes in rules and institutions, which comes in handy in the world of intercollegiate athletics. With James Caporaso (University of Washington) he is completing Theories of Institutions, which distills understandings of rules across a range of disciplinary orientations. He has previously published Institutional Choice and Global Commerce (2013, with Walter Mattli and Duncan Snidal) and Procedural Politics (2004), the latter of which centers on his core substantive and teaching expertise in the European Union (EU). He has been published widely in peer reviewed journals and edited volumes, including in the Annual Review of Political Science, Comparative Political Studies, European Political Science Review, International Organization and West European Politics.

Jupille has been involved with student-athletes almost since arriving at CU over a decade ago, serving on and then chairing the Boulder Faculty Assembly's Intercollegiate Athletics Committee (IAC), which works with the Department of Athletics in managing and thriving at the nexus of athletics and academics. He has served or continues to serve on a number of student-athlete-centered bodies such as the AD's Academic Risk Assessment (ARA) committee, the Title IX Task Force chaired by Senior Woman Administrator (SWA) Ceal Barry in addition to many others.

Jupille wants it all for CU student-athletes: a gold standard education, unparalleled opportunity for personal growth and professional preparation, a chance to enjoy year-round fresh air and sunshine and develop ways of being well, and of course, a world class athletic experience. It is the FAR's job to bring a faculty sensibility to the pursuit of these goals.

He earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science from UC Santa Barbara in 1992, a Master of Arts in International Public Policy from the Middlebury Institute of International Studies at Monterey in 1995, and his Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of Washington in 2000.

Prior to joining the CU faculty in 2005, he was an Assistant Professor of Political Science at Florida International University for almost six years (2000-05).

He was born in Chicago and 1970. He is married to the former Lisa Avanzino and the couple have four children (Michael, Alex, Jackson and Julia). An avid cyclist, he commutes daily to CU by bike from the town of Superior (several miles to the southeast of Boulder). He grew up as a fan of the Pacific 10 Conference and in particular the California Bears but his allegiance is now sworn to the Buffaloes.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR RICK GEORGE

Rick George was introduced as just the sixth full-time athletic director in University of Colorado history on July 17, 2013, returning to Boulder where he helped play a role in the school's first and only national championship in football some 23 years earlier.

George, 57, came to Colorado from the Texas Rangers baseball club of the American League, where he was named chief operating officer on October 5, 2010 with a promotion to president of business operations in February 2013. He agreed to a 5-year contract at CU, and he officially started on the job on August 12, 2013. In June 2016, the Board of Regents approved a contract extension that carries him through 2020-21 academic and athletic year.

His list of achievements in his first 1,000 days in the position were many, but none more significant than shepherding through a $156 million Athletic Complex Expansion from creation through fruition, gaining approval from the Board of Regents and then raising nearly one-half of the estimated cost to initiate construction, which began May 12, 2014. The project is the core of the Sustainable Excellence Initiative (SEI), the jewel of which was a long-awaited indoor practice facility. Once green-lighted, he spearheaded the most successful fundraising campaign in athletic department history, raising to date $95 million for the project.

George implemented the department's first-ever comprehensive strategic plan, which has mapped CU's immediate and long range purpose and goals. He also redesigned the management teams, made tough budget decisions that reduced deficits he inherited (and has since produced two budget surpluses), and canvassed the state, region and nation in both friend- and fundraising.

In his fourth year in the position (2016-17), 13 of CU's 16 athletic teams were at one time or another ranked among the nation's Top 25 (including all five in the fall; skiing is a coed program with combined rankings). Included in that group was the football team, as the Buffaloes returned to the national rankings for the first time in 11 seasons, in part due to George's support of Mike MacIntyre as the program's head coach and allowing him to follow through with his plan to bring the Buffaloes back to national prominence. All but one team competed in the postseason, most in NCAA Championships, with football making it to a bowl game for the first time in nine years and both basketball teams going to their respective NIT events.

Near the end of his first year, he was recognized by CU's Student-Athlete Advisory Committee as its choice for Staff Member of the Year; no token award, the group acknowledged his attendance at most home athletic events, regular meetings with team captains of all programs to interact with them and receive their feedback, and willingness to meet with any student-athlete and that his door is always open to them.

George brought the most diverse background to the position than any before him at Colorado: all five others had extensive and primarily exclusive college athletic histories, the only exceptions being when Marolt left CU after 10 years as ski coach to lead the U.S. Olympic ski team before returning, and Tharp, who was a university attorney with strong CU-Boulder campus ties. While George began and worked in the college athletic world for the first half of his professional career, he stepped outside that box for the second half.

George is just the sixth full-time athletic director in Colorado history, following in the footsteps of Harry Carlson (1927-65), Eddie Crowder (1965-84), Bill Marolt (1984-96), Dick Tharp (1996-2004) and Mike Bohn (2005-13). Two others have bridged directors in interim capacities, Jack Lengyel (six months between Tharp and Bohn) and Ceal Barry (two months between Bohn and George).

George was with the Rangers for less than three years, but saw the team win two American League championships and compile a 243-176 record (.580 winning percentage) during his time there, second-best in the major leagues during that time frame. As the COO, he worked closely with team president and CEO, baseball Hall-of-Famer Nolan Ryan, and was responsible for all facets of the Rangers' business operations, including oversight of all sales and marketing efforts, broadcast and communications, ticket and suite sales, naming rights, etc., in addition to overseeing the finance, human resource and operations departments.

Among his many accomplishments with the Rangers was a comprehensive branding study that successfully rebranded the ball club, and an implementation of a new ticketing strategy that over the course of three seasons increased ticket revenues by over $30 million. The club's attendance saw an increase of 40 percent from the 2010 season to nearly 3.5 million in 2012, second in the American League (behind the New York Yankees) and third in the majors. The 2013 numbers were on pace to exceed the 3 million mark again when he left the franchise for CU.

Prior to joining the Rangers, George served as executive vice president and chief of operations for the PGA TOUR for two-and-a-half years (beginning in June 2008). While with the TOUR, he worked with the corporate marketing department in renewing sponsorships and creating new events. He also oversaw the Tournament Business Affairs division that worked with Tournaments to increase tournament revenue.

He also worked for the PGA TOUR as president of the Champions Tour from 2003-08, and as the executive vice president for championship management his last three years there. His major accomplishments included increasing revenues and sponsorships and the development of strategic plans, the latter including a vision and mission statement as well as core values. The Champions Tour had grown to a minimum 29 events with over $55 million in prize money when he left for the PGA TOUR.

From 1998-2003, George served as President and CEO of the Fore!Kids Foundation, a 501c3 organization that raised money for children's charities via golf-related events, where he led rebranding and organizational efforts that resulted in increases in charitable giving to the Foundation.

At the collegiate level, George worked in three major conferences (Big Ten, Big 8, Southeastern) in football operations, beginning with his alma mater, the University of Illinois, as football recruiting coordinator (1983-87).

George's first week on the job ... in 1987.

Rick and granddaughter Harper at ESPN's Basketball Game Day (February 2014).

He graduated from Illinois in 1982 with a Bachelor of Arts in Liberal Arts & Sciences Individual Study that had an emphasis on Sports Communication and Journalism. He was a four-year letterman at cornerback for the Illini, playing in 44 straight games and starting in 27 games in all, as he played two years each under coaches Gary Moeller and Mike White. He was a two-time recipient of the school's Bruce Capel Award, given for dedication and courage to honor Capel who lost his life serving his country in Vietnam; George received the honor for his junior and senior seasons.

Upon his graduation, White named him the assistant director for player personnel for the Illini, and a year later (1983), he assumed the all sports recruiting coordinator. In March 1984, George took over the recruiting chores solely for football, with his first class ranked No. 1 in the nation by the recruiting services with all in the top 20; he coordinated five classes in all at Illinois when the call came to take him out west to Colorado.

On March 2, 1987, Bill McCartney hired him as Colorado's football recruiting coordinator. Two-and-a-half years later (Dec. 21, 1989), George was promoted to assistant athletic director for football operations, not coincidentally after the Buffaloes finished the regular season with an 11-0 record and the school's first-ever No. 1 national ranking in the polls. CU lost to Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl and would finish No. 4, but came back to go 11-1-1 in 1990, this time defeating the Irish in the Orange Bowl to earn consensus national champion honors.

Shortly thereafter, he left the Buffaloes for Vanderbilt University, where he was reunited with former CU offensive coordinator Gerry DiNardo, who was named the Commodores' head coach a year earlier. In eight years at Vanderbilt (1991-98), he also served as associate athletic director for external operations in conjunction with overseeing the football program. This was where George first expanded his professional role outside of solely football, as he had oversight over all external departments, particularly in the area of managing budgets and developing marketing and promotional strategies for all sports.

George was born April 3, 1960 in Woodstock, Ill., and graduated from Collinsville (Ill.) High School, where he lettered in football, basketball and baseball. He is married to the former Nancy Green, and the couple has two grown daughters, Jenni Reed (husband Tom) and Christi, and two granddaughters (Harper and Maddie).

On July 19, 2017, George was named chair of the LEAD1 Association, which represents the athletic directors, programs and student-athletes of the 129 member schools of the Football Bowl Subdivision (FBS). He immediately began serving a two-year term for the organization, as its mission includes influencing how the rules of college sports are enacted and implemented, advocating for the future of college athletics and providing various services to the members. He also serves on the Division I Council of the NCAA, and is part of the NCAA's D1 Council Transfer Working Group.

UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO

Founded in 1876 at the foot of the Flatirons, over 141 years has transformed the University of Colorado from a lone building on a bleak, windswept hill to one of the nation's leading public research institutions. Established in 1861, the University was formally founded in 1876, the year Colorado became a state.

The Boulder campus encompasses over 1,100 acres on the main campus in the heart of town, east campus (which includes a research park), south campus, Williams Village and the Mountain Research Station north of nearby Nederland (which supports ecology, chemistry and geology).

While over 32,000 students are educated on the Boulder campus, another 30,000-plus study at the University of Colorado at Denver, the University of Colorado Anschutz Campus (Aurora) and the University of Colorado at Colorado Springs. Nine elected Regents and President Bruce Benson lead the four-campus system, while each campus has a Chancellor who serves as the chief academic and administrative officer. Dr. Phil DiStefano is in his ninth year as the chancellor of the Boulder campus.

Students can enter any of 10 schools and colleges offering more than 3,900 courses in 150 fields, representing a full range of disciplines in the humanities, social sciences, physical and biological sciences, the fine and performing arts, and the professions. CU-Boulder is regularly ranked among the best of the United States' public universities by the Fiske Guide to Colleges, and a 2010 USA Today/Princeton Review survey rated the University of Colorado as the fifth-best value among American public colleges. CU was recently ranked as the No. 33 university in the world by the Times Higher Education.

CU-Boulder has played a major role in NASA space programs, designing and building many scientific instruments flown in outer space, and graduated 17 men and women who became astronauts, including the late Jack Swigert, one of the three astronauts in the crippled Apollo 13 mission who made it back to Earth safely from the moon. When the Hubble Space Telescope was launched in 1990, it was carrying seven major instruments, including a high-resolution spectrograph to study the evolution of stars and designed and built by an international science team led by astronomer Jack Brandt of CU-Boulder. Since Hubble has been deployed, CU-Boulder faculty and students have been among the top users of Hubble of any institution in the world. CU-Boulder is the only university in the country where undergraduate students have operated a NASA satellite.

The University has produced 19 Rhodes Scholars, five of which were former football student-athletes at CU, with Jim Hansen the most recent recipient in 1992. Faculty member Thomas Cech, a distinguished professor of chemistry and biochemistry, won the 1989 Nobel Prize in chemistry. Other notable alumni other than athletes include former United States Supreme Court Justice Byron "Whizzer" White, former big band leader Glenn Miller and actors Robert Redford and Chris Meloni, the latter starring for years on Law & Order: Special Victims Unit, the creators of South Park, Trey Parker and Matt Stone, and Philip Bailey, co-founder of the popular music group Earth, Wind & Fire.

If the aphorism, "Somewhere between the Rockies and reality," seems too good to believe, then come for a visit. Start with a walk on the historic Pearl Street Mall, a downtown pedestrian mall that is the ceremonial heart of the city. Visitors may be so taken in by the scenery they may not realize the University that put it all together. From Pearl, Broadway leads directly onto campus where the University of Colorado Museum and the CU Heritage Center, in the original Old Main building, both introduce the University's past and present. The hub of campus activity can be found at both the University Memorial Center (UMC) and the Center for Community (C4C). The ATLAS building is one of the most state-of-the-art structures on any college campus.

Take in the fresh mountain air on any part of 100 miles of trails and 30,000 acres of open space. Climb the Flatirons or in Eldorado Canyon State Park. Swim or board sail at the Boulder Reservoir while elite runners sprint around it. Take in a pro sporting event down the road in Denver, just one of 13 cities with teams in all four pro leagues.

"The University of Colorado, and Boulder, is a town which stops where the Rocky Mountains begin. Normally in America such a superb site would be occupied by a golf course, but somebody goofed and instead they built what may be the most beautifully situated campus in the world... if anyone asks you to Boulder, I have one word of advice: 'Go.'"

PAC-12 CONFERENCE

Conference History

The roots of the Pac-12 Conference date back 102 years to December 2, 1915, when the Pacific Coast Conference (PCC) was founded at a meeting at the Oregon Hotel in Portland. The original membership consisted of four schools — the University of California at Berkeley, the University of Washington, the University of Oregon, and Oregon State College (now Oregon State University). All still are charter members of the Conference.

Pacific Coast Conference play began in 1916 and, one year later, Washington State College (now Washington State University) was accepted into the league, with Stanford University following in 1918.

In 1922, the PCC expanded to eight teams with the admission of the University of Southern California (USC) and the University of Idaho. In 1924, the University of Montana joined the league roster, and in 1928, the PCC grew to 10 members with the addition of UCLA.

The Pacific Coast Conference competed as a 10-member league until 1950, with the exception of 1943-45 when World War II curtailed intercollegiate athletic competition to a minimum. During that time, the league's first commissioner was named. Edwin Atherton was commissioner in 1940 and was succeeded by Victor Schmidt in 1944. In 1950, Montana resigned from the Conference and joined the Mountain States Conference, essentially replacing Colorado, which left for the Big 7 two years earlier. The PCC continued as a nine-team conference through 1958.

In 1959, the PCC was dissolved and the Athletic Association of Western Universities was formed and Thomas J. Hamilton was appointed commissioner of the new league. The original AAUW membership included California, Stanford, Southern California, UCLA and Washington. Washington State joined the membership in 1962, while Oregon and Oregon State joined in 1964. Under Hamilton's watch, the name Pacific-8 Conference was adopted in 1968. In 1971, Wiles Hallock took over as commissioner of the Pac-8.

On July 1, 1978, the University of Arizona and Arizona State University were admitted to the league and the Pacific-10 Conference became a reality. In 1986-87, the league took on a new look, expanding to include 10 women's sports. Tom Hansen was named the commissioner of the Pac-10 in 1983, a role he would hold for 26 years until 2009. Hansen was succeeded by current commissioner Larry Scott, who took on the new role in July 2009.

During the 2010-11 academic year, Scott helped deliver monumental changes that transformed the conference into a modern 12-team league by adding the University of Colorado and the University of Utah. The addition of CU and Utah led to an agreement to equal revenue sharing for the first time in conference history, created two divisions (North and South) for football only, established a football championship game for the first time ever, secured a landmark media rights deal that dramatically increased national exposure and revenue for each school and established the Pac-12 Network and Pac-12 Digital Network that guaranteed enhanced exposure across all sports.

Colorado accepted its invitation to join the Pac-12 on June 11, 2010, as the Buffaloes were the first domino to fall in a change of the national landscape which, in just one week, saw Nebraska also leave the Big 12 and join the Big 10, Boise State depart the WAC for the Mountain West, TCU jump from the MWC for the Big East (before eventually landing in the Big 12). Less than a week later on June 17, Utah agreed to join CU to make it an even dozen in the Pac-12. Big-time rivals for the first half of the last century, the Buffaloes and Utes officially became the 11th and 12th members of the Conference on July 1, 2011, the first additions to the league since 1978. During the 33 years between expansions, Pac-10 teams claimed 258 NCAA titles (130 women's, 128 men's).

At present, the Pac-12 sponsors 11 men's sports and 13 women's sports, having added women's lacrosse for the first time for the spring of 2018. Additionally, the conference schools are members of the Mountain Pacific Sports Federation (MPSF) in four other men's sports and two women's sports. CU participates in the MPSF in indoor track and has competed since 1950 in the Rocky Mountain Intercollegiate Ski Association (RMISA) in skiing, which is a coed sport.

The Pac-12 Conference offices are located in the heart of San Francisco's downtown district and are headquartered in the same building as the Pac-12 Network.

Conference of Champions

Built on a firm foundation of academic excellence and superior athletic performance, the Conference ushered in a new era on July 1, 2011, officially becoming the Pac-12 Conference with the additions of the University of Colorado and University of Utah.

Just 27 days after the Conference officially changed its name, Commissioner Larry Scott announced the creation of the Pac-12 Networks, solidifying a landmark television deal and putting the Conference on the forefront of collegiate athletics. The Networks, including one national network, six regional networks, and a robust digital network marked the first-ever integrated media company owned by a college conference. In addition, the "TV Everywhere" rights allow fans to access Pac-12 Networks outside the home on any digital device, including smartphones and tablet computers.

That same year, the Pac-12 also launched its Globalization Initiative to proactively promote the Conference and member institutions through student-athlete exchanges and sport, as in the first five years, Pac-12 student-athletes have enjoyed unique cultural and athletic experiences in several foreign nations. In the past year, the Pac-12 became the first conference to have all of its schools become members of the Green Sports Alliance.

On the field, courts and in the pools of play, the Pac-12 rises above the rest, upholding its tradition as the "Conference of Champions®," claiming an incredible 163 NCAA team titles since 1999-2000. For the 12th consecutive year, the Pac-12 had the most NCAA titles of any conference in the country, having won at least six every year since 2000-01, including 23 over the last two years. No other conference has ever won 10 or more in a single athletic year, looking up at the record 14 the Pac-12 won in 1996-97 and now 13 in 2016-17. Even more impressive has been the breadth of the Pac-12's success, with championships coming in 28 different men's and women's sports. The Pac-12 has led or tied the nation in NCAA Championships in 51 of the last 57 years (and was second four times and third twice).

Spanning over a century of outstanding athletics achievements, the Pac-12 was the first conference to reach 200, 300, 400 and now 500 championships; despite having two fewer members than three of the other four so-called "Power 5" conferences, the Pac-12 outdistances the next conference by nearly 200 crowns. In all, Pac-12 conference teams have won 501 NCAA Championships (297 men's, 174 women's, 30 coed).

Individually, the Conference has produced an impressive number of NCAA individual champions, as through the 2016-17 school year, 2,292 individual crowns have been won by Pac-12 student-athletes over the years (1,358 in men's championships, 749 in women's and 185 in coed, e.g. skiing).

On the women's side, the story is much the same. Since the NCAA began conducting women's championships 36 years ago, Pac-12 members have claimed at least four national titles in a single season on 27 occasions, including 17 consecutive years from 2001-2017.

CU won back-to-back men's NCAA cross country titles in 2013 and 2014.

2016-17 QUICK REVIEW

In the 2016-17 academic year, the Pac-12's 13 NCAA titles came in the form of a record 10 women's crowns, along with two men's and one coed title.

Living up to its well-deserved billing of "Conference of Champions®," seven different league schools claimed NCAA titles including three of the seven nationally that won multiples crowns (Stanford was one of two that won four).

In 24 national championship events, Pac-12 schools earned 38 (out of a possible 96) top four finishes, with Oregon completing the first-ever "Triple Crown," winning women's national titles in cross country and both indoor and outdoor track and field. Stanford's four titles came in men's soccer, women's swimming, women's water polo and women's volleyball. USC claimed the women's soccer and beach volleyball championships. Arizona State (women's golf), California (men's water polo), Utah (skiing, holding off CU) and Washington (women's rowing) rounded out the league's victories.

While Colorado did not win an NCAA title in 2016-17 and the school's count remains at 27, the Buffaloes finished second in skiing, third in women's cross country (sixth in men's) and seventh in women's indoor track. CU has won 20 skiing titles (11 men's, one AIAW women's and eight coed) and seven cross country (five men's, two women's); the Buffs also were the consensus national champions in football in 1990, but since it is not an NCAA-sanctioned championship, it doesn't count toward the Pac-12's total of 501.

Petra Hynicova won both the classic and freestyle races at the 2017 NCAA's.

David Ketterer swept the giant slalom and slalom races at the 2017 NCAA Ski Championships.

Dani Jones was the 2017 national champion in the indoor 3,000-meter run.

Career: Enters his senior season 34th in career assists with 175 and resides just outside the top 25 in career steals with 80. On pace to become the 16th Colorado player with 200 assists and 100 steals.

2016-17 (Junior): Ranked fifth on the team in scoring at 6.0 points per game while averaging 1.6 assists and just under one steal per contest. He was second on the team in total steals (24) despite missing nine games early in the season with a foot injury. All 24 of his steals came during Pac 12- Conference play, allowing him to be ranked 12th on the league leaderboard during that span. Collier led the team in stelas seven times, including a season-best four in the home win over Washington (2/9). He began the season with a bang, scoring 12 points on 4-of-6 from 3-point range against Sacramento State (11/11), but a recurring foot issue flared up shortly thereafter and he played limited minutes against Seattle U. (11/14) before missing the next nine contests. He returned where he left off at Air Force (12/19) hitting 3-of-6 from deep and finishing with nine points. Collier had six double-figure scoring games including a season-high 13 points on 5-of-10 shooting at No. 7/8 Oregon (2/18). Started 15 of 25 games, with the bulk of those starts coming in the second half of the season, including all three postseason games.

2015-16 (Sophomore): Averaged 7.5 points and paced Colorado in assists (2.7 apg) and steals (1.1 spg). He finished second in the Pac-12 in 3-point percentage (.444) having hit 40-of-90 attempts while also placing 15th on the league leaderboard in steals. He was a key part in Colorado setting school single-season records for 3-pointers made (252) and 3-point percentage (.389). Collier scored a career-high 21 points at Washington (1/20) including a personal-best and team season-high six 3-point field goals (on seven attempts, .857). Led Colorado in assists 15 times and also in steals 15 times. He had seven games with five or more assists, including season's top two team performances. Collier had a career-best eight assists against Nicholls (12/18) while recording zero turnovers. He dished out seven assists in the road win over Colorado State (12/6). Collier shot 75.7 percent from the free throw line (56-of-74). At one point during the nonconference schedule, he hit 17 in a row, the team's longest streak of the season. He played all 34 games, starting all but one contest (at UCLA on 2/20). He scored eight times in double digits.

GEORGE KING

G • 6-6 • 225 • Sr. • 3L

Fayetteville, N.C. (Brennan {San Antonio, Texas})

24

Career: Well on pace to become 34th member of Colorado's 1,000-point club as he enters his senior year 40th in all-time scoring with 880 points. King needs just seven 3-pointers to enter the Buffaloes' career top 10 list and his 40.5 percentage from 3-point range would put him second all-time at Colorado, just behind Mack Tuck's 40.6 from 1993-96. King also begins his final season at Colorado 38th in career rebounding with 430.

2016-17 (Junior): Colorado's leading returning scorer and rebounder after averaging 11.1 points and 6.8 rebounds per game. He led the Buffaloes in rebounding while ranking third in scoring. On the overall Pac-12 Conference leaderboard, he was 11th in double-doubles (six), 13th in overall rebounds, 14th in defensive boards (4.8 drpg) and 15th in offensive rebounds (2.0 orgpg). King shot 37.6 percent from 3-point range on the season, but that number skyrocketed to 47.8 percent during Pac-12 play, ranking fifth in the conference during that span. Overall, King shot 46 percent from the floor, with that number also jumping up during league games, to 49.1 percent. He had six double-doubles, four of which came during the nonconference schedule and twice in back-to-back fashion. King logged double-doubles in both of Colorado's games at the Legends Classic in Brooklyn, N.Y. He had 13 points and a career-high 13 rebounds against Notre Dame (11/21) and followed that up with 12 points and another 13 rebounds against No. 22/21 Texas (11/22) in the third place game. Two weeks later, King had 16 points and 10 rebounds in the win over No. 13/14 Xavier (12/7) and followed up that performance with 14 points and 12 rebounds at BYU (12/10). He tallied 22 double-figure scoring games, hitting the 20-point mark twice; logging a season-high 24 in the home win against Oregon State (1/26) and 21, on 8-of-13 shooting, at home against Washington (2/9). The Washington game was also his sixth double-double of the season, and seventh of his career, as he corralled 12 rebounds. Played in all 34 games, starting in 32. He was second on the team in minutes at 27.7 per game. At the end of the season awards banquet, King was voted Most Inspirational Player by his teammates.

2015-16 (Sophomore): Named the Pac-12 Conference Most Improved Player of the Year averaging 13.6 points and 4.7 rebounds a game while leading the league in 3-point shooting at 45.6 percent (-68of-149). His percentage was the second-best single-season performance in team history (minimum 100 attempts), just short of Levi Knutson's 47.4 percent in 11-2010. King's -3 68pointers rank as the 10th most in a season at Colorado. King is Colorado's second Pac12-era player to win a Player of the Year award, joining Andre Roberson who was the league's Defensive Player of the Year in 2013. He was second on the team in scoring and in free throws made and attempted (89-of-119). He had a memorable home weekend against the Washington schools. First, he had 21 points and nine rebounds against Washington State (2/11), but most importantly hit a fade-away 3-pointer at the buzzer of the first overtime that allowed the Buffaloes to send it to another extra frame and the eventual 88-81 win. Two days later, he recorded his first career double-double with 10 points and a personal-best 10 rebounds against Washington (2/13). King led the Pac-12 in scoring average during the conference tournament at 21.5 points per game. He had 21 points on 7-of-12 shooting in the first round against Washington State (3/9). King had 17 points in the first half alone, a personal best and matching Josh Scott's team season best from the second half of the Arizona game on Feb. 24. King had 22 points in the quarterfinal against Arizona (3/10), hitting a career-high eight free throws. He had 24 double-figure scoring games and led the Buffaloes in scoring 11 times including a career and team season-high 27 points against Auburn (11/17). Along with his conference best 3-point percentage he also ranked sixth in 3-pointers made (2.0 3mpg), 15th in free throw percentage (.748) and 19th in scoring. He made 50-of-59 free throw attempts to end the season (.847), at one point hitting 14 straight. King had five games with at least four 3-pointers, hitting 68 percent in those outings (21-of-31). He was a key part in Colorado setting school records for 3-pointers made (252) and 3-point percentage (.389).

2014-15 (Redshirt): Used his redshirt year, did not play. Practiced with the Buffaloes all season.

2013-14 (freshman): Played in 27 games averaging 1.5 points and 1.5 rebounds a game. Had two games scoring in double digits: 11 points in home win against Arkansas State (11/18) and 10 points in another home win over Elon (12/13). Tied for team honors

As a senior, recorded 25 double-doubles and had a pair of 20-20 games: 23 points and 20 rebounds against Warren and 20 points and 20 rebounds versus Lanier, including 12 rebounds in one quarter. Academics: College major is sociology.

Personal: Born January 15, 1994. Son of George and Tresse King. Tresse, a 25-year veteran of the Air Force, was promoted to Chief Master Sergeant at halftime of Colorado's 90-53 win over Sacramento State on Veterans Day, Nov. 11, 2016. George, and his sister Jecia Anderson, participated in the ceremony by pinning the stripes on her uniform. King grew up in Fayetteville, N.C. before attending high school in Texas. Selected CU because "I visited here like any other athlete would do and fell in love with Boulder. For me, it wasn't a surprise at all. I knew where I wanted to go; that's why I signed with the Colorado Buffaloes."

ITALY TRIP

The University of Colorado men's basketball team played four exhibition games during a 10-day tour of Italy in August 2017.

It was the perfect mix of basketball and sightseeing for the Buffaloes, touring some of the most storied locales in Italy, many ranging from 1,000 to over 2,000 years old.

The Buffaloes started their trip with four days in Rome that included tours of the Roman Colosseum, Pantheon, Trevi Fountain and the Vatican. From there it was off to Siena, Florence, Venice, Treviso and finally Lake Como.

Along the way, the travel party visited the Accademia Gallery which houses Michelangelo's David, toured St. Marc's square and the waterways of Venice, enjoyed a biking tour of Treviso and a boat ride on Lake Como.

On the court, Colorado won its first three games before finishing 3-1 on the tour, an admirable record considering the inexperience of the team and the unusual circumstances surrounding the contests. The Buffaloes rarely had time to relax during the excursion, mixing in a day's worth of sightseeing before game action later in the evening.

The trip came at a perfect time for the program. Colorado enters the 2017-18 season with nine student-athletes who haven't played a minute in a Buffaloes uniform, which includes six true freshmen and three redshirts. The NCAA allows 10 full practices during the summer for teams going on summer tours. Colorado used two of those in June, and then after taking July off, had the last eight in the days before taking off for Italy.

COLORADO BUFFALOES

"The Italy trip was not just plucked out of thin air," head coach Tad Boyle said this fall. "We knew that this year's team needed it, we redshirted Dallas Walton and Alex Strating last year, Namon (Wright) was sitting out after transferring from Missouri. We knew we were going to lose a lot of experience and firepower last year so the Italy trip was critical. It was good for us, we learned a lot."

In seven years, Tad Boyle has accomplished only what a select few have done before him in the annals of the University of Colorado men's basketball program. And yet, Boyle continues to rewrite and lead the Buffaloes to greater heights not seen in a half of century.

Boyle, 54, is in his eighth year with the Buffaloes and his 149 victories rank third all-time in program history.

He is 149-95 as Colorado's head coach; his .611 winning percentage ranking second in school history with a minimum of four years on the bench; just behind CU Athletic Hall of Fame coach Forrest B. "Frosty" Cox who won 62.3 percent of his games between 1936-50.

Entering his 12th overall season as a collegiate head coach, Boyle has won 56 percent of his games with a record of 205-161, picking up his 200th career coaching win against Washington on Feb. 9, 2017.

He owns five of Colorado's nine all-time seasons of 20-plus wins. Boyle is the first CU coach to lead the Buffaloes to seven consecutive postseason appearances and the first to guide the program to three consecutive NCAA Tournaments. His record at the Coors Events Center is stellar, leading the Buffaloes to a 101-19 mark at home (.842) over the last seven seasons. He is the first CU coach to win 20 games in each of his first four years.

"Tad continues to make Colorado more than relevant," former ESPN.com Senior College Basketball Writer Andy Katz said. "He has made them into one of the top teams in the West. Now you can count on Colorado being in play for the top tier in the Pac-12 and an NCAA bid. Colorado may have joined the Pac-12 for football first but the Buffaloes have been a boon in basketball."

