PRESIDENT BRUCE D. BENSON

Bruce D. Benson is the longest-serving president of the University of Colorado in the past 65 years. Now in his 11th year, he was named to the position in March 2008. This past July, he informed the Board of Regents of his intention to retire in July 2019, thus putting the cap on what will be a 56-year association with the university.

Since taking the helm of his alma mater, he has enhanced CU's standing as one of the nation's leading teaching and research universities, advancing the economy, health and culture of Colorado and beyond.

The 21st president in the history of the university, he will conclude his tenure as the fourth-longest of the group, and is the longest-serving CU president since Robert L. Stearns held the post for the better part of 15 years (1939-53) well over six decades ago.

During Benson's tenure, CU's research funding has reached record levels, including its best showing of $1.03 billion in 2017-18, supporting the university's research strengths in biotechnology, health care, energy and aerospace engineering. He has led efforts to promote cross-campus collaboration that have resulted in cooperative academic programs and research initiatives, most notably CU's Biofrontiers Institute, led by Nobel laureate Tom Cech.

CU has broken records for fundraising in nine consecutive years (including a record $440.4 million in 2017-18) under his leadership. Benson and his wife, Marcy, chaired CU's $1.5 billion Creating Futures fundraising campaign, which surpassed its goal in November 2013. The campaign, the largest in university history, supported scholarships, academic enhancements (endowed faculty positions, programs), research projects and capital improvements across CU's campuses.

Benson, 80, has guided efforts to institute operational efficiencies, cut bureaucracy and improve business practices at the university. CU has secured legislation over the past nine sessions of the Colorado General Assembly that has allowed it to save millions annually in areas such as procurement, insurance and construction. He has also established a number of public-private partnerships to make the university more entrepreneurial and meet the needs of businesses in Colorado and across the country.

He oversees a system with four campuses (Boulder, Colorado Springs, Denver, and the Anschutz Medical Campus in Aurora) with a total enrollment of 65,375 and another 7,000 who take courses for credit. During his tenure, CU's four campuses have seen record enrollment. The university's annual budget is $4.5 billion. The CU system is the third-largest employer in the state, with some 35,000 employees.

Before becoming CU's president, Benson had already made his mark in business, politics, philanthropy, education and civic endeavors. He founded Bruce Mineral Group in 1965, a year after earning his bachelor's degree in Geology from CU.

He has consistently been active in a variety of educational, civic and political endeavors, and was the Republican nominee for Colorado governor in 1994. Benson has received many honors recognizing his leadership, but two are particularly notable: CU in 2004 granted him an Honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters, and in February 2009 he was inducted into the Colorado Business Hall of Fame. In August 2016, he was the recipient of the inaugural Courage in Education Award from the Steamboat Institute, as the honor is for encouraging intellectual diversity and the free and robust exchange of ideas.

He was born July 4, 1938 in Chicago, and has three children and 10 grandchildren.

CHANCELLOR PHILIP P. DISTEFANO

Dr. Philip P. DiStefano is in his 10th year as the Chancellor at the University of Colorado Boulder. Prior to his appointment on May 5, 2009, Dr. DiStefano was the top academic officer at CU-Boulder for eight years as the Provost and Executive Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs. He had also served as interim chancellor twice during pivotal times in the university's history.

Dr. DiStefano, 71, co-chaired the steering committee for CU-Boulder's visionary strategic plan, Flagship 2030, conceived with campus, community and statewide input, to guide the university for decades to come. Today, Dr.

DiStefano is shepherding its implementation as Flagship 2030 has moved from vision to reality.

Dr. DiStefano has served CU-Boulder for 44 years, first coming to the University of Colorado in 1974 as an Assistant Professor of Curriculum and Instruction at the School of Education. His academic career flourished as he assumed a series of academic and administrative positions, including Professor, Associate Dean, Dean and Vice Chancellor. He was appointed Provost and Executive Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs in 2001.

He has established new initiatives to support students in their success, including an increased graduation rate. He also has set forth plans to create alternative sources of revenue and further advance CU's reputation as a top comprehensive national research university.

Dr. DiStefano is considered a national authority on integrating intercollegiate athletics into the university academic mission. For the sixth consecutive year under Chancellor DiStefano, CU's NCAA Academic Progress Rate, which tracks student-athlete progress toward graduation, is the best in school history.

He serves on the board of directors of the Association of American Universities, an association of North America's most prestigious research universities, of which CU Boulder is the only member in the Rocky Mountain West.

Dr. DiStefano began a three-year term in August 2016 on the Board of Governors of the NCAA representing the Pac 12, within that role he was a member of the NCAA's revenue distribution working group. He also served five years as the University of Colorado's faculty representative to the Big 12 Conference, as he assumed the role on June 1, 2000, and held it until appointing Dr. David Clough to the position in the spring of 2005. He has been closely involved with the athletic program for most of his time at CU, and in June 2016, was recently accompanied by athletic director Rick George to Italy to promote the university and the success of its international students.

As Chancellor he works closely with students, faculty, staff, alumni, donors, governing officials, and business and community leaders in extending CU's legacy as a preeminent national comprehensive research university.

A first-generation college graduate, Dr. DiStefano earned a Bachelor of Science degree from Ohio State University in 1968 and a Master of Arts degree in English Education from West Virginia University in 1971. He holds a Doctorate in Humanities Education from Ohio State University, where he served as a teaching and research associate.

Dr. DiStefano began his educational career as a high school English teacher in Ohio. He has authored and co-authored numerous books and articles on literacy education.

He was born September 21, 1946 in Steubenville, Ohio, and graduated from Steubenville Catholic Central High School. He has been married to the former Yvonne Pasquarella for 49 years, and the couple has three grown daughters, Gia, Nicole and Jennifer, and two grandchildren.

In 2015, he served as the official starter for the 37th annual Boulder Boulder, the city's 10-kilometer race that is the fourth largest in the nation. He has been very active throughout his career in the Boulder Community, having previously served on numerous boards, including the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club.

PROVOST RUSSELL L. MOORE

Dr. Russell L. Moore is now in his 10th year as the Provost and Executive Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs for the University of Colorado, having assumed the position July 1, 2010.

Dr. Moore had enjoyed a long and distinguished career at CU, having previously served as interim vice chancellor for research from May 2009 to July 2010, and prior to that appointment, he was the associate vice chancellor for research since 2006.

Dr. Moore served as chair of Kinesiology and Applied Physiology (now Integrative Physiology) from 1994 to 2001, and was an assistant professor (1984-86), associate professor (1993-96) and full professor (1996-present) in that department. He is also an adjunct professor in the Department of Medicine at the University of Colorado Anschutz Medical Campus.

He co-chaired the Flagship 2030 Task Force on Research, Scholarship, and Creative Works.

He holds an adjunct professorship in medicine (cardiology) at the University of Colorado's Anschutz Medical Campus at the University of Colorado Denver.

He was an assistant and associate professor (1986-91) in the departments of medicine, cellular and molecular physiology at the Pennsylvania State University College of Medicine in Hershey, Pa. His research focused on adaptations of the heart to physiological and pathological stress, particularly as they related to the development of heart failure.

Dr. Moore earned a Bachelor of Science degree in biochemistry from the University of California at Davis in 1976, and a doctorate from Washington State University in 1982. He did postdoctoral work at the University of Texas Health Science Center in Dallas (1981-84).

FACULTY ATHLETICS REPRESENTATIVE JOE JUPILLE

Dr. Joseph (Joe) Jupille, an associate professor of political science, is in his second year as the University of Colorado's Faculty Athletics Representative (FAR) to the Pac-12 Conference, as he assumed the position on July 1, 2017.

Dr. Jupille, 47, is only the seventh FAR in CU history, joining a very prestigious list: Walter Franklin (1947-1948), Warren Thompson (1949-1966), William Baughn (1967-1989), James Corbridge (1989-2000), current CU chancellor Phil DiStefano (2000-2005) and Dr. David Clough (2005-2017).

Now in his 14th year at CU, he joined the faculty in 2005 and became an Associate Professor in 2007. He founded and served as Director of the Colorado European Union Center of Excellence (CEUCE) from 2008-15.

Professor Jupille's research specializes in rules and institutions, which comes in handy in the world of intercollegiate athletics. With James Caporaso (University of Washington) he is completing Theories of Institutions, which distills understandings of rules across a range of disciplinary orientations. He has previously published Institutional Choice and Global Commerce (2013, with Walter Mattli and Duncan Snidal) and Procedural Politics (2004), the latter of which centers on his core substantive and teaching expertise in the European Union (EU). He has been published widely in peer reviewed journals and edited volumes, including in the Annual Review of Political Science, Comparative Political Studies, European Political Science Review, International Organization and West European Politics.

Jupille has been involved with student-athletes almost since arriving at CU over a decade ago, serving on and then chairing the Boulder Faculty Assembly's Intercollegiate Athletics Committee (IAC), which works with the Department of Athletics in managing and thriving at the nexus of athletics and academics. He has served or continues to serve on a number of student-athlete-centered bodies such as the AD's Academic Risk Assessment (ARA) committee, the Title IX Task Force chaired by Senior Woman Administrator (SWA) Ceal Barry in addition to many others.

Jupille wants it all for CU student-athletes: a gold standard education, unparalleled opportunity for personal growth and professional preparation, a chance to enjoy year-round fresh air and sunshine and develop ways of being well, and of course, a world class athletic experience. It is the FAR's job to bring a faculty sensibility to the pursuit of these goals.

He earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science from UC Santa Barbara in 1992, a Master of Arts in International Public Policy from the Middlebury Institute of International Studies at Monterey in 1995, and his Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of Washington in 2000.

Prior to joining the CU faculty in 2005, he was an Assistant Professor of Political Science at Florida International University for almost six years (2000-05).

He was born in Chicago and 1970. He is married to the former Lisa Avanzino and the couple have four children (Michael, Alex, Jackson and Julia). An avid cyclist, he commutes daily to CU by bike from the town of Superior (six miles southeast of Boulder). He grew up as a fan of the Pacific 10 Conference and in particular the California Bears but his allegiance is now sworn to the Buffaloes.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR RICK GEORGE

Rick George was introduced as just the sixth full-time athletic director in University of Colorado history on July 17, 2013, returning to Boulder where he helped play a role in the school's first and only national championship in football some 23 years earlier.

George, 58, came to Colorado from the Texas Rangers baseball club of the American League, where he was named chief operating officer on October 5, 2010 with a promotion to president of business operations in February 2013. He agreed to a 5-year contract at CU, and he officially started on the job on August 12, 2013. In June 2016, the Board of Regents approved a contract extension that carries him through 2020-21 academic and athletic year.

His list of achievements in his first 1,000 days in the position were many, but none more significant than shepherding through a $156 million Athletic Complex Expansion from creation through fruition, gaining approval from the Board of Regents and then raising nearly one-half of the estimated cost to initiate construction, which began May 12, 2014. The project was the core of the Sustainable Excellence Initiative (SEI), the jewel of which was a long-awaited indoor practice facility. Once green-lighted, he spearheaded the most successful fundraising campaign in athletic department history, raising over $100 million for the project.

By the end of his second year, George implemented the department's first-ever comprehensive strategic plan, which mapped CU's immediate and long range purpose and goals. He also redesigned the management teams, made tough budget decisions that reduced deficits he inherited (and has since produced two budget surpluses), and canvassed the state, region and nation in both friend- and fundraising. The department is now completing the process for its' next three-year plan through 2020-21.

In his fourth year in the position (2016-17), 13 of CU's 16 athletic teams were at one time or another ranked among the nation's Top 25 (including all five in the fall; skiing is a coed program with combined rankings). Included in that group was the football team, as the Buffaloes returned to the national rankings for the first time in 11 seasons, in part due to George's support of Mike MacIntyre as the program's head coach and allowing him to follow through with his plan to bring the Buffaloes back to national prominence. All but one team competed in the postseason, most in NCAA Championships, with football making it to a bowl game for the first time in nine years and both basketball teams going to their respective NIT events.

Near the end of his first year and most recently in his fifth, he was recognized by CU's Student-Athlete Advisory Committee as its choice for Staff Member of the Year; no token award, the group acknowledged his attendance at most home athletic events, regular meetings with team captains of all programs to interact with them and receive their feedback, and willingness to meet with any student-athlete and that his door is always open to them.

George brought the most diverse background to the position than any before him at Colorado: all five others had extensive and primarily exclusive college athletic histories, the only exceptions being when Marolt left CU after 10 years as ski coach to lead the U.S. Olympic ski team before returning, and Tharp, who was a university attorney with strong CU-Boulder campus ties. While George began and worked in the college athletic world for the first half of his professional career, he stepped outside that box for the second half.

He is just the sixth full-time athletic director in Colorado history, following in the footsteps of Harry Carlson (1927-65), Eddie Crowder (1965-84), Bill Marolt (1984-96), Dick Tharp (1996-2004) and Mike Bohn (2005-13). Two others have bridged directors in interim capacities, Jack Lengyel (six months between Tharp and Bohn) and Ceal Barry (two months between Bohn and George).

George was with the Rangers for less than three years, but saw the team win two American League championships and compile a 243-176 record (.580 winning percentage) during his time there, second-best in the major leagues during that time frame. As the COO, he worked closely with team president and CEO, baseball Hall-of-Famer Nolan Ryan, and was responsible for all facets of the Rangers' business operations, including oversight of all sales and marketing efforts, broadcast and communications, ticket and suite sales, naming rights, etc., in addition to overseeing the finance, human resource and operations departments.

Among his many accomplishments with the Rangers was a comprehensive branding study that successfully rebranded the ball club, and an implementation of a new ticketing strategy that over the course of three seasons increased ticket revenues by over $30 million. The club's attendance saw an increase of 40 percent from the 2010 season to nearly 3.5 million in 2012, second in the American League (behind the New York Yankees) and third in the majors. The 2013 numbers were on pace to exceed the 3 million mark again when he left the franchise for CU.

Prior to joining the Rangers, George served as executive vice president and chief of operations for the PGA TOUR for two-and-a-half years (beginning in June 2008). While with the TOUR, he worked with the corporate marketing department in renewing sponsorships and creating new events. He also oversaw the Tournament Business Affairs division that worked with Tournaments to increase tournament revenue.

He also worked for the PGA TOUR as president of the Champions Tour from 2003-08, and as the executive vice president for championship management his last three years there. His major accomplishments included increasing revenues and sponsorships and the development of strategic plans, the latter including a vision and mission statement as well as core values. The Champions Tour had grown to a minimum 29 events with over $55 million in prize money when he left for the PGA TOUR.

From 1998-2003, George served as President and CEO of the Fore!Kids

Foundation, a 501c3 organization that raised money for children's charities via golf-related events, where he led rebranding and organizational efforts that resulted in increases in charitable giving to the Foundation.

At the collegiate level, George worked in three major conferences (Big Ten, Big 8, Southeastern) in football operations, beginning with his alma mater, the University of Illinois, as football recruiting coordinator (1983-87).

He graduated from Illinois in 1982 with a Bachelor of Arts in Liberal Arts & Sciences Individual Study that had an emphasis on Sports Communication and Journalism. He was a four-year letterman at cornerback for the Illini, playing in 44 straight games and starting in 27 games in all, as he played two years each under coaches Gary Moeller and Mike White. He was a two-time recipient of the school's Bruce Capel Award, given for dedication and courage to honor Capel who lost his life serving his country in Vietnam; George received the honor for his junior and senior seasons.

Upon his graduation, White named him the assistant director for player personnel for the Illini, and a year later (1983), he assumed the all sports recruiting coordinator. In March 1984, George took over the recruiting chores solely for football, with his first class ranked No. 1 in the nation by the recruiting services with all in the top 20; he coordinated five classes in all at Illinois when the call came to take him out west to Colorado.

On March 2, 1987, Bill McCartney hired him as Colorado's football recruiting coordinator. Two-and-a-half years later (Dec. 21, 1989), George was promoted to assistant athletic director for football operations, not coincidentally after the Buffaloes finished the regular season with an 11-0 record and the school's first-ever No. 1 national ranking in the polls. CU lost to Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl and would finish No. 4, but came back to go 11-1-1 in 1990, this time defeating the Irish in the Orange Bowl to earn consensus national champion honors.

Shortly thereafter, he left the Buffaloes for Vanderbilt University, where he was reunited with former CU offensive coordinator Gerry DiNardo, who was named the Commodores' head coach a year earlier. In eight years at Vanderbilt (1991-98), he also served as associate athletic director for external operations in conjunction with overseeing the football program. This was where George first expanded his professional role outside of solely football, as he had oversight over all external departments, particularly in the area of managing budgets and developing marketing and promotional strategies for all sports.

George was born April 3, 1960 in Woodstock, Ill., and graduated from Collinsville (Ill.) High School, where he lettered in football, basketball and baseball. He is married to the former Nancy Green, and the couple has two grown daughters, Jenni Reed (husband Tom) and Christi, and two granddaughters (Harper and Maddie).

UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO

Founded in 1876 at the foot of the Flatirons, over 142 years has transformed the University of Colorado from a lone building on a bleak, windswept hill to one of the nation's leading public research institutions. Established in 1861, the University was formally founded in 1876, the year Colorado became a state.

The Boulder campus encompasses over 1,100 acres on the main campus in the heart of town, east campus (which includes a research park), south campus, Williams Village and the Mountain Research Station north of nearby Nederland (which supports ecology, chemistry and geology).

While over 33,200 students are educated on the Boulder campus, another 33,000-plus study at the University of Colorado at Denver, the University of Colorado Anschutz Campus (Aurora) and the University of Colorado at Colorado Springs. Nine elected Regents and President Bruce Benson lead the four-campus system, while each campus has a Chancellor who serves as the chief academic and administrative officer. Dr. Phil DiStefano is in his ninth year as the chancellor of the Boulder campus.

Students can enter any of 10 schools and colleges offering more than 3,900 courses in 150 fields, representing a full range of disciplines in the humanities, social sciences, physical and biological sciences, the fine and performing arts, and the professions. CU-Boulder is regularly ranked among the best of the United States' public universities by the Fiske Guide to Colleges, and a 2010 USA Today/Princeton Review survey rated the University of Colorado as the fifth-best value among American public colleges. CU was recently ranked as the No. 33 university in the world by the Times Higher Education.

CU-Boulder has played a major role in NASA space programs, designing and building many scientific instruments flown in outer space, and graduated 17 men and women who became astronauts, including the late Jack Swigert, one of the three astronauts in the crippled Apollo 13 mission who made it back to Earth safely from the moon. When the Hubble Space Telescope was launched in 1990, it was carrying seven major instruments, including a high-resolution spectrograph to study the evolution of stars and designed and built by an international science team led by astronomer Jack Brandt of CU-Boulder. Since Hubble has been deployed, CU-Boulder faculty and students have been among the top users of Hubble of any institution in the world. CU-Boulder is the only university in the country where undergraduate students have operated a NASA satellite.

The University has produced 19 Rhodes Scholars, five of which were former football student-athletes at CU, with Jim Hansen the most recent recipient in 1992. Faculty member Thomas Cech, a distinguished professor of chemistry and biochemistry, won the 1989 Nobel Prize in chemistry. Other notable alumni other than athletes include former United States Supreme Court Justice Byron "Whizzer" White, former big band leader Glenn Miller and actors Robert Redford and Chris Meloni, the latter starring for years on Law & Order: Special Victims Unit, the creators of South Park, Trey Parker and Matt Stone, and Philip Bailey, co-founder of the popular music group Earth, Wind & Fire.

If the aphorism, "Somewhere between the Rockies and reality," seems too good to believe, then come for a visit. Start with a walk on the historic Pearl Street Mall, a downtown pedestrian mall that is the ceremonial heart of the city. Visitors may be so taken in by the scenery they may not realize the University that put it all together. From Pearl, Broadway leads directly onto campus where the University of Colorado Museum and the CU Heritage Center, in the original Old Main building, both introduce the University's past and present. The hub of campus activity can be found at both the University Memorial Center (UMC) and the Center for Community (C4C). The ATLAS building is one of the most state-of-the-art structures on any college campus.

Take in the fresh mountain air on any part of 100 miles of trails and 30,000 acres of open space. Climb the Flatirons or in Eldorado Canyon State Park. Swim or board sail at the Boulder Reservoir while elite runners sprint around it. Take in a pro sporting event down the road in Denver, just one of 13 cities with teams in all four pro leagues.

"The University of Colorado, and Boulder, is a town which stops where the Rocky Mountains begin. Normally in America such a superb site would be occupied by a golf course, but somebody goofed and instead they built what may be the most beautifully situated campus in the world... if anyone asks you to Boulder, I have one word of advice: 'Go.'"

PAC-12 CONFERENCE

Conference History

The roots of the Pac-12 Conference date back 102 years to December 2, 1915, when the Pacific Coast Conference (PCC) was founded at a meeting at the Oregon Hotel in Portland. The original membership consisted of four schools — the University of California at Berkeley, the University of Washington, the University of Oregon, and Oregon State College (now Oregon State University). All still are charter members of the Conference.

Pacific Coast Conference play began in 1916 and, one year later, Washington State College (now Washington State University) was accepted into the league, with Stanford University following in 1918.

