DID YOU KNOW... Several University of Colorado graduates have made their careers in the field of sports broadcasting. The first was also a football letterman, Tom Brookshier, who did NFL color commentary for several years on CBS. Another has made his niche in broadcasting, as Dave Logan is the play-by-play voice for the Denver Broncos, following up a stellar career as an NFL receiver. One of the most visible people on the national college football beat is ESPN's Chris Fowler, a 1985 CU graduate who worked three years in CU's sports information office. Another '80s grad and SID office veteran, Jim Gray, is with FOX after stints with NBC, ABC and ESPN; he's made a name for himself in breaking several national stories. Solomon Wilcotts, who lettered two years at cornerback and played several seasons in the NFL, worked for CBS and ESPN and is now with the NFL Network. Kevin Corke, another CU journalism grad, started at Denver's KUSA-TV and moved on to become an anchor at ESPN before his current gig: White House correspondent for the FOX News Channel. Joel Klatt, who set nearly four dozen records as CU's quarterback between 2003-05 started out locally with ROOT Sports before being snagged by FOX Sports. Matt Schick, is the most recent Buff to join the ESPN family of networks, also working college football. Two other former players have a presence on the Pac-12 Networks among other assignments, Jeremy Bloom and Chad Brown, while three others are prominent on Denver radio: Mike Pritchard, Bobby Pesavento and Tyler Polumbus. Behind the scenes, Peter Lasser was a top producer for TNT's NFL football coverage, and Jay Rothman is one of ABC's and ESPN's most respected producers, having worked college football and is now the producer of Monday Night Football.