Boyle has led Colorado to 15 wins over ranked opponents, by far the best in team history. In fact Boyle coached teams, with a record of 15-29, have accounted for 25 percent of the program's wins over ranked opponents (59) since 1949-50.

Boyle's postseason success is highlighted by a memorable run of four wins in four days to claim the 2012 Pac-12 Tournament championship. He owns more than half of Colorado's all-time conference tournament wins, with a 12-6 mark in that span (10-5 in the Pac-12, 2-1 in the Big 12). Boyle has led the Buffaloes to a conference semifinal or better three times. He is a perfect 7-0 as Colorado's head coach in the first round of a conference tournament. Overall Boyle's 17 postseason wins and .567 winning percentage (17-13) are tops in Colorado history.

Off the court, he has graduated every CU senior student-athlete on his roster (25).

The 18th head coach in school history, Boyle has also represented the Buffaloes on a national, and world, stage. This last summer, Boyle was an assistant coach for USA Basketball's Men's U19 World Cup Team that earned a bronze medal in Cairo, Egypt. He also earned bronze as an assistant for USA Basketball's 2015 Pan American squad in Toronto. Boyle was one three court coaches for the 2013 USA Basketball Men's World University Games training camp at the U.S. Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs.

Boyle is also an active ambassador in the community throughout the Centennial State. He is a three-time participant in the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC) Infiniti Coaches' Charity Challenge where coaches across the country compete against each other to raise money for their charities. In 2016, he helped Special Olympics Colorado earn $7,500 through the program.

In September 2012, Boyle was invited to Washington, D.C. with other college basketball coaches to urge Congress to protect federal funding for cancer research and prevention programs on Capitol Hill. In September 2011, Boyle joined 20 other coaches from the Front Range for a two-day coaching seminar with former Denver Nuggets head coach George Karl, the 2012-13 NBA Coach of the Year.

Boyle and his teams have also participated in a multitude of events. The Buffaloes participated in the 2015 Special Olympics Unified Relay Across America in Boulder. He was the official starter of the 34th Annual Bolder Boulder (May 2012), the largest road race in the United States where all participants are timed and the fifth largest road race in the world.

In December 2012, the men's basketball team visited the Children's Hospital at the Anschutz Medical Campus in Aurora. In December 2011, the team volunteered with the non-profit Share-A-Gift program, an organization helping families of need acquire children's toys for the holidays. Both programs are part of the CU Athletics Leadership Development Program. The program is designed to develop a culture of leadership in which CU student-athletes act with personal responsibility, integrity and accountability while staying committed in both principle and actions to the greater good.

"This is it (my dream job), there's no doubt," Boyle said after being named head coach on April 19, 2010. "I remember talking with (Maryland men's head coach) Mark Turgeon once when he asked me where I wanted to be in 10 years, and I said, the head coach at the University of Colorado. This is a destination job. I'm humbled and honored."

In his first season (2010-11), Boyle began to set the standard for exciting things to come, capping the season with a trip to the World's Most Famous Arena - Madison Square Garden and a National Invitation Tournament semifinal appearance. The Buffaloes won a school-record 24 games, including 18 school-best wins at the Coors Events Center, establishing one of the best home court advantages in all of college basketball.

"They're the heartbeat of this arena, they are the difference makers," Boyle said of the Coors Events Center crowd after a home victory. "To have that (student) section full is key; I just want them to know that we appreciate and need them."

His initial season saw CU rank fifth nationally in free throw percentage (77.8), 12th in scoring (79.6 ppg) and 19th in field goal percentage (47.3).

Boyle earned National Coach of the Week honors (Hoops Report, Jan. 10-16) after leading the Buffs to a 3-0 conference start, including wins over No. 9/8 Missouri and No. 21/20 Kansas State. The win over the Wildcats gave CU its first road win over a nationally ranked opponent since January 1997 (No. 20 Texas Tech). CU defeated four ranked teams, including a 22-point comeback win (second greatest comeback in school history) upsetting No. 5/5 Texas, 91-89.

In year two (2011-12), Boyle became the first CU coach to begin the conference season with back-to-back 3-0 starts, and was the first coach since Frosty Cox (1935-36, 1936-37) to win his conference opener in back-to-back years. He also won his 40th game (home win vs. Oregon) in just 61 games tying Cox (1935-39).

Boyle continued to make most of his "dream job" a reality for CU fans guiding the Buffaloes to the 2011-12 NCAA Tournament (third round), another 24-win season, and a conference championship in its inaugural season of the Pac-12, winning four games in four days at the Staples Center in Los Angeles.

For his efforts, Boyle became the first CU head coach to earn the District 20 Coach of the Year by the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC), an award voted among his coaching peers. The 48 wins were a school-best in any two-year span of the program.

"I'm a believer in Tad Boyle," said Jay Bilas, ESPN College Basketball Analyst. "He is not only a terrific teacher of the game with great basketball knowledge, he keeps it simple and gives his players an understanding of what you need to do to win, but a firm understanding of how teams lose, too. Boyle has tremendous toughness in him. He is demanding without being demeaning, and he puts his players in position to achieve together without fear of failing. That's what truly outstanding coaches do, and Tad Boyle is a truly outstanding coach."

In year three (2012-13), Boyle guided the Buffs to another NCAA Tournament appearance, the second year in-a-row, becoming the first CU coach in 50 years to guide the program to back-to-back tournament appearances. CU won 21 games, the third straight season the program eclipsed the 20-win plateau, also a school-first. After the team won their first mid-season tournament since the 2002-03 season, the Charleston Classic, the Buffs reached the nation's Top-25 polls for the first time since 2005-06 (No. 19 AP/USA Today Coaches' Poll, Nov. 26); AP No. 23 ranked, Nov. 19).

Attendance records also set a brand new high standard as the men's basketball team proved to be the best ticket in town setting a number of school records, including seven sellouts; 12 of 15 home games exceeded 10,000 fans or better, in addition to season total (155,884); season average (10,392); conference total (94,371); and conference average (10,486). The attendance surge ranked third nationally among all Division I programs for largest increased average from the previous year.

Success continued for Boyle and his coaching staff in year four (2013-14) as the Buffs won 23 games, the third most victories in school history. Another NCAA Tournament followed for a school record third consecutive season, in addition setting a pair of attendance records (season total: 173,429; non-conference total: 84,133). The staff enjoyed their best start to a season in four years (14-2 record) with a No. 15 nationally ranking, the highest a CU team has seen since 1997.

In 2014-15, a 16-18 record marked the first time in five years the program failed to notch a winning season, however the Buffaloes reached the College Basketball Invitational (CBI) quarterfinals. The Buffs did defeat NCAA Sweet 16 participant UCLA and the National Invitation Tournament Champion Stanford during the season.

Attendance remained steady for the fifth straight year, finishing with third place numbers across the board in all-time marks in season total, season average, and conference total. Conference average was fourth. Overall, Boyle and his CU teams, hold the top five attendance marks in season and conference total, and conference average since 2010-11; and the four of the top five attendance figures in season average.

The Buffaloes rebounded nicely in 2015-16, sporting a record of 22-12 and finishing in fifth place in the Pac-12 at 10-8. Boyle led Colorado to 11 straight wins during the nonconference schedule, the fifth longest in program history and best run since 1961-62. Colorado's 21 regular season wins tied a school record — joining the 2013-14 and 1996-97 teams — and 22 overall tied for fourth in the school annals. Colorado reached the NCAA Tournament for the fourth time under Boyle.

Boyle's 2016-17 team marked seven-straight years with a postseason tournament appearance; a school record. The Buffaloes were 19-15 overall and 8-10 in the Pac-12, earning a spot in the NIT. Colorado's regular season was highlighted by wins over three ranked teams, including No. 13/14 Xavier and No. 10/10 Oregon, teams that would eventually end up in the Elite Eight and Final Four respectively.

Prior to his arrival to Boulder, Boyle resurrected the basketball program at the University of Northern Colorado, where he guided the Bears to a 56-66 record (.459) the past four seasons, including a breakout season in 2009-10, when the Bears were 25-8 (.758) and finished second in the Big Sky Conference. For his efforts, he was awarded the NABC Division I All-District Coach of the Year, the Big Sky Coach of the Year by both The Sporting News and CollegeInsider.com, where he was also named a finalist for the National Mid-Major Coach of the Year award.

"This exciting process was all about both the young men we have currently and those in the future who will be joining our program, and is an investment in them and represents the competitive spirit, teamwork, passion and dedication they stand for," then-CU athletic director Mike Bohn said.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING ...

"Tad has bought back a resurgence to Colorado basketball with his energy and enthusiasm. I am impressed with his knowledge of the game and his ability to communicate to his Buffaloes team."

— Dick Vitale, ESPN College Basketball Analyst

"Tad has done something few thought possible — turn Colorado into a basketball school. The Buffaloes have as much of an impact in their new conference as any other team transitioning to a new league and that is a credit to Tad and his staff."

— Andy Katz, ESPN.com Senior College Basketball Writer

"I'm a believer in Tad Boyle. He is not only a terrific teacher of the game with great basketball knowledge, he keeps it simple and gives his players an understanding of what you need to do to win, but a firm understanding of how teams lose, too. Boyle has tremendous toughness in him. He is demanding without being demeaning, and he puts his players in position to achieve together without fear of failing. That's what truly outstanding coaches do, and Tad Boyle is a truly outstanding coach."

— Jay Bilas, ESPN College Basketball Analyst

"I've been blessed to work with many hall of fame caliber coaches during my career and I can say without reservation that Tad Boyle is as talented as any coach I've been around! Whether you're talking about X's-and-O's, in-game adjustments, or recruiting...he's the total package. And, best of all...he's an even better human being."

— Mark Johnson, Colorado Director of Audio Broadcasting

"Tad Boyle represents everything that is right about college basketball. We look forward to his leadership, poise and competitive drive to unite all our collective Buff interests to support our team and this enterprise that has so much promise for the long term."

A Greeley, Colo., native, Boyle was named the 17th coach in UNC history on April 25, 2006. At that point, the Bears were in the midst of a transition to Division I in its first season as a member of the Big Sky Conference. Northern Colorado finished 4-24 in his first season when squad finished last nationally in the final RPI rankings for that season. There were, however, flashes of times to come that season, including close losses to both Colorado (88-86) and Colorado State (75-66).

Over the next two seasons at UNC, he improved the team's win total from four to 13 and then 14. The Bears defeated Colorado State, 72-59, in his second season and also knocked off San Diego State, 72-59. The Aztecs were ranked among the nation's top 50 teams in the RPI rankings at that time. In year three, the Bears had improved from one conference win his first season to an even 8-8 mark and earned the school's first Division I post season trip, to the Sun Belt Conference Tournament.

It all came together for Boyle in his fourth season in Greeley, as the Bears advanced to the post season for the first time in school history, advancing to the quarterfinals of the CollegelInsiders.com Tournament while racking up a school record 25 victories. He coached one first-team All-Big Sky member and also the Big Sky Conference Defensive Player of the Year.

Prior to Northern Colorado, he spent six seasons as an assistant coach at Wichita State and was part of another turn around that saw the Shockers improve from 9-19 (.321) his first year there to one of the nation's top mid-major teams in 2006 when Wichita State went 26-9 and advanced to the Sweet 16 of the NCAA Tournament. The Shockers eventually lost to Final Four Cinderella George Mason in the regional semifinals, but not before they had secured the No. 21 ranking in the final collegiate polls.

Boyle played collegiately for legendary coach Larry Brown at Kansas (1981-85). He was a member of two NCAA Tournament teams (1984, 1985) and was part of the 1984 Big Eight Tournament championship squad. As a senior, Boyle captained the Jayhawks, which featured freshman Danny Manning, who three years later led the Jayhawks to the NCAA Championship.

After earning a bachelor of science degree in business administration from Kansas in 1985, Boyle went on to serve six years as a high school basketball coach at various Colorado programs. He was the sophomore basketball coach at Greeley (Colo.) West for a year and then was an assistant coach at Loveland (Colo.) High School for two years.

From there, he served at Longmont (Colo.) High School for three years before returning to the college ranks.

It was at Kansas that Boyle played alongside Turgeon, whom he also coached with at Oregon under Jerry Green. Boyle's first collegiate coaching job in 1994 was on Green's Ducks staff, where he spent three seasons and helped the Ducks to the 1995 NCAA Tournament and the 1997 National Invitational Tournament. In 1997, Boyle followed Green to Tennessee, where he was director of basketball operations when the Vols won 20 games and advanced to the NCAA Tournament.

Boyle reconnected with Turgeon the following year, this time as an assistant coach at Jacksonville State (Ala.), where they helped turn a team that was 8-18 into a 17-11 squad in just one season.

Before heading to play collegiately at Kansas, Boyle was a standout performer at Greeley Central High School, where he led the Wildcats to a state championship as a senior in 1981 and earned Colorado Player of the Year honors as well as being selected to the Converse All-American team. His high school jersey was retired at the conclusion of his senior season.

Boyle is married to the former Ann Schell of Greeley, and they have two sons, Jack and Pete, and a daughter, Claire.

Mike Rohn is in his eighth year as a coach and head recruiting coordinator with the University of Colorado men's basketball program. He was elevated from assistant to associate head coach on Oct. 18, 2017.

Rohn is an integral part of the coaching staff that has re-energized the basketball program to national prominence and continues to do so each and every year.

"One of the steadiest people I have ever worked with," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "Mike is the ultimate grinder; works extremely hard and he's a guy that thinks, a forward-thinker. He's ready to be a head coach. He has all the tools in what it takes to be a head coach, and is invaluable to our staff, and to me."

During Rohn's tenure in Boulder, the Buffaloes' have accumulated 149 victories, the most wins in any seven-year span of the program (116 years). In addition he has helped guide the Buffaloes to seven-straight seasons of postseason play (2010-17), a program first, including four NCAA Tournaments. CU's three straight trips to the NCAA Tournament (2012, '13 & '14), are also school firsts.

Rohn has helped build the Coors Events Center into a dominant home court advantage, making the Buffs' one of the most feared arenas to play in with a seven-year mark of 101-19 (.842).

As the recruiting coordinator, Rohn helped deliver the 25th ranked recruiting class in the nation in 2017 according to Rivals and Scout.

The groundwork of the program's success was built during the first two years where Rohn assisted with back-to-back 24-win campaigns of 2010-11 and 2011-12. The 24 victories continue to be a school record for victories in a single-season. The 24 wins in his first season were part of CU's run to the NIT semifinals at Madison Square Garden in New York City, the school's last year in the Big 12 Conference.

The following year (2011-12), the program equaled another 24 victories, CU's first year in the Pac-12 Conference. The Buffaloes became just the 10th team in the nation to win at least four games in four days to capture the tournament title at the inaugural conference tournament. The tournament title was the Buffaloes first since winning the Big 8 in 1968-69.

With the automatic tournament berth, CU earned its first NCAA Tournament appearance since 2002-03 and saw the Buffs upset No. 6 UNLV in the first round.

Another successful season followed in 2012-13 (21 wins), where Rohn and the Buffs earned back-to-back NCAA Tournament berths for the first time in 50 years (1961-62 & 1962-63). The following year (2013-14), another NCAA Tournament followed with 23 wins, setting a school record with three consecutive NCAA Tourney appearances and four-straight 20-winning seasons.

The 2013-14 campaign saw CU register 23 wins, the third-most victories in school history. That CU team also tallied a third place finish in the final Pac-12 Conference standings, the program's highest placing in 18 years.

After a 16-18 campaign, and a trip to the CBI Quarterfinals in 2014-15, Colorado rebounded with its fifth 20-win season in six years in 2015-16. The Buffaloes sported a record of 22-12 and finished fifth in the Pac-12 at 10-8. Rohn helped Colorado to 11 straight wins during the nonconference schedule, the fifth longest in program history and best run since 1961-62. Colorado's 21 regular season wins tied a school record — joining the 2013-14 and 1996-97 teams — and 22 overall tied for fourth in the school annals.

Colorado made its seventh-straight postseason appearance in 2016-17 with a 19-15 overall record and a berth in the NIT.

During his seven years in Boulder, Rohn has mentored a quartet of former CU student-athlete standouts who have made the next step professionally in their respective basketball careers.

Alec Burks, a sophomore, was CU's second-ever lottery pick and selected No. 12 overall by the Utah Jazz in the 2011 NBA Draft; Andre Roberson left after his junior year, was the No. 26 overall selection by the Minnesota Timberwolves in 2013 (later traded to Oklahoma City).

Spencer Dinwiddie, also a junior, was drafted by the Detroit Pistons in the 2014 NBA Draft (second round, No. 38 overall); and Cory Higgins, the school's all-time co-leader in points, played with the Charlotte Bobcats during the 2011-12 season.

This past summer, Derrick White became the fourth Buff to be selected in the first round of the NBA draft in the last seven years, as he was picked 29th overall by the San Antonio Spurs.

Rohn has also coached a number of CU student-athletes to conference excellence.

In 2010-11, Burks was a Wooden Award Top-20 finalist and unanimous All-Big 12 first team selection; Levi Knutson was the Big 12 Conference Sixth Man of the Year, and Higgins was All-Big 12 third team.

In CU's first year of the Pac-12, Roberson (first team, All-Defensive, All-Tournament team), Carlon Brown (second team, tournament's Most Outstanding Player), and Dinwiddie (freshman team) garnered all-Conference honors.

In year two of the conference, Roberson (first team, Defensive Player of the Year, All-Defensive team); Dinwiddie (first team) and Josh Scott (All-Freshman team) earned post-season accolades, and in year three, Scott continued CU's prominence among the elite Pac-12 Conference players selected to the first team.

Scott repeated his all-conference honor in 2015-16 and was a finalist for the Kareem Abdul-Jabbar Award, given to the nation's best big man. Scott was also on the Pac-

12 All-Defensive team while front-court mate Wesley Gordon earned honorable mention. George King was named the Pac-12's Most Improved Player of the Year.

White earned 2017 All-Pac-12 First Team honors while also being selected to the league's All-Defensive team.

In August 2014, Rohn was the head coach the Athletes In Action team, a school-first for any CU assistant. AIA is a worldwide Christian sports organization was also comprised of then-CU sophomore Tre'Shaun Fletcher and other college basketball players from around the nation embarking on an eight-day Baltic tour of Russia. Team USA won three of four games against professional competition.

Prior to his arrival to Boulder, Rohn spent the three years as the director of basketball operations at Texas A&M (2007-10) where he was part of the coaching staff that helped the Aggies to a trio of NCAA Tournament Round of 32 appearances. During those three years in College Station, the Aggies won 73 games, in addition to 28 Big 12 Conference games.

A&M also led the conference in scoring defense (65.8 ppg.) for the first time in league history during the 2009-10 campaign.

During the 2009-10 season, Rohn helped the development of current NBA players Deandre Jordan, Kris Middleton, and Donald Sloan.

At Wichita State, where Rohn spent seven years (2000-07) as an assistant coach to Mark Turgeon, in addition with current CU Associate Head Coach, Jean Prioleau, the Shockers engineered an impressive resume, earning three-straight NIT trips (2003, 2004, 2005).

During the 2005-06 season, the Shockers not only won their first Missouri Valley Conference championship in 19 years, they capped off a 26-9 record with a 2006 NCAA Tournament berth and a Sweet 16 appearance, a school-first in 18 years.

Rohn also helped coach fifth-year student-athlete Paul Miller cap off one of the best careers of any Shocker center by being named the MVC Player of the Year, the first Shocker to earn the award in 21 years, in addition to Jamar Howard (Missouri Valley Conference Defensive Player of the Year).

Prior to Wichita State, Rohn served three seasons as head coach from 1996-2000 at Dodge City (Kan.) Community College, where he built a 55-38 record and coached the Conquistadors to three consecutive state playoff appearances, including a 21-10 mark in 1999-2000. Rohn was also an assistant coach at Dodge City from 1993-96. In 1997, Dodge City was crowned the 1997 Jayhawk West Conference Champions.

Rohn was a graduate assistant coach at Fort Hays State (1991-93) while earning a master's degree in sports administration and coaching. He earned a bachelor's degree in physical education in 1990 from McPherson College, where he was a two-time all-conference selection. There he was named the league's newcomer of the year as a junior and was the conference player of the year as a senior. He also was named McPherson's Male Athlete of the Year in 1989.

He also served as an assistant coach at Colby Community College (1990-91) and at his alma mater, McPherson College (1989-1990). Rohn transferred to McPherson after playing two seasons at Dodge City Community College.

Rohn, and his wife, Stephanie, have two daughters, Raegen and Rylee.

The Buffaloes' regular season was highlighted by wins over three ranked teams, including No. 13/14 Xavier and No. 10/10 Oregon, who would eventually advance to the 2017 NCAA Elite Eight and Final Four respectively.

Grier helped mentor Derrick White, a 2017 All-Pac-12 Conference First Team pick and a member of the league's All-Defense team. This past summer, White became the fourth Buff to be selected in the first round of the NBA draft in the last seven years, as he was picked 29th overall by the San Antonio Spurs.

"We're fortunate to have a guy like Bill Grier to our coaching staff because he brings a wealth of experience," Boyle said. "Most importantly he has recruiting contacts on the west coast, and internationally. He's one of those guys that I knew if I ever had an opening on our staff, he was a guy that I wanted to go after...we're lucky to have him."

Grier gives Colorado an extra asset in West Coast recruiting. An Oregon native, Grier is in his 26th season as a collegiate coach, with 24 years spent in Washington and Southern California. That expertise was noted this last fall as Colorado was able to secure a Top 25 recruiting class according to Rivals and Scout.

Grier won 117 games in eight seasons as the head coach at San Diego (2007-15) and played an integral role in Gonzaga's rise to prominence in 15 years as an assistant with the Bulldogs (1992-2007). Most recently, Grier spent the 2015-16 season as an assistant coach at Oklahoma State.

The span of his experience, from serving as an assistant on a top-level program, to being head coach, to spending a year in the Big 12 Conference, enhances the abilities of the Colorado coaching staff.

"Anytime you have the opportunity to hire a former head coach it's a plus," Boyle said. "It's not a requirement to be a good assistant, but I think when guys have been head coaches and then they become assistant coaches they're better assistant coaches because they understand what the head coach is going through; they understand the issues, they understand the decisions that have to be made."

Now residing in Colorado, it gives his family a sense of home being back in the west. He grew up in Oregon and met his wife, Nicole, in Spokane where they lived before moving to San Diego. Colorado is a place the Grier's are thrilled about to raise their two daughters, Giselle and Ashley.

"My wife is from Montana, we met in Spokane," Grier said. "We like that Colorado, Boulder, is that type of setting that we've become so accustomed to. I'm really excited for our children to be in that environment."

Grier led the Toreros to the 2008 West Coast Conference Tournament championship, and rode that momentum into the NCAA Tournament with a first-round upset of No. 4 seed Connecticut - the only NCAA Tournament win in school history.

He led San Diego to six wins over top 25 teams, took down Kentucky in Rupp Arena and racked up eight All-West Coast Conference selections and nine WCC All-Academic Team nods during his tenure. In 2014, the Toreros advanced to the quarterfinals of the Colleg Insider.com Tournament.

Grier finished his time in San Diego with a 117-144 record, including 51 WCC wins, which ranks 24th in the conference's history.

During his time at Gonzaga as the program's defensive coordinator, the Bulldogs led the WCC in field goal percentage defense six times, including the third best mark in the nation in 2004.

Grier served as the recruiting director for his last 10 years with the Zags, and his 2007 class was the program's best to that point. That class ranked 11th in the nation by Rivals, and boasted four recruits among the top-100 in the country.

"He was extremely well prepared and you could tell that in his practice and game preparations," said Dan Dickau, former WCC Player of the Year at Gonzaga and current Pac-12 Network analyst. "He's a guy that knows how to relate to coaches and players; parents during the recruiting process... a great hire by Boyle."

Grier also successfully developed both post players (1997-2003) and perimeter players (2003-2007). Post players Bakari Hendrix (1998) and Casey Calvary (2001) were both WCC Players of the Year. Perimeter players he worked with included Derek Raivio (2007), the WCC Player of the Year; Adam Morrison (2006), a First Team All-American and WCC Player of the Year; and Blake Stepp (2004), a Second Team All-American and two-time WCC Player of the Year.

"He is one heck of a basketball mind," said Gonzaga head coach Mark Few, prior to Grier's appointment to Oklahoma State. "Bill is hard working and loyal, and he played a huge part in building Gonzaga basketball to where it is now. I leaned on him heavily up here at Gonzaga, especially on the defensive side of the floor. When he went to San Diego he really evolved on the offensive side, and did some special things with those teams. Bill is an unbelievable student of the game who is always looking to learn and get better."

Grier started his coaching career at his alma mater, Cottage Grove High School in 1986. After serving two years as a freshman coach, Grier was elevated to junior varsity coach and varsity assistant. Grier left Cottage Grove to be the head coach at Creswell High School during the 1990-91 season.

He played two years in junior college (Central Oregon and Southwestern Oregon), then transferred to Oregon where he received a B.S. degree in Leisure Studies and Services in 1990.

Kim English is in his first season as an assistant coach for the Colorado men's basketball team.

English spent the last two seasons on the men's basketball staff at Tulsa under Frank Haith, who he played for as a senior at Missouri. He was an assistant coach last season for the Golden Hurricane while serving as the program's director of player development in 2015-16.

"It's a chance for me to get to the Power 5 level and compete against the best," English said. "The Pac-12 Conference is at an all-time high. Bill Walton always calls it the 'Conference of Champions' and it truly is. I'm excited to work for coach Boyle and this staff and excited to work extremely hard for these student-athletes."

Colorado head coach Tad Boyle, who coached the Buffaloes in two games against English's Tigers in 2011, developed a connection with his new assistant this last spring on the recruiting trail. Boyle was impressed by English, which was further verified by his network of coaches.

"No. 1 he's very professional," Boyle said. "He carries himself extremely well. The more homework I did on him, everyone that has come into contact with him — from players to those in his early coaching career — have had nothing but glowing remarks. He really vetted well with people that I know and respect in this business."

English describes himself as an "every-day, even-keel guy." He has four words for all of his student-athletes: play hard, act right.

"I preach good habits with our guys, so I do the same," English said. "I'll be a relentless worker from a player development standpoint, relentless in scouting and preparing for our opponents, and a relentless worker on the recruiting trail."

Boyle sees similarities in English that he saw in Prioleau as a young coach 19 years ago.

"He's not too far removed from playing, so he can relate to the players," said Boyle, who picked up his first Big 12 conference victory against English and the Tigers in 2011. "Kim has a passion for having a positive effect on young men's lives; being a mentor and a positive role model."

"The great thing about Colorado is that you can attract good candidates. Kim English isn't just a good one, he's a great one. We're lucky to have him."

Following a successful playing career at Missouri from 2008-12, English was selected by the Detroit Pistons with the 44th overall pick in the 2012 NBA Draft. He played in 41 games during the 2012-13 season and spent the following two years overseas.

English averaged 11.1 points, 3.0 rebounds, 1.4 assists and 1.1 steals per game during his four-year career at Missouri and his 1,570 points ranks 13th in program history. He earned third-team All-Big 12 Conference honors in 2010 and 2012, and was named to the USA Today All-Improved Team and the USBWA All-District Team in 2010.

In 2012, English averaged 14.5 points, 4.2 rebounds, 1.6 assists and 1.3 steals per outing, and he ranked fifth in the Big 12 with 78 3-point field goals, while leading Missouri to a school-record 30 wins, the Big 12 Tournament title and a No. 2 seed in the NCAA Tournament during Haith's first season. He was named Most Outstanding Player of the Big 12 Tournament as he averaged 23.0 points and shot 78-percent during the Tigers' championship run.

After his time with the Pistons, English played basketball in Europe, including stints with Montepaschi Siena in Italy and Chorale Roanne Basket, Nancy Basket and Cholet Basket in France, along with Guaros De Lara BBC in Venezuela. He also had a brief stint with the Chicago Bulls in 2014.

A native of Baltimore, Md., English received his bachelor's degree in general studies from Missouri in 2012. He and his wife, Jessica, welcomed a daughter, Celine, to the family in April.

Sean Kearney is in his fifth year with the University of Colorado men's basketball staff as the Director of Player Development, bringing nearly three decades of coaching experience to the Buffaloes.

He has enjoyed high-level success throughout his career at the collegiate level. Kearney has been on staff with 12 NCAA Tournament teams, including Colorado's last two (2014 and '16).

Regarded as one of the most respected and well-liked coaches in the game today, Kearney was the Associate Head Coach at the University of Notre Dame under head coach Mike Brey from 2000 through 2009. With the Irish, Kearney was part of nine postseason teams, including five NCAA Tournaments (Sweet 16 in 2003) and four NIT berths. Notre Dame posted a 188-101 record for a 61.0 winning percentage that included six 20-win campaigns and finished with an 88-60 record in Big East regular season play that included five seasons with 10-plus wins.

Kearney also coached at least one player in each of his nine seasons that was named to the Big East All-Conference team, including a pair of conference player of year nominees, one rookie of the year, and nine first team selections.

Kearney aided in the development of first-round NBA Draft picks Troy Murphy in 2001 and Ryan Humphrey in 2002. Also under his tutelage, 2006 graduate Torin Francis earned Big East All-Conference honors two of his four seasons (as an all-rookie team 2003 selection, 2004 all-conference honorable mention) and finished his career as one of only seven players in school history with better than 1,000 career points and 900 rebounds. Forward Luke Harangody was named 2008 Big East Player of the Year and is the first player in league history to lead the conference in scoring in back-to-back seasons.

"Sean is a great asset to our staff," Boyle said. "Sean brings a lot of experience as an assistant and head coach, has a great perspective. He's a great-sounding board for me based on all the years of his experience he has in the game."

"He has recruiting ties all-around the country," Boyle added. "Sean has recruited nationally from coast-to-coast and has a lot of ties back east that some of our coaches on staff don't necessarily have."

After Notre Dame, Kearney was the men's basketball head coach for one year at the College of the Holy Cross (2009-10).

Although not on the coaching sideline for three years after leaving Holy Cross (2010-13), Kearney was not far from the college game working as a color analyst for Irish radio broadcasts, in addition to Big East and Big Ten games with ESPN during the 2012-13 season. During October and November months, Kearney traveled throughout the country attending NBA training camps and early season basketball practices at numerous college campuses.

Prior to Notre Dame, Kearney spent nine years (1991-2000) at the University of Delaware where he helped the Blue Hens to four NCAA Tournament appearances (1992, 1993, 1998, 1999).