In 1922, the PCC expanded to eight teams with the admission of the University of Southern California (USC) and the University of Idaho. In 1924, the University of Montana joined the league roster, and in 1928, the PCC grew to 10 members with the addition of UCLA.

The Pacific Coast Conference competed as a 10-member league until 1950, with the exception of 1943-45 when World War II curtailed intercollegiate athletic competition to a minimum. During that time, the league's first commissioner was named. Edwin Atherton was commissioner in 1940 and was succeeded by Victor Schmidt in 1944. In 1950, Montana resigned from the Conference and joined the Mountain States Conference, essentially replacing Colorado, which left for the Big 7 two years earlier. The PCC continued as a nine-team conference through 1958.

In 1959, the PCC was dissolved and the Athletic Association of Western Universities was formed and Thomas J. Hamilton was appointed commissioner of the new league. The original AAWU membership included California, Stanford, Southern California, UCLA and Washington. Washington State joined the membership in 1962, while Oregon and Oregon State joined in 1964. Under Hamilton's watch, the name Pacific-8 Conference was adopted in 1968. In 1971, Wiles Hallock took over as commissioner of the Pac-8.

On July 1, 1978, the University of Arizona and Arizona State University were admitted to the league and the Pacific-10 Conference became a reality. In 1986-87, the league took on a new look, expanding to include 10 women's sports. Tom Hansen was named the commissioner of the Pac-10 in 1983, a role he would hold for 26 years until 2009. Hansen was succeeded by current commissioner Larry Scott, who took on the new role in July 2009.

During the 2010-11 academic year, Scott helped deliver monumental changes that transformed the conference into a modern 12-team league by adding the University of Colorado and the University of Utah. The addition of CU and Utah led to an agreement to equal revenue sharing for the first time in conference history, created two divisions (North and South) for football only, established a football championship game for the first time ever, secured a landmark media rights deal that dramatically increased national exposure and revenue for each school and established the Pac-12 Network and Pac-12 Digital Network that guaranteed enhanced exposure across all sports.

Colorado accepted its invitation to join the Pac-12 on June 11, 2010, as the Buffaloes were the first domino to fall in a change of the national landscape which, in just one week, saw Nebraska also leave the Big 12 and join the Big 10, Boise State depart the WAC for the Mountain West, TCU jump from the MWC for the Big East (before eventually landing in the Big 12). Less than a week later on June 17, Utah agreed to join CU to make it an even dozen in the Pac-12. Big-time rivals for the first half of the last century, the Buffaloes and Utes officially became the 11th and 12th members of the Conference on July 1, 2011, the first additions to the league since 1978. During the 33 years between expansions, Pac-10 teams claimed 258 NCAA titles (130 women's, 128 men's).

At present, the Pac-12 sponsors 11 men's sports and 13 women's sports, having added women's lacrosse for the first time for the spring of 2018. Additionally, the conference schools are members of the Mountain Pacific Sports Federation (MPSF) in four other men's sports and two women's sports. CU participates in the MPSF in indoor track and has competed since 1950 in the Rocky Mountain Intercollegiate Ski Association (RMISA) in skiing, which is a coed sport.

The Pac-12 Conference offices are located in the heart of San Francisco's downtown district and are headquartered in the same building as the Pac-12 Network.

Conference of Champions

Built on a firm foundation of academic excellence and superior athletic performance, the Conference ushered in a new era on July 1, 2011, officially becoming the Pac-12 Conference with the additions of the University of Colorado and University of Utah.

Just 27 days after the Conference officially changed its name, Commissioner Larry Scott announced the creation of the Pac-12 Networks, solidifying a landmark television deal and putting the Conference on the forefront of collegiate athletics. The Networks, including one national network, six regional networks, and a robust digital network marked the first-ever integrated media company owned by a college conference. In addition, the "TV Everywhere" rights allow fans to access Pac-12 Networks outside the home on any digital device, including smartphones and tablet computers.

That same year, the Pac-12 also launched its Globalization Initiative to proactively promote the Conference and member institutions through student-athlete exchanges and sport, as in the first five years, Pac-12 student-athletes have enjoyed unique cultural and athletic experiences in several foreign nations. In the past year, the Pac-12 became the first conference to have all of its schools become members of the Green Sports Alliance.

On the field, courts and in the pools of play, the Pac-12 rises above the rest, upholding its tradition as the "Conference of Champions®," claiming an incredible 175 NCAA team titles since 1999-2000. For the 13th consecutive year, the Pac-12 had the most NCAA titles of any conference in the country, having won at least six every year since 2000-01, including 35 over the last three years. No other conference has ever won 10 or more in a single athletic year, looking up at the record 14 the Pac-12 won in 1996-97 and 13 in 2016-17. Even more impressive has been the breadth of the Pac-12's success, with championships coming in 28 different men's and women's sports. The Pac-12 has led or tied the nation in NCAA Championships in 52 of the last 58 years (and was second four times and third twice).

Spanning over a century of outstanding athletics achievements, the Pac-12 was the first conference to reach 200, 300, 400 and now 500 championships; despite having two fewer members than three of the other four so-called "Power 5" conferences, the Pac-12 outdistances the next conference by over 200 crowns (the Big Ten is a distant second with 298). In all, Pac-12 conference teams have won 513 NCAA Championships (300 men's, 183 women's, 30 coed).

Individually, the Conference has produced an impressive number of NCAA individual champions, as through the 2016-17 school year, 2,334 individual crowns have been won by Pac-12 student-athletes over the years (1,370 in men's championships, 778 in women's and 186 in coed, e.g. skiing).

And since the NCAA began conducting women's championships 37 years ago, Pac-12 members have claimed at least four national titles in a single season on 28 occasions, including in each of the last 18 years (2001-2018), with a record 10 during the 2016-17 school year followed by another nine in 2017-18.

2017-18 QUICK REVIEW

In the 2017-18 academic year, the Pac-12's 12 NCAA titles came in the form of a nine women's crowns and three men's titles.

Living up to its well-deserved billing of "Conference of Champions®," six different league schools claimed NCAA titles including three winning multiple crowns (Stanford four, UCLA three and USC two).

Of the 24 sports sponsored by the Conference, 17 witnessed at least half its teams participating in NCAA or other postseason action. The men sent 63 of a possible 101 teams into the postseason, the women 82 of a possible 130. Stanford's four titles came in men's and women's soccer, women's swimming and women's tennis. UCLA claimed titles in men's water polo, women's gymnastics and beach volleyball, while USC's pair came in women's water polo and outdoor track. Arizona (women's golf), California (women's rowing) and Oregon State (baseball) rounded out the league's victories.

While Colorado did not win an NCAA title in 2017-18 and the school's count remains at 27, the Buffaloes finished second in skiing, third in women's cross country (eighth in men's) and 19th in women's golf. CU has won 20 skiing titles (11 men's, one All-American women's and eight coed) and seven cross country (five men's, two women's); the Buffs also were the consensus national champions in football in 1990, but since it is not an NCAA-sanctioned championship, it doesn't count toward the Pac-12's total of 513.

CU won back-to-back men's NCAA cross country titles in 2013 and 2014.

Petra Hynčicová won both the classic and freestyle races at the 2017 NCAA's.

David Ketterer swept the giant slalom and slalom races at the 2017 NCAA Ski Championships.

Dani Jones was the 2017 national champion in the indoor 3,000-meter run.

2017-18 (Freshman): Sat out the season as an academic redshirt in the Colorado basketball program. The NCAA mandated the redshirt for Battey after he did not meet the initial eligibility requirement of graduating from high school within four years. Battey was a full participant in team activities, although he suffered a stroke in December which kept him from working out on the court during the second half of the season. He was the co-winner, along with George King, of the inaugural Tebo Family P.A.S.S. Award, recognizing the virtues of Perseverance, Attitude, Selflessness and Success. Cleared both athletically and academically, Battey played his first competitive basketball in more than two years in August 2018, traveling with the USA East Coast Team for a four-game tour of Italy.

High School: A 2017 graduate of Villa Park High School in the Los Angeles area. He was an All-Orange County and All-Crestview League selection as a junior in 2015-16, averaging 24 points a game for the Spartans including a 44-point effort, second-best in a single game in school history. ESPN had him rated as the No. 17 post player in the nation and 11th best player overall in the state of California. Rivals listed him as the 122nd best player in the nation while Scout had him at 132. Battey did not play basketball in 2016-17 as the California high school governing body determined he had exhausted his eight semesters of eligibility. Battey repeated the ninth grade and despite not playing in one of those years, the CIF had determined his eligibility clock had run out.

Battey stayed with Villa Park team for the 2016-17 season, serving as a player-coach for the team's big men and junior varsity. He was part of the Spartans' team that placed second at the CIF Division III state championships. This spring, Battey was recognized by the Orange County Athletic Directors Association with its Athlete of Character Award. He played his freshman and sophomore seasons at the Los Angeles Center for Enriched Studies, earning All-Western League honors both years. Battey averaged 11 points and 11 rebounds as a freshman and 20 points and 14 rebounds as a sophomore, helping the Unicorns to consecutive Division IV titles. Battey played AAU ball with the Dream Vision club program out of Los Angeles.

Academics: Battey is looking to study journalism at Colorado and also has an interest in political science and history. In April, he was recognized at Colorado's annual Student-Athlete Academic Recognition Banquet as one of two winners of the Clancy A. Herbst, Jr., Student-Athlete Achievement Award, given to those who overcome personal, academic and/or emotional challenges or difficulties to succeed both academically and athletically.

Personal: Evan Earl Battey is the son of Earl Jessey Battey III and Rosalind Lewis. He has one older sister, Taylor, who attends Oregon State. His grandfather, Earl Battey, was a four-time Major League Baseball All-Star and three-time Gold Glove winner at catcher for the Minnesota Twins during his 13-year career where he also played for the Chicago White Sox and Washington Senators. He is also related to Ed Sanders, heavyweight boxer who won a Gold Medal at the 1952 Helsinki Olympics. Battey selected Colorado because it was the best fit for him and he loved the coaches and team.

North Robbinsdale, Minn. (Champlin Park)

2017-18 (Freshman): Put together one of the greatest freshman seasons in program history, leading the Buffaloes at 14.2 points, 5.5 assists and 1.0 steal per game. He also topped the team in field goals made and attempted (166-368) while ranking third in rebounding (4.7 rpg) and fourth in blocks (14). Named to the 2017-18 Pac-12 Conference All-Freshman Team while earning honorable mention to both the main All-Pac-12 Team and All-Defensive Team. He set Colorado's freshman record for assists in a season with 175, breaking Chauncey Billups' mark of 143 set in 1995-96. His 175 assists are second all-time at Colorado in a season, regardless of class status. He scored 454 points, the fourth most by a freshman in CU history. His 14.2 points average ranks sixth among freshmen in one season. He became just the seventh freshman to lead the

Buffaloes in scoring since 1972 and 14th to average at least 10 points in that same time frame. On the Pac-12 charts, he was third in assists, seventh in assist-to-turnover ratio (1.9) and sixth in scoring. Topped all Pac-12 freshmen in assists and assist-to-turnover ratio and was third in scoring. He was named Pac-12 Player of the Week and National Freshman of the Week (by the USBWA & CBS) after averaging 17.5 points and 7.5 assists in Colorado's back-to-back wins over No. 4/6 Arizona State (1/4) and No. 14/16 Arizona (1/6). Scored 19 points and dished out five assists against Arizona State and followed that up with 16 points and 10 assists against the Wildcats as the Buffaloes defeated AP Top 15 teams in back-to-back games for the first time in program history. He is just the second Colorado freshman to earn a conference Player of the Week Award, joining Billups who was honored by the Big Eight in December 1995. He had four double-doubles, three of the points-assists variety with the latter tying a school single-season record. Set career and team season-highs with 30 points and 11 assists in the double-overtime win over South Dakota State (12/15). Just missed the program's fourth triple-double by pulling down nine rebounds against SDSU, ironically the only game that he came off the bench. Named MVP of the Paradise Jam - the first freshman to earn that honor - averaging 17.7 points, 6.0 assists and shooting 61 percent. Hit a game-winning 3-pointer at the buzzer during the first round win over

In eight years, Tad Boyle has accomplished only what a select few have done before him in the annals of the University of Colorado men's basketball program. And yet, Boyle continues to rewrite and lead the Buffaloes to greater heights not seen in a half of century.

Boyle, 55, is in his ninth year with the Buffaloes and his 166 victories rank third all-time in program history.

He is 166-110 as Colorado's head coach; his .601 winning percentage ranking second in school history with a minimum of four years on the bench; just behind CU Athletic Hall of Fame coach Forrest B. "Frosty" Cox who won 62.3 percent of his games between 1936-50.

Entering his 13th overall season as a collegiate head coach, Boyle has won 56 percent of his games with a record of 222-176.

He owns five of Colorado's nine all-time seasons of 20-plus wins. Boyle is the first CU coach to lead the Buffaloes to seven consecutive postseason appearances and the first to guide the program to three consecutive NCAA Tournaments. His record at the CU Events Center is stellar, leading the Buffaloes to a 113-22 mark at home (.837) over the last seven seasons. He is the first CU coach to win 20 games in each of his first four years.

"Tad continues to make Colorado more than relevant," NCAA.com Basketball Writer Andy Katz said. "He has made them into one of the top teams in the West. Now you can count on Colorado being in play for the top tier in the Pac-12 and an NCAA bid. Colorado may have joined the Pac-12 for football first but the Buffaloes have been a boon in basketball."

Boyle has led Colorado to 17 wins over ranked opponents, by far the best in team history. In fact Boyle coached teams, with a record of 17-32, have accounted for 28 percent of the program's wins over ranked opponents (61) since 1949-50.

Boyle's postseason success is highlighted by a memorable run of four wins in four days to claim the 2012 Pac-12 Tournament championship. He owns more than half of Colorado's all-time conference tournament wins, with a 13-7 mark in that span (11-6 in the Pac-12, 2-1 in the Big 12). Boyle has led the Buffaloes to a conference semifinal or better three times. He is a perfect 8-0 as Colorado's head coach in the first round of a conference tournament. Overall Boyle's 18 postseason wins and .563 winning percentage (18-14) are tops in Colorado history.

Six former Buffaloes coached by Boyle have made NBA rosters during his time in Boulder. Five have been selected in the NBA Draft, led by 2011 lottery pick Alec Burks, the 12th selection by the Utah Jazz. Colorado has been represented in the last two NBA Drafts with Derrick White in 2017 (San Antonio) and George King in 2018 (Phoenix).

Off the court, he has graduated every CU senior student-athlete on his roster (29).

The 18th head coach in school history, Boyle has also represented the Buffaloes on a national, and world, stage. Boyle was an assistant coach for USA Basketball's 2017 Men's U19 World Cup Team that earned a bronze medal in Cairo, Egypt. He also earned bronze as an assistant for USA Basketball's 2015 Pan American squad in Toronto. Boyle was one three court coaches for the 2013 USA Basketball Men's World University Games training camp at the U.S. Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs.

Boyle is also an active ambassador in the community throughout the Centennial State. He is a four-time participant in the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC) Infiniti Coaches' Charity Challenge where coaches across the country compete against each other to raise money for their charities. In 2018, he helped Special Olympics Colorado earn $13,000 through the program.

In September 2012, Boyle was invited to Washington, D.C. with other college basketball coaches to urge Congress to protect federal funding for cancer research and prevention programs on Capitol Hill. In September 2011, Boyle joined 20 other coaches from the Front Range for a two-day coaching seminar with former Denver Nuggets head coach George Karl, the 2012-13 NBA Coach of the Year.

Boyle and his teams have also participated in a multitude of events. The Buffaloes participated in the 2015 Special Olympics Unified Relay Across America in Boulder. He was the official starter of the 34th Annual Bolder Boulder (May 2012), the largest road race in the United States where all participants are timed and the fifth largest road race in the world.

In December 2012, the men's basketball team visited the Children's Hospital at the Anschutz Medical Campus in Aurora. In December 2011, the team volunteered with the non-profit Share-A-Gift program, an organization helping families of need acquire children's toys for the holidays. Both programs are part of the CU Athletics Leadership Development Program. The program is designed to develop a culture of leadership in which CU student-athletes act with personal responsibility, integrity and accountability while staying committed in both principle and actions to the greater good.

"This is it (my dream job), there's no doubt," Boyle said after being named head coach on April 19, 2010. "I remember talking with (Maryland men's head coach)

Mark Turgeon once when he asked me where I wanted to be in 10 years, and I said, the head coach at the University of Colorado. This is a destination job. I'm humbled and honored."

In his first season (2010-11), Boyle began to set the standard for exciting things to come, capping the season with a trip to the World's Most Famous Arena — Madison Square Garden and a National Invitation Tournament semifinal appearance. The Buffaloes won a school-record 24 games, including 18 school-best wins at the CU Events Center, establishing one of the best home court advantages in all of college basketball.

His initial season saw CU rank fifth nationally in free throw percentage (77.8), 12th in scoring (79.6 ppg) and 19th in field goal percentage (47.3).

Boyle earned National Coach of the Week honors (Hoops Report, Jan. 10-16) after leading the Buffs to a 3-0 conference start, including wins over No. 9/8 Missouri and No. 21/20 Kansas State. The win over the Wildcats gave CU its first road win over a nationally ranked opponent since January 1997 (No. 20 Texas Tech). CU defeated four ranked teams, including a 22-point comeback win (second greatest comeback in school history) upsetting No. 5/5 Texas, 91-89.

In year two (2011-12), Boyle became the first CU coach to begin the conference season with back-to-back 3-0 starts, and was the first coach since Frosty Cox (1935-36, 1936-37) to win his conference opener in back-to-back years. He also won his 40th game (home win vs. Oregon) in just 61 games tying Cox (1935-39).

Boyle continued to make most of his "dream job" a reality for CU fans guiding the Buffaloes to the 2011-12 NCAA Tournament (third round), another 24-win season, and a conference championship in its inaugural season of the Pac-12, winning four games in four days at the Staples Center in Los Angeles.

For his efforts, Boyle became the first CU head coach to earn the District 20 Coach of the Year by the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC), an award voted among his coaching peers. The 48 wins were a school-best in any two-year span of the program.

"I'm a believer in Tad Boyle," said Jay Bilas, ESPN College Basketball Analyst. "He is not only a terrific teacher of the game with great basketball knowledge, he keeps it simple and gives his players an understanding of what you need to do to win, but a firm understanding of how teams lose, too. Boyle has tremendous toughness in him. He is demanding without being demeaning, and he puts his players in position to achieve together without fear of failing. That's what truly outstanding coaches do, and Tad Boyle is a truly outstanding coach."

In year three (2012-13), Boyle guided the Buffs to another NCAA Tournament appearance, the second year in-a-row, becoming the first CU coach in 50 years to guide the program to back-to-back tournament appearances. CU won 21 games, the third straight season the program eclipsed the 20-win plateau, also a school-first. After the team won their first mid-season tournament since the 2002-03 season, the Charleston Classic, the Buffs reached the nation's Top-25 polls for the first time since 2005-06 (No. 19 AP/USA Today Coaches' Poll, Nov. 26); AP No. 23 ranked, Nov. 19).

Attendance records also set a brand new high standard as the men's basketball team proved to be the best ticket in town setting a number of school records, including seven sellouts; 12 of 15 home games exceeded 10,000 fans or better, in addition to season total (155,884); season average (10,392); conference total (94,371); and conference average (10,486). The attendance surge ranked third nationally among all Division I programs for largest increased average from the previous year.

Success continued for Boyle and his coaching staff in year four (2013-14) as the Buffs won 23 games, the third most victories in school history. Another NCAA Tournament followed for a school record third consecutive season, in addition setting a pair of attendance records (season total: 173,429; non-conference total: 84,133). The staff enjoyed their best start to a season in four years (14-2 record) with a No. 15 nationally ranking, the highest a CU team has seen since 1997.

In 2014-15, a 16-18 record marked the first time in five years the program failed to notch a winning season, however the Buffaloes reached the College Basketball Invitational (CBI) quarterfinals. The Buffs did defeat NCAA Sweet 16 participant UCLA and the National Invitation Tournament Champion Stanford during the season.

Attendance remained steady for the fifth straight year, finishing with third place numbers across the board in all-time marks in season total, season average, and conference total. Conference average was fourth. Overall, Boyle and his CU teams, hold the top five attendance marks in season and conference total, and conference average since 2010-11; and the four of the top five attendance figures in season average.

The Buffaloes rebounded nicely in 2015-16, sporting a record of 22-12 and finishing in fifth place in the Pac-12 at 10-8. Boyle led Colorado to 11 straight wins during the nonconference schedule, the fifth longest in program history and best run since 1961-62. Colorado's 21 regular season wins tied a school record — joining the 2013-14 and 1996-97 teams — and 22 overall tied for fourth in the school annals. Colorado reached the NCAA Tournament for the fourth time under Boyle.

Boyle's 2016-17 team marked seven-straight years with a postseason tournament appearance; a school record. The Buffaloes were 19-15 overall and 8-10 in the Pac-12, earning a spot in the NIT. Colorado's regular season was highlighted by wins over three ranked teams, including No. 13/14 Xavier and No. 10/10 Oregon, teams that would eventually end up in the Elite Eight and Final Four respectively.