In each of his final three years at Delaware, the Blue Hens registered at least 20 wins, a first in that school's history. Kearney was instrumental in developing the Blue Hens' post players. Three of the players he worked with -- Greg Smith, Spencer Dunkley and Mike Pegues -- combine to hold over 20 Blue Hens records.

Kearney began his coaching career in 1981 as an assistant at his alma mater, Cardinal O'Hara High School in Springfield, Pa.

From 1981-86, he spent five years working with his former high school coach, Bud Gardler. While coaching at Cardinal O'Hara, he was employed as a senior systems analyst for Cigna. It was during that time that Kearney joined the staff of the prestigious Five-Star Basketball Camps. That association helped him move on to the college coaching ranks.

His collegiate coaching career began in dramatic fashion at Providence College as a volunteer assistant under Hall of Fame head coach Rick Pitino. There he was on coaching staff that included Herb Sendek (former Arizona State head coach), Stu Jackson (former NBA Executive Vice President, Basketball Operations), Gordie Chiesa (former Utah Jazz NBA assistant), and Jeff Van Gundy (former NBA assistant and head coach).

During his only season at the Providence, R.I. school, the Friars advanced to the 1987 Final Four in New Orleans by winning the Southeast Regional championship, marking the school's second national semifinal appearance.

After Pitino moved to the NBA's New York Knicks, Kearney became an assistant under Hall of Fame coach Herb Magee at Division II power Philadelphia Textile (now Philadelphia University). After just one season, he moved to Northwestern where he was an assistant coach under Bill Foster from 1988-91.

Kearney graduated with honors from the University of Scranton in 1981 with a bachelor's degree in political science, was a four-year member of the Royals' basketball team. In his final two seasons, Scranton finished with consecutive 18-11 records. He was a member of teams that won three Middle Atlantic Conference titles and earned three NCAA Division III playoff appearances. As a senior, he averaged 4.2 assists per game.

Born Nov. 14, 1959 in Darby, Pa., he is married to the former Kimberly Lancaster. The couple have two daughters, Erin and Shannon.

BOULDER — The Colorado Buffaloes shot down Sacramento State 90-53 on Friday night at the Coors Events Center, opening the 2016-17 men's basketball season with an impressive display of long-range shooting and overall balance.

CU, which shot 38.9 percent from 3-point range last season, hit 13 of its 21 3-point attempts (61.9 percent) and finished opening night at 53.3 percent overall from the field (32-of-60).

Dominique Collier (12 points), Josh Fortune (11) and George King (10) reached double figures on a night when 10 of Tad Boyle's 12 players who suited up scored.

Collier, coming off the bench, hit four of his six 3-point attempts while 6-10 freshman Lucas Siewert made all three of his shots from beyond the arc.

HOW IT HAPPENED: The Buffs rolled to a 23-point halftime lead (42-19), shooting 48.3 percent (14-of-29) from the field while holding the Hornets to 20.6 percent (7-of-34).

CU took a 3-0 lead on Derrick White's trey — the first field goal attempt of his Buffs career — and steadily pulled away over the next 8 minutes. White, who sat out last season after transferring from UCSC, finished the game with a team-high seven points and nine for the night.

Boyle said White "was about 70 percent" after suffering a twisted ankle in a midweek practice and Collier also was recovering from a foot injury.

Boyle used 10 players in the first half and nine of them scored. He cleared his bench in the final minutes.

The Buffs opened their first double-figure lead (16-6) on a 3-pointer by Fortune with just under 12:30 to play in the opening half. Fortune's trey was one of seven in the first half by CU, as the Buffs shot 63.6 percent (7-of-11) from behind the arc.

From that point, CU increased its lead to 17 points on two occasions before a layup by White at the first-half buzzer produced the 23-point bulge at intermission.

The Buffs kept up the pressure in the second half, building a 73-36 advantage with 7:47 remaining and coasting to their final margin. The Hornets never led and managed just one early tie.

TURNING POINT: After a 6-6 tie, the Buffs went on an 18-1 run to go up 24-7. CU hit four of its seven first-half treys during that surge, with Collier, Fortune, Tory Miller and Deleon Brown knocking down the four long-range shots.

CU STANDOUTS: Collier — 12 points (4-of-6 3-pointers); Fortune — 11 points (4-of-5 from the field, 2-of-2 3-pointers); Wes Gordon — 12 rebounds, 7 points; White — 9 points, 4 assists; George King — 10 points; Thomas Akyazili, 8 points, 6 assists.

KEY STATISTICS: The Buffs held the Hornets to seven first-half field goals in 34 attempts (20.6 percent) in building a 23-point halftime lead. Sac State's final shooting percentage was 29.4 percent (20-of-68) . . . CU finished with 20 assists on 32 made field goals and committed only 10 turnovers . . . The Buffs outrebounded the Hornets 47-40 but Boyle wasn't pleased with Sac State's 17 offensive rebounds.

WHAT IT MEANS: The best thing to be gleaned from most openers is a "W" — and that's what the Buffs took from this one. But that was far from the lone takeaway; Boyle's seventh CU team offered plenty of opening-night upside. It demonstrated depth, athleticism and every bit of the offensive firepower that was expected. As always, though, Boyle's emphasis in the coming weeks will be on ratcheting up his defense and board work.

BOULDER — On a night when the Colorado Buffaloes' shooting deserted them, they were forced to fall back on the principles that head coach Tad Boyle holds sacred above all others: defense and rebounding.

Those came through, and they proved to be just enough to produce a 67-55 win Monday over visiting Seattle in the first round of the Legends Classic.

Colorado improved to 2-0 with the win.

HOW IT HAPPENED: One game after shooting a blistering 134-for-21 from 3-point range in a 90-53 win over Sacramento State, CU hit just 19 of its 53 field goal tries, including a 34-for-18 night from 3-point range.

But while their shots weren't falling, the Buffs still commanded a 55-35 edge on the boards and their defense provided a 36-24 scoring edge in the second half. Wesley Gordon had a 14-rebound, 11-point double-double — the 11th of his career — and Derrick White scored a game-high 15 points to go with six rebounds. Xavier Johnson added 13 points and six rebounds for the Buffs and Josh Fortune finished with 12 points and seven rebounds.

"That was the definition of winning ugly," head coach Tad Boyle said.

Indeed, the Buffs never seemed to find their offensive groove for any length of time. But after falling behind 33-31 early in the second half, Colorado put together a 16-2 run to take a lead the Buffs would never relinquish. George King started the surge with a 3-pointer — CU's first of the night after an 0-for-9 stretch — to give CU a 47-35 lead with 12:48 to go in the game.

CU's defense also stepped up in that stretch, as the Buffs collected four blocked shots and four steals along with forcing eight straight missed shots by the Redhawks.

The Redhawks, though, wouldn't go away and slowly chipped away at the lead. A Brendan Westendorf 3-pointer and free throw with 5:40 to go cut CU's edge to 54-51, and it took a White free throw and back-to-back 3-pointers from Fortune to give the Buffs some breathing room down the stretch. Fortune's second 3-pointer gave the Buffs a 61-53 lead with just 2:50 to go and they held the Seahawks at bay in the final minutes.

While the Buffs were no doubt cold offensively, their defense produced the same effect on the Redhawks: Seattle hit just 19 of its 63 field goal attempts, including a 6-for-32 effort from 3-point range.

The scoring difference came at the free throw line. Colorado shot 41 free throws and needed every attempt, as the Buffs hit just 26 of those tries. White, a career 83 percent free throw shooter at UC-Colorado Springs, was an uncharacteristic 3-for-8 from the line.

Colorado's shooting wasn't the only sore spot for the Buffs. One game after committing just 10 turnovers against Sacramento State, the Buffs had 19 miscues, which the Redhawks converted into 13 points.

TURNING POINT: After the Redhawks opened the second half with a bucket to take a 33-31 lead, the Buffs went on a 16-2 run, started by a George King 3-pointer. CU never trailed again.

CU STANDOUTS: Gordon had his 11th career double-double, a 14-rebound, 11-point effort that included six offensive boards. . . . White had 15 points, six rebounds, two assists, a block and a steal. . . . Fortune had 12 points and seven rebounds. . . . ohnson had 13 points and six rebounds.

KEY STATISTICS: The Buffs had a dominating 55-35 edge on the boards, which included 19 offensive rebounds that produced 16 second-chance points. . . . Colorado also shot 41 free throws compared to Seattle's 14, and the Buffs hit 26 of those free throws.

WHAT IT MEANS: The Buffs improved to 2-0, but more importantly, learned that Boyle's insistence on rebounding and defense is something that will pay dividends when the shots aren't falling.

BROOKLYN, N.Y. — Down by 15 points at halftime, the Colorado Buffaloes gamely battled back but couldn't overtake Notre Dame, losing 89-83 on Monday night in the semifinals of the Legends Classic at the Barclays Center.

CU, losing for the first time this season (3-1), closed to within four points twice in the final minute. Notre Dame (4-0) held off the Buffs by making 12 consecutive free throws in the final 1:33 and finished 27-of-29 for the game.

Xavier Johnson led the Buffs with 23 points, with Derrick White adding 20. The Irish had four players in double figures, headed by Bonzie Colson's 22 and Matt Farrell's 20.

HOW IT HAPPENED: CU didn't have an early defensive answer for Notre Dame's high-powered offense, and losing Wesley Gordon to a pair of quick fouls only exacerbated the Buffs' problems.

En route to hitting half of their 12 3-point attempts and shooting 54.5 percent from the field overall in the first half, the Fighting Irish opened their first double-digit lead (24-13) on a 3-pointer by V.J. Beachem. It was part of a 9-0 run that earned Notre Dame a 28-14 advantage.

The Buffs pulled to within 10 (38-28) on a 3-point play by White and two free throws by Deleon Brown with 4:02 left before the break. But the rest of the half belonged to the Irish. A 10-2 run opened their largest lead (48-30) of the game and by intermission they were still up 50-35.

Johnson and White had 9 first-half points each for the Buffs, who made only two of their eight 3-point attempts and shot 37.1 percent overall from the floor. CU finished at 42 percent from the field and 31.8 percent from beyond the arc.

The Buffs needed an explosive second-half start and at least got a glimmer of one. Finally back on the floor after only 3 first-half minutes, Gordon scored the first points of the final, and White followed with a trey. The Buffs were back to within 10 (50-40), but they needed to match that start on the defensive end.

Easier said than done . . . A 6-0 run pushed Notre Dame's lead to 56-40 and CU's goal of at least reducing its deficit to single digits halfway through the half was looking grim. But the Buffs weren't done.

At the 10-minute mark Steve Vasturia used a head fake at the free throw line to blow by his defender and score a layup that gave the Irish a 66-51 lead.

The Buffs answered quickly, getting back-to-back 3-pointers from freshman Bryce Peters and Johnson to creep to within 9 points (66-57) — their first single-digit deficit since 21-14.

The Irish responded with 5 quick points, the last 3 on a conventional three-point play by Beachem, who dunked on a baseline drive and was fouled. Notre Dame led 71-57 — and CU returned to catch-up mode.

This time the Buffs appeared serious about it. An 8-0 spurt — a field goal and two free throws by Johnson, a jumper from the left wing and two foul shots by Peters — pulled them to within 71-65 with 4:19 remaining.

CU finally got the deficit to 4 (81-77) on a 3-pointer from the left corner by George King with 45.5 seconds left and closed to 4 (85-81) once more on another basket by King. But the Irish stayed steady at the free throw line and closed it out.

TURNING POINT: After battling back from a 15-point halftime deficit to pull to within 4 points in the final minute the Buffs couldn't get over the hump, held off by 12 consecutive free throws by the Irish in the final 1:33.

KEY STATISTIC: The Irish shot 50 percent from beyond the arc and 54.5 percent from the field overall in the first half, digging a 15-point halftime hole for the Buffs.

WHAT IT MEANS: CU discovered what it takes to compete with and defeat a tested, talented team like Notre Dame. That would be 40 minutes — not 20 — of focus and intensity.

BROOKLYN, N.Y. — Tad Boyle's Colorado Buffaloes bounced back from their first loss of the season in fine fashion.

One day after falling to Notre Dame, 89-83, in the Legends Classic semifinals at the Barclays Center, the Buffs rebounded Tuesday to knock off No. 22 Texas, 68-54, to improve to 4-1.

Once again, the Buffs received excellent performances from junior George King and senior Derrick White. King turned in his second-straight double-double with 12 points and 13 rebounds, coming on the heels of his 17-point, 13-rebound effort against the Irish. White followed up a 20-point, nine-assist, five-rebound effort Monday to log 16 points, five rebounds, two blocks, two assists and two steals in Tuesday's win.

The Buffs held the Longhorns to 36.8 percent shooting (21-for-57) while carving out a 43-32 rebounding edge. The Buffs also shot 44 percent from the floor (22-for-50) and had 13 turnovers.

HOW IT HAPPENED: After leading by as much as 11 in the first half and by 12 with just under eight minutes to play, Colorado withstood a late Texas surge to come away with the win.

The Buffs led by nine at the half, 33-24, and pushed the cushion to 12 on a King 3-pointer with 7:53 to go, 52-40.

Texas, though, wouldn't go away. The Longhorns employed a full-court press and slowly chipped away at the CU lead, putting together and 11-2 run to cut CU's lead to 54-51 with 5:12 still to go on a pair of Jarrett Allen free throws.

Colorado never allowed Texas to completely close the gap. Buckets from Josh Fortune and Wesley Gordon bumped CU's lead back up to seven, then after a Texas basket, Colorado put together a 7-0 run to ice the game. Fortune hit two free throws and a White 3-pointer with 2:39 remaining pushed CU's lead back to double-digits, 63-53, and the Longhorns never took it back to single digits again.

The Buffs took a 33-24 lead into the locker room at intermission after King had a seven-point, 10-rebound first half.

Following a Fortune 3-pointer at the 16:30 mark of the first half that gave the Buffs a 7-4 lead, CU extended the margin to 12-7 before the Longhorns battled back to tie the game at 12-12.

CU, however, responded with an 8-0 run and never relinquished the lead. White started the drive with a baseline drive before Xavier Johnson grabbed a loose ball under the basket and scored. Thomas Akyaizli then had a pair of coast-to-coast layups, giving CU a 20-12 lead and forcing Texas to call time out.

Colorado extended the margin to as much as 11, going up 31-20 on a King three-point play and again at 33-22 on a King bucket before the Longhorns closed the gap with a basket at the buzzer to make the halftime count 33-24.

TURNING POINT: Just after Texas had closed CU's lead to 54-51 with an 11-2 run, the Buffs got back-to-back buckets from Fortune and Wesley Gordon to create a 7-point cushion with 3:29 to go.

CU STANDOUTS: Derrick White had a solid all-around game on both ends of the floor, finishing with 16 points, five rebounds, two blocks, two assists and two steals. . . . King's second straight double-double was the third of his career, as he finished the Legends Classic with 29 points and 26 rebounds in two games. . . . Fortune had 11 points, three rebounds and an assist.

KEY STATISTICS: For the fourth time in five games this season, the Buffs had a commanding rebounding edge, 43-32.

WHAT IT MEANS: The Buffs return home after a 1-1 performance in the Legends Classic with a much better idea of how they stack up against NCAA Tournament-caliber teams and what they need to improve on.

BOULDER — A sub-par night offensively and from the free throw line, plus a stifling Colorado State defense, made Wednesday night a miserable one for the Colorado Buffaloes at the Coors Events Center.

The Rams rolled over the Buffs 72-58, handing CU its second loss of the season (5-2) and snapping a 12-game winning streak at the CEC.

CSU (6-1) made 17 of its first 18 free throw attempts, finishing 26-of-33, while CU was 17-of-31 from the foul line (54.8 percent) and only 19-of-59 (a season-low 32.2 percent) from the field.

Derrick White led the Buffs with 17 points and Wesley Gordon added 11 points, nine rebounds and three blocked shots. CSU had four players in double figures, topped by Emmanuel Omogbo's 15.

HOW IT HAPPENED: The Buffs led by as many as six points on two occasions in the first half, the last being 17-11 on a baseline drive and basket by Thomas Akayzili.

But the Rams didn't roll over. Instead, behind nine points by Omogbo, they reeled off an 11-2 run and finally overtook the Buffs 24-21 on Omogbo's only third trey of the season. CU would trail the rest of the night.

CSU's lead grew to 30-25 — its largest of the first half — on two free throws by 6-11 freshman Nico Caravcho with :58 seconds left before intermission.

Tory Miller brought the Buffs to within 30-27 with 17.9 seconds left in the half on a lay-in. But he missed a free throw that would have given him a 3-point and pulled CU to within a basket at the half.

Instead, the Buffs trailed 30-27, and they could point to 2-of-7 free throw shooting and disjointed offensive play (11-of-25 from the field, 44 percent) compounded by nine turnovers (14 for the night) as the main culprits.

Tad Boyle called his team's 14 missed free throws "a big factor tonight. It started in the first half and it bled over to the second half. That could have gotten us back into the game, maybe tied the score or got us a lead."

The Rams regained their five-point advantage (32-27) on a driving layup by Caravcho to open the second half. And Caravcho wasn't done. With the shot clock dwindling to 2 seconds, he drained a 3-pointer that preceded another trey by Omogbo and a layup by Prentiss Nixon.

Suddenly, CSU was up 40-31 with 15:57 remaining. And CU had one second-half field goal — a stuff by Xavier Johnson — and a pair of free throws. The Rams were on a 10-4 run and weren't slowing down — or at that point being slowed down.

Over the next 5:30 CU outscored the visitors 9-2 and crept to within 42-40 on a conventional 3-point play by Akayzili, who was fouled on a layup.

But by the half's halfway point, the Rams maintained a 46-40 lead and the Buffs were still struggling at the free throw line.

There was time enough for CU to pull it together, but a spark was needed. Gordon tried to provide it with a put-back (48-44) but he missed a free throw and yet another 3-point play opportunity slipped away.

The Rams increased their lead to seven points — 56-49 — on a pair of free throws by junior college transfer Che Bob with 4:35 remaining. White connected on a pair of foul shots 15 seconds later, reducing the Buffs' deficit to 56-51.

But Bob hit one of two free throws — his miss was CSU's first of the night after hitting 18 in a row — for another six-point Rams lead (57-51). The Buffs had 3:53 to make their comeback and avoid their first homecourt loss of the season.

A 3-pointer from the left wing by Wesley Paige with just over 3 minutes to play, one of two free throws by Bob and a layup by Devocio Butler pushed CSU's lead to 12 points — 63-51.

The Rams would push their lead to 16 with 1:08 remaining, and the night was (16 over for the Buffs.

PORTLAND — The Colorado Buffaloes rediscovered their offensive abilities and ratcheted up their defense in the second half here Saturday night and downed Portland 76-63 at the Chiles Center. Shaking off the ill effects of a 72-58 home loss to rival Colorado State on Wednesday night, the Buffs (6-2) rallied from a 30-28 halftime deficit by outscoring the Pilots (4-3) 48-33 in the second half.

Four CU players scored in double figures, including Xavier Johnson (19), Josh Fortune (14), Derrick White (13) and George King (12).

Portland was led by Jazz Johnson (18) and Alec Wintering (17).

After hitting only 32 percent from the field against CSU, the Buffs shot just 37 percent in the first half Saturday night and missed all seven of their treys. From 3-point range against the Rams, the Buffs hit only 16 percent.

A shooting about face was needed — and CU got it in Saturday night's second half. The Buffs shot 50 percent from the field (14-of-28) and hit five of their dozen 3-point attempts (42 percent).

HOW IT HAPPENED: CU opened by hitting just three of its first dozen shots, including 0-of-3 from long range — a continuation of the offensive problems the Buffs suffered in their home loss four nights earlier to CSU.

And their accuracy didn't get much better; they finished the first 0-of-7 from beyond the arc and hitting just 37 percent (11-of-30) from the field.

Still, they trailed only 30-28 at intermission but closing to that margin required a 7-0 run that helped bring them back from a 20-13 deficit and pulled them to within two.

That run was fueled by three free throws by Johnson and baskets by Fortune and King. A Tory Miller put-back in the final minute produced CU's two-point deficit at the break.

Jazz Johnson opened the second-half scoring with a trey, increasing the Pilots' lead to 33-28. But the Buffs were finally about to regain their shooting touches.

Two-point baskets by King and White, followed by an "XJ" trey gave CU a 34-33 lead — its first since 10-8 — and the Buffs wouldn't relinquish it.

Of their next four field goals, two were treys — Bryce Peters, Fortune — that pushed the Buffs ahead 43-37. The Pilots stayed within four to six points until a Fortune 3-pointer capped a 15-4 run and opened CU's largest lead of the night at 14 points (66-52). The Pilots got no closer than nine points the rest of the way.

Wesley Gordon grabbed 10 rebounds but was only 2-of-5 from the field. He didn't score his first points until 10:26 remained, but his conventional three-point play — he was fouled on a put-back — gave CU a 50-45 advantage at a critical second-half juncture.

TURNING POINT: Trailing 30-28 at the half, the Buffs put together a 15-4 second-half run and pulled away. CU hit five 3-pointers in the second half after going 0-for-7 from beyond the arc in the first half.

KEY STATISTICS: The Buffs shot only 43 percent from the field for the game, but hit half of their second-half field goal attempts (14-of-28) . . . They out rebounded the Pilots 38-28 and held them to 38 percent shooting in the second half (40 percent for the game).

WHAT IT MEANS: A bounce-back game was needed after the disappointing home loss to the Rams, and the Buffs managed to get it in their first true road game of the season. It should give them momentum and a shot of confidence as they head into the final two games of a crucial non-conference stretch.

PROVO, Utah — Suffering from frigid shooting and being beat on the boards, Colorado succumbed to Brigham Young 79-71 at the Marriott Center.

The Buffaloes (7-3) scored only one field goal in the final 8:52, shot only 38.7 percent from the field (24-of-62) for the night and hit just 7 of their 29 3-point attempts. Making matters worse, BYU (7-3) outrebounded CU 46-31.

After battling back from a 10-point second-half deficit to take a 61-58 lead on Thomas Akyaizili's 3-pointer, the Buffs didn't get another field goal until Derrick White hit a trey with 44 seconds to play.

White, who sat out almost 8 minutes in the second half with four fouls, led CU with 21 points — 16 of them in the first half. Xavier Johnson added 17 points and George King recorded his fourth double-double in seven games — 14 points and 12 rebounds.

But beyond that threesome, the Buffs suffered. Josh Fortune went 0-for-8 from the field, including 0-for-6 from long range. Wesley Gordon took only three shots, making one, made one of two free throws and added five rebounds.

BYU had four players in double figures, topped by Nick Emery's 22. Yoeli Childs had a double-double — 11 points, 12 rebounds.

HOW IT HAPPENED: The Buffs led once (3-2) in the first half and trailed 40-38 at halftime. But they might have felt OK about that deficit; they trailed by as many as eight points twice before White put them on his shoulders.

The 6-5 senior scored 12 of CU's final 14 first-half points, bringing the Buffs to within 34-33 with a pair of free throws with 2:46 before the break. Exactly 2 minutes later, his second 3-pointer of the half produced a 38-38 tie, but a put-back by Eric Mika gave BYU its 40-38 halftime lead.

White led all scorers with 16 first-half points and was the only CU player in double figures. While he was 2-of-4 beyond the arc, his teammates went 2-of-12.

The Cougars, meanwhile, hit half of their 10 first-half trey attempts, with Emery canning three of those in four tries. They had the same number of field goal attempts (33) as the Buffs but made one more (16).

BYU continued its accurate long-range shooting to open the second half, getting a pair of treys from TJ Haws after a short jumper from the 6-10 Mika. After Haws' second triple, Mika added a pair of free throws and Childs a jumper to complete a 7-0 run and send the Cougars up by double digits (52-42).

To compound the Buffs' problems, White was whistled for his third foul with 16:54 to play and went to the bench. But CU's offense was stagnant without him — and he quickly returned.

But not for long. Just over 2 minutes later, he picked up his fourth personal foul and sat down with 14:06 remaining without having scored a second-half point.

Who would the Buffs turn to offensively?

"XJ" scored the next 10 points in a 10-1 run, pulling CU to within 53-52 with 12:06 left. During that stretch he hit a 3-pointer, added three more on a conventional 3-point play, a pair of free throws and a short jumper.

But Johnson joined White on the bench after being inadvertently elbowed in the face by Haws. Another Buff needed to step up, and it was King, whose two free throws gave CU a 54-53 lead — its first since 3-2.

The Buffs got a 3-pointer from Thomas Akyaizili to go up 61-58, but a trey by Haws tied the score at 61-61. And one of two free throws by Wesley Gordon, Haws added a 3-point play to give BYU a 64-62 lead with 7:41 to play.

The Cougars completed an 8-0 run with a layup by Emery, sending their lead to 69-62. That was when White checked back in, and 5:45 remained. It didn't help.

BYU increased its lead to nine points (73-64) and CU, able only to convert free throws until White's 3-pointer with 44 seconds to play, couldn't catch up.

BOULDER — Minutes after an 81-71 win over visiting Fort Hays State on Saturday, Colorado head coach Tad Boyle didn't sugarcoat his feelings.

"This coaching staff has been here for seven years and this team has two things going for it right now," Boyle said. "Number one they own the most disappointing loss in that seven-year span, the Colorado State game a few weeks ago. Now they can also add that they own the most disappointing win, which is the Fort Hays State game here today."

Boyle was clearly frustrated with the Buffs' second-half effort. After bumping a 17-point halftime lead up to 21 early in the second half, the Buffs then went into early vacation mode. Fort Hays cut the deficit back to single digits twice, including down to nine, 76-67, with just under three minutes left to play before the Buffs held on down the stretch.

Not that the Buffs were ever truly in danger of losing to the Division II Tigers. But instead of putting the game away when they had the chance, they allowed Fort Hays to stay close, thanks in great part to a 29-point second half from sharpshooter Rob Davis.

"We have to dictate defensively," Boyle said. "If we can't dictate against Fort Hays, I don't know how we're going to dictate against Utah or Arizona State or Arizona or anybody in the Pac-12."

HOW IT HAPPENED: The Buffs threatened to blow the game open early, jumping out to an 18-2 lead in the first eight minutes. George King scored the first five points for CU and Derrick White hit six straight free throws in the early run.

But the Tigers then managed to keep the gap from expanding much more and Colorado led by 17 at the half, 39-22. King and Josh Fortune both had seven points in the opening half while Xavier Johnson and White had six apiece.

Davis, meanwhile, struggled for Fort Hays in the opening 20 minutes, going 0-for-4 from the field, a big part of Fort Hays' 74-32 shooting woes in the half.

Colorado then opened the second half much like the first, threatening to blow the game open. Fortune hit a 3-pointer in the first minute and Johnson followed with a free throw to bump CU's cushion to 21, 43-22.

But almost as soon as the Buffs built their big lead of the game, Davis caught fire and very nearly shot the Tigers back into the game by himself. The Fort Hays senior scored eight points in a 10-0 Fort Hays run and with 14:46 to go in the game, the Tigers had cut CU's lead down to eight, 47-39.

The Buffs, though, never let the Tigers get closer than eight. They quickly pushed the lead back to double digits, putting together a 12-2 run spurred by a pair of 3-pointers and two free throws from freshman Deleon Brown.

The Tigers then made one more run at the Buffs, narrowing the gap to nine, 76-67, with 2:55 to go, but Fortune and Tory Miller both hit a pair of free throws in the final two minutes to keep the Tigers at bay.

Johnson, Fortune and Brown finished with 15 points each for the Buffs while Wesley Gordon led CU with seven rebounds. Colorado also had a mere 40-36 rebounding edge on the Tigers, another statistic that left Boyle scratching his head.

TURNING POINT: After Fort Hays pulled back to within eight with 14:46 still to go in the game, the Buffs went on a 12-2 run to rebuild a comfortable cushion and the Tigers never pulled closer than nine again.

WHAT IT MEANS: While the Buffs have shown they can play well in spurts, consistency is still a huge issue with this team. With just two more non-conference games to go before the Pac-12 season, they need to figure out how to put together a full 40 minutes.

BOULDER — Tad Boyle's Colorado Buffaloes hoped to finish their non-conference season with a wire-to-wire consistent effort.

Instead, the Buffs had to battle back from a big early deficit, then hold on down the stretch to come away with a 76-68 win over visiting Eastern Washington on Thursday at the Coors Events Center.

The Buffs received 17 points from Derrick White and an 11-point, 10-rebound double-double from Wesley Gordon to improve to 10-3. Bogdan Bliznyuk led all scorers with 25 points for the Eagles, who were playing their third road game in five days.

HOW IT HAPPENED: If the Eagles were tired from their road trip, they didn't show it, jumping out to a 19-2 lead on the strength of a 17-1 run that included 15 straight points from Bliznyuk.

The Buffs didn't help their cause in that stretch, missing their first eight field goal attempts. Freshman Deleon Brown finally ended the drought with a 3-pointer with 12:18 to go in the half and Colorado then slowly chipped away at the deficit, closing the gap to 35-32 by halftime. The Buffs got a big boost from their bench in the comeback, with the reserves scoring 16 of CU's first half points as well as contributing some key defensive stops.

"The way you chip away is not by trading baskets, you have to get stops," Boyle said. "The stops hopefully can lead to some transition baskets, which it did, especially in the second half. We know the only way to get back in this thing is to get some stops."

Colorado finally took the lead for the first time early in the second half. An 8-0 run, sparked by a pair of Josh Fortune 3-pointers, gave CU a 40-37 lead at the 17:16 mark, but the Eagles didn't go away. A pair of Jacob Wiley buckets helped EWU regain the edge, and the lead see-sawed for the next five minutes.

With just under nine minutes to play, Colorado finally began to take control when White helped spark a 17-3 run that turned a 55-53 deficit into a 70-58 lead.

Xavier Johnson started the roll with three of four free throws to give CU a 56-55 lead, followed by two Tory Miller buckets, both on assists from White. White then added a driving layup with just over six minutes to go before dishing a beautiful feed to Johnson for a fast-break layup. A White free throw, followed by a layup at the four-minute mark stretched CU's lead to 70-58.

Along with his 17 points, White finished with a game-high seven assists, four blocks and five rebounds.

Defensively, the Buffs did a much better job on Bliznyuk in the second half. After the EWU standout hit eight of 12 field goal tries in the first half, he went just 1-for-8 after intermission.

After CU built its 12-point edge, Eastern Washington managed to cut the lead back to single digits with under three minutes to go, then cut it to four with 1:03 to go. The Buffs, though, managed to hold the Eagles at bay for the win, with a Gordon dunk with 46 seconds remaining putting the lead back to six and White finishing the scoring with a pair of free throws.

"We did a much better job offensively in the second half of not settling for jump shots," Boyle said. "One of the reasons we fell down 19-2 is we settled for jump shots, the jump shots weren't going in, we weren't getting offensive rebounds, we were on our heels."