In 2017-18, Boyle had the youngest team of his tenure, with nine players that had not played a minute in a Buffaloes' uniform prior to the season. He led Colorado to 17 wins, the program's seventh winning season in the last eight years. Last year's young group had some bright moments including back-to-back wins over Top 15 teams for the first time in program history.

Prior to his arrival to Boulder, Boyle resurrected the basketball program at the University of Northern Colorado, where he guided the Bears to a 56-66 record (.459) the past four seasons, including a breakout season in 2009-10, when the Bears were 25-8 (.758) and finished second in the Big Sky Conference. For his efforts, he was awarded the NABC Division I All-District Coach of the Year, the Big Sky Coach of the Year by both The Sporting News and CollegeInsider.com, where he was also named a finalist for the National Mid-Major Coach of the Year award.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING ...

"Tad has bought back a resurgence to Colorado basketball with his energy and enthusiasm. I am impressed with his knowledge of the game and his ability to communicate to his Buffaloes team."

— Dick Vitale, ESPN College Basketball Analyst

"Tad has done something few thought possible — turn Colorado into a basketball school. The Buffaloes have as much of an impact in their new conference as any other team transitioning to a new league and that is a credit to Tad and his staff."

— Andy Katz, NCAA.com Basketball Writer

"I'm a believer in Tad Boyle. He is not only a terrific teacher of the game with great basketball knowledge, he keeps it simple and gives his players an understanding of what you need to do to win, but a firm understanding of how teams lose, too. Boyle has tremendous toughness in him. He is demanding without being demeaning, and he puts his players in position to achieve together without fear of failing. That's what truly outstanding coaches do, and Tad Boyle is a truly outstanding coach."

— Jay Bilas, ESPN College Basketball Analyst

"I've been blessed to work with many hall of fame caliber coaches during my career and I can say without reservation that Tad Boyle is as talented as any coach I've been around! Whether you're talking about X's-and-O's, in-game adjustments, or recruiting...he's the total package. And, best of all...he's an even better human being."

— Mark Johnson, Colorado Director of Audio Broadcasting

"This exciting process was all about both the young men we have currently and those in the future who will be joining our program, and is an investment in them and represents the competitive spirit, teamwork, passion and dedication they stand for," then-CU athletic director Mike Bohn said.

"Tad Boyle represents everything that is right about college basketball. We look forward to his leadership, poise and competitive drive to unite all our collective Buff interests to support our team and this enterprise that has so much promise for the long term."

A Greeley, Colo., native, Boyle was named the 17th coach in UNC history on April 25, 2006. At that point, the Bears were in the midst of a transition to Division I in its first season as a member of the Big Sky Conference. Northern Colorado finished 4-24 in his first season when squad finished last nationally in the final RPI rankings for that season. There were, however, flashes of times to come that season, including close losses to both Colorado (88-86) and Colorado State (75-66).

Over the next two seasons at UNC, he improved the team's win total from four to 13 and then 14. The Bears defeated Colorado State, 72-59, in his second season and also knocked off San Diego State, 72-59. The Aztecs were ranked among the nation's top 50 teams in the RPI rankings at that time. In year three, the Bears had improved from one conference win his first season to an even 8-8 mark and earned the school's first Division I post season trip, to the Sun Belt Conference Tournament.

It all came together for Boyle in his fourth season in Greeley, as the Bears advanced to the post season for the first time in school history, advancing to the quarterfinals of the CollegeInsiders.com Tournament while racking up a school record 25 victories. He coached one first-team All-Big Sky member and also the Big Sky Conference Defensive Player of the Year.

Prior to Northern Colorado, he spent six seasons as an assistant coach at Wichita State and was part of another turn around that saw the Shockers improve from 9-19 (.321) his first year there to one of the nation's top mid-major teams in 2006 when Wichita State went 26-9 and advanced to the Sweet 16 of the NCAA Tournament. The Shockers eventually lost to Final Four Cinderella George Mason in the regional semifinals, but not before they had secured the No. 21 ranking in the final collegiate polls.

Boyle played collegiately for legendary coach Larry Brown at Kansas (1981-85). He was a member of two NCAA Tournament teams (1984, 1985) and was part of the 1984 Big Eight Tournament championship squad. As a senior, Boyle captained the Jayhawks, which featured freshman Danny Manning, who three years later led the Jayhawks to the NCAA Championship.

After earning a bachelor of science degree in business administration from Kansas in 1985, Boyle went on to serve six years as a high school basketball coach at various Colorado programs. He was the sophomore basketball coach at Greeley (Colo.) West for a year and then was an assistant coach at Loveland (Colo.) High School for two years.

From there, he served at Longmont (Colo.) High School for three years before returning to the college ranks.

It was at Kansas that Boyle played alongside Turgeon, whom he also coached with at Oregon under Jerry Green. Boyle's first collegiate coaching job in 1994 was on Green's Ducks staff, where he spent three seasons and helped the Ducks to the 1995 NCAA Tournament and the 1997 National Invitational Tournament. In 1997, Boyle followed Green to Tennessee, where he was director of basketball operations when the Vols won 20 games and advanced to the NCAA Tournament.

Boyle reconnected with Turgeon the following year, this time as an assistant coach at Jacksonville State (Ala.), where they helped turn a team that was 8-18 into a 17-11 squad in just one season.

Before heading to play collegiately at Kansas, Boyle was a standout performer at Greeley Central High School, where he led the Wildcats to a state championship as a senior in 1981 and earned Colorado Player of the Year honors as well —as being selected to the Converse All-American team. His high school jersey was retired at the conclusion of his senior season.

Boyle is married to the former Ann Schell of Greeley, and they have two sons, Jack and Pete, and a daughter, Claire.

Mike Rohn is in his ninth year as a coach and head recruiting coordinator with the University of Colorado men's basketball program. He was elevated from assistant to associate head coach on Oct. 18, 2017.

Rohn is an integral part of the coaching staff that has re-energized the basketball program to national prominence and continues to do so each and every year.

"One of the steadiest people I have ever worked with," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "Mike is the ultimate grinder; works extremely hard and he's a guy that thinks, a forward-thinker. He's ready to be a head coach. He has all the tools in what it takes to be a head coach, and is invaluable to our staff, and to me."

During Rohn's tenure in Boulder, the Buffaloes' have accumulated 166 victories, the most wins in any eight-year span of the program (116 years). In addition he has helped guide the Buffaloes to seven-straight seasons of postseason play (2010-17), a program first, including four NCAA Tournaments. CU's three straight trips to the NCAA Tournament (2012, '13 & '14), are also school firsts.

Rohn has helped build the CU Events Center into a dominant home court advantage, making the Buffs' one of the most feared arenas to play in with a eight-year mark of 113-22 (.837).

As the recruiting coordinator, Rohn helped deliver the 25th ranked recruiting class in the nation in 2017 according to Rivals and Scout.

The groundwork of the program's success was built during the first two years where Rohn assisted with back-to-back 24-win campaigns of 2010-11 and 2011-12. The 24 victories continue to be a school record for victories in a single-season. The 24 wins in his first season were part of CU's run to the NIT semifinals at Madison Square Garden in New York City, the school's last year in the Big 12 Conference.

The following year (2011-12), the program equaled another 24 victories, CU's first year in the Pac-12 Conference. The Buffaloes became just the 10th team in the nation to win at least four games in four days to capture the tournament title at the inaugural conference tournament. The tournament title was the Buffaloes first since winning the Big 8 in 1968-69.

With the automatic tournament berth, CU earned its first NCAA Tournament appearance since 2002-03 and saw the Buffs upset No. 6 UNLV in the first round.

Another successful season followed in 2012-13 (21 wins), where Rohn and the Buffs earned back-to-back NCAA Tournament berths for the first time in 50 years (1961-62 & 1962-63). The following year (2013-14), another NCAA Tournament followed with 23 wins, setting a school record with three consecutive NCAA Tourney appearances and four-straight 20-winning seasons.

The 2013-14 campaign saw CU register 23 wins, the third-most victories in school history. That CU team also tallied a third place finish in the final Pac-12 Conference standings, the program's highest placing in 18 years.

After a 16-18 campaign, and a trip to the CBI Quarterfinals in 2014-15, Colorado rebounded with its fifth 20-win season in six years in 2015-16. The Buffaloes sported a record of 22-12 and finished fifth in the Pac-12 at 10-8. Rohn helped Colorado to 11 straight wins during the nonconference schedule, the fifth longest in program history and best run since 1961-62. Colorado's 21 regular season wins tied a school record — joining the 2013-14 and 1996-97 teams — and 22 overall tied for fourth in the school annals.

Colorado made its seventh-straight postseason appearance in 2016-17 with a 19-15 overall record and a berth in the NIT.

In 2017-18, Colorado had the youngest team of his tenure, with nine players that had not played a minute in a Buffaloes' uniform prior to the season. He helped Colorado to 17 wins, the program's seventh winning season in the last eight years. Last year's young group had some bright moments including back-to-back wins over Top 15 teams for the first time in program history.

During his eight years in Boulder, Rohn has mentored six former CU student-athlete standouts who have made the next step professionally in their respective basketball careers.

Alec Burks, a sophomore, was CU's second-ever lottery pick and selected No. 12 overall by the Utah Jazz in the 2011 NBA Draft; Andre Roberson left after his junior year, was the No. 26 overall selection by the Minnesota Timberwolves in 2013 (later traded to Oklahoma City).

Spencer Dinwiddie, also a junior, was drafted by the Detroit Pistons in the 2014 NBA Draft (second round, No. 38 overall); and Cory Higgins, the school's all-time co-leader in points, played with the Charlotte Bobcats during the 2011-12 season.

Colorado has been represented in the last two NBA Drafts with Derrick White in 2017 (San Antonio) and George King in 2018 (Phoenix).

Rohn has also coached a number of CU student-athletes to conference excellence.

In 2010-11, Burks was a Wooden Award Top-20 finalist and unanimous All-Big 12 first team selection; Levi Knutson was the Big 12 Conference Sixth Man of the Year, and Higgins was All-Big 12 third team.

In CU's first year of the Pac-12, Roberson (first team, All-Defensive, All-Tournament team), Carlon Brown (second team, tournament's Most Outstanding Player), and Dinwiddie (freshman team) garnered all-Conference honors.

In year two of the conference, Roberson (first team, Defensive Player of the Year, All-Defensive team); Dinwiddie (first team) and Josh Scott (All-Freshman team) earned post-season accolades, and in year three, Scott continued CU's prominence among the elite Pac-12 Conference players selected to the first team.

Scott repeated his all-conference honor in 2015-16 and was a finalist for the Kareem Abdul-Jabbar Award, given to the nation's best big man. Scott was also on the Pac-12 All-Defensive team while front-court mate Wesley Gordon earned honorable mention. George King was named the Pac-12's Most Improved Player of the Year.

White earned 2017 All-Pac-12 First Team honors while also being selected to the league's All-Defense team.

King was named to the 2018 All-Pac-12 Second Team. McKinley Wright IV was a Pac-12 All-Freshman Team member while earning honorable mention to the overall All-Conference and All-Defensive teams.

In August 2014, Rohn was the head coach the Athletes In Action team, a school-first for any CU assistant. AIA is a worldwide Christian sports organization was also comprised of then-CU sophomore Tre'Shaun Fletcher and other college basketball players from around the nation embarking on an eight-day Baltic tour of Russia. Team USA won three of four games against professional competition.

Prior to his arrival to Boulder, Rohn spent the three years as the director of basketball operations at Texas A&M (2007-10) where he was part of the coaching staff that helped the Aggies to a trio of NCAA Tournament Round of 32 appearances. During those three years in College Station, the Aggies won 73 games, in addition to 28 Big 12 Conference games. A&M also led the conference in scoring defense (65.8 ppg.) for the first time in league history during the 2009-10 campaign.

During the 2009-10 season, Rohn helped the development of current NBA players Deandre Jordan, Kris Middleton, and Donald Sloan.

At Wichita State, where Rohn spent seven years (2000-07) as an assistant coach to Mark Turgeon, in addition with current CU Associate Head Coach, Jean Prioleau, the Shockers engineered an impressive resume, earning three-straight NIT trips (2003, 2004, 2005). During the 2005-06 season, the Shockers not only won their first Missouri Valley Conference championship in 19 years, they capped off a 26-9 record with a 2006 NCAA Tournament berth and a Sweet 16 appearance, a school-first in 18 years.

Rohn also helped coach fifth-year student-athlete Paul Miller cap off one of the best careers of any Shocker center by being named the MVC Player of the Year, the first Shocker to earn the award in 21 years, in addition to Jamar Howard (Missouri Valley Conference Defensive Player of the Year).

Prior to Wichita State, Rohn served three seasons as head coach from 1996-2000 at Dodge City (Kan.) Community College, where he built a 55-38 record and coached the Conquistadors to three consecutive state playoff appearances, including a 21-10 mark in 1999-2000. Rohn was also an assistant coach at Dodge City from 1993-96. In 1997, Dodge City was crowned the 1997 Jayhawk West Conference Champions.

Rohn was a graduate assistant coach at Fort Hays State (1991-93) while earning a master's degree in sports administration and coaching. He earned a bachelor's degree in physical education in 1990 from McPherson College, where he was a two-time all-conference selection. There he was named the league's newcomer of the year as a junior and was the conference player of the year as a senior. He also was named McPherson's Male Athlete of the Year in 1989.

He also served as an assistant coach at Colby Community College (1990-91) and at his alma mater, McPherson College (1989-1990). Rohn transferred to McPherson after playing two seasons at Dodge City Community College.

Rohn, and his wife, Stephanie, have two daughters, Raegen and Rylee.

Head Coach, Creswell (Ore.) High School

Bill Grier is in his third season as an assistant coach for the University of Colorado's men's basketball team.

In his first season, Grier helped the Buffaloes to a 19-15 overall record and a spot in the 2017 Postseason NIT. It was Colorado's seventh-straight postseason appearance; a school record. The Buffaloes' regular season was highlighted by wins over three ranked teams, including No. 13/14 Xavier and No. 10/10 Oregon, who would eventually advance to the 2017 NCAA Elite Eight and Final Four respectively.

Grier helped mentor Derrick White, a 2017 All-Pac-12 Conference First Team pick and a member of the league's All-Defense team.

In his second season, he helped guide a young Buffaloes' team to 17 wins. Despite suiting up nine players who had never played a minute in a Colorado uniform prior to the season, the Buffaloes earned their seventh winning season in the last eight years which included back-to-back wins over ranked teams for the first time in team history.

"We're fortunate to have a guy like Bill Grier on our coaching staff because he brings a wealth of experience," Boyle said. "Most importantly he has recruiting contacts on the west coast, and internationally. He's one of those guys that I knew if I ever had an opening on our staff, he was a guy that I wanted to go after...we're lucky to have him."

Grier has assisted a pair of Buffaloes who would go on to be selected in the last two NBA Drafts. White was selected with the 29th overall pick by the San Antonio Spurs in 2017 and George King was taken 59th overall by the Phoenix Suns in 2018.

Grier gives Colorado an extra asset in West Coast recruiting. An Oregon native, Grier is in his 26th season as a collegiate coach, with 24 years spent in Washington and Southern California. That expertise was noted this last fall as Colorado was able to secure a Top 25 recruiting class according to Rivals and Scout.

Grier won 117 games in eight seasons as the head coach at San Diego (2007-15) and played an integral role in Gonzaga's rise to prominence in 15 years as an assistant with the Bulldogs (1992-2007). Most recently, Grier spent the 2015-16 season as an assistant coach at Oklahoma State.

The span of his experience, from serving as an assistant on a top-level program, to being head coach, to spending a year in the Big 12 Conference, enhances the abilities of the Colorado coaching staff.

"Anytime you have the opportunity to hire a former head coach it's a plus," Boyle said. "It's not a requirement to be a good assistant, but I think when guys have been head coaches and then they become assistant coaches they're better assistant coaches because they understand what the head coach is going through; they understand the issues, they understand the decisions that have to be made."

Now residing in Colorado, it gives his family a sense of home being back in the west. He grew up in Oregon and met his wife, Nicole, in Spokane where they lived before moving to San Diego. Colorado is a place the Grier's are thrilled about to raise their two daughters, Giselle and Ashley.

"My wife is from Montana, we met in Spokane," Grier said. "We like that Colorado, Boulder, is that type of setting that we've become so accustomed to. I'm really excited for our children to be in that environment."

Grier led the Toreros to the 2008 West Coast Conference Tournament championship, and rode that momentum into the NCAA Tournament with a first-round upset of No. 4 seed Connecticut - the only NCAA Tournament win in school history.

He led San Diego to six wins over top 25 teams, took down Kentucky in Rupp Arena and racked up eight All-West Coast Conference selections and nine WCC All-Academic Team nods during his tenure. In 2014, the Toreros advanced to the quarterfinals of the Colleg Insider.com Tournament.

Grier finished his time in San Diego with a 117-144 record, including 51 WCC wins, which ranks 24th in the conference's history.

During his time at Gonzaga as the program's defensive coordinator, the Bulldogs led the WCC in field goal percentage defense six times, including the third best mark in the nation in 2004.

Grier served as the recruiting director for his last 10 years with the Zags, and his 2007 class was the program's best to that point. That class ranked 11th in the nation by Rivals, and boasted four recruits among the top-100 in the country.

"He was extremely well prepared and you could tell that in his practice and game preparations," said Dan Dickau, former WCC Player of the Year at Gonzaga and current Pac-12 Network analyst. "He's a guy that knows how to relate to coaches and players; parents during the recruiting process. . . a great hire by Boyle."

Grier also successfully developed both post players (1997-2003) and perimeter players (2003-2007). Post players Bakari Hendrix

(1998) and Casey Calvary (2001) were both WCC Players of the Year. Perimeter players he worked with included Derek Raivio (2007), the WCC Player of the Year; Adam Morrison (2006), a First Team All-American and WCC Player of the Year; and Blake Stepp (2004), a Second Team All-American and two-time WCC Player of the Year.

"He is one heck of a basketball mind," said Gonzaga head coach Mark Few, prior to Grier's appointment to Oklahoma State. "Bill is hard working and loyal, and he played a huge part in building Gonzaga basketball to where it is now. I leaned on him heavily up here at Gonzaga, especially on the defensive side of the floor. When he went to San Diego he really evolved on the offensive side, and did some special things with those teams. Bill is an unbelievable student of the game who is always looking to learn and get better."

Grier started his coaching career at his alma mater, Cottage Grove High School in 1986. After serving two years as a freshman coach, Grier was elevated to junior varsity coach and varsity assistant. Grier left Cottage Grove to be the head coach at Creswell High School during the 1990-91 season.

He played two years in junior college (Central Oregon and Southwestern Oregon), then transferred to Oregon where he received a B.S. degree in Leisure Studies and Services in 1990.

Kim English is in his second season as an assistant coach for the Colorado men's basketball team.

English assisted a very young Buffaloes squad to a 17-15 record in 2017-18. Despite suiting up nine players who had never played a minute in a Colorado uniform prior to the season, the Buffaloes earned their seventh winning campaign in the last eight years which included back-to-back wins over ranked teams for the first time in team history.

During his first season, he helped mentor George King who earned All-Pac-12 Conference Second Team Honors. King would go on to be the 59th overall pick in the 2018 NBA Draft by the Phoenix Suns.

In addition, English assisted in the development of point guard McKinley Wright IV, who was named to the All-Pac-12 Freshman team while earning honorable mention to the overall All-Pac-12 and All-Defensive teams.

In May 2018, the National Association of Basketball Coaches named English as a 2017-18 Under Armour 30-under-30 honoree, which recognizes a group of up and coming young coaches in men's college basketball. English was the only selection from the Pac-12 and one of five from the "Power 5" conferences.

Prior to joining Colorado, English spent two on the men's basketball staff at Tulsa under Frank Haith, who he played for as a senior at Missouri. He was an assistant coach in 2016-17 for the Golden Hurricane while serving as the program's director of player development in 2015-16.

Colorado head coach Tad Boyle, who coached the Buffaloes in two games against English's Tigers in 2011, developed a connection with his newest assistant on the recruiting trail. Boyle was impressed by English, which was further verified by his network of coaches.

"No. 1 he's very professional," Boyle said. "He carries himself extremely well. The more homework I did on him, everyone that has come into contact with him — from players to those in his early coaching career — have had nothing but glowing remarks. He really vetted well with people that I know and respect in this business."

English describes himself as an "every-day, even-keel guy." He has four words for all of his student-athletes: play hard, act right.

"I preach good habits with our guys, so I do the same," English said. "I'll be a relentless worker from a player development standpoint, relentless in scouting and preparing for our opponents, and a relentless worker on the recruiting trail."

"He's not too far removed from playing, so he can relate to the players," said Boyle, who picked up his first Big 12 conference victory against English and the Tigers in 2011. "Kim has a passion for having a positive effect on young men's lives; being a mentor and a positive role model."

"The great thing about Colorado is that you can attract good candidates. Kim English isn't just a good one, he's a great one. We're lucky to have him."