TURNING POINT: The 17-3 Colorado run in the second half gave the Buffs a double-digit lead. The CU offense finally hit its stride in the transition game and the defense forced six empty EWU possessions in the stretch.

WHAT IT MEANS: The Buffs take a 10-3 record into the holiday break and Pac-12 play.

SALT LAKE CITY — For about nine minutes Sunday, the Colorado Buffaloes looked ready to open the Pac-12 season on a high note at Utah.

But that note turned sour in a hurry. A 20-14 CU lead with just more than 11 minutes to play turned into a seven-point deficit by halftime, and when the dust had settled, the Utes had collected their sixth straight win over the Buffs, a 76-60 decision in the conference opener for both teams.

Sunday's game was the first of three straight on the road for the Buffs, who dropped to 10-4 overall while the Utes improved to 10-3.

Derrick White led CU with 15 points and George King chipped in 11, but the Utes had four players in double figures, led by Lorenzo Bonam with 15.

CU dropped to 10-4 overall (0-1 Pac-12 play) while Utah improved to 10-3, 1-0.

HOW IT HAPPENED: Early on, the Buffs looked ready to end Utah's five-game win streak in the series. White and Xavier Johnson scored five points each in the first four minutes as Colorado jumped out to a 10-2 lead, leading to a Utah timeout.

The Utes then rallied to knot the score at 14-14, but a quick 6-0 Colorado run put the Buffs back on top, 20-14, capped by a Thomas Akyazili steal and layup.

But that was the last spark the Buffs had to show. The Utes then went on a 13-2 run to take a 27-22 lead and finished the half outscoring Colorado 22-9 over the last 11 minutes to take a 36-29 lead into halftime.

"It just stopped," Colorado coach Tad Boyle said. "We stopped moving the ball offensively. We thought, 'OK, we can make one pass, it's going to be this easy the rest of the game.' Well guess what, you have to get the ball moved side to side, we have to play inside out, we have to give their defense a chance to make a mistake, but we had no patience on offense."

The Buffs also compounded their woes by turning the ball over. After taking advantage of six Utah turnovers in the early going, the Buffs returned the favor, committing 10 turnovers in the first half which the Utes happily converted into 14 points.

"They have 14 points of their 36 at halftime off our turnovers," Boyle said. "You put a lot of pressure on your defense when you turn it over that much."

The Buffs also lost their shooting touch over the last 11 minutes of the half. After hitting five of their first six shots, CU converted on just seven of its final 23 field goal attempts.

Any hopes Colorado harbored of a comeback in the second half were dashed in a hurry. The Utes scored on their first three possessions of the half before Wesley Gordon finally scored on a follow-shot dunk.

The Utes then continued to pour it on. After closing the first half with their 22-9 run, they opened the second with a 22-8 burst, a 44-17 differential that put the game away. Bonam, who scored 10 points in the Utes' second-half opening salvo, hit a 3-pointer to give Utah a 58-37 lead with 12:09 to go in the game and Colorado never challenged again.

Utah finished shooting a blistering 52.5 percent from the field (32-for-61) while Colorado was just 23-for-57.

TURNING POINT: After jumping to a quick 10-2 lead, then building a 20-14 edge, the Buffs gave up a 13-2 run that handed Utah the lead with 6:41 to go in the half. Colorado never led again.

WHAT IT MEANS: Life won't get any easier. The Buffs have two more games on the road, at Arizona State on Thursday and at Arizona on Saturday. They then get two home games, but they come against nationally ranked UCLA and USC. The Buffs need to establish some consistency soon or they could find themselves in a big hole early in the Pac-12 season.

TUCSON, Ariz. — The Colorado Buffaloes cut a 20-point second-half deficit down to five Saturday but could never completely close the gap and fell, 82-73, to No. 17 Arizona at the McKale Center.

The Buffs, who dropped their third straight to fall to 10-6 overall and 0-3 in Pac-12 play, ended up with more field goals (27-24), more 3-pointers (9-8) and more rebounds (38-32) than the hosts. But the Wildcats ended up with a 33-14 edge in free throw attempts and outscored the Buffs 26-10 from the stripe.

"I applaud our guys' fight and effort," Buffs head coach Tad Boyle said. "We cut it to five (but) we couldn't get over the hump. The difference in the game was free throws. They could get to the free throw line, we couldn't get to the free throw line."

Xavier Johnson led the Buffs with 26 points and six rebounds, George King had a 12-point, 11-rebound double-double and Wesley Gordon added 16 points and nine rebounds.

Lauri Markkanen led Arizona with 22 points.

HOW IT HAPPENED: The Buffs jumped out to a quick 10-1 lead, getting a 3-pointer from King on the opening and quickly following with a Gordon offensive rebound and basket, a Josh Fortune dunk and another King 3-pointer.

That led to an Arizona timeout and the Wildcats began to chip away at the lead after the break, narrowing CU's edge to 13-10.

Colorado momentarily stemmed the tide, getting a 3-pointer from Derrick White and another Gordon bucket for an 18-10 edge, but the Wildcats knocked out an 11-0 run to take a lead they never relinquished.

Colorado halted the run briefly with a King runner in the lane, but Arizona answered with eight straight points, then a 10-0 run to end the half. It all added up to a 29-9 finish in the last 13 minutes after Colorado's 18-10 lead.

The Buffs contributed to the big Arizona finish with a string of costly turnovers. All told, the Buffs committed eight turnovers in the first half, which the Wildcats converted into 13 points. Colorado finished with 15 turnovers, which the Wildcats converted into 24 points.

The 10-0 Arizona burst at the end of the half started with three free throws from Kadeem Allen, then another Allen free throw after a technical on Boyle. Allen finished the first half with 12 points.

Colorado closed the half with a 3-pointer from Johnson at the buzzer, but the Buffs still trailed 39-27 at intermission.

The Wildcats then seemed poised to put the game away early in the second half. Sparked by a pair of 3-pointers from Markkanen, the Wildcats built their lead to 20, 59-39, with just under 12 minutes to play.

But the Buffs refused to quit and began shaving the deficit. Led by Gordon and King, Colorado closed the gap to 12 at two different junctures midway through the half, then cut the margin to five at 69-64 with three minutes remaining on a King offensive rebound and bucket.

That was as close as the Buffs could get, though. A Johnson turnaround jumper cut the Arizona margin back to five, 71-66, with 2:20 to go, but Arizona bumped the lead back to nine, then kept the Buffs at bay at the free throw line over the final two minutes.

Gordon was especially tough for the Buffs in the second half. After playing just 10 minutes in the first half because of foul trouble and scoring just four points, he came back after intermission to add 12 points and five rebounds. King, meanwhile, was the game's leading rebounder, with five of his 11 boards coming on the offensive end.

BOULDER — For 20 minutes Thursday night, the Colorado Buffaloes came close but failed to match the fourth-ranked UCLA bucket for bucket.

But Colorado had no answer for the hot-shooting Bruins in the second half, as UCLA carved out a 104-89 win at the Coors Events Center to hand the Buffs their fourth straight loss.

Sparked by three 3-pointers from Bryce Alford in the first three minutes of the half, UCLA quickly turned a six-point halftime lead into a 20-point margin with 11 minutes to go and the Buffs never made a serious run at closing the gap after that.

The Bruins finished the game shooting 56.5 percent from the field (35-for-62), including a sparkling 19-for-31 night from 3-point range (61.3 percent). Alford, who hit 9 of his 14 3-point tries, finished with a game-high 37 points.

"Tip my hat to UCLA," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "They're a terrific offensive basketball team, as good of an offensive team as I've coached against at the collegiate level in 23 years. My hat goes off to Steve Alford and obviously his son, Bryce, who had a heck of a night. They just move the ball and share the ball, they're very very difficult to guard in transition and halfcourt."

The loss, CU's fourth in a row, dropped the Buffs to 10-7 overall and 0-4 in Pac-12 play while the Bruins improved to 16-1, 4-1.

Xavier Johnson led the Buffs with 21 points, Derrick White added 20 and George King chipped in 13.

HOW IT HAPPENED: For the first 20 minutes, the Buffs appeared ready to run with the Bruins. After falling behind early, 7-2, Colorado battled back to take the lead twice in the first 20 minutes. A Johnson 3-pointer gave Colorado a 12-9 edge at the 15:34 mark and a Bryce Peters free throw helped the Buffs to a 21-20 lead at the midway point of the half.

The Bruins, though, quickly regained the lead and held it the rest of the half. UCLA's big lead of the half was eight points, 51-43, with just more than a minute to go, but a Gordon jumper as time expired pulled Colorado back to within six, 51-45, at intermission.

White led the Buffs in scoring in the first half with 12 points while Johnson added 11 and King chipped in eight. One big reason the Buffs stayed close was a 23-16 edge on the boards, including 10 offensive rebounds.

But the Bruins quickly doused any serious hopes of a CU upset early in the second half. Three quick 3-pointers from Alford helped the Bruins boost their lead to double digits and the margin hit 20 just nine minutes into the half. An Isaac Hamilton 3-pointer at the 11:40 mark off an assist from Lonzo Ball pushed UCLA's cushion to 62-62.

"That was kind of the one that I thought stuck a dagger in us a little bit," Boyle said. "Lonzo Ball is as good as there is. If there's a better point guard in the country, I'd like to see him. He's pretty special."

Ball finished with 11 points and eight assists.

The Buffs did cut UCLA's margin down to 13 with seven minutes to go on a White layup and free throw, but that was as close as CU could come down the stretch.

"When you score 89 points in your own building, it should be good enough, but against UCLA it's not," Boyle said. "Not the way we defended UCLA. ... There are times in life where you have to tip your hat to your opponent. They deserved to win. They were a better team than us tonight."

The Buffs didn't have much time to fret over the loss. They play host to No. 25 USC on Sunday, with the Trojans coming to Boulder on the heels of an 86-64 loss Thursday at Utah.

"Big game," Boyle said. "No question about it. We've got to dig deep and find out what we're made of on Sunday at 6:30."

SEATTLE — Once again, the Colorado Buffaloes couldn't protect a lead in the final minute — but Wednesday night, it happened twice in the same game.

The result was an 85-83 overtime loss at Washington in a game the Buffs led by 17 early in the second half. The loss, CU's sixth straight, dropped Colorado to 10-9 overall and 0-6 in Pac-12 play while the Huskies improved to 9-9, 2-4.

Xavier Johnson had 24 points and 11 rebounds for the Buffs while Derrick White added 23 points and eight assists. UW star freshman Markelle Fultz led all scorers with 37.

HOW IT HAPPENED: Wednesday's game was the third time in six conference games CU has held the lead with less than a minute to play.

"We're finding ways to lose, we're not finding ways to win," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "We had our chances. This team's got fight, it's got resolve, we just don't have that killer instinct that you need to have."

The Buffs did indeed have their chances, even after allowing Washington to completely erase a 41-24 lead the Buffs held early in the second half. Colorado still led by 12 at the midway point of the half, and by one, 65-64, with 57 seconds remaining after the Huskies had tied the game at 64-64.

But Fultz hit two free throws with 43 seconds left to give Washington its first lead since early in the game and Noah Dickinson extended the lead to two with one of two free throws after CU missed on its next possession.

Colorado did tie the game at 67-67 with 10 seconds remaining, enough to send the game into overtime when Fultz missed a last-gasp 3-point attempt at the buzzer.

But it was the same story in overtime. Colorado fell behind by four, 73-69, but battled back to take the lead four different times in the final minutes, the last on a Johnson offensive rebound and bucket with 33 seconds remaining.

The Huskies, though, had one more answer, getting a wide-open David Crisp 3-pointer in transition after Johnson's basket. The Buffs missed on their next possession. Crisp added two free throws with 12 seconds left for an 85-81 UW lead and all that was left was a meaningless Colorado basket with two seconds remaining.

For 20 minutes, the Buffs looked to be well on their way to ending their losing streak. The two teams traded buckets early in the game before Colorado slowly began opening up a lead that hit 15 by halftime, 39-24.

The Buffs built the edge on some solid shooting from the floor — 17-for-33 in the first 20 minutes — while also playing some solid defense. Fultz produced his fair share of points with 12 on 5-for-10 shooting, but the rest of the Huskies were just a combined 5-for-21 from the field.

The Buffs took the lead at the 16:01 mark of the half, 8-6, on a George King 3-pointer. CU built the margin to eight midway through the half, 25-17, then took control minutes later. After Fultz hit a jumper to pull Washington to within 28-22, the Buffs finished the half with an 11-2 run to take their 15-point halftime lead.

White started the burst with a layup, followed by a Tory Miller bucket from the point. Colorado senior Josh Fortune then had a hand in the final seven points of the half. Fortune handed an assist to Johnson for an easy bucket, then grabbed a defensive rebound and went coast-to-coast for a layup for a 36-24 edge. He then finished the first-half scoring with a 3-pointer with 16 seconds remaining.

The Huskies chipped away at Colorado's lead on the strength of Fultz's scoring from all over the court and Crisp's 14 points, including four 3-pointers. After hitting just one of 12 3-point tries in the first half, the Huskies hit 7 of 13 tries after intermission.

The Buffs, meanwhile, who shot better than 50 percent in the first half, went cold from the field.

PULLMAN, Wash. — The script changed slightly but the result was the same for the Colorado Buffaloes on Saturday, as they dropped their seventh straight game, a 91-89 overtime loss to Washington State.

The Buffs overcame a 10-point deficit in the final four minutes to force overtime, but were outscored 4-0 in the final minute of the extra period to leave them winless in Pac-12 play at 0-7, 10-10 overall.

"Same old story," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "We let a team that's been struggling to score, that scored 47 points in this building two nights ago against Utah, hang 91 on us...They made some tough shots, don't get me wrong. But our defense right now is not good enough to beat anybody in this league. It doesn't matter who we play, it doesn't matter where we play them."

Indeed, the Cougars looked nothing like the team that came into the game as the second-lowest scoring team in the Pac-12 and the second-worst 3-point shooting team. The Cougars shot 54 percent from the field for the game (35-for-65), including 50 percent from 3-point range (13-for-26). WSU's Charles Callison had a career-high 30 points on 12-for-16 shooting, including 6-for-9 from 3-point range and Viont'e Daniels was 4-for-5 from long distance.

The Buffs shot a respectable 47 percent from the floor (32-for-67) but were just 6-for-21 from beyond the arc. Derrick White led the Buffs with 25 points, Xavier Johnson scored 17, George King had 16 and Wesley Gordon chipped in 15.

HOW IT HAPPENED: For the fourth time in their seven-game losing streak, the Buffs had the lead in the final minute of regulation or overtime but couldn't close the deal.

Saturday, they came back to force the extra period, then jumped out to a four-point lead in the first minute of overtime on two free throws from King and a Johnson basket.

But the Buffs turned the ball over on their next possession, then missed two straight shots while the Cougars hit a pair of buckets to tie the score, 87-87. Colorado finally regained the lead on a White drive to the basket with 1:49 remaining and had a chance to extend the lead to four after forcing a WSU miss, but a turnover handed the ball back to the Cougars with under a minute to go.

WSU's Josh Hawkinson then tied the game from the point with 40 seconds remaining. CU's Bryce Peters missed a short attempt on CU's next possession and Washington State's Ike Iroegbu grabbed the loose ball and went the length of the floor for the winning bucket with 10.5 seconds left.

Colorado's last chance ended with a White 3-pointer bouncing off the rim just before the buzzer. As has also been the case in the losing streak, the Buffs started quickly in this one, jumping out to a 14-7 lead just six minutes into the game. Gordon had four points in the early run, Johnson added three and King added a 3-pointer.

But again, the Buffs couldn't maintain the pace. After hitting six of their first 10 field goal tries, they hit just four of their next 13. At the same time, their defense went lax and the Cougars heated up. Washington State put together a 13-4 run and finally took its first lead of the game at the 9:38 mark on a Callison basket.

WSU then built its lead to as much as seven, 34-27, with just under four minutes to play but the Buffs managed to close the gap to four, 39-35, by halftime. Johnson led the Buffs with 10 points in the first half and Gordon added eight.

Washington State built its lead to as much as 10 in the second half, mostly on the strength of Callison's 3-pointers. The Buffs closed the gap to two, 81-79, with 1:36 to go on a White three-point play, then finally tied it at 83-83 with 7 seconds left on two White free throws after WSU's Ike Iroegbu missed the front end of a one-and-one with 16 seconds to go.

Callison finally missed at the buzzer to send the game into overtime.

BOULDER — It took longer than expected, but when the Colorado Buffaloes most folks expected to see all season finally showed up, it was a game to remember.

Derrick White scored 23 points — 17 in the second half — and a tenacious Colorado defense forced 16 Oregon turnovers to propel the Buffs to a 74-65 win over the No. 10 Ducks on Saturday at the Coors Events Center.

The win, Colorado's second straight, improved the Buffs to 12-10 and 2-7 in Pac-12 play. The Ducks, who saw their 17-game win streak come to an end, fell to 19-3 and suffered their first conference loss to fall to 8-1.

"That's the Colorado basketball team we all know and love," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "I couldn't be more proud of the guys."

HOW IT HAPPENED: The win was CU's third in six games against ranked teams this year and the highest-ranked team the Buffs have beaten since they knocked off No. 9 Arizona last February.

It was a team effort on both ends of the floor. George King added 13 points to White's 23 and Xavier Johnson scored 10. Johnson also led the Buffs in rebounding with nine. King nabbed eight and Wesley Gordon had an eight-point, six-rebound, four-assist night.

Defensively, White had four steals and the Buffs finished with eight, tying a season high and their most in Pac-12 play. The Buffs also reaped 15 points off the 16 Oregon turnovers and limited Oregon's Dillon Brooks to nine points, four under his season average. Oregon shot just 38.6 percent in the game (22-for-57), their worst performance in Pac-12 play, and had only two players in double figures.

Most importantly, the Buffs closed the deal down the stretch. After Oregon had cut a 12-point CU lead to four with just under two minutes to play, CU's defense took over. Oregon managed just four points on its final six possessions while the Buffs hit seven free throws and a layup in the final 1:48 to put the game away.

"Maybe the guys said 'enough is enough,'" Boyle said. "They did it, I didn't do it. We had our game plan, but it's the players' job to go out and execute what they've been told to do and tonight they did it to a 'T.' The good thing about our team is we didn't get our heads down, we didn't stop competing."

The Buffs started quickly, hitting their first four 3-point attempts — two from King and one each from Dominique Collier and Johnson — to produce a 14-2 run and a 14-5 lead just four minutes in.

The Ducks, though, slowly chipped away at the lead and briefly led before Colorado got a late bucket from Tory Miller to give CU a 35-34 edge at the half.

The second half was much like the first. The Buffs built a six-point edge midway through the period on back-to-back 3-pointers from White, only to see the Ducks rally to tie the game at 51-51 with 5:40 to go.

White then sparked a 13-1 run to give CU its first double-digit lead of the night. Gordon started the run with a strong move inside, followed by a White 3-pointer, a White three-point play and a King three-point play that also resulted in a double-technical foul on CU's Johnson and Oregon's Jordan Bell.

White then added two more free throws to give the Buffs a 64-52 lead with 3:11 to go.

But Oregon wouldn't go away quietly. The Ducks rallied with three straight 3-pointers while the Buffs could manage just one free throw to cut CU's lead to four.

That's when the Buffs' defense stepped up one more time to rebuild the lead over the final two minutes, forcing the Ducks to foul. Colorado struggled once again at the line — 16-for-26 — but did manage to hit seven of 10 ties in the final 1:48 to close out the win.

STANFORD, Calif. — At this point of the season, style points don't matter.

The Colorado Buffaloes played some solid defense in the second half Thursday and overcame a season-high 23 turnovers to collect an 81-74 win at Stanford, ending a 10-game road losing streak in Pac-12 play in the process.

The win, Colorado's third in a row, improved the Buffs to 13-10 overall and 3-7 in Pac-12 play while Stanford dropped to 11-11, 3-7.

CU senior Derrick White had an outstanding all-around game, finishing with 19 points, eight rebounds, eight assists, four blocks and a pair of steals.

"He's so important to us," head coach Tad Boyle said. "He just makes winning basketball plays. He knows how to play. You can't teach the things he does."

Xavier Johnson also had 19 points for CU to go along with five rebounds and three assists. CU's bench contributed 33 points to the win, including 13 from freshman Bryce Peters and 10 from Tory Miller, who also had seven rebounds.

"We overcame a lot to get this road victory," Boyle said. "Our guys played with great toughness and great determination and we overcame 23 turnovers on the road. That's really hard to do."

HOW IT HAPPENED: After taking a 10-point lead into the locker room at intermission, the Buffs saw Stanford cut that margin to four eight minutes into the half before a 13-2 CU run put Colorado in control for good.

"They cut it to four and we bowed our back, much like we did against Oregon State at home when they cut it to two," Boyle said. "This team is coming, they're starting to believe in each other a little bit."

Peters (13 points) fueled the run with eight points, including a pair of 3-pointers, and White also had a 3-pointer in the burst to give CU a 66-51 edge with just under eight minutes to play. The Buffs still led by 15 with six minutes to go, and while the Cardinal managed to whittle the edge down to single digits, they never got closer than seven in the final minutes.

The Buffs earned the win despite a scoreless night from junior George King and just two points from big man Wesley Gordon.

"We had other guys step up, there's no doubt," Boyle said. "Our bench was MVP of this game. They came in and gave us great minutes. ... We won this thing without some of our key guys having great nights. That's another good sign."

Had the Buffs taken care of the ball a little better, the game likely never would have been close. CU's 23 turnovers led to 23 Stanford points.

"Just silly stuff," Boyle said. "This time of year you can't be doing that kind of stuff, so we dodged a bullet with those tonight."

Still, Boyle was overall pleased with the effort, especially that of CU's defense. Stanford shot 50 percent from the field in the first half, but the Buffs clamped down in the second half and cut that percentage to 42. Colorado held Stanford forward Reid Travis to nine points on 4-for-11 shooting, seven points under his season average.

"I think they're really starting to take pride in their defense," Boyle said. "Our post guys took a big challenge. Reid Travis is a heck of a player down there and so is Michael Humphrey. Defensively we played well."

After a see-saw first 10 minutes of the game, the Buff put together a 10-0 run to take a 29-18 lead with six minutes to go in the half. White started the run with a 3-pointer before Johnson hit a pair of free throws and White added two more. Dominique Collier then tossed in a 3-pointer on an offensive rebound and assist from Miller.

That was enough to send CU into the locker room at halftime with a 41-31 lead.

Overall, it was a solid first half for the Buffs, as they shot 57 percent from the field (15-for-26) and held a commanding 17-9 edge on the boards. But, 12 turnovers that led to 11 Stanford points prevented the lead from being larger.

BOULDER — Both Colorado and Washington were missing some firepower Thursday night in their Pac-12 matchup at the Coors Events Center.

But the Buffs had plenty of other weapons while the Huskies ... not so much.

The result was an 81-66 Colorado win, with the Buffs getting six players in double-figure scoring, led by George King's 21-point, 12-rebound double-double.

The win, a little payoff for an overtime loss in Seattle earlier this season, was CU's fourth in the last five games and improved the Buffs' record to 14-11 overall and 4-8 in Pac-12 play. The Huskies lost their sixth in a row to fall to 9-15, 2-10.

Washington played without the Pac-12's leading scorer, freshman Markelle Fultz, who sat out with a knee injury. The Buffs played without seniors Xavier Johnson and Wesley Gordon, both of whom missed their second straight game because of a violation of team rules.

The Huskies obviously greatly missed Fultz, who scored 37 points against the Buffs in their first game.

The Buffs, however, had plenty of balance to make up for the absence of the two seniors. Along with King's 21 points, Derrick White added 16, Lucas Siewert had 12, Tory Miller had 11 and Dominique Collier and Bryce Peters each had 10.

David Crisp led Washington with 17 points.

HOW IT HAPPENED: The Buffs were in control for most of this one, breaking open a tight game nine minutes into the first half to build a double-digit lead that hit as much as 14 in the first half and was still at 11 at halftime, 42-31.

In their first meeting this year, the Buffs saw the Huskies erase a 15-point Colorado lead at the half to come back and force overtime, then collect the win in the extra period.

Thursday, the Buffs never let the Huskies back in the game. Colorado built the lead to as much as 16, 59-43, midway through the second half and while the Huskies did manage to momentarily close the gap to seven with just more than five minutes to go, Colorado quickly answered with an 11-0 run to seal the victory.

Siewert hit a 3-pointer to start the run, then grabbed a defensive rebound to lead to a White bucket. Peters continued the run with a drive down the lane and dunk before King hit two free throws and a basket to put the game away. CU's defense, meanwhile, forced five straight empty possessions in the run.

"It was a good victory for us," head coach Tad Boyle said. "I thought we played well, even though we were short-handed a few guys. We had six guys in double figures, 15 assists and eight turnovers, which is a really good ratio."

King's stat line was no doubt the standout of the night, as he continued to be Colorado's leading rebounder in Pac-12 play.

But the Buffs had plenty of help from other players, a necessity on a night when Johnson and Gordon didn't play.

Not only did the Buffs get contributions from virtually everyone, they got them at key moments.

Peters started a 10-0 run in the first half that broke an 18-18 tie by following his own miss and collecting a layup. White then added a layup before Peters scored again, this time getting a slam dunk courtesy of a Collier steal and assist. The Buffs then added four more free throws — two each from Collier and Miller — to take a 28-18 lead with 8:35 to go in the half.

The Buffs also turned up the defense in that stretch, forcing five consecutive empty UW possessions, including a pair of turnovers — two of Washington's 10 in the first half. The Huskies briefly cut the gap back to six, but Colorado rebuilt the cushion to 14, then took an 11-point edge into the locker room at the half, 42-31.

BOULDER — History suggested the Colorado-Washington State game Sunday night might be a close one.

The Buffs didn't let history have a say. Colorado put together perhaps its most complete game of the season on both ends of the floor, rolling to an 81-49 win at home, the Buffs' fifth victory in their last six games.

Colorado improved to 15-11 overall and 5-8 in Pac-12 play while the Cougars, who lost for the fifth time in their last six games, fell to 11-14, 4-9.

HOW IT HAPPENED: The last time the two teams met, the Buffs dropped a 91-89 overtime decision — the third overtime contest between the two teams in their last five meetings.

The Buffs never gave overtime a chance in this one. CU used a 13-0 run late in the first half to build a 33-17 lead and take a 37-24 edge into the locker room at halftime. Colorado then scored the first seven points of the second half and the Cougars never came closer than 15 again, with the Buffs building the margin to as much as 35 down the stretch.

"That was our best all-around performance we've had all year," head coach Tad Boyle said. "There's not a lot of things I can point to as a coach that I was disappointed in. I thought our guys defended, they rebounded, we turned them over 24 times and we had 16 assists and 11 turnovers, a good ratio. Overall it was a great team effort."

Indeed, the Buffs dominated in virtually every facet of the game. Four Buffs scored in double figures, led by Derrick White, who finished with 23 points, three assists and three steals. George King and Tory Miller both added 11 points and four rebounds while Bryce Peters had 12 points, two assists, two rebounds and two steals as CU shot 51.6 percent from the floor (32-for-62).

Defensively, the Buffs were equally dominant. Colorado forced WSU into a season-high 24 turnovers — nine more than in any previous Pac-12 game — and CU converted those miscues into 34 points. The Buffs also had a 37-24 edge on the boards and held Washington State to just 38.6 percent shooting (17-for-44).

The difference between the Jan. 21 loss at WSU and Sunday night's win couldn't be more dramatic. In the first game, the Cougars shot 53 percent from the field (35-for-65), including 50 percent from 3-point range. Sunday, they managed only 44 shots and made just 17.

The explanation, White said, is simple.

"We guarded," the CU senior said. "They scored 91 points (in WSU) and tonight they scored 49 points. We've committed to the defensive end. We talked about it early but we really didn't commit to it. So these last few games, starting with the Oregon game, we committed to the defensive end and that is the reason we're on this run right now."

The Buffs put Sunday's game away late in the first half with the 13-0 run. King started the run with a baseline drive and two-handed jam. Miller then added a bucket inside, Peters hit a 3-pointer and Lucas Siewert then looped in a turnaround jump-hook before Josh Fortune closed the run with another 3-pointer, giving Colorado a 33-17 lead with 2:40 to go in the half.

Colorado led 37-24 at the half, then scored the first seven points of the second half to bump the lead to 20. WSU managed to briefly cut the lead to 15, but Colorado quickly regained control and steadily built the lead for the rest of the game, pushing it to as much as 35 in the final minutes.

CU also turned in another solid game in the point. Senior Wesley Gordon returned after a two-game suspension and finished with seven points and seven rebounds, and along with Miller, accounted for 18 of the Buffs 42 points inside.

Gordon and Miller also did a solid job on WSU big men Josh Hawkinson and Connor Clifford, limiting the duo to just 12 points. Hawkinson's eight points were only the fourth time this season he's been held to single digits.

EUGENE, Ore. — Colorado's hopes of collecting a much-needed road win over a ranked foe lasted for roughly 16 minutes Saturday.

With 9:45 to go in the first half, the Buffs had matched No. 7 Oregon punch for punch and held a 25-23 lead over the Ducks on their home floor. With 3:57 to go in the half, the Buffs still trailed by just three after a Lucas Siewert 3-pointer pulled Colorado to within 35-32.

But from that point on, the two teams went in decidedly different directions. Colorado went ice cold, the Ducks put together a 10-0 run to close the half and continued the onslaught after intermission. By the time the dust had cleared, the Buffs were on the short end of a long afternoon, 101-73.

The loss dropped Colorado to 16-12 overall and 6-9 in Pac-12 play. Oregon, which collected its 42nd straight home win, improved to 24-4, 13-2, while avenging a 74-65 loss in Boulder in late January.

George King led Colorado with 18 points and Dominique Collier added 13. Oregon's Dillon Brooks led all scorers with 23.

HOW IT HAPPENED: The Buffs kept it close in the early going and actually led with less than 10 minutes to go in the first half. Oregon hit its first five 3-point tries to take an early 19-11 lead, but the Buffs responded with a 10-2 run to tie the game at 21-21, then took a 25-23 lead with 9:45 to go in the half on a pair of Deleon Brown free throws.

The Buffs fueled their comeback by hitting six of seven field goal tries, including a 3-pointer and short jumper from Derrick White. At that point, the Buffs were shooting better than 50 percent from the floor, including from behind the 3-point line.

But after taking the two-point edge, the Buffs went cold and the Ducks stayed hot. Oregon built its lead to 35-27 before Colorado managed to close the gap to 35-32 on buckets from King and Siewert, only to see the Ducks close the half on a 10-0 run. CU began taking ill-advised 3-pointers and missed its last six shots of the half, allowing Oregon to carry a 45-32 lead into the locker room at intermission.

"It's senior night here and they were loaded for bear," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "We knew that coming in, that they would be ready for us, and they were. But I tell you what, we came out of the chute ready, too. We were toe to toe with them there for the first 15 minutes. But then our offense got very very stagnant and we kind of became '3-dependent.' They just kept rolling for the whole 40 minutes."

Any hopes the Buffs had of coming back in the second half were quickly snuffed as the Ducks opened the period with a 19-2 surge for a 64-34 lead with 13:13 still to play. The Buffs never closed the gap to less than 26 the rest of the game.

White, who had 23 points in the Buffs' win in Boulder, was held to just 10 points on 4-for-10 shooting.

"You have to give them some credit," Boyle said. "They played extremely well. They're legit. We knew that when they were in Boulder and they showed it tonight. Part of this you have to tip your hat to Oregon, the other part you've got to learn from if you're Colorado."

The Buffs were dominated in virtually every statistical category. Colorado shot just 43.3 percent from the field (26-for-60), including a 9-for-27 effort from beyond the arc. The Ducks shot 57.6 percent for the game (34-for-59), including 16-for-29 on 3-point attempts.

CU was also outrebounded 38-24, and while the Buffs committed just 12 turnovers, the Ducks converted those miscues into 21 points.

BOULDER — The script may have been slightly different but the ending was the same for the Colorado Buffaloes.

Despite 31 points from senior Derrick White, the Buffs lost their seventh straight game to Utah, an 86-81 decision Thursday night at the Coors Events Center.

The loss, the Buffs' second in a row, dropped them to 16-13 overall and 6-10 in Pac-12 play while Utah improved to 18-10, 9-7.

"Our defense wasn't good enough tonight," head coach Tad Boyle said. "I mean Utah just came in here and schooled us. For us to beat anybody in this league, especially somebody like Utah who's as efficient and good as they are offensively, we can't have as many breakdowns as we had. We didn't guard the 3-point line, we didn't guard the basket, we didn't guard the ball, our ball screen defense was atrocious. We knew going in it was going to be a key, it wasn't good enough. It cost us the game."

Despite the defensive lapses, the Buffs had their chances down the stretch.

A White 3-pointer pulled the Buffs to within 81-78 with 1:36 remaining but Utah answered with a David Collette layup as the shot clock was set to expire. Colorado then closed to within two on three Dominique Collier free throws with 37.8 seconds remaining and stayed within three when Utah's Tyler Rawson hit just one of two free throws.

But Collier missed a 3-pointer on CU's next trip down the floor and the Utes were able to close the game out at the free throw line, hitting five in the final 30 seconds.

White led the Buffs in scoring with 31 and also had a team-high six rebounds and five assists. Kyle Kuzma led Utah with 25 points.

Utah shot 55.3 percent from the field (26-for-47), including a 9-for-19 night from 3-point range. The Buffs finished at 44.1 percent (26-for-59) and 8-for-24 from beyond the arc.

HOW IT HAPPENED: After falling behind 7-0 early, the Buffs slowly climbed back into the game and finally took a 15-13 lead at the 11:50 mark of the first half on a Lucas Siewert 3-pointer.

But the lead didn't last long. Utah answered with a 19-5 run, closing the burst with back-to-back 3-pointers to take a 32-20 edge with 5:25 remaining and Colorado never led again. Colorado did manage to cut the margin to eight, getting nine straight points from White and a George King bucket to narrow Utah's lead to 37-29 at the half.

The Utes hit 14 of their 26 field goal tries in the first half, including a 6-for-12 effort from 3-point range. The Buffs, meanwhile, were just 12-for-32 (37.5 percent) while hitting only four of their 13 3-point tries.

"I thought in the first half our offense got selfish and we took bad shots and that caused some problems for us," Boyle said. "I thought the second half our offense was much better. We shared the ball, we attacked the paint. I thought our defense wasn't good enough the whole game."

The Buffs did make a brief run early in the second half, jumping out with a 7-2 run to pull within three, 39-36.

But Colorado then turned the ball over three straight times and the Utes were more than happy to convert the miscues into three points and rebuild the cushion to eight, 44-36. From that point on, the Utes held the Buffs at bay until Colorado was able to close the gap in the final two minutes.

"We weren't consistent enough," Boyle said. "We cut the thing to six multiple times. We kept scoring the second half. We scored 52 points. But we could not get stops when we needed to get stops."

Indeed, Colorado scored unanswered points only three times in the entire second half, with the Buffs' longest run of the half just five points.

BOULDER — One game after putting on an offensive clinic against Stanford, the Colorado Buffaloes struggled to find the basket Saturday afternoon against Cal.

But the Buffs did play solid defense, and when it mattered most, they scored — enough to come away with a 54-46 win over Bears in the regular season finale for both teams.

The win improved Colorado to 18-13 overall and 8-10 in Pac-12 play and, combined with Arizona State's loss to Arizona on Saturday, clinched the No. 7 seed for CU in the Pac-12 tournament.

The Buffs shot just 34 percent from the field (16-for-47) but they also held Cal to just 27.3 percent shooting (15-for-55).

"This was the old-school grind-it-out Colorado basketball," head coach Tad Boyle said. "Obviously if you put that offensive performance on Thursday with the defensive performance today and you've got the recipe for beating anybody. ... We put it all together, defense and offense, we can beat anybody in this league. But we also know if we don't we could be one and done and on the way home."

Fittingly, it was a 3-point bucket from senior Derrick White on Senior Day that clinched Saturday's win. With 20 seconds remaining and the shot clock ticking down, White buried a trey in front of the CU bench to give the Buffs a 52-46 lead with just 20.6 seconds remaining. CU senior Xavier Johnson then hit two free throws with 5.9 seconds on the clock to finish the scoring.

Johnson led the Buffs in scoring with 19 points and White added 17 to go with eight rebounds and a game-high four assists. Junior George King had just five points, but added a team-high nine rebounds, eight coming in the second half. Ivan Rabb had 11 points and 13 rebounds for the Bears.

HOW IT HAPPENED: After trailing for much of the first half, the Buffs finally took the lead eight minutes into the second half when a Dominique Collier 3-pointer gave Colorado a 35-32 edge.

But the big play of the half might have been a spectacular King one-handed follow-dunk that tied the game at 32-32. King's basket ignited a previously sedate crowd and when Collier's 3-pointer gave Colorado the lead, the crowd helped carry the Buffs the rest of the way.

"That was a big-time play," Boyle said. "George has the ability to make those kind of plays, game-changing type plays."

But the Buffs could not manage to build a cushion bigger than five points over the ensuing eight minutes, and it took another Collier 3-pointer — coming as the shot clock was about to expire — to give the Buffs some breathing room in the final three minutes. Collier hit the bucket just after the Bears had closed the gap to one, 44-43, and two Johnson free throws a minute later pushed the margin to six.

Along with leading the Buffs in scoring, Johnson also spent much of his afternoon shadowing Cal's Rabb, the Bears' leading scorer and rebounder. Rabb needed 4-for-11 shooting to produce his 11 points — including just four after halftime — and missed two shots in the final minutes as the Bears attempted to close the gap.

The Buffs trailed by three at the half, thanks to shooting woes and a healthy Cal edge on the boards. CU's big men ran into foul trouble early — Wesley Gordon drew his second foul barely two minutes into the game and Tory Miller was whistled for his second a minute later — leaving the Bears' big men to roam the point virtually unimpeded. The Bears held a 28-19 rebounding edge by halftime, which produced eight second-chance points and helped Cal to a 25-22 halftime lead.

LAS VEGAS — Earlier this week, Colorado senior Derrick White said conference tournaments are moments when players make big-time plays.

White delivered exactly that for the Buffs on Wednesday, fueling a furious second-half Colorado rally that produced a 73-63 win over Washington State in the opening round of the Pac-12 tournament at T-Mobile Arena.

The win, Colorado's third in a row and ninth in their last 12 games, means the Buffs' season is alive for at least another day. The seventh-seeded Buffs (19-13) will face second seed Arizona on Thursday in a 7 p.m. matchup.

"It was a tale of two halves, obviously," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "First half, I thought our defense was atrocious. ... But our second half, our guys really dialed in, and the numbers show it."

Indeed, the Buffs appeared on their way to a one-and-done appearance after the first 20 minutes, a half in which they trailed by as much as 19 and were still down by 14 at intermission, 41-27.

But sparked by 15 points and four assists from White in the second half, the Buffs went on a 32-11 tear to turn a 14-point halftime deficit into a seven-point lead, 59-52, with just more than six minutes to go.

The Cougars then rallied to cut the margin back to two, but the Buffs quickly rebuilt the cushion to hold WSU at bay down the stretch for the win.

White finished with 26 points, five rebounds and five assists and Xavier Johnson added 19 points and six rebounds. Tory Miller had just three points but added a team-high nine rebounds.

Charles Collison and Ike Iroegbu each scored 16 for WSU while Josh Hawkinson finished his career with a 12-point, 12-rebound double-double.

HOW IT HAPPENED: After a first half in which the Buffs' defense seemed half-hearted and their offense struggled from everywhere on the floor, White helped reverse the momentum with a terrific start to the second half.

The Buffs opened the half with a 3-pointer from Dominique Collier, followed by seven straight points from White in a 10-2 CU run that cut WSU's once-comfortable margin to six. Two minutes later, White added six more points, then provided three assists in an 14-2 run that finally gave Colorado the lead.

White opened the stretch with a dish to Johnson that yielded a 3-pointer that gave CU a 52-49 lead, its first lead since 3-2. White then added another assist to Wesley Gordon for an easy layup, then finished with a toss to Johnson for an alley-oop tip and 56-52 edge.

Johnson, who had 12 of his 19 points after halftime, completed the run with a slam dunk in transition off an assist from George King, and an ensuing free throw gave the Buffs a 59-52 lead with just 6:16 remaining.

The Cougars did manage to cut the CU lead back to two, 60-58, and again at 62-60 with 2:28 remaining. But the Buffs answered with a King basket inside, Johnson produced a pair of big rebounds — one on each end of the floor — and White found Josh Fortune for a huge 3-pointer with just more than two minutes to go to bump Colorado's cushion back to five.

The statistical differences between the two halves were indeed stark. The Cougars shot 56.7 percent in the first half (17-for-30), then just 30.8 percent after halftime (8-for-26). The Buffs, meanwhile, after hitting just eight of their first 25 shots came back to hit 15 of 28 after halftime. Colorado also won the rebound battle, 37-29, by producing 10 more boards after intermission.

Colorado never found a rhythm in the first half. After the Cougars jumped out to a 9-3 lead, the Buffs managed to cut the gap to 9-7 — only to see Washington State put together a 21-4 run that gave WSU a 30-11 lead with seven minutes to go in the half.

Colorado managed to reduce the deficit to 14 by half, but still entered halftime trailing 41-27.

ORLANDO, Fla. — Another spectacular performance from senior Derrick White couldn't save the Colorado Buffaloes on Wednesday.

Despite a 30-point, six-rebound, six-assist night from White, the Buffs dropped a 79-74 decision to UCF at CFE Arena in their NIT opener. The loss ended CU's season at 19-15, only the second time in the seven-year Tad Boyle era that the Buffs failed to reach the 20-win plateau.

Colorado fought back from a 12-point deficit in the first half to trail by just four at the half before White scored CU's first six points of the second half to tie the game at 40-40.

But UCF slowly built the lead back to as much as 13, then held Colorado off down the stretch at the free throw line. Colorado actually had five more field goals than the Knights, but the Buffs shot just 30-for-71 from the field, including only 9-for-33 from 3-point range. The Knights were 25-for-46 from the field, including 12-for-22 from beyond the arc.

UCF also made 17 of its 32 free throws while Colorado shot just six free shots and made five.

"This game kind of encapsulates the whole season when you look at it from a lot of different perspectives," Boyle said. "We dug ourselves a hole, we had to climb out of it and we did climb out of it. We battled, we fought, we scratched, we clawed. We had to overcome a lot of adversity. I'm proud of our fight."

"But at some point in these high-level games at the end of the year ... you have to make shots when the shots are there to be made. We had some open looks that we didn't make. They had open looks and they made them."

Two other Buffs playing in their last game in a CU uniform also finished in double digits, with Xavier Johnson scoring 13 and Josh Fortune adding 12.

HOW IT HAPPENED: Even after trailing by 13 with less than two minutes to go in the game, the Buffs very nearly forced the game into overtime.

Thanks to the Knights missing four of six free throws over the next minute and a half, Colorado was able to cut a 72-59 deficit to 74-71 with 23 seconds to go on a White 3-pointer, then narrow the gap to 76-74 nine seconds later on a Johnson trey.

UCF's A.J. Davis then made just one of two free throws on the Knights' next possession, but a White 3-point attempt with six seconds remaining banged off the rim and Davis then sealed the win with two more free throws.

"Our guys fought," Boyle said. "We came back, it was a one-possession game and Derrick had a great look to tie that thing and it didn't go in. They shot 32 free throws, we shot six. Now 14 of them, we were fouling at the end intentionally. You take those 14 away, they shoot 18 free throws, we shoot 6. Big difference in terms of being able to get to the free throw line. We weren't able to, they were."

The Buffs also couldn't get stops when they most needed them. Every time they closed the gap, the Knights answered with a mini-run to rebuild a cushion.

"That was our problem all year," White said. "We didn't guard well enough to win today. We didn't guard well enough to win all year long. That was our biggest issue."

One thing that wasn't as big of an issue as the Buffs thought it might be was the presence of 7-foot-6 UCF center Tacko Fall. While Fall finished with 10 points and eight rebounds, he had only four points and three rebounds after intermission.

The Buffs trailed 25-13 midway through the first half before closing the gap to four by intermission, 38-34. They momentarily tied the game at 40, but fell behind again by double digits before the final rally fell just short.

B.J. Taylor led UCF with 26 points on 7-for-13 shooting, including 5-for-8 from 3-point range.

2016-17 IN REVIEW

THE SEASON: Colorado finished the 2016-17 season at 19-15 overall and finished the regular season in sole possession of seventh place in the Pac-12 at 8-10. The Buffaloes received a bid to the 2017 Postseason NIT, dropping a first round game at UCF, 79-74.

Colorado had a roller coaster season. The Buffaloes had a solid nonconference season with a record of 10-3 including wins over ranked teams in No. 13/14 Xavier at home and No. 22/21 Texas in Brooklyn. It marked the fifth time in seven seasons under head coach Tad Boyle CU finished with at least 10 wins prior to the tip-off of the conference slate.

However, the beginning of the Pac-12 season was a different story. Colorado lost its first seven conference games, aided by a treacherous stretch with five of seven on the road. During that span, Colorado faced three straight ranked teams for just the fourth time in team history and began conference play with three road games for the first time in 85 years, when the 1931-32 Buffaloes had their first three Rocky Mountain Conference games away from Boulder.

The Buffaloes rallied though, paving their way to the postseason with an 8-3 mark to finish off the regular season. Overall, Colorado won nine of its final 14 games which allowed the Buffaloes to add onto their own program-best record with a seventh-straight postseason appearance.

Senior Derrick White led the Buffaloes at 18.1 points, 4.4 assists and 1.2 steals per game while shooting 51 percent from the field and 81 percent from the free throw line in his lone season at the base of the Flatirons. He was named to the Pac-12's 2017 All-Conference First Team, All-Defensive Team and All-Tournament Team. He was also selected to the USBWA All-District VIII First Team and NABC All-District 20 Second Team.

On the Pac-12 leaderboard, White ranked third in scoring, fifth in free throw percentage, sixth in assists, seventh in blocks (1.4 bpg), 10th in assist-to-turnover ratio (1.8), 14th in 3-point percentage (.396) and steals and 15th in field goal percentage. He was one of two players, joining the NBA Draft's No. 1 overall pick, Washington's Markelle Fultz, to rank in the Pac-12 Top 10 in scoring, assists and blocked shots.

White was the league's second-leading scorer during the conference season at 18.5 points an outing. He had 14 games with at least 20 points, 11 of those coming against Pac-12 competition and included in that were three of his four 30-point outings. He's the ninth player with four or more 30 point games in a CU career and first with four in one season since Chauncey Billups in 1995-96.

White finished the 2016-17 season with 615 points, ranking seventh at Colorado in a single season while also ranking eighth in assists (148), 10th in field goals (205) and 11th in blocks. His 49 blocks are the most by a guard in a season in team history. White was named the Chauncey Billups Award winner as the team's MVP.

White was selected by the San Antonio Spurs in the first round of the 2017 NBA Draft with the 29th overall pick.

Senior Xavier Johnson was second on the team in scoring (14.8 ppg) while ranking third in rebounding (5.9 rpg), steals (17) and 3-pointers made (39). Johnson averaged 19.5 points and 6.5 rebounds at the Pac-12 Tournament.

On the Pac-12 Conference season charts he was 15th in scoring and 18th in rebounding.

He's finished his career in 11th place on CU's all-time scoring list with 1,463 points while also ranking seventh in 3-point field goals (130) and games played (127) and 11th in starts (97), rebounds (705) and minutes (3,387).

Johnson is on a short list with Colorado greats Donnie Boyce and Richard Roby as players with 125 3-point field goals and 600 rebounds.

Wesley Gordon

George King led the Buffaloes in rebounding at 6.8 per game while ranking third in scoring at 11.1 points an outing. He more than doubled his rebounding output from his first two seasons combined (61 games).

King was 13th in overall rebounds, 14th in defensive boards (4.8 drpg) and 15th in offensive rebounds (2.0 orpg). King shot 37.6 percent from 3-point range on the season, but that number skyrocketed to 47.8 percent during Pac-12 play, ranking fifth in the conference during that span.

King recorded his team season-best sixth double-double of the season with 21 points and 12 rebounds in the home win over Washington - both game highs. He matched a season-high eight field goals, registering his 10th career game with 20-plus points.

His first four double-doubles came in a seven-game span during the nonconference schedule, including a 16-point, 10-rebound effort vs. Xavier. King was 11th in the Pac-12 with his six double-doubles and also led the Buffaloes with six double-figure rebound outings.

Wesley Gordon topped the team in blocks average (1.5 bpg) while ranking second in rebounding (6.3 rpg), assists (1.9 apg) and fourth in scoring (6.7 ppg). He ranked sixth in blocks, ninth in offensive rebounds (2.3 orpg) and 14th in overall boards on the Pac-12 season leaderboard.

He was one of the top defensive players in the Pac-12 over his four-year career, and among the select greats in Colorado history. He is just the second player in team history to reach 200 career blocked shots, joining David Harrison (2001-04) and his school record of 225. Gordon finished his career with 204 blocks, ranking eighth in Pac-12 history. On Colorado's career charts he ranked third in starts (122), fifth in games played (131), sixth in rebounds (882) and 10th in minutes (3,405). Gordon scored 870 career points (6.6 ppg), 41st on CU's all-time list.

He is the first Colorado player since 1977-78 to record 40 blocks in four straight seasons. Gordon was a four-time team Best Defender Award winner (voted on by the players). Finished his career with 12 double-doubles, 25 double-figure rebound games and 35 double-figure scoring games.

Josh Fortune averaged 6.0 points per game, ranking third on the team in assists (51) and fourth in 3-point field goals (31). Fortune hit the 1,000 point milestone for his collegiate career (including two years at Providence) during his 11-point performance at Oregon. He finished his career with 1,037 points, scoring 556 in two seasons with the Buffaloes. He had a solid season from the free throw line hitting on 85.7 percent of his attempts (48 of 56), which included a string of 19 straight early in the season.

Dominique Collier ranked fifth on the team in scoring at 6.0 points per game while averaging 1.6 assists and just under one steal per contest. He was second on the team in total steals (24) despite missing nine games early in the season with a foot injury. All 24 of his steals came during Pac-12 Conference play, allowing him to be ranked 12th on the league leaderboard during that span.

Junior Tory Miller averaged 5.6 points and 4.0 rebounds while shooting 54 percent as the first front court player off the bench. He played in 32 games averaging 15.8 minutes an outing, the most for a Buffalo who came off the bench for at least half the season. His shooting improved to 59 percent during Pac-12 Conference games, hitting on 48 of 82 field goal attempts.

Sophomore Thomas Akyazili was fifth on the team in assists (39) while scoring just under two points per contest. Colorado's active freshman class of Deleon Brown, Bryce Peters and Lucas Siewert made good contributions over the course of the season. The trio were rewarded for their hard work, by starting the home Oregon State game; the initial collegiate starts for Peters and Siewert and the third for Brown. As a group they averaged 10.6 points and 4.2 rebounds per game.

2012 Pac-12 Champions

1997 1ST ROUND DRAFT PICK
CHAUNCEY BILLUPS

5-time NBA All-Star, 2004 NBA Champion, 2004 NBA Finals MVP
17-Year NBA Career (Retired Sept. 2014)

COLORADO BASKETBALL HISTORY

A program first known as the Silver and Gold, won its first game back on Jan. 10, 1902 defeating State Prep School, 34-10. That game marked the beginning of what was to become an outstanding tradition of basketball at CU.

Although there have been many changes over the years from that first victory, the Silver and Gold became known as the Buffaloes in 1934, after CU students rented a buffalo calf for the final football game that year. Colorado has been a member of six conferences, joining the Rocky Mountain Conference in 1909, and then the Mountain States in 1937. The Buffs became a member of the Big Seven Conference in 1947, which became the Big Eight in 1958. The Big Eight and Southwest Conferences merged to create the Big 12 Conference in 1996, which Colorado was a member of until joining the Pac-12 Conference in 2011.

A total of 18 coaches have guided the Buffs to victory, but none more so than past leaders of Forrest B. "Frosty" Cox, H.B. Lee, Russell "Sox" Walseth, Ricardo Patton, and Tad Boyle.

1940 NIT Champions, Two Final Fours

The first coach to make a solid presence on the coaching sideline was Cox, who spent 13 years roaming the Balch Fieldhouse from 1936-50. Cox collected a 147-89 (.623) record with his 1937-38 team reaching the championship game of the National Invitation Tournament before falling to Temple. While at the helm, Cox's teams won four Mountain States titles, won the 1940 NIT, advanced to the 1940 NCAA Tournament and 1942 NCAA Final Four. He concluded his CU career with the best won-lost percentage (.623) of any CU coach of more than one season.

Some of CU basketball's finest moments were orchestrated by Lee from 1951-56. Lee took control of the CU squad in 1950, and in four short seasons he guided the Buffs to their first NCAA Tournament appearance in eight years (1953-54). During that season, the Buffaloes established themselves as a contender defeating NCAA runner-up Kansas on Feb. 2 (70-62).

The following year (1954-55), CU performed a feat not familiar in present day basketball, sweeping the Jayhawks in the season series, a feat only accomplished four other times (1948-49, 1958-59, 1961-62, 1962-63). Colorado made its second trip to the Final Four falling to San Francisco in the semifinals, however redeeming themselves in the third place game, defeating Iowa. That season saw Lee's squad win a then-school-best 19 games and secure a pair of Big Seven titles (one shared).

From 1957-76, basketball was under the direction of Walseth. His 261 wins are the most by any coach in school basketball history. Walseth led the Buffs to back-to-back Big Eight titles in 1961-62 and 1962-63, and both teams reached the NCAA second round before being eliminated by Cincinnati.

Walseth also engineered six Big Eight placings where his teams finished third or better in the conference, including three first place tallies (one shared). During the 1968-69 season, Walseth's team won a then-school best 21 games and during his tenure won 14 or more games in a season 11 times. His teams also had 13 winning seasons. Today, CU now plays on the "Sox Walseth Floor" in the Coors Events Center, a tribute to Walseth's success as a Buff.

Coaches are not solely responsible for the success of each season, and the Buffs have had a wealth of outstanding talent on the hardwood in its proud past. Outstanding Buff performers range from Jack Harvey, CU's first All-American; to Burdette Haldorson, who led CU to consecutive Big Seven titles in 1953-54 and 1954-55; Cliff Meely; Scott Wedman; Jay Humphries to Chauncey Billups, CU's highest NBA Draftee (drafted third overall in the first round of the 1997 NBA Draft by the Boston Celtics).

The "Big Burd," as Haldorson was called, won the league scoring race in both championship seasons, netting 21.3 and 23.9 points per game, respectively. After CU finished third in the 1955 NCAA Tournament, Haldorson was selected to the AAU All-America team. His 13.8 rebounds per game that year is still a CU single season record. He also owns the record for most rebounds in a game, pulling down 31 in a 1952 effort against Oklahoma.

Meely became another familiar name to CU fans and opponents from 1968 to 1971. The sensational center-forward is CU's second all-time rebounder (971 boards, 12.1 avg.). In addition, Meely held a number of Big Eight scoring marks when his collegiate career ended in 1971.

Named an All-American for his performance during his senior campaign, Meely averaged of 28.0 points and hauled in 11.9 rebounds per game. His 47-point, 25-rebound outing against Oklahoma was one highlight of that milestone season. That 1971 season capped a highly successful college career for Meely, as he led the Buffs to the conference title in 1968-69.

Frosty Cox

Sox Walseth

Chauncey Billups

The next Buff to make an impact was Wedman, a sharp-shooting forward from 1971-74. Wedman came to CU from Denver's Mullen High School and led the team in scoring and rebounding for two years, field goal percentage three years, and free throw percentage one year. Before leaving Colorado, Wedman was firmly established in the school record books.

His numbers placed him sixth in rebounding (No. 13 today), seventh in scoring (No. 21 today), and eighth in field goal percentage. After enjoying a successful 12-year stint in the NBA, Wedman concluded his professional career in 1987 with the Boston Celtics.

Coors Events Center and the Rise of the '90s

Another major change in Colorado basketball came in 1979, when the team moved into the Colorado Events/Conference Center with its spacious seating capacity of 11,076. The facility was renamed the Coors Events/Conference Center in 1990, in honor of a donation made by Coors to the campus. Many names and faces have helped make Colorado basketball special. There have been those, however, whose contributions stand out. Today, it's simply called the Coors Events Center.

Arguably the best and most exciting Buff of the 1980s was guard Jay Humphries from 1980-84. While running the offense, Humphries became the school's all-time assist leader (562), where he still is today and finishing fourth in scoring (1,306 points; today he's No. 17). His specialty, however, was defensive play. He finished as the Buffs' all-time leader in steals, a record he still holds today with 309 (2.8 spg.), and led the nation in hefts during the 1982-83 campaign with 115.

CU closed out the 1980s and began a new decade of Buffalo basketball with two greats, Shaun Vandiver and Stevie Wise. Both Vandiver and Wise were instrumental in the school's run through the 1991 National Invitation Tournament, CU's first postseason appearance since making the NCAA Tourney in 1969. And before it was over, the Buffaloes had played to a standing room only crowd in the Coors Events Center, cutting down the nets there after defeating Arkansas State to advance to the NIT's Final Four in New York City, and eventually finished third in the tournament.

Vandiver, a 6'10" center, a transfer to CU in 1988 after leading Hutchinson CC to the junior college national championship, worked his way up the Buff charts with an excellent shooting touch and a desire to hit the boards. He finished his three-year career as the Buffs' all-time leader in field goal percentage (.574, 750-of-1307). His 1,876 points and 962 boards, both currently rank fifth in school history.

Wise too, left his mark in the CU record books. Coming to Boulder as a guard in 1987, he managed to suit up for 119 games in a Colorado uniform, at the time the fifth most in team history. Like Vandiver, he too loved to shoot, and is one of the Buffs' all-time three-point specialists, holding several of CU's three-point shooting marks. Wise also finished his career as the No. 3 scorer (1,727 points) and sits in seventh today.

Donnie Boyce marked the onset of the 1990s, as the Maywood, Ill., product took CU and the Big Eight by storm. After four incredible seasons, Boyce walked away as the then-all-time leading scorer (1,995 points) in school history and led the Buffs to an NIT bid at the end of his senior season, 1994-95. He became the first of two CU Buffs (Richard Roby, 2004-08) to lead the team in scoring all four years. His 1,995 career points is now third overall.

Boyce, however, never enjoyed postseason play, as he suffered a broken leg that ended his collegiate career during CU's game with Oklahoma in the opening round of the 1995 Big Eight Tournament. Nonetheless, Boyce was drafted by the Atlanta Hawks with the 42nd pick in the second round of the 1995 NBA Draft. With numerous school records in tow, Boyce is remembered as one of the best players in CU history.

Chauncey Billups continued CU's tradition of great players as he made his mark early in his career. In only his fourth game as a freshman, Billups posted the first triple-double in CU history. His 24-point, 11-assist, 11-rebound game against George Mason was a harbinger of great things to come for the 6'3" product from George Washington High School in Denver.

As a sophomore, Billups would lead Colorado to its first NCAA appearance (1996-97) in 28 years and earn many postseason accolades, including All-Big 12 first-team honors and first-team freshman All-America kudos from Basketball Weekly and Basketball Times. In two years, Billups scored over 1,000 points (1,020), becoming the 20th player in CU history to accomplish that feat.

Into the 21st Century

The next great point-guard, Jaquay Walls, guided CU toward back-to-back 18 win seasons, both of which brought NIT bids. A college transfer who made his impact immediately, Walls was named honorable mention All-Big 12 and to the All-Newcomer team in his junior season.

CU greets Jay Humphries and the late-Cliff Meely on the night when the Coors Events Center set an attendance record Dec. 5, 2012. The Buffs defeated Colorado State, 70-61 in front of 11,708 spectators.

CU IN THE HISTORY BOOKS

Colorado is one of just 12 schools to have ever qualified for the NCAA Tournament and the National Invitation Tournament (NIT) in the same year, as the Buffaloes made dual appearances in 1940, becoming the first school to ever do that. That year, CU won the NIT and finished fourth in the NCAA West Region. The other schools that have matched this feat are: Arizona (1951), Bradley (1950), Brigham Young (1951), City College of New York (which won both tournaments in 1950), Dayton (1952), Duquesne (1952), Kentucky (1949), North Carolina State (1951), St. John's (1951 and 1952), St. Louis University (1952), and Utah (1944).

David Harrison

As a senior, he was twice named Big 12 Player of the Week and had a 42-point performance against Iowa State, which became the Big 12 season high, all-time conference record, as well as the top scoring performance by a Buff at the Coors Events Center. His 15 overtime points in that game was also an NCAA record. That spring, he was selected by the Indiana Pacers in the NBA Draft.

Continuing the powerful scoring tradition, Jamahl Mosley ended a four-year CU career as the 13th highest scorer ever for the Buffs finishing with 1,171 points (24th today). He brought many accolades to himself and the Colorado program including Academic All-Big 12 as a freshman, All-Big 12 and named to the AP's All-Improved team as a junior, and as a senior, received numerous accolades as the Buffs' veteran leader.