Following a successful playing career at Missouri from 2008-12, English was selected by the Detroit Pistons with the 44th overall pick in the 2012 NBA Draft. He played in 41 games during the 2012-13 season and spent the following two years overseas.

English averaged 11.1 points, 3.0 rebounds, 1.4 assists and 1.1 steals per game during his four-year career at Missouri and his 1,570 points ranks 13th in program history. He earned third-team All-Big 12 Conference honors in 2010 and 2012, and was named to the USA Today All-Improved Team and the USBWA All-District Team in 2010.

In 2012, English averaged 14.5 points, 4.2 rebounds, 1.6 assists and 1.3 steals per outing, and he ranked fifth in the Big 12 with 78 3-point field goals, while leading Missouri to a school-record 30 wins, the Big 12 Tournament title and a No. 2 seed in the NCAA Tournament during Haith's first season. He was named Most Outstanding Player of the Big 12 Tournament as he averaged 23.0 points and shot 78-percent during the Tigers' championship run.

After his time with the Pistons, English played basketball in Europe, including stints with Montepaschi Siena in Italy and Chorale Roanne Basket, Nancy Basket and Cholet Basket in France, along with Guaros De Lara BBC in Venezuela. He also had a brief stint with the Chicago Bulls in 2014.

A native of Baltimore, Md., English received his bachelor's degree in general studies from Missouri in 2012. He and his wife, Jessica, have a daughter, Celine.

Sean Kearney is in his sixth year with the University of Colorado men's basketball staff as the Director of Player Development, bringing nearly three decades of coaching experience to the Buffaloes.

He has enjoyed high-level success throughout his career at the collegiate level. Kearney has been on staff with 12 NCAA Tournament teams, including Colorado's last two (2014 and '16).

Regarded as one of the most respected and well-liked coaches in the game today, Kearney was the Associate Head Coach at the University of Notre Dame under head coach Mike Brey from 2000 through 2009. With the Irish, Kearney was part of nine postseason teams, including five NCAA Tournaments (Sweet 16 in 2003) and four NIT berths. Notre Dame posted a 188-101 record for a 61.0 winning percentage that included six 20-win campaigns and finished with an 88-60 record in Big East regular season play that included five seasons with 10-plus wins.

Kearney also coached at least one player in each of his nine seasons that was named to the Big East All-Conference team, including a pair of conference player of year nominees, one rookie of the year, and nine first team selections.

Kearney aided in the development of first-round NBA Draft picks Troy Murphy in 2001 and Ryan Humphrey in 2002. Also under his tutelage, 2006 graduate Torin Francis earned Big East All-Conference honors two of his four seasons (as an all-rookie team 2003 selection, 2004 all-conference honorable mention) and finished his career as one of only seven players in school history with better than 1,000 career points and 900 rebounds. Forward Luke Harangody was named 2008 Big East Player of the Year and is the first player in league history to lead the conference in scoring in back-to-back seasons.

"Sean is a great asset to our staff," Boyle said. "Sean brings a lot of experience as an assistant and head coach, has a great perspective. He's a great-sounding board for me based on all the years of his experience he has in the game."

"He has recruiting ties all-around the country," Boyle added. "Sean has recruited nationally from coast-to-coast and has a lot of ties back east that some of our coaches on staff don't necessarily have."

After Notre Dame, Kearney was the men's basketball head coach for one year at the College of the Holy Cross (2009-10).

Although not on the coaching sideline for three years after leaving Holy Cross (2010-13), Kearney was not far from the college game working as a color analyst for Irish radio broadcasts, in addition to Big East and Big Ten games with ESPN during the 2012-13 season. During October and November months, Kearney traveled throughout the country attending NBA training camps and early season basketball practices at numerous college campuses.

Prior to Notre Dame, Kearney spent nine years (1991-2000) at the University of Delaware where he helped the Blue Hens to four NCAA Tournament appearances (1992, 1993, 1998, 1999).

In each of his final three years at Delaware, the Blue Hens registered at least 20 wins, a first in that school's history. Kearney was instrumental in developing the Blue Hens' post players. Three of the players he worked with -- Greg Smith, Spencer Dunkley and Mike Pegues -- combine to hold over 20 Blue Hens records.

Kearney began his coaching career in 1981 as an assistant at his alma mater, Cardinal O'Hara High School in Springfield, Pa.

From 1981-86, he spent five years working with his former high school coach, Bud Gardler. While coaching at Cardinal O'Hara, he was employed as a senior systems analyst for Cigna. It was during that time that Kearney joined the staff of the prestigious Five-Star Basketball Camps. That association helped him move on to the college coaching ranks.

His collegiate coaching career began in dramatic fashion at Providence College as a volunteer assistant under Hall of Fame head coach Rick Pitino. There he was on coaching staff that included Herb Sendek (former Arizona State head coach), Stu Jackson (former NBA Executive Vice President, Basketball Operations), Gordie Chiesa (former Utah Jazz NBA assistant), and Jeff Van Gundy (former NBA assistant and head coach).

During his only season at the Providence, R.I. school, the Friars advanced to the 1987 Final Four in New Orleans by winning the Southeast Regional championship, marking the school's second national semifinal appearance.

After Pitino moved to the NBA's New York Knicks, Kearney became an assistant under Hall of Fame coach Herb Magee at Division II power Philadelphia Textile (now Philadelphia University). After just one season, he moved to Northwestern where he was an assistant coach under Bill Foster from 1988-91.

Kearney graduated with honors from the University of Scranton in 1981 with a bachelor's degree in political science, was a four-year member of the Royals' basketball team. In his final two seasons, Scranton finished with consecutive 18-11 records. He was a member of teams that won three Middle Atlantic Conference titles and earned three NCAA Division III playoff appearances. As a senior, he averaged 4.2 assists per game.

Born Nov. 14, 1959 in Darby, Pa., he is married to the former Kimberly Lancaster. The couple have two daughters, Erin and Shannon.

2018-19 University of Colorado Men's Basketball Coaching Staff

DIRECTOR OF BASKETBALL OPERATIONS BILL CARTUN

Bill Cartun is in his ninth year with the University of Colorado men's basketball staff and his seventh as the Director of Basketball Operations.

Cartun is responsible for directing the day-to-day operations of the basketball program, overseeing the budget, and coordinating team travel and video. He also serves as the camp director of the CU basketball summer camps, which continues to grow with record numbers each and every summer.

In addition to his operation duties, Cartun is also the team's video coordinator, supervising all aspects of the team's film and video needs, including opponent scouting, coordinating film exchange, managing the video room and supplying the coaching staff with game film.

"Bill is very dependable and continues to branch out in his roles on our staff with the operations and team travel, along with his video coordination ability," said CU head coach Tad Boyle. "Bill's the best video guy I have ever been around in the business; very dependable and handles a lot of details in our office. He continues to develop and grow as a coach."

Prior to coming to the Boulder campus, Cartun spent three years (2007-10) with the Charlotte Bobcats of the NBA as the basketball operations assistant and assistant video coordinator. With the Bobcats, he prepared video scouting edits for the coaches and players, scouted collegiate talent, and assisted in NBA draft preparation.

He is a 2005 graduate of Bates College where he received his bachelor's degree in economics. Cartun earned a master's degree in sport management from the University of Connecticut in 2007. While at UConn he worked with the men's basketball team as a student assistant.

Cartun is a 2000 graduate of Avon High School in Avon, Conn., where he was a two-time all-State basketball selection. After high school he did a post graduate year at Cheshire Academy in Cheshire, Conn.

Cartun, his wife Ashley and their daughter Julianna, reside in Superior.

"He has a great feel for athletes; he's dealt with professional athletes with his background with the Denver Broncos. He's a great reader of people (student-athletes) and I think as a trainer, the psychological aspect of injuries and recovery from injuries isn't talked about enough, and Rawley has a great feel for that."

Klingsmith graduated from the University of Northern Colorado in May of 2000 with a bachelor of arts degree in kinesiology/athletic training. As an undergraduate, Klingsmith was a student athletic trainer and assisted with football, baseball, wrestling, soccer, volleyball and swimming.

BOULDER — Colorado seniors George King and Tory Miller-Stewart did what seniors are supposed to do Friday night.

CU freshman McKinley Wright IV did what Buffs fans were hoping he would do — and the combination of all three led the Buffs to a season-opening 66-51 win over Northern Colorado at the Coors Events Center.

After missing most of the first half with two fouls, King led the Buffs with 12 points — all in the second half — and nine rebounds. Miller-Stewart added 11 points and five rebounds while Wright added 10 points, four rebounds and three assists in his first game as a Buff.

All three were instrumental in a 12-0 run midway through the second half that broke open a tight game and helped Tad Boyle's crew to the double-digit win.

Andre Spight led UNC with 19 points, but was just 3-for-16 from 3-point range, part of a 6-for-37 night from long distance for the Bears.

HOW IT HAPPENED: After taking an 11-point lead into the locker room at the half, 35-24, Colorado led the Bears back in the game in a hurry after intermission. Sparked by five points from Spight, UNC went on a 13-0 run early in the half to tie the game at 37-37 barely four minutes in. The Bears, who held 21-16 rebounding edge at the half, boosted that margin to eight early in the half and with just more than 10 minutes to play, CU was clinging to a 45-44 lead.

But following a media timeout, the Buffs began to hit the boards, increase their defensive pressure and pull away. Sparked by four points from Miller-Stewart, three from King and a Wright driving layup, the Buffs carved out a 12-0 run that produced a 57-44 edge with just more than five minutes left in the game. UNC ended its drought with a Jordan Davis bucket, but King answered with a 3-pointer to bump the margin to 14, 60-46, with just more than four minutes to play.

Colorado then kept the lead in double digits for the remainder of the game, and finished with a 45-38 edge on the boards, including a 20-5 edge down the stretch.

King played just four minutes in the first half after two "silly fouls" and just one rebound to show for his effort. But he took control in the second half, finishing with 12 points on 4-for-7 shooting as well as a game-high nine rebounds, including three big boards in the decisive 12-0 run.

Wright had just four points and one rebound in the first half, but added six points and three rebounds to that total after the half, and also had a pair of big assists in the decisive run.

Colorado held double-digit leads at two different junctures in the first half but could not put the Bears away early.

CU jumped out to a quick lead, getting five quick points from Naman Wright and four from Miller-Stewart to go up 11-7 just six minutes in. CU then built the lead to double digits when Dominique Collier swiped a pass near midcourt and drove for a layup to bump the Buffs' edge to 23-13.

But the Buffs went cold and the Bears slowly chipped away. Spight hit five straight points in a 9-2 UNC run, and with just under four minutes to go, Colorado's edge had been cut to 25-22.

That forced a Boyle timeout and his words in the huddle evidently had an effect. The Buffs emerged to put together a 10-2 run over the final four minutes of the half, sparked by five points from Deleon Brown, including a 3-pointer, and a Lucas Siewert trey from the top of the key. McKinley Wright closed the half with a driving layup on a nice halfcourt pass from Lazar Nikolic to give the Buffs a 35-24 lead heading into intermission.

WHAT IT MEANS: The Buffs got good performances from all four true freshmen, something Boyle had been hoping to see, as well as steady performance from the three senior starters.

BOULDER — Dominant rebounding and a strong perimeter game added up to Colorado's second win of the season Tuesday night as the Buffs dealt visiting Denver on 89-62 defeat at the Coors Events Center.

CU junior Naman Wright led the Buffs with 14 points, sophomore Deleon Brown scored 13 off the bench and freshman McKinley Wright IV added 12 in his second start for Colorado. George King chipped in 11 points and seven rebounds as Colorado improved to 2-0 while Denver fell to 0-2.

The Buffs dominated the Pioneers on the boards, finishing with a 46-23 rebounding edge, while also limiting the Pioneers to just 42 percent shooting (24-for-57) from the floor. But the Buffs didn't put the game away until midway through the second half, when they pushed the lead to double digits and never let the Pioneers back in the game after that.

"I like this team and I like our upside," head coach Tad Boyle said. "Right now we're functioning probably on a scale of 1 to 10, probably around a six, and that's exciting. ... This is going to be a fun team to watch"

Tuesday night's game also marked the return of Rodney Billups to the Coors Events Center. Now in his second year as DU's head coach, Billups served on Boyle's staff for six years.

HOW IT HAPPENED: The Buffs took the lead at the 17:09 mark of the first half and never relinquished it, but couldn't shake the Pioneers until the second half.

Denver managed to cut to a 10-point CU halftime lead down to six, 51-45, four minutes into the second half before the Buffs took control for good with a 12-1 run that saw the Pioneers go without a field goal for almost four minutes.

McKinley Wright started the run with a driving layup before Lucas Siewert added a pair of free throws and Brown drove the lane on a fast break bucket, getting an assist from Lazar Nikolic.

The Buffs then finished the run in style, getting a thunderous alley-oop dunk from Tyler Bey on a beautiful feed from McKinley Wright. Bey then added a free throw and Colorado's lead ballooned to 63-46 with 12:20 still to go in the game.

In that stretch, the Pioneers missed six straight field goal tries, a major reversal from the 56 percent shooting from the floor they had produced up to that point.

"When we contest shots high, good things happen," Boyle said. "I thought our defense helped our offense get out and run. That lob from McKinley to Tyler was pretty special."

Naman Wright said the Buffs wore the Pioneers down.

"Our big guys did a great job rebounding and contesting shots tonight," Wright said. "Defense is always our first priority, and we have a lot of depth where we can get fresh minutes from to support it."

The Buffs then slowly built their lead the rest of the game, pushing it past the 20-point mark on a King bucket.

The Buffs slowly pulled away midway through the first half, breaking away from a 16-16 tie with 8:40 to go to carve out a 43-33 lead at the half.

Dominique Collier sparked the late-half run with seven points, getting two free throws early, then a short jumper at the 7:12 mark before hitting a long 3-pointer with 5:40 to go. Naman Wright added another trey just 20 seconds later, followed by a Siewert three that bumped Colorado's edge to 35-27. Brown (nine points in the first half) then boosted the Buffs' edge to double digits, 39-29, with a driving layup and the Buffs held that cushion to the half, taking a 43-33 lead into intermission.

WHAT IT MEANS: The Buffs continue to get balanced scoring from a variety of sources and are also displaying good depth, something that will no doubt be a key this weekend when they travel to the Paradise Jam for three games in three days.

LYNCHBURG, Va. — One night after a furious comeback produced a buzzer-beating win over Quinnipiac, the Colorado Buffaloes withstood an opponent's rally to claim an 86-81 win over Drake on Saturday in the Paradise Jam semifinals.

The Buffs led by as many as 17 points the second half, but saw that lead whittled down to one before rebuilding their lead down the stretch.

Now 4-0, Colorado will meet 4-1 Mercer, a 78-59 winner over Drexel, in Sunday's 6:30 p.m. championship game.

CU freshman McKinley Wright IV just missed his first collegiate double-double, finishing with 21 points, nine assists and five rebounds. Junior Naman Wright added 19 points and three rebounds and senior George King added 14 points and seven rebounds.

Reed Timmer led Drake with 28 points, including a 16-for-18 night from the free throw line.

"Last night we didn't panic when we were down," head coach Tad Boyle said of his Buffs, who overcame a 13-point deficit in the final four minutes against Quinnipiac to collect a 70-69 win. "Tonight we were up and they made a run and we didn't panic. We staved them off and I'm really proud of this team."

HOW IT HAPPENED: After taking an eight-point lead at intermission, the Buffs threatened to blow the game open early in the second half, jumping out to a 17-point lead after a Deleon Brown 3-pointer gave Colorado a 52-35 edge.

But the Bulldogs, much as they did one night earlier against Wake Forest, battled back. Drake put together a 23-7 run and with 7:54 to go in the game, the Bulldogs had cut Colorado's cushion down to one, 59-58, thanks in large part to regular trips to the free throw line. The Bulldogs were 25-for-31 from the free throw line, including 20-for-24 in the second half.

"In the second half they just started driving it and the whistles started blowing," Boyle said. "We have to do a better job with that. But it's hard to guard in college basketball now because any contact going to the rim seems like it's going to be on the defense."

The Buffs, however, regained their composure. After Drake had cut the lead to 59-58, Colorado went on an 18-9 run over the next five minutes to bump the cushion back to 10, 77-67, with just more than three minutes to go. McKinley Wright, who fouled out late in the game, had seven of the first eight points in the run, then finished it with a 3-pointer. Also getting key buckets in the surge were Naman Wright (five points) and Tory Miller-Stewart.

CU then kept the Bulldogs at bay down the stretch, getting buckets from Dominique Collier and Miller-Stewart, plus a handful of free throws in the final minute.

"They never gave up," Naman Wright said. "It was a great learning experience for us. We know how to play hard now."

Once again, the Buffs did not shoot the ball well from 3-point range. After going 4-for-20 from beyond the arc Friday, they hit just four of 17 tries Saturday. CU was also outrebounded, 32-30, but the Buffs outscored the Bulldogs 50-26 in the paint and also had an 8-0 edge on fastbreak points.

The Buffs finished with 15 assists after having just seven in Friday's 70-69 win over Quinnipiac.

Colorado led by as much as 15 in the first half when a Naman Wright layup gave CU a 31-16 edge with 6:28 to go. Colorado then went cold, going without a field goal over the last 5 minutes of the half, but still held a 39-31 edge at intermission thanks to hitting six of eight free throws in the final three minutes.

CU shot 14-for-27 from the field in the first half, but just 2-for-10 from 3-point range.

LYNCHBURG, Va. — A tournament that started Friday with a heart-stopping buzzer-beater for a win culminated Sunday with a championship, as the Colorado Buffaloes carved out a 79-70 win over Mercer in the Paradise Jam title game.

George King, named to the tourney's All-Star team, scored 25 points and grabbed eight rebounds to lead the Buffs to their third win in three nights as CU improved to 5-0 for the season. Namon Wright and Deleon Brown each added 13 points and Buffs freshman point guard McKinley Wright IV cemented his tournament Most Valuable Player award with 11 points, seven assists and four rebounds.

"These guys have unbelievable heart," head coach Tad Boyle said. "This guy (McKinley Wright) saved our bacon on Friday night and these guys have responded the next two games with unbelievable heart and desire. I've said I love this team's spirit from Day 1 and they showed it this weekend."

The Buffs indeed improved each day in the tournament. After erasing a 13-point deficit in the final four minutes Friday against Quinnipiac for a 70-69 win — capped by a McKinley Wright 3-pointer at the buzzer — they survived a Drake rally Saturday to claim an 86-81 semifinal win.

Sunday, they took the lead over Mercer for good with seven minutes to go in the first half and never trailed again.

HOW IT HAPPENED: After falling behind early by as many as seven, the Buffs slowly chipped away at Mercer's lead. Fittingly, it was a 3-point bucket from McKinley Wright at the 7:03 mark of the first half that gave them the lead for good. Colorado led by two at the half, 39-37, then slowly built a double-digit cushion, one that hit 13 points at the midway point of the second half, 64-51.

King put forth his best game of the season thus far, coming up with big baskets and rebounds and critical moments. He closed a 12-4 run that provided the big lead with a 3-pointer and a free throw, then came up with some crucial rebounds and baskets down the stretch when Mercer pulled back to within seven.

After the Buffs took their big lead, Mercer made a stab at a comeback, shaving the margin down to seven.

But with 3:34 to go, King drove inside for a basket to push the lead back to nine, 70-61. Less than a minute later, he grabbed an offensive rebound and converted it to a basket, drawing a foul in the process and hitting the free throw to bump the margin to 73-61.

Then, with just more than a minute to go, King extended a CU possession with an offensive rebound, which Namon Wright then converted into a basket for a 77-68 lead, putting the game away. At the same time, the Buffs kept up the defensive pressure on Mercer, refusing to allow easy baskets.

Wright also had his share of crucial plays while playing the point at a level far beyond that what would normally be expected of a freshman. After hitting the game winner Friday night (he had 21 points and five rebounds vs. Quinnipiac), he scored 32 points and dished out 16 assists in the next two games — and committed just two turnovers.

Sunday, he had three of his seven assists in a 13-6 Buffs run to start the second half.

But Sunday's win was by no means a two-man show. Along with Namon Wright's 13 points, the Buffs received another solid effort off the bench from Brown. The sophomore guard had six points in a CU run midway through the half, then drew a charging call that led to a King 3-pointer and the Buffs' big lead of the night.

CU also got a nice effort from redshirt freshman big man Dallas Walton, who had four points and a pair of rebounds.

BOULDER — Colorado's George King is taking his rebounding seriously this year. Very seriously.

The Buffs senior posted his eighth career double-double Sunday with 25 points and a career-high 15 rebounds in an 81-69 win over Air Force at the Coors Events Center as the Buffs won their sixth straight to start the season. The 6-0 start matches Colorado's best beginning of a season since 2012-13, when CU also began the year with a 6-0 run.

Freshman McKinley Wright IV added 19 points and five rebounds as the Buffs finished with a commanding 41-21 edge on the boards to overcome an 11-for-26 night by the Falcons from 3-point range.

"Our emphasis is to defend and rebound," King said. "Coach Tad Boyle put that emphasis on us even more because we haven't been doing that the past couple of games. I'm happy we were able to come out and do that."

King is now averaging nearly nine rebounds per game.