Seven-footer David Harrison made his presence felt during the 2001-02 season being named to the Big 12 All-Freshman team and leading the Buffaloes in scoring (13.9 ppg). The only other players in CU history to stand over seven feet are Frank Wilcox (1955-56) and Ben Mills (2010-14). Harrison also rewrote the CU record book in field goal percentage finishing the season with a stellar 63.8 percentage and third nationally, in addition to making his name synonymous with the CU blocked shot record lists.

Harrison set a school-record 106 swats during the 2002-03 season, shattering the previous mark of 73. He also became the first player in school history and in the Big 12 to record a pair of triple-doubles (31 pts., 17 reb., 10 blocks against Stetson; 20 pts., 11 blocks, 10 rebs. versus Nebraska).

Also during this span, Stephane Pelle emerged as another dominant player in CU basketball. Pelle, a four-year standout, was the first CU player in 11 years to average a double-double during the 2001-02 campaign. Averaging 12.8 points and 10.8 rebounds per game, Pelle was named to the Big 12 All-Underrated team.

In 2002-03, CU made its first NCAA Tournament appearance since 1996-97. With 20 victories on the season, another feat only accomplished twice before by Patton in 1996-97 (22-10) and Sox Walseth in 1968-69 (21-7), the Buffaloes also upset four nationally ranked teams — all at home for the first-time ever.

Individually, the Buffaloes received four All-Big 12 honors with Michel Morandais (second team) along with Pelle earning conference third-team. Morandais and Harrison also were named to the Big 12's specialty teams as two of the conference's most-improved players. Pelle capped his four-year career with 1,367 points and 1,054 rebounds becoming the first of two CU men's basketball players to secure both 1,000 plateaus (Andre Roberson: 2010-13: 1,012pts., 1,045 rebs.). Pelle would go on to become — and to this day — is the school's all-time leading rebounder (1,054); he's No. 13 in scoring (1,367 pts.).

During the 2003-04 campaign, CU won 18 games for the fifth time under Patton and earning its third NIT berth in eight years. More impressively, the Buffaloes won 10 conference games, the most since recording 11 back in 1996-97 and earning the number four seed at the Big 12 Tournament in Dallas. Harrison also broke the school record for blocks in a career (225) and would on go to rewrite the blocked shot record book despite playing only three years and opting for the 2004 NBA Draft (29th overall, first round, Indiana Pacers).

Other outstanding performances came from Blair Wilson breaking the CU career record for 3-pointers made (257). Earlier in the season, Wilson played "in the zone" draining six treys against Iowa State. In that game, Wilson set or tied four school records against the Cyclones making his first six 3-pointers without a miss (CU Record); tying a half record (6), tying for 3s made in a conference half, and tying consecutive 3-pointers made.

Donnie Boyce

Morandais became the 21st player in CU history to score over 1,000 points in his career. He finished seventh overall with 1,428 (today, he's 12th). Wilson reached the 1,000-point plateau and finished with 1,253 points (20th today). Harrison rounded out the 1,000-point scorers finishing with 1,317.

A near upset at the Big 12 Tournament highlighted a not-so popular 14-16 record in 2004-05. After upsetting No. 6 seed Texas, 81-69 in the first round of the conference tournament, the No. 11 seed Buffaloes became the first school in the nine-year history of the Big 12 to pull off the improbable upset.

The Buffaloes saw the arrival of Richard Roby in 2004-05 as he would become the first freshman since Billups (1995-96) to lead CU in scoring with 16 points per game and net double-digits 26 times in 30 games.

The 2005-06 Buffaloes won 20 games for the fourth time in their history en route to the National Invitational Tournament, with 14 of those coming at the Events Center tying the 2002-03 season for the most ever up until that time. The Buffs also re-wrote the school's 3-point record for made (240) and attempts (701), and Roby became the first CU player since 2003-04 and only the fourth player since 1996-97 to be named All-Big 12 first team. CU also reached the national stage by being ranked in back-to-back ESPN/USA Today Coaches' Polls, a school first since the 1996-97 campaign.

The 2006-07 season would not be one of its best seasons to reflect on, a 7-20 record and a 3-13 mark in the Big 12, school lows since the 1993-94 campaign. Entering his final year of his contract, Patton closed out his 11th full year of coaching with a school-record eight freshmen, the most on a team at one time, since 1993-94. However, it did see some positive headlines on the court.

Roby led the team in scoring for the third-straight year (17.3 ppg.), while senior guard Dominique Coleman became the first guard since Donnie Boyce in 1994-95 to lead CU in rebounding. Coleman grabbed 185 boards and averaged 6.9 caroms a game. One of the team highlights was the upset victory over No. 12/14 Oklahoma State. It marked the fifth straight season a CU team defeated a nationally ranked opponent at home.

From 2007-10 the program was led by Jeff Bzdelik, who came from the United States Air Force Academy, where he led the Buffaloes to a 36-58 (.383) record. His best season was his last, a 15-16 mark and 6-10 in the Big 12 in 2009-10. Over his three seasons with the Buffs, Bzdelik experienced a series of near-misses, losing 27 single-digit games, 18 of those in the Big 12. The 27 losses were an average of 4.6 points.

In 2007-08, Richard Roby set the school scoring record becoming the first CU men's basketball player to eclipse the 2,000-point barrier netting 2,001 points (Cory Higgins would tie the mark from 2007-11). He would go on to set numerous school records over his outstanding four-year career. The Buffaloes became the first team in Big 12 history as the No. 12 seed in its post-season tournament to beat a No. 5 seed (Baylor).

Roby became the second Buff in its history to lead the team in scoring all four years (Boyce was the other).

In 2008-09, CU saw sophomore guard Cory Higgins become one of only 13 players nationally to lead or finish second on his team in five major statistical categories (points, rebounds, assists, steals, blocked shots). He also ranked nationally in a trio of categories (steals, FT%, scoring).

In 2009-10, the Buffs provided a duel offensive punch with Higgins and super freshman Alec Burks. Higgins, garnered his second straight All-Big 12 third team honor, while Burks performed a CU first in the Buffs Big 12 history becoming the first Boulder athlete to earn conference freshman of the year honors.

Higgins and Burks scored 587 and 512 points, respectively becoming the first tandem to net over 500 points in the same season since the 1990-91 campaign. Burks would also lead the team in rebounding, only the second freshman since Matt Bullard (6.4, 1985-86).

Burks was also named to a number of post-season teams including the Big 12 All-Rookie Team, CollegeInsider.com All-America Freshman Team, 2009-10 Basketball Times' All-Freshman first team, CU Sports Performers of the Year (CUSPY) Male Freshman of the Year, and Sporting News Magazine All-Freshman second team.

He became the first CU freshman to surpass 500 points in a single-season (512). He ranked fourth nationally of all freshmen in points per game (17.1) and field goal percentage (53.8).

The Tad Boyle Era

Over the last seven years of Colorado Basketball, head coach Tad Boyle and his coaching staff, have built the Buffaloes into one of the elite Pac-12 Conference basketball programs, if not the nation.

Seven years have produced seven-straight postseason appearances, a school-first three consecutive NCAA Tournament berths; five 20-plus winning seasons, and a Pac-12 Conference Tournament championship. Under his tutelage, Boyle has won an impressive 149 games at CU, and his winning percentage of .611 ranks second in history for those coaches with at least four seasons.

Very impressive for coach and a basketball program that had only four 20-plus winning seasons before his arrival during the spring of 2010.

In those seven years, CU basketball history has been re-written altogether. Boyle's success has brought ESPN College GameDay to Boulder (Feb. 22, 2014); he has won a school record 24 games in a single-season, twice; home dominance at the Coors Events Center with a 101-19 record (.842), in addition to school attendance records being broken, then re-broken a year later; and most importantly every senior that has made his final year on the Buff roster, has graduated (Boyle's staff is 25-for-25).

On the court, there have been eight all-tournament team selections; seven conference first-team recipients; one Most Improved Player of the Year, one Pac-12 Conference Defensive Player of the Year, and one Wooden Top-20 Finalist.

Over the last seven years, five student-athletes have gone on to reach the NBA; four hearing their names announced on draft day. Most recently, Derrick White was the 29th overall pick by the San Antonio Spurs in 2017. Spencer Dinwiddie left school after his junior year (2013-14), where he was selected by Detroit in the second round of the 2014 NBA Draft (No. 38 overall). In 2012-13, Andre Roberson was selected in the first round (No. 26 overall) by Minnesota then traded to Oklahoma City. In the 2011 draft, Alec Burks, became CU's second-ever lottery pick, selected No. 12 overall by Utah.

Rounding out the five former players who have played for Boyle while at CU is the school's all-time co-scoring leader, Cory Higgins (2,001 points). Higgins played with the Charlotte Bobcats from 2011-13. It should be noted that Higgins is one of several former Buffs to enjoy a successful professional career overseas, helping CSKA Moscow to the 2015-16 EuroLeague championship.

Boyle made the most of his "dream job" in his first year, guiding the Buffaloes to a school-record 24 victories in 2010-11, capping the season with a trip to the World's Most Famous Arena - Madison Square Garden, and a National Invitation Tournament semifinal appearance.

Named the 18th head coach in CU men's basketball history (on April 19, 2010), Boyle also etched his name among the school's great coaches becoming first head coach in 20 years to win his coaching debut. He was the first CU coach since H.B. Lee (1950-51) to win his first two conference games in his first year, in addition to becoming the first Buff head coach since Henry Iba (1933-34) to win his first three conference games. CU also won a school-record 18 home games at the Coors Events Center and achieved their highest Big 12 finish (t-5th) since 2005-06.

Statistically, CU ranked first in the Big 12 and fifth nationally in free throw percentage (77.8). Boyle's efficient attack also ranked 12th nationally in scoring (79.6 ppg) and 19th nationally in field goal percentage (47.3).

Individually, the Buffs were led by Burks, who would score a single-season school record 779 points, in addition setting the school mark for most free throws made (249) and attempts (302) in a single-season. He would also become the first player at CU to score over 770 points, 240 rebounds, 100 assists in same season.

A Top-20 Wooden Award finalist and unanimous Big 12 Conference first team selection, Burks was 18th nationally in scoring with 20.5 points per game.

And for the first time in the 15-year Big 12 Championship history, the Buffs advanced to the conference semifinals where Burks became the first CU player to be named to the all-tourney team. Later in the season, the Grandview, Mo. native would be named to the NIT All-Tournament Team (97 points in four games, 24.3 ppg.).

The 2010-11 team was not comprised by one individual, but a cast of others who led to the Buffs success throughout the season. Cory Higgins would end his stellar four-year with 2,001 points, tying former teammate Richard Roby (2004-08), for the most in team history.

Higgins was a three-time third team conference selection, also set a number of school records also becoming the career leader in minutes (4,478), games (132, today he's second), starts (131), and single-season minutes played (1,222) set in 2010-11.

Higgins would also become the first CU player male or female to score over 2,000 points, 500 rebounds, 300 assists, and 150 steals during his collegiate career.

Sharp-shooter Levi Knutson ended his career making the fifth most treys (81) in a season during CU's NIT run. The Littleton, Colo. native set the single-season mark for 3-point efficiency (47.4 percent) and notched his name among long-range shooting greats finishing third overall in career 39.3 career percentage, and tied for sixth in treys made (129).

Andre Roberson also made his presence felt during his initial season setting the freshman rebounding (297) and blocked shot (42) records. Roberson also became the first freshman to lead any CU team in rebounds, steals (51), and blocks. The feat among the Big 12 was a rarity, as Roberson became only the fourth conference player to accomplish it.

The 2011-12 season welcomed a new addition to the Coors Events Center since the building first opened in 1979. The brand new basketball and volleyball practice facility resides directly adjacent to the north side of Events Center. The facility is 43,000 square feet of space featuring two basketball/volleyball courts; women's basketball locker rooms; and volleyball coaches' offices costing $10.8 million, funded from private funds.

Each practice court is 11,000 square feet, and both mimic the playing surface in the Coors Events Center exactly, down to the lines and logos. The structure will match the campus architectural Charles Klauder theme, a northern Italian, rural Tuscany influence, with varicolored sandstone and red-tiled roofs to match the other 200-plus buildings on the CU-Boulder campus.

It was also the first year of the Pac-12, and at the inaugural conference tournament, the Buffs became just the 10th team to win at least four games in four days to capture the tournament title (CU's first since winning the Big 8 title in 1968-69). CU earned its first NCAA Tournament appearance since 2002-03 when the Buffs would go on to upset No. 6 UNLV in the first round.

In CU's first year of the Pac-12, Andre Roberson (first team, all-defensive, all-tournament team), Carlon Brown (second team, tournament's most outstanding player), and Spencer Dinwiddie (freshman team) were all named to conference teams.

It was nine years since CU last danced in the NCAA Tournament and in one of the greatest seasons ever, then-second year head coach Tad Boyle equaled the previous season's win total (24), advanced to the NCAA Tourney third round, and won the inaugural Pac-12 Tournament championship by winning four games in four days as the No. 6 seed.

The conference regular season had its ups and downs where at one point, CU could have ended the season as the number one or two seed in the tournament. However, losing three of its last four games and dropping to the No. 6 overall seed, the Buffs overcame No. 11 seed Utah, 53-41 on the opening night at the Staples Center in Los Angeles.

On the day two CU edged No. 3 seed Oregon, 63-62. In the semifinals, CU took care of No. 2 Cal, 70-59 on 59.1 percent shooting from the field in the second half. Senior guard Carlon Brown breakaway windmill dunk served as an exclamation point in the final minute of CU's victory. The play was No. 4 on SportsCenter's Top 10 plays of the day.

In the finals, the Buffs held on again for another upset, edging No. 4 seed Arizona, 53-51 after leading the Wildcats by 12 points in the second half. CU scored only three points in the last nine minutes of the game, however, Brown had a highlight reel dunk in the final minute, snapping a streak of 8:19 without a field goal. CU became the first team to win four games in Pac-12

Conference Tournament history, and just the 10th team from the "big six" conferences to do so since 1952. At the NCAA Tournament, the Buffs, seeded No. 11 upset No. 6 and No. 23/25 ranked UNLV in the first round, then fell to No. 3 Baylor, 80-63, two days later.

Brown was named the tournament's most outstanding player, in addition being named to the all-tournament. Andre Roberson also earned all-tournament team had a superb sophomore year becoming the first CU player to average a double-double for the entire season (11.6 ppg., 11.1 rpg.) since Stephane Pelle (2001-02; 12.8 ppg., 10.8 rpg.). Roberson also became the 12th player in school history to lead the team in rebounding in back-to-back seasons, and just the third CU player to lead the team in rebounds, blocks, and steals in the same season, duplicating that feat during his freshman season.

In addition, Roberson set the single-season rebounding record (401) breaking a 58-year old record (Burdette Halderson, 1954-55); set the single-season defensive rebounding record (290) breaking the 225 by Shaun Vandiver (1989-90), 23 years prior; and shattered sophomore season record for most rebounds, topping the old mark of 337 (Cliff Meely in 1968-69).

Roberson ranked third nationally in rebounds per game, and his 11.1 average was the program's highest since Alex Stivrins in 1984-85 (11.7 rpg). Roberson finished the season with 20 double-doubles, fifth nationally and was No. 54 nationally in blocked shots (1.86).

Attendance records also set a brand new high standard as the men's basketball team was the best ticket in town setting a number of school records, including seven sellouts; 12 of 15 home games exceeded 10,000 fans or better, in addition to season total (155,884); season average (10,392); conference total (94,371); conference average (10,486); and non-conference total (61,513).

In year two of the conference, Roberson (first team, defensive player of the year, all-defensive team); Dinwiddie (first team) and Josh Scott (all-freshman team) all earned post-season accolades.

Although the 2012-13 season did not capture the exciting moments of another Pac-12 Tournament championship, the Buffs did see another exciting year ranking No. 1 in Pac-12 Conference-only defense (62.2 ppg.); No. 1 in Pac-12 Conference Team (all games); 3-Point Defense (32.0). They also defeated four ranked opponents, a first since 2002-03 and won three-straight road conference games for the first time since 2000-01.

The 2011-12 and 2012-13 seasons marked back-to-back NCAA Tournament berths for the first time in 50 years. The Buffaloes have reached unprecedented heights in the win column. CU won a school record 24 games in both 2010-11 and 2011-12, with another 21 victories in 2012-13. The 69 wins were the most in any three-year span in school history.

In 2013-14, the Buffaloes produced another banner year for the program by being seeded eighth at the NCAA Tournament, the highest seed since being the number nine in the 1997 tournament. The 23 victories were the third-most in school history and the Buffaloes' third place Pac-12 finish was the program's best in 18 years.

Attendance records fell once again as the Buffaloes drew 173,429 overall and 84,133 during the nonconference schedule.

For the first time in program history the men's basketball team had seen four-straight seasons where conference attendance exceeded 9,000 fans per game while overall season attendance reached 124,000 each year.

Josh Scott was named All-Pac-12 first team; Askia Booker was an All-Pac-12 honorable mention; and Wesley Gordon an honorable mention on All-Freshman team. Wesley Gordon finished with 41 blocks, the second-most by a freshman.

The 2014-15 season was dominated by close games and a number of injuries to key players, as the Buffaloes ended the season with a disappointing 16-18 record. In games decided by nine points or less, CU went 7-10 overall compared to an astounding 15-2 during the 2013-14 season. However, it was also the fifth straight season the Buffaloes went to a post-season tournament, a quarterfinal appearance in the College Basketball Invitational (CBI).

Colorado recorded its ninth 20-win season in 2015-16, and fifth in six years while also advancing to the program's 14th NCAA Tournament. The Buffaloes won 21 regular season games, tying a school record, before finishing off the campaign at 22-12.

Colorado made its school-record seventh straight postseason appearance in 2016-17, earning a berth in the NIT.

Entering the 2017-18 season, the Colorado men's basketball program boasts a record of 1,277-1,182 (.519) in 116 years of basketball being played with the 1942-44 seasons not played due to World War II.

ESPN COLLEGE GAMEDAY

ESPN's basketball rendition of College GameDay, in existence for a decade, made its first appearance at the University of Colorado, February 22, 2014.

The telecast from the Coors Events Center was a spectacle from start to finish, with the C-Unit making its presence more than apparent to the national TV audience.

For over two hours, the collective body of CU students — dubbed the C-Unit in 2004 — brought energy, costumes, and witty signs to the GameDay party as a way to kick off the day's national basketball schedule. The lead attraction was Saturday night's Pac-12 Conference game matching CU against No. 4 Arizona.

GameDay was hosted by Rece Davis and featured insights from former Notre Dame head coach Digger Phelps and former Duke star Jay Williams.

After the morning event, Davis spoke with CU athletic director Rick George and told him the "environment and the enthusiasm was right up there with the best that they have seen" for GameDay. "The crowd was attentive, they were into it, they listened to what we were saying on the show and responded accordingly," Davis said. "CU put on a great show."

Students began lining up outside the Events Center, Friday at 11 p.m. and by 5:45 a.m. Saturday there was about 300 students clamoring for their chance to be on national TV. Conditions weren't ideal (high winds and low temperatures), but that wasn't going to stop any crazed fans.

The event goes beyond students showing off their creative humor and asking parents for money via home-made signs; it provides the university a stage to tell the rest of the country what CU is all about — and the school did that Saturday.

Colorado coach Tad Boyle is also hoping to use the exposure for his own recruiting purposes as he seeks to build a national power in Boulder.

Boyle had previously said that being selected to host GameDay was, "a testament to our players, a testament to our fans, a testament to our coaches and how far this program has come."

It's no coincidence that GameDay chose to come to Boulder when the Buffaloes host the nation's fourth-ranked team. However, Saturday's event was more about CU basketball and the atmosphere that has developed at the Coors Events Center during the Boyle regime.

Arizona hosted its first GameDay event on January 28, 2012, and according to Bruce Pascoe of the Arizona Daily Star, the turnout Colorado received was comparable — if not better — than that of the Wildcats, who boast four Final Four appearances and one national championship.

Colorado is proving that its fan support belongs with some of the best in the nation and hopes to prove that its level of play belongs in the same category.

Reflecting on the days when the average attendance at the Coors Events Center was about 3,000 — compared to the nearly 10,000 this season — GameDay being on campus is a culmination of everything we could have ever envisioned when we first moved the C-Unit to behind the basket where they stand today.

"Our students showed themselves well, and their enthusiasm to be out here at six in the morning says a lot about our fans," George said. "It was awesome, you can't measure this kind of exposure."

PAC-12 TOURNAMENT CHAMPIONS

LOS ANGELES - Dust off those dancing shoes, Buffs fans. Pac-12 hoops, who's your Taddy?

The improbable, unflappable, and in the very end undeniable Colorado Buffaloes made history, outlasting Arizona 53-51 at the Staples Center to win the Pac-12 Conference tournament championship in their debut season in the expanded league.

CU is a conference tournament champion for the first time in program history and in the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 2003 after earning the Pac-12's automatic berth.

A season after being denied an NCAA Tournament berth and losing 75 percent of his offense, CU coach Tad Boyle reloaded as best he could and hoped for the best. But Boyle constructed his second season in Boulder with more determination than dreams, ultimately squeezing and coaxing every ounce of effort out of the Buffs during a taxing four-day Pac-12 run that followed a dismaying regular-season finish.

Losing three of its final four games, CU dropped from regular-season title contenders to a sixth tournament seed. No problem; rising up in L.A. was the Buffs' mission. They did it in grand - if gut-wrenching - style, and they did it the hard way, winning four games in four days.

CU (23-11) almost squandered a 12-point lead, scoring only three points in the last 9 minutes but still denying No. 4 seed Arizona (23-11) in its comeback attempt.

"Saying I'm proud of these guys is the biggest understatement I've ever made," Boyle said. "If you believe in destiny, you believe in the Colorado Buffaloes."

Freshman Spencer Dinwiddie led CU with 14 points, and senior Carlton Brown - the Buffs leading scorer in the tournament - added 13, including a dunk in the final minute that was his team's last field goal. Sophomore Andre Roberson submitted his third double-double (10 points, 11 rebounds) in four tournament games.

Brown was named the tournament MVP, highlighting a two-week run that saw him hit lows, highs and finish as high as he's ever been.

Said Boyle on Brown: "I think what you saw out of Carlton these last four games is he's a guy who put this team on his shoulders. He's been more vocal than he's been all year in timeouts, in huddles, on the floor, encouraging his teammates . . . (He) deserves the MVP of this tournament because he was big when we needed him to be big."

Brown, the only member of the CU roster to play in the NCAA Tournament (with Utah), said the late-season scoring slump he encountered finally was put behind him: "I just tried to put everything in the past, knowing I had this opportunity to be aggressive and play in this tournament . . . I just let everything go."

Roberson also was named to the all-tournament team, joining Jared Cunningham (Oregon State), Kyle Fogg (Arizona), Solomon Hill (Arizona) and Jesse Perry (Arizona). That trio led the Wildcats in scoring Saturday - Fogg with 14, Hill with 13 and Perry with 11.

Arizona coach Sean Miller was effusive in congratulating CU and Boyle: "I want to say the job that Tad Boyle has done at Colorado and what Colorado represents to the future of the Pac-12, I can make the argument that there's been no greater gift to college basketball in the Pac-12 than adding Colorado."

Miller said whoever draws CU in the NCAA Tournament "is running into a hungry, well-coached, disciplined team. I really believe that's the story of today. They beat us. They were the better team."

CU had 8- to 10-point cushions in the final 10 minutes of the previous two games and held on - barely against Oregon, handily against Cal. But could the Buffs stay composed in their biggest tournament game thus far?

Some doubt surfaced when Arizona scored five straight and cut its deficit to 50-43 on one of two free throws by Perry with 5:29 remaining. And no nerves were calmed when Tomlinson and Askia Booker both misfired badly on consecutive possessions from the same spot in the left corner.

The Wildcats capitalized on those botched trips with a layup by Hill to cap a 7-0 run and close to 50-45 with 4 minutes remaining. At the 1:41 mark, without a field goal in almost 8 minutes and seven consecutive missed shots, Boyle called a timeout.

It might not have been what Boyle had drawn up, but Roberson drove to the basket as the shot clock wound down and was fouled with 1:23 showing. He hit one of two, sending CU up 51-46.

At the other end, 22 seconds later, Perry sank two free throws, but Brown drove the lane and countered with a thunderous dunk to push the Buffs ahead 53-47 with 49 seconds to play.

CU's first trip to the NCAA Tournament in nine seasons appeared all but booked . . . but not quite. Fogg's pair of free throws at 34.5 cut CU's lead to 53-49, and Hill also converted at the other end to make the score 53-51.

Dufault, who let a pass from Tomlinson bound away from him for a turnover, also missed a pair of free throws with 14.4 to play.

"It would have been nice if we had ended the game smoother . . . if I could have knocked down a couple of free throws or caught that pass," Dufault said.

Arizona had a final chance, but Fogg's tightly contested shot with 1.4 seconds left was badly off to the left.

Continued Dufault: "We went down to the other end, and once again we just dug in defensively and got a stop."

It was done . . . CU in the Big Dance.

2013-14

The Buffaloes earned their third straight NCAA Tournament bid with an eighth seed in the South Region played in Orlando. It was CU's highest NCAA Tourney seed since the 1997 when they were ninth in the East Region. The Buffaloes won 23 games, the third most victories in school history, in fact, it was the fourth straight season CU won at least 20 or more games in a season (a school record). The team won 10-straight games during November and most of December, tying for the fourth longest streak in school history. CU was nationally ranked for six straight weeks in the AP Poll (5-straight in the Coaches' Poll) reaching its peak at No. 15 with a 14-2 record. With a 3-0 Pac-12 record, junior guard Spencer Dinwiddie suffered a season-ending ACL injury to his left knee at Washington on Jan. 12. From there, the Buffs closed the season with a 9-9 record, however still defended their home court winning five of seven games. They still managed to reach the Pac-12 Tournament semifinals and finished the conference season with a 10-8 record, tying four other schools for third place. It was CU's highest conference finish in 18 years. The faithful Buff Nation reached a record number who attended games at Coors Events Center with a school-best 173,429 spectators over the 18 home games, and of the nine non-conference home games, another school-best of 84,133 fans were in attendance.

2012-13

The defending Pac-12 Tournament champions won their first six games of the season en route to being nationally ranked for the first time since the 2005-06 campaign. CU made the national tournament for the second straight season, a school-first in 50 years (since Sox Walseth). Head Coach Tad Boyle and his staff won 21 games, the third-straight season over 20 wins (a school-first) and the 69 victories over the last three years, are the most in any three-year span. The Buffs finished fifth in the conference standings and earned an at-large seed at No. 10 in the East Region falling to No. 7 Illinois, 57-49 in Austin, Texas. Andre Roberson was named Pac-12 Defensive Player of the Year as well as a first team selection. Spencer Dinwiddie led the Buffs in scoring, assists and free throw shooting, was also named to the conference first team, while Josh Scott was named to the freshman team. The fifth place conference finish was the first time since the Cliff Meely era (1968-71), the Buffs finished fifth or better in three straight years. The Buffs also set a number of attendance records including seven sellouts, 12 of 15 home games exceeding 10,000 fans, in addition to season total (155,884); season average (10,392); conference total (94,371); conference average (10,486). Over the last three years, there have been 16 sellouts with 13 wins. The Buffs would finish second Pac-12 attendance average (all games) and third in conference-only games.

2011-12

It was nine years since CU last danced in the NCAA Tournament and in one of the greatest seasons ever, second year head coach Tad Boyle equaled the previous season's win total (24), advanced to the NCAA Tourney second round, and won the inaugural Pac-12 Tournament championship by winning four games in four days as the No. 6 seed. The conference regular season had its ups and downs where at one point, CU could have ended the season as the number one or two seed in the tournament. However, losing three of its last four games and dropping to the No. 6 overall seed, the Buffs overcame No. 11 seed Utah, 53-41 on 34.9 percent shooting on the opening night at the Staples Center in Los Angeles. On the day two and against No. 3 seed Oregon, CU edged the Ducks, 63-62 for the second time in three meetings this season. A put-back field goal by sophomore forward Andre Roberson with 13 seconds remaining and a defensive stand by senior point guard Nate Tomlinson proved to be the difference in the one point win. In the semifinals, CU took care of No. 2 Cal, 70-59 on 59.1 percent shooting from the field in the second half. Senior guard Carlton Brown breakaway windmill dunk served as an exclamation point in the final minute of CU's victory. The play was No. 4 on SportsCenter's Top 10 plays of the day. In the finals, the Buffs held on again for another upset, edging No. 4 seed Arizona, 53-51 after leading the Wildcats by 12 points in the second half. CU scored only three points in the last nine minutes of the game, however, Brown had a highlight reel dunk in the final minute, snapping a streak of 8:19 without a field goal. CU became the first team to win four games in Pac-12 Conference Tournament history, and just the 10th team from the "Big Six" conferences to do so since 1952. At the NCAA Tournament, the Buffs, seeded No. 11 upset No. 6 UNLV in the first round, then fell to No. 3 Baylor, 80-63, two days later.

2002-03

The 2002-03 season was one of the most successful campaigns in Colorado history. Standards were set high as the team returned five of their top six scorers from a year ago. Rarely in athletic competition can a team live up to the expectations of the media, and the fans; but the Buffs were able to not only meet expectations, but surpass them. CU finished the season 20-12, the third time in school history that a 20 win season had been accomplished. That included a nearly perfect record at home, as they went 14-1 on Sox Walseth Court. The game of the year came on January 22nd when the Buffs were able to topple the #6 ranked Kansas Jayhawks; a feat not accomplished since 1991. Sophomore David Harrison had a breakout year, setting several school records. Harrison broke, and then re-broke the record for blocked shots in a game when he recorded 10 against Stetson, and then 11 at home against Nebraska. Harrison also added two triple-doubles that year against Stetson and Nebraska.

1996-97

The Buffs were back. Not since the late 1960s had CU basketball made the NCAA Tournament, or had an AP top 25 ranking. Both of those droughts ended during the season, as Colorado made it back to the big dance. Led by sophomore phenom Chauncey Billups, the Buffs stormed to a 22-10 record. Conference play did not change their winning ways, as they went 11-5 in the Big 12. The 22 wins, along with their 11 Big 12 victories each are school records. With their stellar record, break into the AP Poll for the first time since 1968-69 at #24. The season was highlighted by two upsets, as the Buffs were able to defeat #20 ranked Texas Tech, and then exactly one week later topple the #8 ranked Cyclones of Iowa State. Billups turned in one of the best seasons ever by a Buffalo. He finished the season with 555 total points, the first time a sophomore had scored that many points since Cliff Meely put up 667 points during the '68-'69 season. Electing for the NBA Draft, Billups left Colorado after his sophomore year, but not after becoming the 23rd all time scorer in school history in just two years.