"He was a beast tonight," Boyle said. "He let the game come to him. ... He should be a double-double guy. No question in my mind George King should have 10-plus rebounds every single time we play."

HOW IT HAPPENED: This one didn't come easily. The Falcons hit eight of 15 3-point tries in the first half and took a 34-33 lead into the locker room at intermission after a half that featured 11 lead changes.

But some increased defensive pressure and a renewed focus on taking care of the ball (CU had nine turnovers in the first half) allowed the Buffs to take the lead for good early in the second half. A Dominique Collier basket and free throw gave CU a 43-40 lead less than four minutes into the half, and the Buffs slowly built the margin, finally bumping it to double digits on a King 3-pointer with just more than three minutes to go.

At the same time, Colorado also cooled down AFA's outside shooting. The Falcons hit just three of their 11 long-distance tries after halftime. The Buffs also had just six turnovers after halftime and recorded 13 of their 17 assists after halftime. Namon Wright led CU with four of those assists, all in the second half.

"We started the game very flat," McKinley Wright said. "We weren't moving the ball as well as we normally do. At halftime, we came together as a group and said we needed to share the ball. ... We did a good job in the second half of swinging the ball and finding people with open shots."

But even after Colorado took the lead for good, the Falcons didn't go away quietly. After a King 3-pointer midway through the half bumped CU to eight, the Falcon came back with two quick buckets to cut the lead in half. But Colorado slowly increased the cushion again, getting it to nine on a Namon Wright trey with 8:28 to go and finally pushing it to 75-65 on King's fifth 3-pointer of the day.

King was an extremely efficient 9-for-13 from the field, including 5-for-6 from beyond the arc. Six of his 15 rebounds were on the offensive glass and he added three assists.

"The best thing about his 25 points are that they came on 13 shots — great efficiency," Boyle said. "McKinley's 19 points came on nine shots. That's what we need to do, is be more efficient offensively."

Boyle also took responsibility for part of the Buffs' slow start, saying he might have let them get "a little flat and happy" last week after returning from the Paradise Jam, where they won three games in three days.

That, though, won't be the case in the coming days. Next up for the Buffs is an 11 a.m. meeting Saturday with in-state rival Colorado State in Fort Collins.

"We need to keep taking care of business, but we need to keep getting better," Boyle said. "Next Saturday at 11 o'clock we'd better be ready because Colorado State will be a great challenge for us."

BOULDER — Colorado's young Buffs are growing up in a hurry.

CU's freshmen sparked a decisive 12-3 run Wednesday night that broke open a one-point game in the second half and the Buffs pulled away down the stretch for a 75-57 win over New Mexico at the Coors Events Center.

The Buffs also had plenty of help from their seniors.

Senior Dominique Collier led the Buffs with 16 points — 14 in the second half — while freshman McKinley Wright IV recorded his first career double-double with 12 points and 10 rebounds. CU senior George King posted his ninth career double-double and second of the season with 10 points and 11 rebounds.

The Buffs won despite committing a season-high 23 turnovers that led to 28 New Mexico points. Colorado made up the difference by putting forth a dominant 58-31 rebound edge, as well as holding the Lobos to just 29.6 percent shooting (21-for-71) — including a 9-for-34 performance in the second half.

Colorado improved to 7-1 with the win while the Lobos fell to 3-6.

"Certainly not a thing of beauty," head coach Tad Boyle said. "If we were in a beauty contest I think we would have gotten fifth place. But we did what we had to do to get the win."

HOW IT HAPPENED: The Buffs knew the Lobos would apply pressure, and they did — to the tune of a season-high 23 Colorado miscues that led to 28 Lobos points. But CU held UNM to just 29.6 percent shooting (21-for-71) from the floor — including a 9-for-34 effort in the second half — while also posting a 58-31 edge on the boards to make the difference.

"I was really pleased with the second half," Boyle said. "We rebounded the ball well. If we'd rebounded like that last Saturday we'd be 8-0 night now instead of 7-1. But good bounce-back win. We have to keep getting better and learning."

The Buffs led by two at intermission before putting together their decisive 12-3 run midway through the second half, with freshmen providing the fuel for the burst. Lazar Nikolic scored the first five points, including a dunk on a beautiful alley-oop from Deleon Brown, McKinley Wright added four and D'Shawn Schwartz drained a 3-pointer to give the Buffs a 61-51 edge with 7:31 to go in the game.

"Laz is sneaky athletic," Wright said of his freshman classmate. "One of the guys with the most bounce on our team people don't know about yet. CU fans saw it tonight and they'll see more of it later in the season."

The Lobos briefly pulled back to within eight, but CU then produced a 7-0 run to take a 68-53 lead with 2:35 left to put the game away. Collier — the only Buff to have more assists than turnovers (2-0) — had four points in the run to help the Buffs seal the win.

"Dom was really good in the second half," Boyle said. "He played within himself. He didn't force the issue. He let the game come to him and I was really pleased with Dom's effort, especially in that second half."

The Buffs jumped out to an early lead in the first half, building the margin to as much as 11 midway through the period. But the Lobos refused to go away, staying in the game with 3-pointers, finally tying the game at 33-33 with 40 seconds to go.

Colorado regained the lead on Schwartz drive with 25 seconds to go, taking a 35-33 lead into the locker room at the half.

The Lobos hit six 3-pointers in the first half, but managed to connect on just 3 of 15 tries from beyond the arc after intermission.

TURNING POINT: CU's 12-3 run broke open a tight game midway through the second half and the Lobos never threatened again. CU held the Lobos scoreless for a 3:42 stretch in the run.

WHAT IT MEANS: Although they improved to 7-1, the Buffs know they can't have another game with 23 turnovers if they want to be competitive Saturday when they play at No. 15 Xavier.

CINCINNATI — Colorado's young Buffaloes got their first taste of the big stage Saturday, and the lesson delivered proved to be a harsh one.

Playing in front of a sold-out Cintas Center crowd, the Buffs fell behind in the first half by as much as 26 and could never completely close the gap, ultimately dropping a 96-69 decision to No. 13 Xavier.

"They took it from us like candies from a baby," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "We got beat in every phase of the game today. There's not a lot of positive things you could take from this, other than maybe we can learn from Xavier in terms of how they execute offensively, how hard they play, how tough they are. This was men against boys today. It was very apparent in many ways."

Colorado dropped to 7-2 while Xavier improved to 9-1.

Namon Wright led CU with 20 points while McKinley Wright IV added 16 and George King chipped in 15 points and eight rebounds.

The Musketeers, who shot a blistering 60 percent from the floor (35-58) — including 9-for-14 from 3-point range — were led by Trevon Bluiett, who finished with 25 points.

HOW IT HAPPENED: The Buffs hurt themselves early with turnovers and the hot-shooting Musketeers were glad to take advantage. Xavier led 31-10 just eight minutes in — a stretch in which the Buffs committed eight turnovers — and slowly built the margin to 46-20 with just more than five minutes to play in the half.

But to their credit, the Buffs refused to quit. After narrowing Xavier's cushion to 16 by halftime, the Buffs then closed the gap to 13 midway through the second period with an 11-2 run. Namon Wright hit a 3-pointer, Dominique Collier had back-to-back 3s and McKinley Wright hit a fastbreak bucket to close the gap to 69-56.

But that led to an XU timeout and the Musketeers emerged to score the next eight points and end any threat of a Colorado comeback.

"This is a potential Final Four team we just played today on their home floor," Boyle said. "Sometimes you have to say, 'Look, your opponent just whipped your tail.' There's a lot of times you look at your deficiencies, and we have a lot of them. ... But Xavier could have beaten a lot of teams today and they will beat a lot of teams. We did not take care of the ball and we didn't defend."

Xavier jumped on the Buffs from the get-go, putting together an 18-3 run in a four-minute span that turned a 13-7 edge into a 31-10 cushion with 12 minutes still to play in the first half.

The Buffs helped dig the hole by turning the ball over. CU had eight turnovers in the first eight minutes of the game, which Xavier gladly converted into 13 points. The Musketeers hit 12 of their first 16 field goal tries, including a red-hot 5-for-6 stretch from 3-point range.

TURNING POINT: This one was decided early. Eight turnovers by the Buffs in the first eight minutes helped Xavier to a 31-10 lead and the Buffs never came closer than 13 again.

WHAT IT MEANS: If there's a positive to be gained, it is a lesson on how the Musketeers played on both ends of the floor. The good news is the Buffs didn't quit. Now they need to figure out how to reduce their turnovers and improve their 3-point defense.

EUGENE, Ore. — Another slow start, turnovers and poor shooting in crucial moments sent the Colorado Buffaloes home with another road loss Sunday night, this time a 77-62 defeat at Oregon.

The Buffs shot just 42 percent from the floor (25-for-59) and just 31 percent from 3-point range (7-for-22), and also committed 20 turnovers, which the Ducks converted into 18 points. Oregon also shot 51 percent from the field (26-for-51).

Colorado dropped to 8-6 overall and 0-2 in Pac-12 play while Oregon improved to 11-4 and 1-1. The loss was CU's fourth in as many road games this season and sixth overall in the last eight games.

Naman Wright led Colorado with 20 points while McKinley Wright IV added 13. Oregon's Troy Brown scored 21 points and Elijah Brown added 17.

But despite the outcome, CU head coach Tad Boyle said he was far more encouraged than he was after Friday night's 76-57 loss at Oregon State.

"I thought our guys really battled and they really competed," Boyle said. "I can't ask for anymore from them than that. ... I told our guys I have a total different feeling in my gut right now than I did Friday night. Friday night I was sick to my stomach because of our effort, our lack of concentration, that sort of thing. We didn't take care of the ball and we couldn't get to the free throw line, but it wasn't because we weren't trying. I like the spirit, I like the fight, I like the competitiveness of the group tonight."

HOW IT HAPPENED: Once again, the Buffs were plagued by a slow start. The Ducks jumped out to a 13-2 lead and maintained that cushion through the midway point of the first half, thanks to a bundle of early CU turnovers.

But, Colorado managed to cut the deficit to four late in the period with a 6-0 run, getting a pair of baskets from McKinley Wright and a Lazar Nikolic layup to pull to within 29-25. Oregon, though, promptly responded with an 8-3 run over the final four minutes to take a 37-28 lead at intermission, getting a 3-pointer from Payton Pritchard just before the buzzer.

"Obviously the area that hurt us were turnovers, on the road," Boyle said. "Twenty, and that was the key. That was our offensive key to the game, was not turning it over, and it was our defensive key to the game, not turning it over. You get them in transition and they can make plays. They've got great athletes and they get downhill."

The Buffs also faced a rather large disparity at the free throw line all night. Oregon connected on 19 of its 22 tries from the line while CU hit five of its eight free throws.

"Physical game both ways, but when you lose a game by 15 and you get outscored 14 at the free throw line, it's a little frustrating," Boyle said. "We have to figure out what's a foul and what's not a foul. Now sometimes a foul on one end is not a foul on the other end. That gets confusing for our players and certainly for me — but we have to do a better job of not fouling."

The second half was much like the first. The Buffs briefly cut the deficit to four early in the period when Dallas Walton hit a long 3-pointer and McKinley Wright banked in a floater from the lane to pull cut Oregon's lead to 39-35.

But that was as close as Colorado could come. Oregon answered with a 13-2 run to build a 15-point cushion, 52-37, thanks in part to six Buffs turnovers in the first 5:30 of the half.

Oregon then maintained control for the rest of the game, building its lead to as much as 16. The Buffs did manage to hold Oregon without a basket for a six-minute stretch, helping them narrow the deficit to 10 with just under five minutes to go on a Naman Wright three-point play. But that was as close as CU could come and Colorado never mustered a serious threat down the stretch.

BOULDER — Thursday afternoon, Colorado coach Tad Boyle showed his team highlight clips of the program's 15 wins over nationally ranked teams in his tenure in Boulder.

He then told the Buffs it was their turn to add the next chapter — and that's exactly what they did.

Spurred on by a raucous Coors Events Center crowd, the Buffs rallied from an eight-point second-half deficit to knock off fourth-ranked Arizona State in overtime, 90-81, outscoring the visitors 16-7 in the extra period for the victory. The Sun Devils were the highest-ranked team beaten by Colorado in the Boyle era, and the highest-ranked team beaten by the Buffs since CU knocked off No. 3 Texas in February 2003.

The win also ended a three-game CU losing streak and improved Colorado's record to 9-6 overall and 1-2 in Pac-12 play. The Sun Devils lost their second in a row to fall to 12-2 and 0-2.

The win was a team effort in every regard as the Buffs battled back from big deficits in the first and second half to collect the win. Freshman McKinley Wright IV and junior Namon Wright each scored 19 points for Colorado while senior George King added 18 points and nine rebounds and senior Dominique Collier had 11 points and a team-high six assists.

Tad Holder led ASU with 24 points.
"What a resilient group we had," Boyle said. "Our guys were a little bit down, felt like maybe we should have finished a little stronger in regulation. But they didn't stay down. We came out in overtime and made winning plays. I'm just really proud of them."

HOW IT HAPPENED: The Buffs trailed 12 early in the game, by five at the half and by as much as eight midway through the second half before putting together a 13-2 run that changed the complexion of the entire game.

McKinley Wright started the run with a driving layup and free throw before Collier drained a long 3-pointer. The Sun Devils momentarily halted the run with a Holder bucket before Tyler Bey scored inside. Dallas Walton hit a free throw and Bey followed with a bucket inside at the 8:20 mark to give Colorado its first lead of the game, 55-54.

CU then finished the run when Walton recorded a big block on the defensive end and pushed the outlet pass to Collier. The senior then dropped a pass to Naman Wright, who finished the transition with a thunderous dunk for a 57-54 CU lead with 7:41 to go.

Colorado then held the lead for much of the rest of regulation, only to see the Sun Devils tie it up in the final seconds. King hit one of two free throws with 29 seconds remaining to give Colorado a 74-72 lead before Arizona State's Mickey Mitchell rebounded a missed 3-pointer and dunked it home to tie the game at 74-74 and send it into overtime.

King also had a message for his teammates in the huddle prior to the overtime period.
"We're made for this," King told his teammates.
The Buffs then dominated the extra period, scoring the first five points and never giving up the lead. McKinley Wright started the run with an offensive rebound and bucket, followed a minute later by a King 3-pointer, and Colorado led for the remainder of the period.

The Sun Devils managed to pull within two in the final minute of overtime, but Colorado answered with seven free throws in the final 53 seconds, combined with three defensive stops on the other end. King virtually put the game away by grabbing a defensive rebound and drawing a foul with 41 seconds remaining and hitting both free throws to give CU a five-point lead.

In the first half, the Buffs once again put themselves in an early hole, falling behind 13-1 in the first five minutes. The Sun Devils hit five of their first eight field goal tries — including all three 3-point tries — while the Buffs missed their first seven attempts from the field.

But, Colorado switched to a zone defense and slowly climbed back in the game, putting together a 16-7 run at one point to pull within one, 27-26, before finally heading into the locker room at halftime trailing by five, 34-29.

By game's end, the Sun Devils hit just 35.5 percent of their field goal attempts (27-for-76) and just nine of their 34 3-point tries — after hitting their first three. Colorado also won the rebound battle, 48-41.

BOULDER — New year, new team.

2018 seems to suit the the Colorado Buffaloes quite well.

Saturday, for the second time in as many games, Tad Boyle's Buffs knocked off a top-20 team at the Coors Events Center, sending No. 14 Arizona back to Tucson with an 80-77 loss. The win, coming on the heels of Thursday's 90-81 win over No. 4 Arizona State, improved the Buffs to 10-6 overall and 2-2 in Pac-12 play while Arizona fell to 12-4, 2-1.

Just like the win over ASU, Saturday's win was a complete team effort. Five Buffs scored in double figures. Freshman McKinley Wright IV led CU with 16 points and 10 assists (his third double-double this year). Dallas Walton added 15 points, Namon Wright and Dominique Collier each scored 14 and D'Shawn Schwartz added 10. George King, meanwhile, led CU on the boards with 11 rebounds.

Arizona freshman Deandre Aytton led all scorers with 26 points. Arizona's Allonzo Tier finished with just eight points, 12 under his season average.

"The difference between our team now and a week ago (when CU lost at Oregon State and Oregon) is number one that we believe," Boyle said. "Number two, we're playing together and we're playing with great energy. We have good moments, we have bad moments. We showed that today but we have a toughness that we didn't show in Corvallis. ... At some point when you're on a slide, your players have to see that they're sick and tired of this and it's time to turn it up. Players win games. I haven't changed anything other than my little bit of zone between the Oregon trip and this trip."

But that "little bit of zone" has definitely made a difference. The Buffs stymied ASU on Thursday with their new-look defense and appeared to catch Arizona by surprise as well. The Wildcats shot just 38.4 percent from the floor (28-for-73), including just 7-for-25 from 3-point range. Colorado, meanwhile, once again found its shooting eye, hitting 54.7 percent of its field goal tries (29-for-53), including a respectable 7-for-16 afternoon from 3-point range.

HOW IT HAPPENED: Unlike the last five live games, the Buffs jumped out to a big lead early. Colorado led by as much as 20 in the first half and still led by 16 at intermission, 45-29.

But the Wildcats came back with a vengeance in the second half, outscoring Colorado 17-4 over the first eight minutes to cut CU's lead to three, 49-46. After having just two turnovers in the entire first half, the Buffs had eight turnovers in the first eight minutes of the second half.

The run sent a palpable shiver through the Events Center crowd of 8,519, and a sizable UA group into delirium.

Colorado, though, didn't fold. With a lineup on the floor that included four freshmen and senior Collier, the Buffs regrouped and slowly rebuilt the lead.

Schwartz ended the Arizona rally with a long 3-pointer, followed by a Collier drive to the hoop. Walton then scored on a jump hook over Aytton, Schwartz hit a pair of free throws and Collier drained a three to push the margin back to nine with a 3-pointer.

A minute later, Collier scored on another drive to the hoop, followed by a McKinley Wright transition layup and another Collier 3-pointer that gave CU a 68-58 lead with 4:33 to play.

From that point on, the Buffs protected their lead. Walton hit another big hook shot with 1:58 remaining, then had two blocks on an UA possession that led to a McKinley Wright slam dunk for a 74-65 CU lead with a minute to go.

The Buffs then hit six straight free throws in the final 40 seconds to clinch the win.

LOS ANGELES — Tad Boyle's Colorado Buffaloes ended their road woes in the most unlikely of places Saturday night.

Senior George King recorded a 26-point, 10-rebound double-double and CU's defense smothered UCLA all night, leading the Buffs to a 68-59 win at Pauley Pavilion, the Buffs' first-ever win on the Bruins' home floor.

The win ended a seven-game road skid that stretched back to last February as well as an all-time eight-game losing streak at UCLA — including four in Pac-12 play.

CU improved to 11-7 overall and 3-3 in Pac-12 play while the Bruins, who entered the day in first place in the Pac-12, dropped to 13-5, 4-2.

"Just a great win for our program," Boyle said. "These young guys are growing up before your eyes. ... I'm just so proud of these guys. The road hasn't been good to us and we needed this first one to start believing. I told them it's our first road win, it better not be our last."

King, who had a career-high six 3-pointers, recorded his fifth double-double of the season and 12th of his career. Namon Wright added nine points, freshman Tyler Bey had seven points and seven rebounds and freshman McKinley Wright IV dished out seven assists.

HOW IT HAPPENED: UCLA entered the game averaging nearly 92 points per game in Pac-12 play. The Buffs held the Bruins 33 points under their average by limiting them to just 37 percent shooting from the field (23-for-62), including just 5-for-25 from 3-point range. Bruins leading scorer Aaron Holiday finished with just 10 points — nine under his average — on 4-for-13 shooting.

"That was our main focus coming in," King said. "We know one thing we can take on the road with us is defense and rebounding. You should never have an off night defensively and rebounding. We knew they were a talented offensive team and we were able to execute defensively and offensively we took care of the ball."

The Buffs did indeed take care of the ball, finishing with just 12 turnovers after averaging 20 in each of their first three Pac-12 road games.

Colorado also shot well, especially in the first half. The Buffs jumped out to an early lead and built the margin to as much as 17 points, 34-17, with just more than three minutes to play in the half. They had that lead cut to 10 at the half, 39-29, then spent the entire second half fighting off UCLA charges.

"We had to have 40 minutes of toughness tonight — and we did," Boyle said. "We didn't out-rebound them, but we got the rebounds when we needed to get the rebounds, and boy we guarded."

The Bruins made three big runs at Colorado in the second half, and each time the Buffs answered. UCLA first managed to cut CU's cushion to seven, 47-40, with 11:34 to go. The Buffs responded with an 8-1 run, with King scoring all eight points on a pair of 3-pointers and two free throws to bump the cushion back to 55-41.

That, however, was followed by a 10-0 UCLA run, all from big man Thomas Welsh, whose second 3-point of the run pulled the Bruins to within four, 55-51, with 5:31 still left to play.

But once again, Colorado answered with a 7-0 run. Namon Wright started the burst with a layup to break UCLA's press before King hit his career-high sixth 3-point of the night and a pair of free throws to put the Buffs back in control, 62-51.