1968-69

Coming off an uninspiring 9-16 overall record the previous year, Colorado was looking for a way to get the program back on track. A 3-11 conference record had coach Sox Walseth reeling. The Buffs were in need of a spark plug; and they found it in Cliff Meely. Never in school history had a first-year player given the program a jolt in the way Meely was able to do in the 1968-69 season. The Buffs tore through the season, finishing with a 21-7 mark and an 11-4 conference schedule. That record included a perfect 11-0 at home. The 21 wins were a school record that would stand for 27 years. Colorado earned a #18 national ranking for its success, the first time the Buffs were able to crack the top 25 since 1963. Meely finished the season with 667 points, the most ever by a sophomore and fourth overall. His ability to score was complimented by superb rebounding. Meely finished the '68-'69 campaign with 337 rebounds. This mark is also the most by any sophomore, and ranks second all time in CU history.

1962-63

The 1962-63 season opened with all eyes on the Buffs. Coming off an impressive 19-win campaign and NCAA Tournament berth the year before, Colorado was receiving national attention. Coach Sox Walseth knew his team was under the microscope from the very beginning. Some critics thought a team who was not used to being in the spotlight would crumble under the pressure; these Buffaloes proved them wrong. CU stormed through the season, accumulating a 19-7 record while going 11-3 in conference play. It was the second year in a row that Colorado had gone 19-7 overall. A perfect home record and a #10 national ranking helped to keep Boulder in a basketball induced frenzy. The previous year had ended with CU having 499 wins as a program, and they seized first opportunity they had during the '62-'63 campaign to reach that 500-win milestone. CU defeated Wichita State 79-69 in double overtime on Dec. 3, 1962, for the 500th win in program history. Senior Ken Charlton paced the Buffs in scoring for the season. En route to an All-American selection, the fifth in CU's history, Charlton put up 514 points and 214 rebounds. His point total was well above the rest of the team, outpacing the second best scorer, Jim Davis, by 154 points.

A 19-win season was something the Colorado Buffaloes had seen only once in their history. The last time they won 19 games (in 1955), was the last time CU received a bid to play in the NCAA Tournament. With that goal in their heads, Sox Walseth and his Buffs marched to a 19-7 record, and a near perfect 13-1 mark in conference play. The #9 ranked Buffaloes finished the regular season on a torrid pace, winning 14 of their 15 final games. The one loss was their one conference loss as well, falling at Kansas State. That span included a 12-game winning streak, as CU decimated their Big Eight opponents. Colorado finished the season at #9 in the AP Poll, its highest-ever final ranking. Colorado scorers were paced by junior forward Ken Charlton, who finished the season with 498 points and 216 rebounds. Charlton was the only member of the team to record 400 points and 200 rebounds. One of the great storylines of the season was the play of senior forward Wilky Gilmore. Gilmore was the only member of the team to play in all 26 contests, as he accumulated 330 points and 163 rebounds. Gilmore left the program as the second all time leading scorer in CU history with 1026 career points.

1954-55 FINAL FOUR

It was a season of firsts for the Buffaloes. The year marked the first time in school history the Buffs were offered an invitation to the NCAA Tournament. Once they arrived, the success they had during the big dance is unmatched in school history to this day. Advancing to the national semifinals, they were eventually defeated by San Francisco. CU won the consolation game two days later, to finish third, the Buffaloes' highest NCAA finish. The season also saw the first time Colorado could put the number 19 in the win column. They finished with a 19-6 overall record, going 11-1 in conference play. The season opened with a bang, as CU set a school scoring record as they took down Brigham Young by a score of 88-66. Colorado had an amazing winning streak during the season, capturing 15 of 16 games spanning from December to March. Colorado was ranked #15 in the final AP Poll. The '54-'55 Buffs were blessed to have the single most dominating rebounder in the history of Colorado. Senior Burdette Haldorson tore apart record after record, many of which are still standing today. His accomplishments were highlighted by a 21-rebound effort against Oklahoma, and later a 22-rebound game against Nebraska. His season mark of 346 rebounds is still the school record, as his single season rebounds/game average. He also knew how to put the ball in the basket; his 1125 career points was the best in school history when he left.

1953-54

Under the direction of coach H.B. Lee, the Buffs finished the season with a less than stellar 10-10 regular season mark. It was their inspired 10-2 Big Seven record, however, that helped the Buffs reach the NCAA Tournament for the fourth time in school history. Colorado started its season by losing seven in a row. Fans and the media had already stuck the proverbial fork in the Buffs' season. After a loss at home to Iowa State though, a fire was lit under the Buffs, and they went flying to finish out the season. They won 11 of their next 13 games to storm back into tournament contention. That win streak was highlighted by a home win against the defending champion Kansas Jayhawks, along with road wins against contenders Iowa State, Nebraska, and Oklahoma. At season's end, the impressive winning streak was not enough to ensure an NCAA berth. The selection was eventually made when Colorado's name was literally pulled out of a hat. Talk about luck of the draw. CU was paced by junior center Burdette Haldorson. The 6'7 center led the team with 367 points and 199 rebounds. At the time, Haldorson's average of nine rebounds per game tied him for the all time high with Frank Gompert.

1945-46

One of the youngest CU teams to ever make the NCAA Tournament came in the 1945-46 season. The Buffs did not have one senior to help coach Forrest Cox direct the untested youth. Thankfully for Coach Cox, and for Buffs fans, they didn't need one. Colorado battled their way to a 12-6 overall record, and a 9-3 Mountain States Conference record. The season was highlighted by a five-game win streak during the heart of the schedule. During that span they were able to defeat conference foes Denver, Colorado State, Utah, and Brigham Young. The inexperienced Buffs were lead by center Hank Knocke. The sophomore transfer exploded out of the gates: scoring 49 points in his first four games as a Buffalo. With a sturdy 6-4 frame, Knocke was able to control the area under the basket, and maintain CU's distinction as a force to be reckoned with. Knocke's season was highlighted by two 26-point efforts; once against Utah State, and again just two weeks later against Denver. At the time, those stood as the third and fourth all-time, single-game scoring records. The Buffs ended their season with an NCAA Regional consolation game victory over Baylor.

1941-42 FINAL FOUR

Very little could stop Colorado in its march toward its second NCAA Tournament appearance. The Buffs decimated their competition, going 15-1 in the regular season. Behind the direction of head coach Forrest B. Cox, CU's explosive attack and stingy defensive work won them their first 14 games. The Buffs finally lost their first game of the season on March 3, a 40-39 loss to conference foe Wyoming. A perfect 6-0 home record had the fans in Boulder excited; and their 9-1 away record had the rest of the nation trembling. Colorado would eventually finish their season 16-2, as they took down Kansas in the NCAA Western Region semifinals. They would later bow out to Stanford in the regional finals. Their stellar play helped the Buffs capture their fourth Mountain States Conference title in five years. Two All-American players helped to pace CU during this dominating season: Robert Doll and Leason McCloud. Doll was the big play man for the Buffs. His imposing presence down in the paint allowed him to out rebound all of his opponents. He would later go on to play for the Boston Celtics in the NBA. Doll was supplemented by the stellar play of McCloud. The leading scorer on the team, McCloud was seen by coach Cox as the Buffs "go to guy." McCloud's inspired 19-point performance was the turning factor in Colorado's first round victory against Kansas.

1939-40 NCAA and NIT

Coming off of an impressive NIT championship, Colorado was invited to play in the NCAA Tournament for the first time in school history. Under the direction of coach Forrest Cox, the Buffs had compiled an impressive 17-2 record previous to the NCAA Tournament. This included a near perfect 11-1 record in conference play, a flawless 8-0 home performance, and a mid-season 12-game winning streak. Although CU had to bow out after the first round of the tournament, they did not end the season without some hardware to show. They had earlier defeated Duquesne University for the NIT championship. A 52-37 romping of the University of Denver had given the Buffs their third-straight Mountain States Conference title. Colorado was lead by Jack Harvey: a two time All-American selection. Over a two year span, CU went 31-8 with Harvey wearing the silver and gold. Harvey was a dominating presence in the defensive end of the court; as well as being the catalyst in an explosive fast break offense.

NIT TEAMS

2016-17

Colorado made its school-record seventh-straight postseason appearance after a seventh place finish in the Pac-12 Conference. The Buffaloes rebounded from an 0-7 start to their league season to win nine of 13 down the stretch to claim their 10th NIT invite. Colorado had its share of big moments throughout the season. The Buffaloes won three games against ranked opponents, including a 74-65 triumph over No. 10/10 Oregon at the Coors Events Center; a Ducks team that would eventually reach the Final Four. Colorado also took down No. 22/21 Texas in Brooklyn and topped No. 13/14 Xavier during the nonconference schedule. Senior guard Derrick White had one of the finest seasons by an individual in a Buffaloes uniform. White earned All-Pac-12 first team and All-District honors averaging 18.1 points, 4.1 rebounds and 4.4 assists per game. He joined Shaun Vandiver as the only CU players to score 30 or more points twice in a single postseason. White had 31 points in the Pac-12 quarterfinals vs. Arizona and then would score 30 in CU's NIT opening round loss at UCF. A former Division II All-American at UCCS, White catapulted into the national spotlight during his one year at Colorado and was selected 29th overall in the 2017 NBA Draft by the San Antonio Spurs.

2010-11

In Tad Boyle's first season as Colorado's head coach, the Buffs won a school-record 24 games (14 losses) in reaching the NIT semifinals at Madison Square Garden. Considered by most analysts to have been the NCAA Tournament's biggest snub, CU made the most of their NIT appearance by winning three-straight games before ultimately falling to Alabama in the semis. Led by senior Cory Higgins, who tied Richard Roby for CU's all-time career scoring title (2,001 points), and All-Big 12 unanimous first team selection Alec Burks, the Buffs boasted a potent offensive attack that ranked 12th nationally in scoring (79.6 ppg) and fifth nationally in free throw percentage (77.8 percent). Burks set a CU record for most points in a season with 779, surpassing Cliff Meely's mark that stood for 40 years. The season marked the first time that the Buffs had six players record over 100 made field goals in a season (Burks 251, Higgins 200, Levi Knutson 158, Marcus Relphorde 148, Austin Dufault 104, Andre Roberson 101). Roberson set a CU freshmen record by recording 297 rebounds for the season, and also became the first freshman in school history to lead the team in rebounds, steals (51) and blocks (42). Knutson was honored with the co-Big 12 Sixth Man of the Year Award.

2005-06

Led by a veteran roster of 10 seniors and an All-Big 12 first team selection, in sophomore Richard Roby, the Buffs tallied a 20-10 overall record to earn the school's eighth NIT berth. Coach Ricardo Patton's club ran off to one of the best starts in the program's history, with a 10-1 record before conference play. The season marked the first time three players had made over 50 3-pointers in a season (Roby 63, Andy Osborn 53, Chris Copeland 50). CU became nationally ranked for the first time since the 1996-97 season, coming in at No. 25 team in the country by the USA Today/Coaches' Poll for two straight weeks (Jan. 30-Feb. 12), and tied the school record for home wins in a season, with 14.

Standing (L-R): Kyle Carder, Ryan Dermody, Marcus King-Stockton, Calvin Williams, Julius Ashby, Lamont Arrington, Andy Osborn, Chris Copeland, Scott Senger, Jeryml Jackson-Wilson. 2003-04

Colorado won 18 games for the fifth time under coach Ricardo Patton, including 10 in conference play, the most since recording 11 back in the 1996-97 season, and earned a number four seed in the Big 12 Tournament in Dallas. The trio of David Harrison, Blair Wilson, and Michel Morandais each surpassed the 1,000 points in a career mark, en route to the Buffaloes' third NIT berth during Patton's eight years as head coach. Harrison would break the CU record for blocks in a career with a three-block performance against Utah. Harrison went on to block 85 shots during the season and after only three years in a CU uniform, would hold every blocked shot record category. Wilson also broke a bundle of records during the season, as the senior made six treys in a game against Iowa State to break or tie four school records, most notably the school record for career 3-pointers. The Buffaloes ended the year with a first round loss at Oregon, 77-72, in overtime.

The Buffaloes marched out to an 11-5 pre-conference record to start out the 1999-2000 season, led by senior guard Jaquay Walls' 17-point scoring average and Jamahl Mosley and Stephane Pelle's control of the point, with 7.1 and 6.9 rebounds per game, respectively. On Dec. 3 in Hawaii's Rainbow Classic, Colorado defeated Gonzaga 81-77, making it the Buffs' third-straight victory over 1999 NCAA Tournament teams. In what many CU fans believe to be the best game at the Coors Events Center, CU came from behind to defeat Iowa State 102-90 in overtime. Walls scored a NCAA-record 15 points in the overtime, on his way to an astounding 42-point performance. At regular season's end the Buffs were invited to play in the NIT, only to fall in the first round to Southern Illinois 94-92. The invitation marked the third time in four years the Buffs had played in post-season tournaments.

Colorado opened the 1998-99 campaign 9-3, where it would see five Buffs average double digits in scoring over the season. By the year's end, many Colorado players had established themselves as some of the elite in the Big 12. Junior Jaquay Walls was named to the All-Big 12 All-Underrated Team, as well as earning All-Big 12 Honorable Mention status. Senior guard Kenny Price was named to the All-Big 12 Third team, while also ranking third in the conference in points per game. Price's nine three-pointers in a Big 12 second round game against Texas would set a single game record, breaking his mark of eight from the year before. With his nine treys, Price would bring his total for the year to 97, the highest single-season total in CU history. In March, Colorado was selected to the NIT, marking the second time in three years that the Buffs made a post-season appearance. CU defeated first round opponent Pepperdine 65-61 in the tournament's opening round, before losing to intrastate rival Colorado State 76-86 in the second round.

Colorado started off the 1994-95 season with a 10-3 record, including a convincing win of the Mile High Classic. The Buffs beat Eastern Washington and Hofstra by a combined 39 points for CU's fifth consecutive victory of their home tournament. On Jan. 7 in Boulder, the Buffs ended their 16-game losing streak against ranked teams, when they defeated No. 16 Iowa State 71-57, forcing a school record 31 turnovers by the opponent. After throwing down a fast break dunk, senior guard Donnie Boyce surpassed Cliff Meely (1967-71) to become Colorado's all-time leading scorer, finishing his illustrious career with 1,995 points. Boyce remains the only Colorado player to lead his team in scoring for four consecutive years. On Jan. 17 against Texas-San Antonio, senior Ted Allen blocked five shots to become CU's all-time leader in blocks, finishing with 53 on the year. At the season's end, Colorado qualified for the NIT, for only the second invitation to post-season play in 25 years and the first since the 1990-91 season. The Buffs finished the year with an above .500 winning percentage, for the first time since coach Joe Harrington's debut season with the team.

1990-91

The inside-outside combination of Shaun Vandiver and Steve Wise led the way for the Buffaloes in the 1990-91 season, where the duo combined for an average 41 points per game. The Buffs scored a school record 124 points, twice, in pre-conference match-ups against Central Connecticut State and Tennessee State, both ending in CU victories. Colorado ended a 22-year post-season drought by receiving an invitation to play in the NIT. The Buffaloes beat Michigan (71-64), Wyoming (83-75), Arkansas State (81-75), and Massachusetts (98-91) en route to a third place finish. Vandiver finished the year averaging 21.2 points and 10 rebounds per game, which was good enough to earn the senior center first team All-Big Eight honors, and a spot on the NIT All-Tournament team. Colorado finished the season with a 19-14 record, the team's best in 21 seasons.

1939-40

The 1939-40 edition of the Buffaloes tallied one of the best records in school history, finishing the year at 17-4. The team, led by coach Forrest Cox, dominated the Mountain States Conference with a conference record of 11-1, the sole loss coming from Utah State 31-29. Colorado qualified for the 1940 NIT in New York City, beating DePaul 52-37 and Duquesne 51-40. The Buffaloes then went on to participate in the NCAA Tournament, losing close games to Southern California (32-38) and Rice (60-56 OT). Colorado was the first team, and one of a select few, to play in both the NIT and NCAA tournaments in the same year.

1937-38

The Colorado men's basketball program earned its first postseason berth in the 1937-38 season, under the direction of third-year head coach Forrest Cox, in which the Buffs went undefeated at home during the season. 1938 featured the debut of the Mountain States Conference, in which the Buffaloes stacked up a record of 10-2 in conference play. Colorado went on to the NIT in New York City, where the Buffs edged out New York University 48-47 in their first game, before succumbing to Temple University by a score of 60-34, turning in a 15-6 record on the season.

Balch Fieldhouse was the home floor for the Buffaloes during the 1937-38 season.

Donnie Boyce

Atlanta Hawks, 1995 • San Antonio Spurs, 1996-97

Donnie Boyce finished his career in 1994-95 as Colorado's all-time leading scorer with 1,995 points (he's currently third). However, Boyce's career ended prematurely when he broke his leg during the first half of CU's 1995 Big Eight Tournament game against Oklahoma. During his career in Boulder, Boyce was named All-Conference three times, twice on the league's first team. Boyce also held school records for games started (107), field goals attempted (1,648), free throws made (480) and free throws attempted (721). In four consecutive seasons (1991-95), Boyce led the Buffaloes in scoring, and led the Big Eight in scoring (league games only) as a junior (26.8 ppg). A gifted player on all levels, Boyce will be remembered as one of the greatest players in CU and Big Eight history.

Chris Copeland had an interesting path in order to fulfill his dream of playing in the NBA after graduating from CU in 2006. Copeland originally signed with the NBA D-League's Fort Worth Flyers for the 2007 season. He then moved on to play overseas for teams in Spain, the Netherlands, Germany, and Belgium. Finally, Copeland got his shot with an NBA team in 2012 when he signed with his hometown New York Knicks, where he averaged 8.7 points on 47.9 percent shooting (including an impressive 42.1 percent from three-point range) and 2.1 rebounds per game. At CU, Copeland was a four-year letterwinner helping the Buffs to a pair of NIT Tournaments (2004, 2005) as well an NCAA Tournament appearance (2003). During his junior and senior seasons he was second on the team in scoring, trailing only Richard Roby. In his senior season he led the team in blocked shots with 32.

After playing in the shadows of Cliff Meely for two years, Jim Creighton came into his own during his junior and senior seasons. He quickly became a stalwart performer for the Buffs. Not big for a center (6-7, 190), Creighton played much bigger with his great jumping ability. Following an excellent senior season, he was named to the NCAA's District V All-Star squad. Creighton enjoyed a one-year stint with the Atlanta Hawks. Used primarily for his defensive ability, he played in 32 games, averaging one point and 1.4 boards per game.

During his sophomore year, he victimized the Rams once again in Boulder, scoring a career-high 29 points with a personal-best five treys. On Feb. 10, 2013, he set school record by scoring the most points by a Buff without missing a shot at Oregon State (6-of-6 FG; 4-of-4 3 pt.; 8-of-8 FT). In four seasons with the Pacers he averaged 5.0 points, 2.9 rebounds a game and shot 53 percent from the field. Although his NBA career would not produce the numbers he performed in college, Harrison is currently the CU blocked shot record holder (225) and eclipsed the 1,000-point barrier (1,317 pts.). Harrison holds or shares every blocked shot record in school history and helped the Buffs to the 2002-03 NCAA Tournament and a 2003-04 NIT appearance.

Houston Rockets, 1971-76 • Los Angeles Lakers, 1976

One of two players in Colorado basketball history to have his jersey number retired (20), Cliff Meely was named an All-American following the 1970-71 season. Meely was truly a graceful performer who could shoot from anywhere on the court. He finished his career at CU possessing eight Big Eight Conference marks and 16 school records, including at the time CU's all-time scoring record (1,940 points). He still owns the school mark averaging 24.3 points per game. Meely transferred to CU as a junior college All-American from Northeastern JC. While there, he scored 40 or more points on five separate occasions. Meely played in more than 300 professional games over six seasons with the NBA's Houston Rockets and Los Angeles Lakers. André Roberson

Oklahoma City, 2013-present

After three record-breaking seasons at CU, Roberson chose to forego his senior year and enter the 2013 NBA Draft. The decision proved to be a wise one as the 6-7 power forward was selected with the 26th overall pick in the draft. Roberson left Boulder as the only CU men's basketball player with 1,000 points (1,012), 1,000 rebounds (1,045), 150 blocks (150), 150 steals (164), and 100 assists (119). He was also the first CU player to lead the team three straight years in rebounding, steals, and blocked shots. His 1,045 rebounds were only 10 boards short of the school record set by Stephane Pelle; however Pelle did so over the course of four seasons (1999-2003), while Roberson only played three seasons. Roberson's 150 blocks ranks fifth all-time at CU. In 105 career games, he tallied double-digit rebounds in 59 games, and scored in double-figures 52 times. Roberson also holds the freshman (297), sophomore (401), and junior (347) season rebounding records. Roberson helped Oklahoma City to the 2016 Western Conference Finals. He was named to the 2016-17 NBA All-Defensive Second Team.

ALL-AMERICA SELECTIONS

Jack Harvey
1939 & 1940

In his back-to-back All-America campaigns, Jack Harvey led the Buffs to two conference championships and a trip to the NCAA Tournament in his senior season. During those two years, CU posted an amazing 31-8 mark and received recognition as the No. 1 team in the land. Known for his tough defense, Harvey proved to be key in numerous Buff victories. He was also an outstanding ball-handler for a big man and was a key component in the CU fast break. A solid All-Conference performer, Harvey is the only CU cager to be selected twice as an All-American

Robert Doll
1942

Bob Doll was the big-play man for coach Frosty Cox's 1941-42 Big Seven Championship squad. Doll, along with fellow All-American Leason McCloud helped lead CU to a 16-2 record and the NCAA Western Tournament finals as a senior. He scored 168 points (9.4 ppg.) and was known as an outstanding rebounder and controlled the paint in many CU wins. He was also renowned for his shooting prowess, finishing second to McCloud in scoring. An unanimous All-Big Seven selection, Doll was selected to All-America teams by Look, Pic and Time magazines. He was also tabbed as MVP of New York's Metropolitan Tournament as a sophomore and was a huge factor in CU's three conference titles in a four-year span. After graduation, Doll went on to play for the Boston Celtics.

Jim Willcoxon
1939

Known for his defense, Jim Willcoxon continued Coach Frosty Cox's tradition of talented cagers. Willcoxon helped anchor the 1937-38 and 1938-39 Big Seven Championship teams with tough play on the defensive end. He also led the Buffs to national prominence with strong showings on East Coast road trips. His hard-nosed style of play earned him both All-Big Seven and All-America honors as a senior.

Leason McCloud
1942

The leading scorer for the 1942 Big Seven Champion Buffs, Leason McCloud was Coach Frosty Cox's "go-to guy." Known for his silky-smooth shot, McCloud was also a great passer and rebounder. McCloud was key in CU's NCAA Western Tournament semifinal win over Kansas, pacing the Buffs with 19 points. His play caught the attention of national media and he joined fellow Buff Bob Doll on the Look, Pic and Time magazines' All-America squads and was a unanimous All-Big Seven selection.

Burdette Haldorson 1955

Burdette Haldorson was virtually unstoppable in 1955. Prior to the season, Coach H.B. Lee said, "We'll be just as good as Haldorson. We need the big man to play well for us." And play well he did, leading CU to a conference championship and a third-place finish in the National Collegiate Tournament. The big man led the Big Seven in scoring at 23.9 points per game and set what still stands as a CU record with an amazing 346 boards on the year. For his efforts, the Amateur Athletic Union tabbed Haldorson a first-team All-American. Haldorson's talents were nationally recognized, as the standout was selected to the 1956 and 1960 U.S. Olympic teams. Upon graduation, Haldorson turned down a $7,000 contract with the NBA's St. Louis franchise. He did continue playing, however, and led amateur powerhouse Phillips 66 to a National Industrial Basketball League title. Haldorson joined Cliff Meely as the only two Buffs to have their jerseys retired in 1994, and was named to the CU Hall of Fame in 1999.

Ken Charlton 1963

Ranking No.12 on CU's all-time scoring charts, Ken Charlton battled through a history of knee problems to lead Colorado to two Big Eight titles and in 1963, Charlton was named an All-American by the United States Basketball Writers Association and Look magazine. Along with his penchant for scoring, Charlton was also a force inside, ranking in the top 10 on the CU rebounding charts with 671 career caroms (No. 11 at CU). He also succeeded in the classroom and was named an Academic All-American in 1963 as well. Buff Coach Sox Walseth said of Charlton's play, "On a leg and a half, he's better than anyone else in the Big Eight." Charlton was elected to the CU Hall of Fame in 2010.

Cliff Meely 1971

In 1971, Cliff Meely was a scoring machine. He tallied a then-CU record 729 points and set a Big Eight record with 427 points in conference. Coach Sox Walseth said of Meely, "He is the most complete player I have ever coached." Known for his quickness and agility, Meely could play any position on the floor. He was named to several All-America teams as a junior and senior and played in numerous all-star games after graduation. Meely went on to play in over 300 games in the NBA for the Houston Rockets and the Los Angeles Lakers.

Chauncey Billups 1997

One of CU's top perimeter threats in hoops history, Chauncey Billups graced the CU campus for two seasons before departing for the NBA. As a sophomore in 1997, Billups was named a first-team All-American by Basketball News, becoming the eighth All-American in Colorado history. Known for his playmaking skills and ability to penetrate, Billups also led the Buffs to their first NCAA Tournament in over two decades, where CU topped perennial-power Indiana in the opening round. Billups went on to be the third pick in the NBA draft by the Boston Celtics. In 2004, Billups helped lead the Detroit Pistons to the NBA title, in addition was named The NBA Finals Most Valuable Player.

HALDORSON NAISMITH HALL OF FAME

Burdette "Burdie" Haldorson, one of the early stars in the history of the University of Colorado men's basketball program, was inducted along with his teammates from the 1960 United States Olympic team into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame. The 2010 class was inducted on August 13 in Springfield, Mass.

That 1960 team brought home the gold medal from Rome and also featured Jerry West (West Virginia), Oscar Robertson (Cincinnati), Jerry Lucas (Ohio State) and Walt Bellamy (Indiana). The 12-man squad cruised to an 8-0 record, the average winning margin a gaudy 42.4 points. The team beat Brazil, 90-63, to clinch the gold after disposing of the USSR (81-57) and host Italy (112-81) leading up to the gold medal contest.

The 1992 "Dream Team" also will be inducted, along with Karl Malone and Scottie Pippen, among others. The 1960 and 1992 squads are generally considered the top two men's basketball teams in U.S. Olympic history.

They will become the seventh and eighth teams that the Hall is inducting, the first Olympic ones, joining others that include the Harlem Globetrotters, the original Celtics, and the 1966 Texas Western team that shattered the race barrier when it beat Kentucky to win the NCAA title. Members of inducted teams go into the Hall as a full group, not as individuals.

"I don't really know that much about it yet, but it will be a real honor to go into the Hall with the group of players that was on that team," Haldorson said from his winter home in Scottsdale, Ariz. "There were 12 guys, and all but two of us went into the NBA. I was one of those two, and I had invitations to turn pro as well, but I was basically ending my career. Some of those guys were outright stars, and I really believe Jerry West and Oscar Robertson would be stars in the game today."

"I've run into Oscar and Jerry a few times, but we all really went our own directions, so most of us haven't really seen each other since we parted ways that summer," he added. "We've never had a reunion so we kind of lost track of each other, but I can't think of a better way to finally get us all together again."

Haldorson averaged 2.9 points and 4.3 rebounds per game on the '60 team, and also won a gold medal as a member of the '56 team, when he averaged 8.6 points per contest. With Haldorson as a team member, the United States went 16-0 in the two Olympic games.

Haldorson's uniform, No. 22, is one of just two retired basketball jerseys in CU history. He left quite an imprint in the school's basketball annals, and the 6-foot-7 Austin, Minn., native still holds four school rebounding records some five-plus decades after his CU playing days, including the most in a half (21), game (31) and season (346).

As a senior in 1954-55, he led the Buffs to the Big Seven Conference title by averaging 23.9 points per game, and was named a first-team All-American. CU eventually went on to finish third in the nation, losing in the Final Four to eventual champion San Francisco and the legendary Bill Russell.

He averaged 15.0 points and 9.5 rebounds for his CU career, and was the first of only eight players to this day to score at least 1,100 points and record 700 or more rebounds. He was inducted into CU's Athletic Hall of Fame in the school's second class in 1999; he previously had been inducted into the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame, the first with ties to CU's basketball programs, in 1977.

Haldorson went on to have a brilliant career in the National Industrial Basketball League as a member of the Phillips 66ers, the team entry for Phillips 66, who then hired him after his career. He then moved to Colorado Springs to form his own gas and oil distribution business. In October 2011, Haldorson was inducted into the 12th class of the Colorado Springs Hall of Fame at the Colorado Springs World Arena, and in March 2012, he was named to the Pac-12 Conference Men's Basketball Hall of Honor, recognizing former men's college basketball players and coaches who have made a significant impact to the tradition and heritage of the conference.

COLORADO ATHLETIC HALL OF FAME

CHAUNCEY BILLUPS

A first-team All-American and unanimous All-Big 12 performer as a sophomore in the 1996-97 season, he led the Buffaloes to a 22-10 record, including an 11-5 mark and a second place finish in the inaugural season of the Big 12, as well as their first NCAA Tournament appearance in 28 years ... In two seasons at Colorado before declaring for the NBA Draft, he averaged 18.5 points, 5.6 rebounds and 5.1 assists in 55 games played; he also connected on 120 three-point field goals and converted at 85.7 percent from the free throw line ... He averaged 19.1 points as a sophomore, and scored 24 in an 80-62 upset over Indiana and its legendary coach Bobby Knight in the first round of the NCAA's ... In 1995-96, he set the school freshman records for points (465), scoring average (17.9) and assists (143), and was the second fastest player to score 500 points in a career, doing so in just 28 games (and is one of just two players to score 1,000 points in just two seasons in Boulder) ... The Boston Celtics made him the third pick overall in the 1997 NBA Draft, but would trade him to Toronto a little over halfway into the season ... Played 17 seasons in the NBA with seven teams (Boston, Toronto, Denver—twice, Minnesota, Detroit—twice, New York and the Los Angeles Clippers), but would rise to the ultimate stardom with Detroit, as he led the Pistons to the 2003-04 NBA title and would be named the Finals MVP ... In his second stint with the Nuggets, in 2009 he helped the team reach the Western Conference finals for just the third time in franchise history. ... A five-time All-Star, averaging 15.2 points, 5.4 assists and 2.9 rebounds per game, with his 89.4 free throw percentage the fifth-best in NBA history (his 38.7 percentage from three point range ranks 65th, but there's no ranking for game winning or clutch shots, as he would be even higher considering he earned the nickname "Mr. Big Shot") ... He retired prior to the 2014-15 season and lives full-time in his native Colorado ... One of just a handful of players to be named All-State four times as a prep at Denver's George Washington High School, and was named Colorado's "Mr. Basketball" three times ... He was on the North team that won the gold medal in the 1995 Olympic Sports Festival ... In 2013, he was inducted into the National High School Sports Hall of Fame (one of just four CU athletes to be honored, along with Byron White, Joe Romig and Bill Fanning), and in 2015, he was inducted into the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame, and in November 2015, the CU Hall of Fame.