The Bruins managed to cut the gap back to single digits one more time, 66-59, in the final minute, but McKinley Wright hit two free throws with 47 seconds left and CU forced two more empty possessions from UCLA to end the game.

BOULDER — Prosperity was almost too much for the Colorado Buffaloes to handle Thursday night.

But when push came to shove, the Buffs had enough push to claim an 82-73 win over Washington State at the Coors Events Center. Colorado built a 26-point lead early in the second half, then held off a furious WSU rally before finally regaining control to come away with its fourth win in the last five games and fourth straight win at home.

The Buffs improved to 12-7 overall and 4-3 in Pac-12 play — their first time over .500 in Pac-12 play since late in the 2015-16 season — while the Cougars fell to 9-9, 1-5.

Junior Namon Wright led Colorado with his first double-double as a Buff, a 16-point, 10-rebound effort. CU freshman McKinley Wright IV scored 17 points — 13 in the second half — to go with five assists and four rebounds.

CU senior George King, meanwhile, continued his stretch of solid play with 16 points and nine rebounds. Dominique Collier contributed 13 points and five boards and Lucas Siewert had 11 points and four rebounds.

Vion'te Daniels led WSU with 18 points on six of the Cougars' 15 3-pointers.

"That was a good win," head coach Tad Boyle said. "We made it interesting there in the second half, but hopefully we can learn from the lapses we had both offensively and defensively. We got a little complacent there in the second half, but we got the game back under control."

HOW IT HAPPENED: After leading by 15 at intermission, the Buffs built their cushion to 26 just five minutes into the second half and appeared ready to blow WSU out of the gym. King had two 3-pointers in the opening minutes and Namon Wright added one to put WSU on the ropes.

But the Washington State punched back, responding with a 26-5 run that finished with a 12-0 burst to shave Colorado's lead to just five, 63-58, with 8:13 left to play. The Cougars, who lead the Pac-12 in 3-pointers, hit only five treys in the first half but fueled their comeback with 10 after intermission. "Lack of focus, lack of defense," McKinley Wright said. "The biggest thing was letting their 3-point shooters loose. Letting them hit 10 in the second half hurt us."

But with the once-comfortable Events Center crowd again on edge, the Buffs regained their composure following a media timeout. King ended the Cougars' run with an offensive rebound and bucket, the beginning of a 12-0 CU burst that pushed the Buffs' lead back to 17, 75-58, with 3:30 to play. McKinley Wright had seven points in the run while Colorado forced seven straight missed shots from the Cougars, holding them scoreless for 4:35 in the stretch.

CU then held the Cougars at bay over the final three minutes for the win.

It was the second straight game the Buffs repelled a big second-half rally from an opponent. Last weekend at UCLA, the Buffs saw the Bruins cut a 14-point second-half lead to four before regaining control.

"It takes mental toughness to handle that," Boyle said. "But we've got to figure out why our 26-point lead became a five-point lead and we have to eliminate that."

The win was big for the Buffs in a number of ways. Most importantly, it kept alive their momentum from the UCLA win, setting up a key meeting with Washington on Saturday at the Events Center. A win would put the Buffs solidly in fifth place in the Pac-12 standings.

Colorado led by just two against the Cougars, 19-17, midway through the first half, but closed the period with a 23-10 run to take a 42-27 lead at halftime. Collier was perfect from the floor in the first half, hitting all four of his field goal tries — including a pair of 3-pointers — for 12 points. Namon Wright added nine points and five rebounds and King chipped in six points and four rebounds.

TUCSON, Ariz. — Free throws made the difference Thursday night, as the Colorado Buffaloes outbounded and outshot No. 11 Arizona but still came up on the short end of the scoreboard, falling 80-71 to the Wildcats at the McKale Center.

The Buffs shot 55.8 percent from the field, hitting 29 of their 52 field goal tries while Arizona shot 53 percent (26-for-49). Colorado also outbounded the Wildcats, 25-23.

But Arizona shot 23 free throws and made 22 while Colorado attempted just eight free throws all night, making five. After the game was tied 30-30 at halftime, the Buffs did not shoot a free throw in the second half until just 19 seconds remained in the game while Arizona attempted 15 free throws after intermission.

"It came down to free throws," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "They shot 22 out of 23 and we shot 5 out of 8. That was the ballgame, obviously. We have to learn to keep them off the line and we have to figure out how to get to the line. A very physical game on both ends. A little frustrating there, but you're on the road and you have to overcome those things. That's just the way it is."

The loss dropped Colorado to 12-9 overall and 4-5 in Pac-12 play while the Wildcats improved to 17-4, 7-1.

Still, despite the outcome, Boyle was by no means disappointed with his team's play. The Buffs rallied from an 11-point deficit in the second half to cut the gap to one, 60-59, with seven minutes to go and were still within three points with just under three minutes to play.

"I told our guys in the locker room I can live with this kind of effort," Boyle said. "If we would have played like this Saturday in the Coors Events Center (in a loss to Washington) it would have been a different story. Our guys battled. They really fought."

Senior George King led CU with 22 points on 9-for-12 shooting, freshman McKinley Wright IV added 15 points and seven assists and freshman Tyler Bey recorded 11 points and seven rebounds.

Allanzo Trier scored 23 for Arizona and Deandre Aytton added 20.

HOW IT HAPPENED: After the two teams battled to a 30-30 first-half tie, Arizona scored the first seven points of the second half to take control, but the Buffs never let the game get out of hand.

Colorado cut the deficit to five before the Wildcats then pushed the lead to 11 with a 6-0 run, 45-34, aided by a pair of free throws after Boyle was whistled for a technical foul. With 12:32 to go in the game, the Wildcats had hit seven of their eight field goal tries of the second half and had pushed their lead to 12 points, 53-41.

"I thought our zone got a little soft there like it did against Washington in the second half," Boyle said. "But a lot of it was good offense. I thought both teams offensively played very, very well."

But even when the McKale Center crowd came alive, the Buffs refused to bow under the pressure. After the "Cats took their 12-point lead, Colorado answered with an 18-7 surge to cut the Wildcats' lead to one, 60-59, with 7:09 to play.

King had six points in the run and when a McKinley Wright 3-pointer pulled the Buffs to within one, UA's Sean Miller called a timeout.

The Wildcats then emerged from the timeout to end their three-minute scoring drought with the next five points to take a 65-59 lead with 5:30 to play.

But the Buffs still refused to quit. Colorado pulled to within three several times in the last five minutes, the last time coming with just under three minutes to play on a Bey basket inside.

The Wildcats, however, answered with a Trier 3-pointer, then another big trey from Parker Jackson-Cartwright in the final minute to put the game away.

TEMPE, Ariz. — A flurry of Arizona State 3-pointers and another big discrepancy at the foul line put the Colorado Buffaloes in a hole from which they could not escape Saturday, as the Buffs dropped an 80-66 decision at Wells Fargo Arena.

Colorado rallied from an 8-point deficit in the first half to tie the game at intermission, 32-32, then scrapped to a 51-47 lead with 10:52 to go.

But the No. 21 Sun Devils, who had hit just three of their 21 3-pointers up to that point, rattled in six of their next seven, including five in a row, to build a 10-point lead with 6:37 remaining. The Buffs managed to briefly cut the lead back to seven, but the Sun Devils stayed hot down the stretch to collect the win.

After missing all 10 tries from beyond the arc in the first half, ASU finished the night 10-for-31 from 3-point range.

The loss, Colorado's third in a row, dropped the Buffs to 12-10 overall and 4-6 in Pac-12 play while the Sun Devils improved to 16-5, 4-5.

Dominique Collier led CU with 11 points while Lucas Siewert and Namon Wright each chipped in 10.

ASU's Tra Holder led all scorers with 22 points, including four 3-pointers after halftime.

"This is an explosive Arizona State team that we saw tonight," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "We hold them to zero threes in the first half and they come out and make 10 of them in the second. We had too many defensive breakdowns."

HOW IT HAPPENED: Along with ASU's 3-point barrage in the second half, the Buffs also found themselves on the short end of a big difference at the foul line for the second game in a row.

In Thursday's loss to Arizona, the Wildcats shot 23 free throws while the Buffs shot eight. Saturday, the Sun Devils attempted 22 free throws and the Buffs nine — a 45-17 difference over the two games. It is the fewest number of free throws ever attempted in a two-game Pac-12 road swing by the Buffs, easily surpassing the 27 they shot on the same road trip three years ago.

"We have to figure out a way to get to the foul line," Boyle said. "For some reason we are not getting to the foul line. We have eight free throw attempts against Arizona, we have nine tonight. We have to figure out offensively a better way."

But even with the difference at the foul line, the Buffs managed to stay in the game until midway through the second half. CU overcame an eight-point deficit to tie the game by halftime, 32-32, then took its first lead of the game early in the second half on a George King basket, 36-35. The two teams then traded the lead five times before Colorado extended its margin to three, 48-45, on a King 3-pointer, then to four on a D'Shawn Schwartz trey, 51-47.

"I really felt like we could battle ourselves back in this game and we did early in the second half," Boyle said. "But we let them get going from three."

Indeed, the Sun Devils found their shooting eye after Schwartz's 3-pointer. Arizona State hit five straight 3-pointers and six of its next seven to forge a 65-55 lead with 6:37 to play. Holder had three in the surge and Shannon Evans hit a pair, fueling a 20-7 ASU run.

Colorado did manage to cut the deficit to seven twice in the ensuing minutes, but could never come closer and the Sun Devils slowly built their lead over the final few minutes.

Colorado's two leading scorers also struggled in the game. CU point guard McKinley Wright finished with just two points on 1-for-10 shooting, but he did have seven assists. King finished with eight points and 10 rebounds and Dallas Walton had eight boards.

Thanks to 11 turnovers and foul trouble early for starters Tyler Bey and King, the Buffs fell behind by as much as eight in the first half. But the Sun Devils, who missed all 10 of their 3-point shots in the opening half, could never pull away. Colorado slowly chipped away at the ASU lead and a Schwartz layup with 44 seconds left in the half sent the two teams into intermission tied at 32-32.

BOULDER — On a night when the Colorado Buffaloes struggled in almost every department, they still had freshman point guard McKinley Wright IV.

That was enough — barely. Wright scored a team-high 17 points and added six rebounds and five assists Wednesday to lead the Buffs to a 68-64 win over Cal at the Coors Events Center.

The Buffs survived a 19-turnover night — 13 in the first half — and 18 offensive rebounds by the Bears to improve to 14-10 overall and 6-6 in Pac-12 play. Cal dropped to 8-16, 2-9.

Despite the win, CU's second in a row in a key three-game homestand, Buffs coach Tad Boyle was not happy with the effort.

"Thank god we won," said Boyle, who opened his press conference by thanking the fans who attended the 9 p.m. tipoff — and then apologizing to those fans. "I can't remember a time in my coaching career when I've been this disappointed after a win in terms of our performance, the way we approached this game, especially after we really did a great job against Utah in terms of our effort, our energy, our toughness. Tonight we turned the ball over 19 times and we give them 18 offensive rebounds. Thank god we won, and we won for one reason. That's No. 25 (Wright) for the Buffs."

Wright shot just 3-for-7 from the field, but had 11 points from the free throw line. He scored eight of his points in the final 1:49, including a drive to the hoop that gave Colorado a six-point edge and six free throws in the final minute to help hold the Bears at bay.

D'Shawn Schwartz, Dominique Collier and Dallas Walton all chipped in eight points apiece for Colorado.

Kingsley Okorah led Cal with 12 points, most coming on second-chance points after offensive rebounds. The Bears finished with 18 second-chance points, but the Buffs did do a stellar job on Cal freshman Justice Sueing. The Bears' leading scorer finished with just six points on 1-for-15 shooting.

"We dodged a bullet," Boyle said. "You give a team 18 offensive rebounds, they're going to convert those to points and baskets better than Cal did tonight."

HOW IT HAPPENED: After going into halftime tied at 28-28, the Buffs briefly looked ready to take control and put the game away early in the second half with a 10-0 run. Lucas Siewert, George King and Collier all hit 3-pointers in the surge and Colorado led 38-31 just four minutes into the half.

But the Bears slowly chipped away at Colorado's lead, cutting the margin to one at 38-37 before the Buffs pushed the margin back to seven on six straight points from Schwartz.

"That felt good," Schwartz said. "Just trying to find and pick my spots where I can go score."

Sill, Cal refused to go away, pulling to within one again with just 4:41 to go on an Okorah second-chance bucket, cutting CU's edge to 52-51.

But the Buffs answered with a Wright coast-to-coast bucket, then got a 15-footer from Schwartz with 2:33 to go to push the lead back to five. Cal cut it back to three on another Okorah tip-in, but Wright scored again on another drive to give Colorado a 58-53 lead with 1:49 to play.

CU then forced an empty Cal possession before two free throws from Wright gave the Buffs a six-point lead with 50 seconds to go. The Bears hit three 3-pointers in the final minute but Colorado maintained its edge at the free throw line with Wright hitting four from the stripe and Collier a pair in the final 31 seconds. Lazar Nikolic added CU's final points on a slam dunk off an assist from Wright.

Along with his eight points, Walton had seven rebounds and King had five rebounds to go with seven points.

BOULDER — After a disappointing performance in Wednesday's win over Cal, Colorado coach Tad Boyle challenged his team to improve.

Sunday afternoon, the Buffs answered the challenge, putting forth another stellar defensive effort while also getting a career-high 17 points from sophomore forward Lucas Siewert. The result was a 64-56 win over Stanford in front of 8,323 at the Coors Events Center.

The win, Colorado's third in a row and ninth straight over the Cardinal, improved CU to 15-10 overall and also bumped the Buffs back above .500 in Pac-12 play at 7-6. Stanford dropped to 13-13 and 7-6, creating an even bigger logjam in the conference standings.

There are now eight teams within one game of each other in the second through ninth positions in the standings. The top four teams in the league earn a first-round bye in the Pac-12 tournament.

"We treated Wednesday night's win against Cal like a loss," Boyle said. "We didn't kill them physically on Thursday, but I really challenged them. I had individual meetings with certain guys and certain groups of guys. Let's just say they weren't feel-good, pat-you-on-the-back atababy type meetings — they were more challenging-in-your-face type meetings. ... The thing I love about this team is they really respond to challenges. They responded to that challenge today and played with great energy, great effort, great toughness. When we do that, I'll live with anything."

The Buffs definitely answered the challenge on defense, holding Stanford to just 35.7 percent shooting from the floor (20-for-56), the third straight game Colorado has held an opponent under 37 percent shooting.

Siewert, meanwhile, also responded, putting together his third double-digit scoring effort in his last four games. After a sub-par six-point, two-rebound performance against Cal, he not only produced his career-high in points — surpassing the 15 he scored against Stanford a year ago — he also tied his career high in rebounds with seven. Throw in 11 points and nine rebounds from senior George King, 10 points, seven assists and six rebounds from freshman McKinley Wright IV, and nine points and six rebounds from freshman Tyler Bey, and it was the kind of balanced effort the Buffs need to make a late-season run.

Colorado held Stanford's leading scorer, Reid Travis, to just 10 points on 4-for-10 shooting, barely half his season average of 19.4 points per game. Cardinal guard Dorian Pickens did finish with 18, but he shot just 5-for-15 from the field.

HOW IT HAPPENED: Colorado led by 11 at the half, 31-20, but couldn't put the Cardinal away. Stanford chipped away at the lead, finally closing to within three on a back-to-back 3-pointers before a McKinley Wright bucket and free throw after an offensive rebound pushed the margin back to six, 48-42, by 8:35 to go.

But the Cardinal had one more surge, closing to within one two more times before CU finally regained control for good with a 12-3 run down the stretch. Siewert had eight points in the run as CU turned a 50-49 lead with just under six minutes to go into a 62-52 edge with 1:09 left on the clock.

CU held Stanford to just seven points over the final six minutes of the game.

Bey sparked the first six points of the decisive 12-3 run with two buckets, a steal and an offensive rebound to put the Buffs back up by seven, 56-49. Bey, who sat much of the first half with foul trouble, had all nine of his points and five of his six rebounds after halftime.

After Bey's burst, Siewert helped salt the win away. The 6-foot-10 sophomore hit his third 3-pointer of the game with 2:58 to go to give the Buffs a 59-52 lead, then buried another trey at the 1:09 mark to bump Colorado's cushion to 10.

SEATTLE — The road continues to be a tough place for Tad Boyle's Colorado Buffaloes.

Needing at least a split on their two-game swing through the Pacific Northwest to stay in the hunt for a top-four Pac-12 finish, the Buffs instead lost both, falling Thursday at Washington State and Saturday at Washington.

Saturday night's 82-59 defeat at Washington, CU's ninth this season in 10 road games, dropped Colorado to 15-12 overall and 7-8 in conference play. The Huskies improved to 18-9 and 8-6.

The Buffs' tale of woe against the Huskies was a familiar one, specifically turnovers. CU was once again unable to solve the Huskies' 2-3 zone defense and committed 18 miscues in the game, which Washington happily converted into 26 points — a big reason for UW's 17-2 edge in fast break points. Washington also finished with a 16-12 edge on second chance points.

"How many times on the road have we been talking about taking care of the basketball against a 2-3 zone?" Boyle asked after the game. "It's as simple as passing and catching the ball. It's not rocket science. . . . You put yourself in such a hole because there's no defense for those turnovers that lead to layups. There's no defense for that and it gets their crowd into it. We have to play better."

Freshman Tyler Bey led CU with 11 points and seven rebounds while freshman McKinley Wright IV chipped in 10 points and seven rebounds, but they were the only Buffs in double figures. Mattise Thybule led UW with a career-high 26 points.

HOW IT HAPPENED: The Buffs struggled for most of the night. After taking a temporary lead with a 9-0 run in the first half, Colorado then saw Washington regain control with an 18-4 surge that included an 11-0 run. The Buffs trailed by just five at the half, 39-34, but the Huskies quickly put the game away in the second half, building their cushion back to double digits early and then expanding it for much of the rest of the game.

Washington's lead hit the 20-point mark with 11:50 still left to play and Colorado never came closer than 16 again.

The Buffs did not shoot well, hitting just 40 percent of their shots (24-for-60) while Washington was 30-for-63. Senior George King finished with a season-low four points on 2-for-6 shooting.

"I put a lot of it on myself," King said of the Buffs' 0-2 road trip. "I don't think I did a good enough job in either game of setting the tone. . . . This was humbling."

When the Buffs left home earlier this week, they carried with them a three-game win streak and a chance to move up into the top four in the conference standings. They also were still at least in bubble contention for an NCAA Tournament bid.

Now, they sit in ninth place in the conference standings with three games to play and their only hope of an NCAA Tournament bid would be to win the Pac-12 tournament. Colorado returns home next week for a Wednesday game with USC (8:30 p.m.) and Sunday's regular season home finale with UCLA (2 p.m.).

"We still have a lot to play for," Boyle said. "Postseason play is still within reach of this team, but we better figure things out quickly. But it's past the point of learning. Now we have to start doing, we have to start performing. We have to start winning. That's the only way good things happen."

BOULDER — Colorado couldn't hold off a late-game surge by USC on Wednesday, as the Buffs fell 75-64 to the Trojans at the Coors Events Center.

After falling behind by 12 early in the second half, the Buffs put together a 14-0 run to take the lead with just more than 12 minutes to play, 52-50, and the score was still tied 58-58 with 8:26 remaining. But the Trojans put together a 17-6 run — including a 12-0 burst — over the final eight minutes to produce the win.

The loss, CU's third in a row, dropped the Buffs to 15-13 overall and 7-9 in Pac-12 play while the Trojans improved to 20-9, 11-5. It was also CU's third loss of home this season, as the Buffs fell to 11-3 at the Events Center.

Lucas Siewert led CU with 16 points, McKinley Wright IV chipped in 12 and Dominique Collier added nine. Colorado senior George King, though, scored just four points — all on free throws — as the Buffs shot just 41.5 percent from the field (22-for-53).

Chimezie Metu scored 21 and Jordan McLaughlin added 18 for the Trojans, who shot a red-hot 54.7 percent from the field (29-for-53), including 10-for-20 from 3-point range.

"We scratched and clawed to get back in this thing, tied it at 58, and they came out and go on a 13-0 run, 11-0 run, whatever it was," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "We just didn't have an answer. Metu played really well. Jordan McLaughlin played really well for them down the stretch. We couldn't get buckets, we couldn't get stops. That's the name of the game."

HOW IT HAPPENED: Colorado trailed by five at the half, 36-31, then saw the Trojans expand that lead to 50-38 five minutes into the period.

But just when it looked like USC might run away with the game, the Buffs put together a 14-0 run to take a 52-50 lead with 12:27 to go. Siewert scored nine points in the burst, hitting a pair of 3-pointers, then collecting an offensive rebound, putback and free throw.

The Trojans, though, regained the edge by going to Metu inside and McLaughlin outside. Metu scored 10 points in a 14-4 USC surge that left Colorado trailing by eight, 66-58, with 5:22 to play, and a CU timeout couldn't halt the surge.

The Buffs committed three straight turnovers after the break, and a McLaughlin 3-pointer, part of a 12-0 USC run, gave the Trojans a 69-58 edge with just more than three minutes to play.

The Buffs, meanwhile, endured a seven-minute scoring drought, one that started with the score tied at 58-58 and didn't end until Siewert hit a bucket with just more than a minute to play.

In their last homestand, one that produced three straight wins, the Buffs held each opponent to under 37 percent shooting. But the Trojans got hot midway through the first half and stayed that way the rest of the game.

"Our defense was not good enough tonight," Boyle said. "When we did get stops, got some stops, we couldn't get rebounds."

The Buffs actually won the rebound battle, 32-26, but they also committed 13 turnovers compared to USC's six and USC reaped 17 points off those Colorado miscues.

Colorado led by as much as six early when a Collier 3-pointer gave CU a 16-10 lead. But the Trojans slowly chipped away at the edge, then put together an 11-3 run late in the half to take a 36-29 lead. USC hit eight consecutive field goal attempts over the last eight minutes of the half. Colorado, meanwhile, hit a four-minute scoring drought, finally getting on the board at the halftime buzzer on a McKinley Wright layup to cut USC's lead to 36-31.

SALT LAKE CITY — After digging themselves a 17-point hole Saturday night, the Colorado Buffaloes came close to climbing all the way out.

But in the end, the Buffs rally fell short as CU dropped a 64-54 decision to Utah in their regular season finale at the Huntsman Center.

The loss, Colorado's 10th in 11 road games this year and sixth straight on Utah's home floor, dropped CU to 16-14 overall and 8-10 in the Pac-12 while Utah improved to 19-10, 11-7.

Colorado trailed by 17 at the half, 41-24, but slowly chipped away at the Utes' lead after halftime, closing to within four, 46-42.

That, however, was as close as CU could come, as the Utes finally ended an eight-minute scoring drought to slowly build the lead back up to nine, then hold on down the stretch.

"The second half, our guys scratched and clawed," CU head coach Tad Boyle said. "We cut it to four. Really proud of those young guys. We had four freshmen and a sophomore on the floor. Maybe they got out of a little bit of juice, but I can't fault them for their effort and their toughness."

Freshman McKinley Wright IV led CU with 16 points and six rebounds while sophomore Lucas Siewert added 11 points and seven rebounds.

Justin Bibbins scored 24 points, including six 3-pointers, for Utah. The Utes also hit 20 of their 26 free throws while Colorado was 7-for-11 from the line.

The Buffs will now face Arizona State on Wednesday at 1 p.m. in the first game of the Pac-12 tournament in at T-Mobile Arena in Las Vegas.

HOW IT HAPPENED: Down by 17 at the half, the Buffs refused to call it a night. CU went on a 12-0 run that started with a Wright basket and continued with a pair of Siewert buckets, two Tyler Bey free throws and two D'Shawn Schwartz baskets. Schwartz's second basket pulled Colorado to within 46-42 with 9:25 still to go, sparking a timeout from Utah coach Larry Krystkowiak.

The Buffs then had a chance to close the gap to two, but missed a pair of free throws and the Utes finally ended a long drought with a Bibbins basket, made possible by an offensive rebound. Utah then built the cushion back to nine and Colorado never came closer than five again.

After hitting 18 field goals in the first half, the Utes managed just five in the final 20 minutes. Colorado ended up with a 41-30 edge on the boards, including 15 offensive rebounds that helped CU to a 15-5 edge in second-chance points.

But they couldn't completely overcome a poor first half. After Colorado took a 15-14 lead with 12:20 still on the clock — and Utah big man David Collette out with an ankle injury — the Utes put together runs of 11-1 and 14-0 that helped the Utes outscore Colorado 27-9 over the last 12 minutes of the half.

"I told our team that second half, the Colorado team effort, energy, toughness — I'll take that any day of the week," Boyle said. "The first half, unacceptable. We didn't have that eye of the tiger. I don't understand how at this time of year you can't play with that toughness you need to get for 40 minutes. It came back to bite us."

The Buffs' second half rally was sparked completely by underclassmen. The lineup on the floor for much of the 12-0 run included four freshmen — Wright, Schwartz, Bey and Lazar Nikolic — and sophomore Siewert.

"That's when we made our run, with that group on the floor," Boyle said. "They may have run out of gas a little bit. We got it to four, we just couldn't get over the hump. But we lost this game in the first half and that's really disappointing."

CU's seniors endured a difficult night. One game after scoring a season-high 19 points in a win over UCLA, guard Dominique Collier was held scoreless on 0-for-4 shooting. Fellow senior George King had six points on 2-for-7 shooting, but did have eight rebounds in 23 minutes on the floor.

LAS VEGAS — Colorado's first-round magic in the Pac-12 tournament remains strong under coach Tad Boyle.

McKinley Wright IV had 20 points, 11 assists and eight rebounds — his fourth double-double of the season — and fellow freshman Tyler Bey had his second career double-double with 14 points and 10 rebounds to lead the Buffs to a 97-85 win over Arizona State in the first round of the Pac-12 Tournament.

It was CU's seventh Pac-12 tourney opening win in as many tries and lifted the 17-14 Buffs into a Thursday 1 p.m. quarterfinal matchup with Pac-12 regular season champ Arizona. ASU fell to 20-11.

Dominique Collier added 17 points. George King had 12 points and 7 rebounds. Lucas Siewert had 12 points and D'Shawn Schwartz chipped in 10 to round out Colorado's balanced attack.

The Buffs used a 15-1 run midway through the second half to take control, turning a 60-56 deficit with 12 minutes to play into a 71-61 lead with 7:35 to go. ASU never came closer than five again.

"It was a hard-fought win for our guys," Boyle said. "I couldn't be more proud of our players and the grit that they showed and the toughness that they showed from start to finish. ... Our team's got heart, it's got grit, and I love coaching them."

Colorado shot 53.2 percent from the field (33-for-62), including a red-hot 13-for-21 from 3-point range. ASU shot 47.6 percent (30-for-63), including 13-for-32 from beyond the arc. The Buffs also finished with just seven turnovers, a season low against a Pac-12 opponent, and they held a commanding 39-26 edge on the boards.

It was also the first double-digit loss of the season for Arizona State.

HOW IT HAPPENED: While Colorado seniors King and Collier had productive afternoons, it was CU's freshmen who came up big in crucial moments, in particular the decisive 15-1 run.

Dallas Walton started the burst with a bucket inside. Schwartz had a pair of 3-pointers and Wright had a bucket, four assists and a steal as Colorado took command of a game that had been back and forth to that point.

ASU never came closer than five again.

"The freshmen are just growing up," Boyle said. "To do it on this stage in a big-time game against a big-time opponent — I think Arizona State is talented enough to be in the NCAA tournament, they were 12-0 in non-conference — is a big-time win."

Colorado trailed early but finally took its first lead of the game, 19-16, on a Siewert 3-pointer with just under 12 minutes to go in the half. ASU, though, quickly answered with a 12-3 run to go up 30-24 with 6:50 remaining.

But Colorado had the last run of the half, closing the final six minutes on a 17-7 surge to take a 41-37 lead at the half. The Buffs hit eight of their final 10 field goal tries, with Wright starting the final run with five straight points before Collier closed the half with a pair of 3-pointers, the last coming from the corner with just 10 seconds left on the clock.

"You can't have one or two guys," Boyle said. "Maybe one or two guys can carry you for a game, but they can't carry you through the tournament. The strength of this team is the depth and the number of weapons that we have."

But it was the decisive 15-1 run in the second half that turned the tide for good, then some key buckets down the stretch that kept the game in hand. Bey had a big jumper from the baseline with 3:34 to go to give CU a nine-point lead before Wright hit a huge 3-pointer with 2:17 left to give the Buffs a 14-point cushion, 82-68.

The Buffs did exactly that, hitting nine free throws in the final two minutes to advance while handing ASU — once 12-0 and ranked No. 3 in the nation — its fifth loss in its last six games.

2017-18 IN REVIEW

Colorado finished the 2017-18 season at 17-15 overall and tied with Arizona State for eighth place in the Pac-12 Conference at 8-10.

The 2017-18 edition of the Buffaloes featured nine players on the roster (eight active) who had never played a regular season minute in a Colorado uniform prior to the season. That list included six true freshmen and three redshirts who spent 2016-17 with the program.

Despite that youth, Colorado won its first six games of the season including the Paradise Jam Tournament in Lynchburg, Va. The Buffaloes won three games in three days for the tournament title, which was moved to the campus of Liberty University from the U.S. Virgin Islands due to damage from Hurricanes Irma and Maria.

The Buffaloes finished the nonconference season at 8-4 sporting solid home wins over South Dakota State and New Mexico in that stretch.

Colorado had a challenging start to the Pac-12 schedule with four of its first six on the road and five of those schools expected to finish within the top tier of the conference. Things started a little dicey with a pair of road losses at defending league champion Oregon and Oregon State.

But Colorado rebounded in a big way, providing one of the best back-to-back performances in the nation that week. Returning home, the Buffaloes knocked off No. 4/6 ranked Arizona State, 90-81 in overtime and two days later defeated No. 14/16 Arizona, 80-77.

It was the first time in program history that Colorado had defeated AP Top 15 teams in back-to-back games. The Buffaloes were named the NCAA Division I Team of the Week by the NABC, NCAA.com and Dick Vitale. Freshman guard McKinley Wright IV, who averaged 17.5 points, 7.5 assists and 3.5 rebounds in that stretch, was named the Wayman Tisdale Freshman of the Week by the US Basketball Writers Association and the Pac-12 Player of the Week.

The Buffaloes followed that up with a road split in Southern California. Colorado defeated UCLA, 68-59, for its first ever road win over the Bruins. Senior George King had a memorable night in leading the Buffaloes. The future second round NBA Draft pick of the Phoenix Suns scored a season-high 26 points with a career-best six 3-point field goals.

A home win over Washington State put Colorado at 4-3 in Pac-12 play, but then the roller coaster ride was about to begin. A disappointing home loss to Washington led to a three-game slide as the Arizona schools got revenge on the Buffaloes in the desert.

Colorado bounced back with three-straight home win. A 67-55 triumph over Utah snapped an eight-game losing streak to the Utes. The Buffaloes followed that up with a sweep of the Bay Area schools at home.

The Buffaloes couldn't hold that momentum however, losing their next three. Colorado was swept on the Washington trip and lost a home game to USC. The Buffaloes regrouped to defeat UCLA on Senior Day, 80-76, clinching Colorado's first regular season sweep of the Bruins.

Colorado secured the No. 8 seed at the 2018 Pac-12 Tournament and defeated NCAA Tournament bound Arizona State, 97-85, in the first round as the Buffaloes advanced to the quarterfinal round for the seventh time in as many seasons in the conference. Colorado's season ended with a quarterfinal loss to eventual champion and No. 1 seed Arizona, 83-67.

Colorado averaged 72.1 points per game for the season while shooting 44 percent from the field. Defensively, Colorado allowed 73 points per game while holding opponents to 42.3 percent shooting and 35.7 percent from 3-point range.

On the Pac-12 season charts, Colorado ranked second in field goal defense, third in overall rebounding (37.5 rpg), defensive rebounds (27.4 drpg) and rebounding margin (+3.4). During regular season conference play, the Buffaloes had the Pac-12's top field goal defense (.422), and ranked second in blocks (4.4 bpg).

McKinley Wright IV led Colorado at 14.2 points, 5.5 assists and 1.0 steal per game. He also topped the team in field goals made and attempted (166 of 368) while ranking third in rebounding (4.7 rpg) and fourth in blocks (14).

He broke Chauncey Billups' freshman season assists record (143 in 1995-96) during the home USC game and also became the fifth Colorado freshman to reach 400 points. His 175 assists rank second overall in one season at Colorado.

McKinley Wright IV

On the Pac-12 charts, Wright was third in assists, seventh in assist-to-turnover ratio (1.9) and 16th in scoring. He topped all Pac-12 freshmen in assists and assist-to-turnover ratio and was third in scoring.

George King led Colorado in rebounding, for the second-straight year, at 7.8 per game while ranking second in scoring at 12.9 points an outing. His 251 total rebounds ranked 26th on the Buffaloes' single-season list. He also led Colorado in 3-point field goals made and attempted (62-157).

King had a team-best six double-doubles on the season; finishing with 13 in his career. On the overall Pac-12 charts, King ranked third in defensive rebounds (6.1 drpg), fifth in overall rebounds, 12th in offensive rebounds (1.8 orgp), 14th in free-throw percentage (.782) and 3-point percentage, 15th in 3-point field goals (1.9 3mpg) and 22nd in scoring.

Junior guard Namon Wright was third on the team in scoring (9.7 ppg) and fourth in assists (34) and 3-pointers made (29). Wright led the Buffaloes in scoring four times and had a pair of 20-point games. He recorded one double-double, with 16 points and 10 rebounds in the home win over Washington State.

Dominique Collier averaged 7.5 points and was second on the team in assists (46) and 3-point field goals (42). Collier had a season-high 19 points with three assists and two steals during the Senior Day win over UCLA - his most points ever at the Coors Events Center.

Dominique Collier

George King

The 2018 Co-Pac-12 Sixth Man of the Year, Collier was second in the Pac-12 in 3-point shooting during conference games at 48.3 percent (29 of 60). He is averaged 8.0 points and 1.6 assists during Pac-12 regular season play.

Freshman Dallas Walton led Colorado with 34 blocked shots and ranked 10th in the Pac-12 at 1.1 per game. All but seven (27) of his blocks came during conference play, ranking sixth in the league during that span (1.4 bpg). He averaged 5.7 points and 3.4 rebounds on the season.

Freshman forward Tyler Bey averaged 6.1 points and was second on the team in rebounding at 5.1 a game. He averaged 7.0 points and 5.3 rebounds during Pac-12 play while shooting 54 percent from the field.

Sophomore forward Lucas Siewert averaged 6.8 points and 3.0 rebounds per game and ranked third on the team in 3-point field goals (30). He led the Buffaloes and ranked second in the Pac-12 in 3-point shooting at 44.8 percent.

Siewert had 10 double-figure scoring games on the season with eight of them coming in the final 11 contests of the year. He was second on the team in scoring during that span at 11.6 points per game.

Freshman forward D'Shawn Schwartz averaged 3.4 points and 1.8 rebounds. He shot 38 percent from downtown on the season making 18 of 47 3-point attempts. Freshman guard Lazar Nikolic averaged 2.3 points and 2.3 rebounds a game. He was fifth on the team in assists with 30.

COLORADO BASKETBALL HISTORY

A program first known as the Silver and Gold, won its first game back on Jan. 10, 1902 defeating State Prep School, 34-10. That game marked the beginning of what was to become an outstanding tradition of basketball at the University of Colorado.

The Silver and Gold became known as the Buffaloes in 1934, after CU students rented a buffalo calf for the final football game that year. Colorado has been a member of six conferences, joining the Rocky Mountain Conference in 1909, and then the Mountain States in 1937. The Buffs became a member of the Big Seven Conference in 1947, which became the Big Eight in 1958. The Big Eight and Southwest Conferences merged to create the Big 12 Conference in 1996, which Colorado was a member of until joining the Pac-12 Conference in 2011.

A total of 18 coaches have guided the Buffs to victory, but none more so than past leaders of Forrest B. "Frosty" Cox, H.B. Lee, Russell "Sox" Walseth, Ricardo Patton, and Tad Boyle.

1940 NIT Champions, Two Final Fours

Cox spent 13 years roaming the Balch Fieldhouse from 1936-50, collecting a 147-89 record. While at the helm, Cox's teams won four Mountain States titles, was the 1938 NIT runner-up, won the 1940 NIT, advanced to the 1940 NCAA Tournament and 1942 NCAA Final Four. He concluded his CU career with the best won-lost percentage (.623) of any CU coach of more than one season.

Some of CU basketball's finest moments were orchestrated by Lee from 1950-56. In six seasons, he guided the Buffaloes to a pair of Big Seven titles and back-to-back NCAA Tournaments, including the 1955 Final Four. It was the second Final Four trip for Colorado, who fell to eventual champion San Francisco in the semifinals. The Buffaloes rebounded to defeat Iowa in the third place game, cementing the program's best-ever national finish. That 1954-55 season saw Lee's squad win a then-school-best 19 games.

From 1957-76, basketball was under the direction of Walseth. His 261 wins are the most by any coach in school basketball history. Walseth led the Buffs to back-to-back Big Eight titles in 1961-62 and 1962-63, and both teams reached the NCAA second round before being eliminated by Cincinnati.

Walseth also engineered six Big Eight seasons where his teams finished third or better in the conference, including three titles (one shared). During the 1968-

69 season, Walseth's team won a then-school best 21 games and during his tenure won 14 or more games in a season 11 times. His teams also had 13 winning seasons. Today, CU now plays on the "Sox Walseth Floor" in the CU Events Center, a tribute to Walseth's success as a Buff.

Coaches are not solely responsible for the success of each season, and the Buffs have had a wealth of outstanding talent on the hardwood in its proud past. Outstanding Buff performers range from Jack Harvey, CU's first All-American, to Chauncey Billups, the third pick in the 1997 NBA Draft. During that span players such as Hall of Famer Burdette Haldorson, Cliff Meely, Scott Wedman and Jay Humphries donned the Buffaloes' uniform.

The "Big Burd," as Haldorson was called, won the league scoring race in Colorado's 1953-54 and 1954-55 Big Seven championship seasons, netting 21.3 and 23.9 points per game, respectively. After CU finished third in the 1955 NCAA Tournament, Haldorson was selected to the AAU All-America team. His 13.8 rebounds per game that year is still a CU single season record. He would go on to win Olympic Gold with the 1956 and 1960 USA basketball teams.

Meely became another legendary player at Colorado from 1968-71. The sensational center-forward is the Buffaloes' all-time leader in rebounding average (12.1 rpg) and remains fourth in total boards with 971. In addition, Meely held a number of Big Eight scoring marks when his collegiate career ended in 1971.

Named an All-American for his performance during his senior campaign, Meely averaged 28.0 points and hauled in 11.9 rebounds per game. His 47-point, 25-rebound outing against Oklahoma was one highlight of that milestone season. Meely was a two-time Big Eight Player of the Year and led the Buffaloes to the conference title and NCAA Tournament in 1968-69.

The next Buff to make an impact was Wedman, a sharp-shooting forward from 1971-74. Wedman came to CU from Denver's Mullen High School and led the team in scoring and rebounding for two years, field goal percentage three years, and free throw percentage one year. Before leaving Colorado, Wedman was firmly established in the school record books.

His numbers placed him sixth in rebounding (No. 13 today), seventh in scoring (No. 22 today), and eighth in field goal percentage. After enjoying a successful 12-year stint in the NBA, Wedman concluded his professional career in 1987 with the Boston Celtics.

Coors Events Center and the Rise of the '90s

A major change in Colorado basketball came in 1979, when the team moved into the Colorado Events/Conference Center with its spacious seating capacity of 11,076. The facility was renamed the Coors Events/Conference Center in 1990, in honor of a donation made by Coors to the campus. The Coors name was synonymous with the arena for just under 28 years, before being renamed the CU Events Center on July 1, 2018.

Arguably the best and most exciting Buff of the 1980s was guard Jay Humphries. While running the Colorado offense from 1980-84, Humphries became the school's all-time assist leader (562), and graduated as the program's fourth-leading scorer with 1,306 points. His specialty, however, was defensive play. He's Colorado's all-time leader in steals with 309; 64 more than the closest alum. Humphries is the only Colorado player with 100-plus steals in a season and led the nation in thefts in 1982-83 with 115.

CU closed out the 1980s and began a new decade of Buffalo basketball with two greats, Shaun Vandiver and Stevie Wise. Both Vandiver and Wise were instrumental in the school's run through the 1991 NIT, CU's first postseason appearance since making the NCAA Tourney in 1969. Colorado finished third in that NIT at the famed Madison Square Garden. Prior to the trip to New York City, the Buffaloes played in front of a standing-room only crowd and cut down the nets after defeating Arkansas State to advance to the semifinals.

Vandiver, a 6'10" center, who transferred to CU in 1988 after leading Hutchinson CC to the junior college national championship, worked his way up the Buff charts with an excellent shooting touch and a desire to hit the boards. A three-time All-Big Eight performer, Vandiver scored 1,876 points and grabbed 962 rebounds while shooting 54.7 percent from the field. All three of those numbers remain in the top five on Colorado's record book.

Wise too, left his mark in the CU record books. Coming to Boulder as a guard in 1987, he managed to suit up for 119 games in a Colorado uniform, at the time the fifth most in team history. Like Vandiver, he too loved to shoot, and is one of the Buffs' all-time three-point specialists. Wise also finished his career as the No. 3 scorer (1,727 points) and sits in seventh today.

Donnie Boyce marked the onset of the 1990s, as the Maywood, Ill., product took CU and the Big Eight by storm. After four incredible seasons, Boyce graduated as Colorado's all-time leading scorer with 1,995 points, a mark that would hold up for 13 seasons. He led the Buffaloes to an NIT bid as a senior in 1994-95.