DON BRANBY

Don Branby was one of the last three-sport lettermen in Colorado history, as he earned nine in all playing football, basketball and baseball ... His top honor was being named an Associated Press All American in football in 1952 ... A seventh round draft pick by the New York Giants in the 1953 Draft (the 79th player selected overall), he went on After his playing days, he went into coaching in college at Montana State, and then in the Canadian Football League with the British Columbia Lions and the Ottawa Roughriders ... In basketball, he scored 165 points in 45 career games in primarily a reserve role, though he led the Buffaloes in free throw percentage in 1951-52, making a then unheard of 39-of-48 tries (81.3%) ... In baseball, he played first base, third base and in the outfield; his 16 runs batted in were the third most on the team his senior year ... He also spent four years in the Air Force, playing service football in which he also earned high accolades.

KEN CHARLTON

Ken Charlton was a member of back-to-back Big 8 Conference titles and two straight NCAA tournament appearances under the late-Sox Walseth ... Often going out and scoring 20-plus points a day or two after having his knees drained of excess fluid, Charlton was CU's all-time leading scorer at the time of his graduation with 1,352 points in just three seasons ... Walseth often referred to him as, "the finest offensive player I ever coached." ... Thirteen on CU's all-time scoring chart, Charlton was named an All-American in 1963 by the United States Basketball Writers Association and Look magazine ... Two-time All-Big 8 Selection ... Along with his penchant for scoring, he was also a force inside, ranking in the top 10 on the CU rebounding charts with 671 career caroms (he's 15th today) ... He also succeeded in the classroom and was named a 1963 Academic All-American ... Charlton's 514 points scored during the 1961-62 season ranks 22nd today for most points tallied in a single season ... Owns a pair of 35-point efforts at Kansas (Jan. 5, 1963), and at Missouri (Mar. 5, 1962) that still rank among the top-20 scoring games in school history ... Walseth said of Charlton's play, "On a leg and a half, he's better than anyone else in the Big Eight." ... Inducted in the CU Hall of Fame in 1989.

FORREST "FROSTY" COX

He led Colorado to three NCAA tournament appearances (1940, 1942, 1946) and to a pair of NIT berths (1938, 1940), the latter considered the more significant postseason tourney at the time ... His 1940 won the NIT championship in New York City, defeating DePaul and Duquesne at Madison Square Garden (in 1938, the Buffs defeated BYU but lost to Temple in the title game) ... In 1942, CU defeated Kansas, 46-44, in the NCAA quarterfinals to advance to the Final Four, one of two appearances by CU to this day; the Buffs lost to eventual champion Stanford, 46-35 ... Colorado was considered by many to have the top basketball program west of the Mississippi during the first half of Cox's tenure ... His four teams that made the postseason were the most by any coach in CU history until Tad Boyle surpassed that with his fifth team in 2014-15 ... During Cox's tenure, CU won four Mountain State Conference titles (1938, 1939, 1940, 1942) and the 14-game winning streak by his '41-42 squad is still the longest in CU annals ... He coached CU's first four All-Americans in basketball: Jack Harvey, Jim Willcoxon, Robert Doll and Leason "Pete" McCloud ... Five of his former players are in the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame: Harvey, Byron White, Harry Simmons, Art Unger and Russell "Sox" Walseth ... He passed away on May 22, 1962 at the age of 54 ... Haldorson earned two gold medals in 1956 and 1960 as a member of the United States Olympic team, went on to have a brilliant career in the National Industrial Basketball League as a member of the Phillips 66ers, the team entry for Phillips 66, who then hired him after his career ... He then moved to Colorado Springs to form his own gas and oil distribution business ... In August 2010, Haldorson and his 1960 United States Olympic teammates were inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass.

JACK HARVEY

Jack Harvey remains the only CU basketball player to be selected twice as a first-team All-American (1938-39, 1939-40), when he led the Buffs to two Mountain States Conference titles, and as a senior, an N.I.T. title and a trip to the NCAA Tournament ... Scored 27 points in CU's 52-37 win at Denver in 1940, at the time the most points scored by a Buff in a single game and virtually an unheard total west of the Mississippi at the time ... Known for his tough defense, he was a key performer in limiting the opponent to just 31.2 points per game his junior season and only 37.0 his senior year.

JAY HUMPHRIES

He was a two-time Associated Press honorable mention All-American as a junior and senior (1982-83, 1983-84), when he earned first-team All-Big Eight honors ... Arguably the best and most exciting Buff of the 1980s, he became the school's all-time leader in assists (562) and steals (309) ... He finished his stellar career averaging five assists and 2.8 steals per game ... On the scoreboard, Humphries became the then-fourth all-time scorer (1,306 points, or 11.7 per game — he is still 14th on the list), with his go-to shot being the top of the key jumper which in his day was only worth two points ... His specialty, however, was his defensive play, as he led the nation in steals with 115 for the 1982-83 season, which remains CU's single-season mark; his 101 thefts his senior year (1983-84), ranks second on the CU list and was third in the NCAA ... He had an incredible 10 steals against Wisconsin-Milwaukee as a junior ... Member of the 1956 Olympic Gold Medal basketball team in Melbourne and scored a team-high 16 points in the gold medal game against the Soviet Union ... The U.S. team dominated the games and brought home the gold medal after going undefeated (8-0), winning those games by an average of 53.5 points; the U.S. defeated the USSR twice, 85-55 in the quarterfinals and 89-55 in the gold medal game ... The team was loaded, with CU teammate Burdie Haldorson, his college teammate and close friend, and future NBA Hall of Famers, Bill Russell and K.C. Jones ... Jeangerard was the team's second-leading scorer when all was said and done, scoring exactly 100 points for a 12.5 average, behind only Russell's 14.1 ... In shooting a sizzling 60 percent from the field, practically unheard of in that day and age, he scored a team-high 16 points in the gold medal game, with a best of 21 points in a win over the Philippines ... In 1959, he was once again chosen to represent the U.S., playing on its team for the Pan American games ... Teaming again with Haldorson and college basketball stars Oscar Robertson and Jerry West, the team again captured the gold medal ... Jeangerard went on to have an outstanding career in AAU ball ... He passed away in July 2014 at the age of 81.

BILLY LEWIS

The first African-American varsity basketball player at Colorado (and the first to letter), enrolling at CU in September 1956; at that time, freshmen were ineligible to play and he thus made his debut in the 1957-58 season ... As with his football counterparts, though treated well in Boulder, he often had to endure harsh racism on the road in pre-Civil Rights America and thus blazed the trail for all those who would follow him to CU ... The 6-3 forward played in 67 career games, scoring 244 points and grabbing 197 rebounds in lettering three times ... His best season on the court was his junior year, when he averaged 5.9 points per game with a career-high 21 against Nebraska ... In 1959, after the basketball season was complete, he decided to come back out for track in his specialty, the high jump; he cleared 6-6¾ and finished second in the CU Invitational (to Wyoming's Jerry Lane, who jumped an inch higher) which topped his previous personal best of 6-2 as a senior at Denver's Manual High School, where he was coached by CU great and Hall of Fame member Gil Cruter ... Just as important if not more so were his contributions as a student leader, becoming the first African-American elected by the student body as commissioner of the ASUC (Associated Students of the University of Colorado); he led a delegation of students and testified on the resolutions against discrimination in housing and employment practices and headed the SFHD, Students For Human Dignity, two of many causes he championed that helped change CU in a positive way forever ... Upon his graduation from CU in 1960, he clerked for a Denver judge, and after marrying fellow CU grad JoKatherine Holliman (the first African American woman on CU's homecoming court), they relocated to Washington D.C. where he would work for Colorado senator Peter Dominic in 1963 and 1964 while earning his Juris Doctor of Law degree from Howard University ... In '64, he was recruited by IBM and took a position as the first African-American corporate attorney at the company's headquarters in Armonk, N.Y., and returned to Colorado two years later (1966) to be the junior counsel for IBM in its Niwot offices ... He almost made a successful bid to become a state representative in 1968 against Tom Bastien, but lost by just 100 votes; he then opened a private law practice in Denver with partner Morris Cole.

DAVE LOGAN

A first-team All-American as a senior in 1975 as selected by The Sporting News and a Playboy Preseason All-American prior to his junior season (1974), the lone Buff to ever make the squad as a non-senior ... Logan caught 68 passes for 1,078 yards in his CU career, numbers that both ranked second at the time of his graduation and remain in the top 20 all-time ... He led the Buffs in receiving in both 1974 and 1975, after finishing second to the late J.V. Cain as a sophomore in 1973 ... A two-sport star at CU (he also lettered in basketball, averaging 14.1 points in 58 career games), Logan is one of a handful to ever be drafted in three sports: he was a third round pick by Cleveland in the 1976 NFL Draft (65th overall); the Kansas City Kings nabbed him in the ninth round of the 1976 NBA Draft; and the Cincinnati Reds had drafted him as an infielder and pitcher in the 19th round of baseball's June draft out of high school (longtime MLB outfielder Dave Winfield was also drafted in three) ... Played in 119 NFL games with Cleveland (1976-83) and Denver (1984) catching 263 passes for 4,250 yards and 24 touchdowns in his pro career. Logan settled back home in Colorado where he starred as a prep ... Is a longtime participant in the radio sports talk scene in Denver, and was the radio play-by-play voice of the Denver Broncos after several years as the color analyst ... Also worked several CU football games for KCNC-TV in the 1990s as the color commentator.

LEASON "PETE" McCLOUD

A first-team All-American, the third in CU basketball history ... Just the sixth CU athlete in any sport at the time, he was the Buffs' leading scorer on the 1941-42 team that reached the Final Four ... Scored 19 points in a 46-44 win over Kansas that enabled CU to advance in the tournament ... Member of the 1939-40 team that won the N.I.T. and was invited to the first NCAA tournament ... Two-time All-Mountain States performer (junior, senior seasons), he led the league in scoring both as a junior (14.1 per game) and senior (16.5, big for its day).

CLIFF MEELY

In exiting CU following his senior year with all the scoring records and as the runner-up in all the rebounding marks, some three-plus decades later Cliff Meely still holds the mark for a single game (47) ... Today he's third in rebounds (971) and fourth in career points (1,940) ... His name remains either at or near the top in over a dozen statistical categories, and he still owns the two top single season scoring averages in CU history: 28.0 as a senior in 1970-71, and 23.8 as a sophomore in 1968-69 ... The 12.1 rebounds per game average for his career remains one of the top numbers ever posted collegiately ... Led Colorado to the Big Eight title in 1968-69, as the Buffaloes were 21-7 with a 10-4 mark in league play ... A three-time All-Big Eight team member, he earned first-team All-America honors as a senior, and set 16 school and eight conference records during his career ... Additionally, Meely's 24.3 points per game scoring average is still a school record ... Leader on the Buffs' last Big Eight Conference title team ... Overall, the Buffs won 49 games during his time on the CU campus under late coach Russell "Sox" Walseth, the fourth most over any three-year span in CU history, with his jersey number (20) just one of two retired in CU annals ... Went on to play six seasons in the National Basketball Association with the Houston Rockets and Los Angeles Lakers ... In 1995-96, Meely was named to the Associated Press' all-time Big Eight Conference Basketball first team ... Along with Meely, the-late Wayman Tisdale (Oklahoma), Danny Manning (Kansas), Jo Jo White (Kansas State), and Rolando Blackman (Kansas State) were named to the team ... In addition the conference honor, Meely also earned the NCAA's Silver Anniversary Award presented to six former collegiate athletes who have gained recognition or done great work in their postgraduate careers.

the 1989-90 Big 8 Tournament, Vandiver earned most valuable player honors after he helped CU upset Missouri and Oklahoma State in back-to-back games, as CU became the first No. 8 seed to advance to the title game (he scored 75 points and had 41 rebounds in the three games) ... Other school marks he holds are career rebounds by a center (962); consecutive double-figure rebounding games (16); and is tied for first in career field goals made (750) ... He is third in career in field goal percentage (.574) ... Selected No. 25 overall in the 1991 NBA Draft by the Golden State Warriors, but would play nine seasons overseas in Europe ... Once returning to the states, he was an assistant coach at Wyoming, Bowling Green, Northern Colorado and Boise State before being named head coach at Emporia State ahead of the 2011-12 season (he has a 78-93 record in six seasons there).

RUSSELL "SOX" WALSETH

A player and long-time basketball coach at Colorado, Russell "Sox" Walseth was likely the first and one of just a few to have coached both the men's and women's program at the same NCAA school ... His time at CU spanned 38 years, starting as an athlete in the 1940s when he lettered in both basketball and baseball a total of six letters. He then worked as the head freshman coach for five years (three under his coach, Frosty Cox, and two under H.B. Lee); after two years as head coach at South Dakota State, he replaced Lee for the 1956-57 season and would proceed to coach 20 Buffalo teams ... The winningest coach in CU men's basketball history, posting a 261-245 record, the Buffs won three Big Eight titles under his direction, in 1961-62, 1962-63 and 1968-69 ... He was the Big Eight Conference coach of the year on five occasions, and his star players included Ken Charlton, Jim Davis, Cliff Meely and Scott Wedman ... Coached the women's team from 1980-83, then known as the "Lady Buffs," compiling an impressive 77-21 record ... That mark included an incredible 43-0 record at home, and once again, he earned coach of the year accolades ... The basketball floor at the Coors Events Center is named after him, and he is a member of the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame.

Led the team in rebounds with 9.3 per game both his junior and senior campaigns, with his 684 career boards still the 11th-most ever by a player in a CU uniform (his career-high of 19 came against Nebraska his junior year) ... Selected as a second-team member of the conference's all-decade team for the 1970s ... Sixth overall pick in the 1974 NBA Draft by the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, he was just the second CU player in history at the time to be drafted in the first round, as well as the highest pick; to date, only Chauncey Billups has been a higher selection (third overall); he was the second pick in the '74 ABA Draft by Memphis but opted for the NBA ... 13-year NBA veteran with Kansas City, Cleveland and Boston, he played in 906 games with a 13.2 career scoring average, pouring in 11,916 points; he shot 48.1 percent from floor, 79.4 percent from the free throw line and averaged 4.8 rebounds per game ... His jersey was officially honored by CU in the spring of 2006 ... Inducted into the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame in 2007.

LARRY ZIMMER, Announcer

Larry Zimmer is the first inductee into the Hall who is not a former athlete, coach or administrator; but he's been a part of more football and men's basketball games than perhaps anyone else in school history, calling 478 for football, including a string of 251 in a row until he fell ill, along with 525 men's basketball contests ... He is a member of both the Colorado Sports and CU's Athletic Hall of Fames ... Almost as synonymous with CU as Ralphie, the school's live buffalo mascot, Zimmer has spent 41 years in the booth at Folsom Field and traveling with the team, broadcasting some of the Buffaloes' greatest moments ... "Zim" has missed only 12 football games CU overall; prior to the six due to illness, he had missed three bowls (two due to contracts forbidding teams to originate broadcasts) and three regular season games due to travel conflicts; his 400th at CU was also the 1,000 of his professional career ... At their current school, only Bob Robertson, Washington State (535) has called more games than Zim, who is tied for fourth in consecutive years calling major college football (41st) behind Robertson (48), Bill Hillgrove, Pitt (45) and Don Fischer, Indiana (42) ... Awarded an Honorary "C" in 1992, and was honored as the 15th recipient of the Chris Schenkel Award by the National Football Foundation in 2009, which recognizes those who have enjoyed a long and distinguished career broadcasting college football at a single institution.

SEASON NOTES

- The Buffs were the Big Seven co-champions, earning their first major [Big Seven] league title.
- CU received a NCAA Tournament Western Regional berth on a draw from a hat.
- Started the season with a seven-game losing streak, the first time a Buff team would begin a season with that many consecutive losses.
- On Feb. 2, CU established itself as a serious championship contender by defeating defending conference champion Kansas, 70-62, to move into a first-place tie.
- An eight-game conference win streak was highlighted by road wins at Iowa State, at Nebraska and at Oklahoma.
- In the game at Ames, CU trailed at the half by 12 points and by two points with seconds to play. Wilbert Walter made a free throw, then Jim Ranglos tipped-in Walter's second free throw at the buzzer.
- Burdette Haldorson led the Big Seven in conference scoring at 21.3 ppg. During CU's eight-game winning streak, Haldorson averaged 21.9 per game, including 33 points at Oklahoma.

Bob Helzer

SEASON NOTES

- The CU head-coaching job was taken over by 30-year-old Russell "Sox" Walseth, who replaced H.B. Lee.
- In his first season, Walseth was named Big Seven Coach of the Year.
- On Dec. 3, the Buffs stunned highly regarded Oregon State, 67-58, in Sox Walseth's coaching debut. Jim Jochems scored 18 points, Bob Helzer and Dave Mowbray each added 14. Jochems would be plagued by a knee injury the rest of the season, played in only 10 games.
- After upsetting Missouri, the Buffs set a Big Seven Christmas Tournament record shooting 42-of-49 from the free throw line in a 90-87 victory over Michigan State. This marked the first time a CU team reached the finals of the tournament. CU lost the title game to Kansas, who was led by Wilt Chamberlain's 45 points.
- CU guard Dave Mowbray was selected to the All-Big Seven All-Tournament second team. Mowbray led the Buffs in total points with 273, an average of 11.9 per game.
- After pre-season predictions labeled CU for not much success (five top scorers from a year ago did not return), the Buffs finished 14-9 and tied for fourth in the conference. Only six other CU teams had won more than 14 games.

SEASON NOTES

- On Dec. 7, the Buffs beat Montana and former CU coach Frosty Cox, 77-60.
- On Jan. 20, CU upset conference leader Iowa State to earn Colorado's first victory in Big Eight Conference play.
- On March 8, CU's Gerry Schroeder tipped in a shot at the final buzzer to beat Nebraska, 54-52, for a thrilling finish to the basketball season.
- Schroeder was the lone CU player to average over 10 points a game (13.2 ppg.). His 304 points was the most scored ever by a CU guard.
- On Feb. 10 against Kansas, the Buffaloes "held" Wilt Chamberlain to his lowest point total in his high school, college, and professional career of six points. Chamberlain deliberately held onto the ball choosing to pass the ball to his teammates opposed to shooting.
- Gerry Schroeder (8-of-14) and Larry Pitts (7-of-12) combined for all of CU's 15 made field goals (the rest of the team went 0-for-14) in CU's 59-45 victory at Missouri (Mar. 3). The only two players to score all of CU's points from the field, is believed to be a school record for fewest players to score a basket.

Wilky Gilmore

SEASON NOTES

- Wilky Gilmore earned UPI All-Big Eight first team honors. He led CU in scoring (13.9 ppg.) and rebounding (10.6 rpg.). It's just the second time a Buff player averaged a double-double for a season (Burdette Haldorson (21.0 ppg, 13.8 rpg., 1954-55).
- On Feb. 6, CU, without two starters, managed to down Kansas State, 65-50, to snap the Wildcats 19-game conference winning streak.
- On Feb. 27, the Buffs lost to Iowa State, 83-80, in five overtimes, which was the longest game ever played in the Big Eight.
- On March 5, Wilky Gilmore ended the Buffs season on a winning note by tipping in a missed Russ Lind shot with two seconds remaining to give CU a 41-39 victory over Oklahoma State.
- Gilmore scored the most points (334) and rebounds (254) by a first-year player.
- Gilmore (13.9 ppg.), Russ Lind (11.8) and Stan Williams (10.0) ranked the top-15 in Big Eight scoring. Gilmore was seventh, Lind was ninth, Williams 14th.
- The 1959-60 team also marked the first time four players eclipsed the 200-point plateau in a single season.
- CU also played four overtime games (going 2-2), it's the most overtime games in any season.

%In a special ruling by the Big Eight Conference faculty representatives in September, Colorado was forced to forfeit seven victories during the 1960-61 season, six in conference play and the Buffs' lone victory in the pre-season tournament the previous December. The ruling came as a result of CU's Wilky Gilmore's playing in an organized summer league during 1960. At that time, such play was prohibited by conference rules, since rescinded. The ruling revised Colorado's record from 15-10 to 8-17, and the conference finish from a fourthplace tie to last.

SEASON NOTES

- CU won 19 games for the second straight season, a school-first. The 38 overall wins and 24 conference triumphs were the best in school history over a two-year span.
- CU went unbeaten at home (12-0) for just the third time with a minimum of 10 home games (1937-38, 1961-62).
- Ken Charlton and Jim Davis became the third CU pair named to All-Big Eight Conference AP & UPI teams (Gilmore/Charlton, 1961-62; Halderson/Jeanerard, 1954-55).
- Charlton scored 514 points, only the second CU player to reach the 500-point plateau in a single season. He would be named to the All-Big Eight All-Tournament team and lead the conference in scoring (19.2).
- Davis led the Big Eight in rebounding (32.9). He would become the fourth CU player to average a double-double in a season (13.8 ppg., 12.7 rpg.).
- On Dec. 3, CU beat Wichita State, 79-69, in double overtime for the 500th win in CU history.
- On March 9, CU's 69-56 victory over Kansas State in Manhattan gave CU a share of the Big Eight title with the Wildcats. The Buffs advanced to the NCAA playoffs because they had more wins.
- On March 16, CU defeated Oklahoma City in Lawrence, Kan., 72-82, to advance to the NCAA Midwest Regional championship for the second straight year. CU would lose to familiar foe Cincinnati, who had beaten the Buffs in the Midwest Regional championship the previous year.

SEASON NOTES

- CU finished the season with a 15-10 record, marking the Buffs' seventh winning season in eight years. The Buffs also recorded their first second-place Big Eight finish.
- On Dec. 16, the Buffs set a new fieldhouse single game high in points with a 93-70 win over Arizona State. The previous high was 92 against Missouri during the 1962-63 season.
- CU set two new team scoring records during the 1963-64 season-1,812 total points (old mark 1,779 previous year) and 1,013 points in Big Eight play (old mark 947 previous year).
- Center Jim Davis finished his career as the Buffs' all-time rebound leader (836 boards). He left CU as the third highest scorer with 1,110 points (Ken Charlton: 1,352 and Burdette Haldorson: 1,125).
- Jim Davis led the conference in rebounding (184, 13.1 rpg.) for the second consecutive year and was selected to the All-Big Eight Conference AP & UPI first team.
- Sox Walseth was named the Big Eight Conference Coach of the Year, his second coaching honor (1956-57, Big Seven).
- Jim Davis was fourth (19.3 ppg.) in conference-only scoring, while Bob Joyce (12.6) and Mike Frink (12.2) were ninth, and tenth, respectively.
- Davis is the only CU player to have a pair of 300-plus rebounding seasons in career (1962-63: 329; 1963-64: 318).
- Davis would average a double-double (18.5 ppg., 12.7 rpg.) for the second straight season. It's the fifth time a CU player has accomplished that feat.

SEASON NOTES

- Injuries plagued the 1965-66 season: Pat Frink did not play due to an injury that he suffered at practice in early November; Lynn Baker injured his knee in the season opener against Texas Tech and was forced to sit out the remainder of the season.

- Chuck Gardner earned All-Big Eight first team honors (AP & UPI). He led the conference in scoring, finished second in rebounding and field goal percentage and finished fourth in free throw percentage. This 1-2-2-4 finish was the best the Big Eight had on record.

- Gardner became the third player in school history to score over 500 points in a season. His 506 total ranks third all-time.

- On March 5, CU defeated ninth ranked Nebraska 95-88 to knock the Cornhuskers out of a Big Eight Championship tie. CU forward Chuck Gardner drove Nebraska's middle defense crazy scoring 42 points to set a new school scoring record.

- Gardner led the Big Eight (conference-only games) in scoring (20.3 ppg.).

SEASON NOTES

- CU won 17 games, the most in four years, in addition winning 10 games in conference play.
- Although the Buffs and the Huskers had identical 10-4 records tying for second place, CU was snubbed by the National Invitational Tournament, despite beating tournament-bound Nebraska in the final game of the season.
- Pat Frink and Lynn Baker were both selected to the All-Big Eight second team.
- Bob Bauers capped his collegiate career leading CU in rebounding (7.4) and finishing second in scoring (13.5). Both were career highs for a season average.
- On Dec. 5, Frink scored 36 points in a 93-89 victory over Utah. This was Frink's first season back after a year of inactivity due to a knee surgery.
- On Jan. 7, CU shot 59.9 percent from the field and stunned highly touted Kansas State 71-68.
- On Jan. 17, CU upset Kansas 62-59 at the CU Fieldhouse. The Jayhawks suffered their lone conference loss and would finish the season No. 3 (AP) and No. 4 UPI in the final polls.

Matt Bullard

SEASON NOTES

- Matt Bullard was named to UPI's All-Freshman team, as he became only the second player ever to lead CU in scoring as a freshman. He was named an AP & UPI conference honorable mention.
- Bullard's 12.7 ppg. average was the second best ever by a frosh, topped only by Emmett Lewis (14.9 in 1975-76). Bullard also shot school record 60.4 FG%, that ranked second in the conference. Bullard is the fourth CU frosh to average 10+ or points a game.
- On Dec. 11, CU's 78-65 victory over Colorado State marked the 800th win in the program's history.
- On March 1, a 94-86 loss to Missouri gave Colorado the dubious distinction of being the only team in Big Eight history to go winless in league play.
- This was only the second 20-loss season in CU history, as the Buffs also ended the year with a seven-game home losing streak and a nine-game road losing skid.
- Mike Reid was named to the Big Eight All-Academic first team.
- The 1985-86 team had at least three seniors on the roster for the fifth straight year.
- Tom Apke coached the Buffs for four years from 1981-86 (59-81, .421).
- On April 2, Tom Miller was named CU's 14th head basketball coach.

Chauncey Billups

SEASON NOTES

- Chauncey Billups became the fourth CU freshman to lead the Buffs in scoring with a school record 17.9 ppg. He would score 31 points in his second career game, the most points by any CU freshman. He's the sixth CU frosh to average 10 or more points at the end of the season.
- Midway through the season, after suffering an 82-80 overtime loss to Southern Utah, head coach Joe Harrington resigned and Ricardo Patton was named interim head coach.
- On Jan. 29, 1996, Ricardo Patton won his first game as CU's head coach, as his Buffs beat Missouri 106-94. The game was televised on ESPN's "Big Monday," and the win was CU's first on ESPN since they upset No. 2 Oklahoma State in 1992.
- Billups earned Big Eight Freshman of the Year and the coaches All-Big Eight Second Team. He scored the most points by freshman (465) and the only CU frosh in history to break the 30-point in a single game (he did four times).
- On Dec. 2, Billups recorded the first ever triple-double by a Buff, and the sixth in Big Eight history with 24 points, 11 rebounds and 11 assists against George Mason.
- On Feb. 7, CU turned in one of its best performances of the year in a 64-63 overtime win at Kansas State. The win marked the first overtime road win in Big Eight play since beating Missouri 81-79 in January of 1973.
- On March 5, Patton was named head coach on a permanent basis, making him CU's 16th head coach.

SEASON NOTES

- Kenny Price set a school single-game record with nine 3-pointers against Texas at the Big 12 Championship. His 97 3-pointers on the season is also a school record.
- Jaquay Walls was named to the All-Big 12 All-Underrated Team as well as earning All-Big 12 Honorable Mention status. Kenny Price was named to the All-Big 12 third team, while ranking third in the conference in points per game.
- Nick Mohr became the seventh CU freshman to average double-digits points (10.6 ppg.) in his first year. He played only 10 games because of a torn ACL.
- With a win over Iowa State (March 4), the Buffs broke a nine-game conference tournament losing streak.
- In March, CU was selected to play in the National Invitational Tournament. It marked the second time in three years under head coach Ricardo Patton that the Buffs qualified for postseason play.

SEASON NOTES

- In the opening game of the season, sophomore Jose Winston tied his career-high with eight steals, the second-highest single-game total in CU history.
- On Jan. 19, CU beat No. 17 Oklahoma 88-80, breaking an 11-game losing streak to the Sooners.
- With a victory in late January over Kansas State, head coach Ricardo Patton moved into sole possession of fourth on the all-time coaching wins list at CU with 68.
- In what many CU fans believe to be the best game at the Coors Events Center, CU came from behind to defeat Iowa State in overtime 102-90. Jaquay Walls scored an NCAA-record 15 points in the overtime on his way to an arena single-game record 42 points.
- The Buffs were once again invited to play in the National Invitational Tournament. They lost to Southern Illinois in the first round, 94-92. The invitation marked the third time in four years that the Buffs had played in a postseason tournament.

SEASON NOTES

- The Buffaloes youth of freshmen and sophomores attributed 72.3 percent of the team scoring, the highest percentage of any Buffs team since the Big 12 Conference began in 1996-97.
- CU fell short by single-digits 11 times, an average of 4.6 points; and in conference play on eight occasions by a 5.3 point margin. Four of those single-digit setbacks came against NCAA Tournament opponents, Texas (in overtime), at Kansas, at Oklahoma and Texas A&M.
- In two seasons, there have been 20 single-digit losses (15 in Big 12 play).
- All-Big 12 Conference Third Team selection Cory Higgins turned in a successful sophomore campaign that saw him become one of only 13 players nationally to lead or finish second on his team in five major statistical categories (points, rebounds, assists, steals, blocked shots). He also ranked nationally in a trio of categories (steals, FT%, scoring).
- Higgins' 538 points ranked the 13th best single-season mark in team history. It ranks third all-time among CU sophomores and seventh all-time among guards for a season.
- Dwight Thorne II made great strides putting together his best season-to-date recording 12 ppg. He made 48 percent of his shots and led CU from the three-point arc with 45.
- Levi Knutson was an All-Big 12 Academic First Team selection. During the spring 2009 semester, the men's basketball team achieved their highest grade point average on record a 2.926.

Jim Davis is one of seven players in school history to grab at least 860 career rebounds. Of the seven players, only three, including himself only played three years (Meely, Vandiver).

In his three years at CU, Andre Roberson was second nationally in rebounding during the 2012-13 season, and third nationally in 2011-12. He led the Pac-12 Conference on the glass (all games and conference-only) in each of those two seasons.