Chauncey Billups continued CU's tradition of great players as he made his mark early in his career. In only his fourth game as a freshman, Billups posted the first triple-double in CU history. His 24-point, 11-assist, 11-rebound game against George Mason was a harbinger of great things to come for the 6'3" product from George Washington High School in Denver.

As a sophomore, Billups would lead Colorado to its first NCAA appearance (1996-97) in 28 years and earn many postseason accolades, including All-Big 12 first-team honors and first-team freshman All-America kudos from Basketball Weekly and Basketball Times. In two years, Billups scored over 1,000 points (1,020), becoming the 20th player in CU history to accomplish that feat.

Into the 21st Century

The next great point-guard, Jaquay Walls, guided CU toward back-to-back 18 win seasons, both of which brought NIT bids. A junior college transfer who made his impact immediately, Walls was named honorable mention All-Big 12 and to the All-Newcomer team in his junior season. As a senior, he was twice named Big 12 Player of the Week and had a 42-point performance against Iowa State, which set a Big 12 record and remains the top scoring performance by a Colorado player at the CU Events Center. His 15 overtime points in that game was also an NCAA record. That spring, he was selected by the Indiana Pacers in the NBA Draft.

Seven-footer David Harrison made his presence felt during the 2001-02 season being named to the Big 12 All-Freshman team and leading the Buffaloes in scoring (13.9 ppg). The only other players in CU history to stand over seven feet are Frank Wilcox (1955-56), Ben Mills (2010-14) and Dallas Walton (2017-present). Harrison also rewrote the CU record book in field goal percentage finishing the season with a stellar 63.8 percentage and third nationally.

Harrison set a school-record with 106 swats during the 2002-03 season, shattering the previous mark of 73. He also became the first player in school history and in the Big 12 to record a pair of triple-doubles (31 pts., 17 reb., 10 blocks against Stetson; 20 pts., 11 blocks, 10 rebs. versus Nebraska).

In 2002-03, CU made its first NCAA Tournament appearance since 1996-97. With 20 victories on the season, another feat only accomplished twice before by Patton in 1996-97 (22-10) and Sox Walseth in 1968-69 (21-7), the Buffaloes also upset four nationally ranked teams — all at home for the first-time ever.

CU greets Jay Humphries and the late-Cliff Meely on the night when the Coors Events Center set an attendance record Dec. 5, 2012. The Buffs defeated Colorado State, 70-61 in front of 11,708 spectators.

CU IN THE HISTORY BOOKS

Colorado is one of just 12 schools to have ever qualified for the NCAA Tournament and the National Invitation Tournament (NIT) in the same year, as the Buffaloes made dual appearances in 1940, becoming the first school to ever do that. That year, CU won the NIT and finished fourth in the NCAA West Region. The other schools that have matched this feat are: Arizona (1951), Bradley (1950), Brigham Young (1951), City College of New York (which won both tournaments in 1950), Dayton (1952), Duquesne (1952), Kentucky (1949), North Carolina State (1951), St. John's (1951 and 1952), St. Louis University (1952), and Utah (1944).

David Harrison

Individually, the Buffaloes received four All-Big 12 honors with Michel Morandais (second team) along with Stephane Pelle earning third-team. Morandais and Harrison also were named to the Big 12's specialty teams as two of the conference's most-improved players. Pelle capped his four-year career with 1,367 points and 1,054 rebounds becoming the first of two CU men's basketball players to secure both 1,000 plateaus (Andre Roberson: 2010-13: 1,012pts., 1,045 rebs.). Pelle would go on to become — and to this day — is the school's all-time leading rebounder (1,054).

During the 2003-04 campaign, CU won 18 games for the fifth time under Patton and earned its third NIT berth in eight years. More impressively, the Buffaloes won 10 conference games, the most since recording 11 back in 1996-97 and earning the number four seed at the Big 12 Tournament in Dallas. Harrison also broke the school record for blocks in a career (225) and would on go to rewrite the blocked shot record book despite playing only three years and opting for the 2004 NBA Draft (29th overall, first round, Indiana Pacers).

The Buffaloes saw the arrival of Richard Roby in 2004-05 as he would become the first freshman since Billups (1995-96) to lead CU in scoring with 16 points per game and net double-digits 26 times in 30 games.

The 2005-06 Buffaloes won 20 games for the fourth time in their history en route to the NIT, with 14 of those coming at the Events Center tying the 2002-03 season for the most ever up until that time. The Buffs also re-wrote the school's 3-point record for made (240) and attempts (701), and Roby became the first CU player since 2003-04 and only the fourth player since 1996-97 to be named All-Big 12 first team. CU also reached the national stage by being ranked in back-to-back ESPN/USA Today Coaches' Polls, a school first since the 1996-97 campaign.

From 2007-10 the program was led by Jeff Bzdelik, who came from the United States Air Force Academy, where he led the Buffaloes to a 36-58 (.383) record. His best season was his last, a 15-16 mark and 6-10 in the Big 12 in 2009-10. Over his three seasons with the Buffs, Bzdelik experienced a series of near-misses, losing 27 single-digit games, 18 of those in the Big 12. The 27 losses were an average of 4.6 points.

In 2007-08, Richard Roby set the school scoring record becoming the first CU men's basketball player to eclipse the 2,000-point barrier netting 2,001 points (Cory Higgins would tie the mark in 2011). He would go on to set numerous school records over his outstanding four-year career. The Buffaloes became the first team in Big 12 history as the No. 12 seed in its post-season tournament to beat a No. 5 seed (Baylor).

Roby became the second Buff in its history to lead the team in scoring all four years (Boyce was the other).

In 2009-10, the Buffs provided a dual offensive punch with Higgins and super freshman Alec Burks. Higgins, garnered his second straight All-Big 12 third team honor, while Burks performed a CU first in the Buffs Big 12 history becoming the first Boulder athlete to earn conference freshman of the year honors.

Higgins and Burks scored 587 and 512 points, respectively becoming the first tandem to net over 500 points in the same season since the 1990-91 campaign. Burks would also lead the team in rebounding, only the second freshman since Matt Bullard in 1985-86.

Burks was also named to a number of post-season teams including the Big 12 All-Rookie Team, CollegeInsider.com All-America Freshman Team, 2009-10 Basketball Times' All-Freshman first team, CU Sports Performers of the Year (CUSPY) Male Freshman of the Year, and Sporting News Magazine All-Freshman second team.

Donnie Boyce

He became the first CU freshman to surpass 500 points in a single-season (512). He ranked fourth nationally of all freshmen in points per game (17.1) and field goal percentage (53.8).

The Tad Boyle Era

Over the last eight years of Colorado Basketball, head coach Tad Boyle and his coaching staff, have built the Buffaloes into one of the elite Pac-12 Conference basketball programs, if not the nation.

In those eight years the Buffaloes have made seven postseason appearances, a school-first three consecutive NCAA Tournament berths; five 20-plus winning seasons, and a Pac-12 Conference Tournament championship. Under his tutelage, Boyle has won an impressive 166 games at CU, and his winning percentage of .601 ranks second in history for those coaches with at least four seasons.

Very impressive for coach and a basketball program that had only four 20-plus winning seasons before his arrival during the spring of 2010.

In those eight years, CU basketball history has been re-written altogether. Boyle's success has brought ESPN College GameDay to Boulder (Feb. 22, 2014); he has won a school record 24 games in a single-season, twice; home dominance at the CU Events Center with a 113-22 record (.837), in addition to school attendance records being broken, then re-broken a year later; and most importantly every senior that has made his final year on the Buff roster, has graduated (Boyle's staff is 25-for-25).

On the court, there have been eight all-tournament team selections; seven conference first-team recipients; one Most Improved Player of the Year, one Pac-12 Conference Defensive Player of the Year, two "Sixth Man of the Year" winners, and one Wooden Top-20 Finalist.

Over the last eight years, six student-athletes have gone on to reach the NBA; five hearing their names announced on draft day. George King was the 59th overall pick by the Phoenix Suns in 2018. Derrick White was the 29th overall pick by the San Antonio Spurs in 2017. Spencer Dinwiddie left school after his junior year (2013-14), where he was selected by Detroit in the second round of the 2014 NBA Draft (No. 38 overall). In 2012-13, Andre Roberson was selected in the first round (No. 26 overall) by Minnesota then traded to Oklahoma City. In the 2011 draft, Alec Burks, became CU's second-ever lottery pick, selected No. 12 overall by Utah.

Rounding out the six former players who have gone on to the NBA after playing for Boyle while at CU is the school's all-time co-scoring leader, Cory Higgins (2,001 points). Higgins played with the Charlotte Bobcats from 2011-13. It should be noted that Higgins is one of several former Buffs to enjoy a successful professional career overseas, helping CSKA Moscow to the 2015-16 EuroLeague championship.

Boyle made the most of his "dream job" in his first year, guiding the Buffaloes to a school-record 24 victories in 2010-11, capping the season with a spot in the NIT semifinals.

Named the 18th head coach in CU men's basketball history (on April 19, 2010), Boyle also etched his name among the school's great coaches becoming first head coach in 20 years to win his coaching debut. CU also won a school-record 18 home games at the Events Center and achieved their highest Big 12 finish (t-5th) since 2005-06.

Statistically, CU ranked first in the Big 12 and fifth nationally in free throw percentage (77.8). Boyle's efficient attack also ranked 12th nationally in scoring (79.6 ppg) and 19th nationally in field goal percentage (47.3).

Individually, the Buffs were led by Burks, who would score a single-season school record 779 points, in addition setting the school mark for most free throws made (249) and attempts (302) in a single-season. He would also become the first player at CU to score over 770 points, 240 rebounds, 100 assists in same season.

A Top-20 Wooden Award finalist and unanimous Big 12 Conference first team selection, Burks was 18th nationally in scoring with 20.5 points per game.

And for the first time in the 15-year Big 12 Championship history, the Buffs advanced to the conference semifinals where Burks became the first CU player to be named to the all-tourney team. Later in the season, the Grandview, Mo. native would be named to the NIT All-Tournament Team (97 points in four games, 24.3 ppg.).

The 2010-11 team was not comprised by one individual, but a cast of others who led to the Buffs success throughout the season. Cory Higgins would end his stellar four-year with 2,001 points. Tying former teammate Richard Roby (2004-08), for the most in team history. Higgins was a three-time third team conference selection, also set a number of school records also becoming the career leader in minutes (4,478), games (132, today he's second), starts (131), and single-season minutes played (1,222) set in 2010-11.

Sharp-shooter Levi Knutson ended his career making the fifth most treys (81) in a season during CU's NIT run. The Littleton, Colo. native set the single-season mark for 3-point efficiency (47.4 percent) and notched his name among long-range shooting greats finishing third overall in career 39.3 career percentage, and tied for sixth in treys made (129).

Andre Roberson also made his presence felt during his initial season setting the freshman rebounding (297) and blocked shot (42) records. Roberson also became the first freshman to lead any CU team in rebounds, steals (51), and blocks. The feat among the Big 12 was a rarity, as Roberson became only the fourth conference player to accomplish it.

The 2011-12 season welcomed a new addition to the Events Center since the building first opened in 1979. A basketball and volleyball practice facility located adjacent to the north side of Events Center. The facility is 43,000 square feet of space featuring two basketball/volleyball courts; women's basketball locker rooms; and volleyball coaches' offices costing $10.8 million, funded from private funds.

It was nine years since CU last danced in the NCAA Tournament and in one of the greatest seasons ever, then-second year head coach Tad Boyle equaled the previous season's win total (24), advanced to the NCAA Tourney third round, and won the inaugural Pac-12 Tournament championship by winning four games in four days as the No. 6 seed.

The conference regular season had its ups and downs where at one point, CU could have ended the season as the number one or two seed in the tournament. However, losing three of its last four games and dropping to the No. 6 overall seed, the Buffs overcame No. 11 seed Utah, 53-41 on the opening night at the Staples Center in Los Angeles.

On the day two CU edged No. 3 seed Oregon, 63-62. In the semifinals, CU took care of No. 2 Cal, 70-59 on 59.1 percent shooting from the field in the second half. Senior guard Carlon Brown breakaway windmill dunk served as an exclamation point in the final minute of CU's victory. The play was No. 4 on SportsCenter's Top 10 plays of the day.

In the finals, the Buffs held on again for another upset, edging No. 4 seed Arizona, 53-51 after leading the Wildcats by 12 points in the second half. CU scored only three points in the last nine minutes of the game, however, Brown had a highlight reel dunk in the final minute, snapping a streak of 8:19 without a field goal. CU became the first team to win four games in Pac-12 Conference Tournament history, and just the 10th team from the "big six" conferences to do so since 1952. At the NCAA Tournament, the Buffs, seeded No. 11 upset No. 6 and No. 23/25 ranked UNLV in the first round, then fell to No. 3 Baylor, 80-63, two days later.

Brown was named the tournament's most outstanding player, in addition being named to the all-tournament. Andre Roberson also earned all-tournament team had a superb sophomore year becoming the first CU player to average a double-double for the entire season (11.6 ppg., 11.1 rpg.) since Stephane Pelle (2001-02; 12.8 ppg., 10.8 rpg.). Roberson also became the 12th player in school history to lead the team in rebounding in back-to-back seasons, and just the third CU player to lead the team in rebounds, blocks, and steals in the same season, duplicating that feat during his freshman season.

In addition, Roberson set the single-season rebounding record (401) breaking a 58-year old record (Burdette Haldorson, 1954-55); set the single-season defensive rebounding record (290) breaking the 225 by Shaun Vandiver (1989-90), 23 years prior; and shattered sophomore season record for most rebounds, topping the old mark of 337 (Cliff Meely in 1968-69).

Roberson ranked third nationally in rebounds per game, and his 11.1 average was the program's highest since Alex Stivrins in 1984-85 (11.7 rpg). Roberson finished the season with 20 double-doubles, fifth nationally and was No. 54 nationally in blocked shots (1.86).

Attendance records also set a brand new high standard as the men's basketball team was the best ticket in town setting a number of school records, including seven sellouts; 12 of 15 home games exceeded 10,000 fans or better, in addition to season total (155,884); season average (10,392); conference total (94,371); conference average (10,486); and non-conference total (61,513).

In year two of the conference, Roberson (first team, defensive player of the year, all-defensive team); Dinwiddie (first team) and Josh Scott (all-freshman team) all earned post-season accolades.

Although the 2012-13 season did not capture the exciting moments of another Pac-12 Tournament championship, the Buffs did see another exciting year ranking No. 1 in Pac-12 Conference-only defense (62.2 ppg.); No. 1 in Pac-12 Conference Team (all games); 3-Point Defense (32.0). They also defeated four ranked opponents, a first since 2002-03 and won three-straight road conference games for the first time since 2000-01.

The 2011-12 and 2012-13 seasons marked back-to-back NCAA Tournament berths for the first time in 50 years. The Buffaloes have reached unprecedented heights in the win column. CU won a school record 24 games in both 2010-11 and 2011-12, with another 21 victories in 2012-13. The 69 wins were the most in any three-year span in school history.

In 2013-14, the Buffaloes produced another banner year for the program by being seeded eighth at the NCAA Tournament, the highest seed since being the number nine in the 1997 tournament. The 23 victories were the third-most in school history and the Buffaloes' third place Pac-12 finish was the program's best in 18 years.

Attendance records fell once again as the Buffaloes drew 173,429 overall and 84,133 during the nonconference schedule.

For the first time in program history the men's basketball team had seen four-straight seasons where conference attendance exceeded 9,000 fans per game while overall season attendance reached 124,000 each year.

Josh Scott was named All-Pac-12 first team; Askia Booker was an All-Pac-12 honorable mention; and Wesley Gordon an honorable mention on All-Freshman team. Wesley Gordon finished with 41 blocks, the second-most by a freshman.

The 2014-15 season was dominated by close games and a number of injuries to key players, as the Buffaloes ended the season with a disappointing 16-18 record. In games decided by nine points or less, CU went 7-10 overall compared to an astounding 15-2 during the 2013-14 season. However, it was also the fifth straight season the Buffaloes went to a post-season tournament, a quarterfinal appearance in the College Basketball Invitational (CBI).

Colorado recorded its ninth 20-win season in 2015-16, and fifth in six years while also advancing to the program's 14th NCAA Tournament. The Buffaloes won 21 regular season games, tying a school record, before finishing off the campaign at 22-12.

Colorado made its school-record seventh straight postseason appearance in 2016-17, earning a berth in the NIT.

Entering the 2017-18 season, the Colorado men's basketball program boasts a record of 1,277-1,182 (.519) in 116 years of basketball being played with the 1942-44 seasons not played due to World War II.

Cory Higgins

ESPN COLLEGE GAMEDAY

ESPN's basketball rendition of College GameDay, in existence for a decade, made its first appearance at the University of Colorado, February 22, 2014.

The telecast from the Coors Events Center was a spectacle from start to finish, with the C-Unit making its presence more than apparent to the national TV audience.

For over two hours, the collective body of CU students — dubbed the C-Unit in 2004 — brought energy, costumes, and witty signs to the GameDay party as a way to kick off the day's national basketball schedule. The lead attraction was Saturday night's Pac-12 Conference game matching CU against No. 4 Arizona.

GameDay was hosted by Rece Davis and featured insights from former Notre Dame head coach Digger Phelps and former Duke star Jay Williams.

After the morning event, Davis spoke with CU athletic director Rick George and told him the "environment and the enthusiasm was right up there with the best that they have seen" for GameDay. "The crowd was attentive, they were into it, they listened to what we were saying on the show and responded accordingly," Davis said. "CU put on a great show."

Students began lining up outside the Events Center, Friday at 11 p.m. and by 5:45 a.m. Saturday there was about 300 students clamoring for their chance to be on national TV. Conditions weren't ideal (high winds and low temperatures), but that wasn't going to stop any crazed fans.

The event goes beyond students showing off their creative humor and asking parents for money via home-made signs; it provides the university a stage to tell the rest of the country what CU is all about — and the school did that Saturday.

Colorado coach Tad Boyle is also hoping to use the exposure for his own recruiting purposes as he seeks to build a national power in Boulder.

Boyle had previously said that being selected to host GameDay was, "a testament to our players, a testament to our fans, a testament to our coaches and how far this program has come."

It's no coincidence that GameDay chose to come to Boulder when the Buffaloes host the nation's fourth-ranked team. However, Saturday's event was more about CU basketball and the atmosphere that has developed at the Coors Events Center during the Boyle regime.

Arizona hosted its first GameDay event on January 28, 2012, and according to Bruce Pascoe of the Arizona Daily Star, the turnout Colorado received was comparable — if not better — than that of the Wildcats, who boast four Final Four appearances and one national championship.

Colorado is proving that its fan support belongs with some of the best in the nation and hopes to prove that its level of play belongs in the same category.

Reflecting on the days when the average attendance at the Coors Events Center was about 3,000 — compared to the nearly 10,000 this season — GameDay being on campus is a culmination of everything we could have ever envisioned when we first moved the C-Unit to behind the basket where they stand today.

"Our students showed themselves well, and their enthusiasm to be out here at six in the morning says a lot about our fans," George said. "It was awesome, you can't measure this kind of exposure."

PAC-12 TOURNAMENT CHAMPIONS

LOS ANGELES - Dust off those dancing shoes, Buffs fans. Pac-12 hoops, who's your Taddy?

The improbable, unflappable, and in the very end undeniable Colorado Buffaloes made history, outlasting Arizona 53-51 at the Staples Center to win the Pac-12 Conference tournament championship in their debut season in the expanded league.

CU is a conference tournament champion for the first time in program history and in the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 2003 after earning the Pac-12's automatic berth.

A season after being denied an NCAA Tournament berth and losing 75 percent of his offense, CU coach Tad Boyle reloaded as best he could and hoped for the best. But Boyle constructed his second season in Boulder with more determination than dreams, ultimately squeezing and coaxing every ounce of effort out of the Buffs during a taxing four-day Pac-12 run that followed a dismaying regular-season finish.

Losing three of its final four games, CU dropped from regular-season title contenders to a sixth tournament seed. No problem; rising up in L.A. was the Buffs' mission. They did it in grand - if gut-wrenching - style, and they did it the hard way, winning four games in four days.

CU (23-11) almost squandered a 12-point lead, scoring only three points in the last 9 minutes but still denying No. 4 seed Arizona (23-11) in its comeback attempt.

"Saying I'm proud of these guys is the biggest understatement I've ever made," Boyle said. "If you believe in destiny, you believe in the Colorado Buffaloes."

Freshman Spencer Dinwiddie led CU with 14 points, and senior Carlton Brown - the Buffs leading scorer in the tournament - added 13, including a dunk in the final minute that was his team's last field goal. Sophomore Andre Roberson submitted his third double-double (10 points, 11 rebounds) in four tournament games.

Brown was named the tournament MVP, highlighting a two-week run that saw him hit lows, highs and finish as high as he's ever been.

Said Boyle on Brown: "I think what you saw out of Carlton these last four games is he's a guy who put this team on his shoulders. He's been more vocal than he's been all year in timeouts, in huddles, on the floor, encouraging his teammates . . . (He) deserves the MVP of this tournament because he was big when we needed him to be big."

Brown, the only member of the CU roster to play in the NCAA Tournament (with Utah), said the late-season scoring slump he encountered finally was put behind him: "I just tried to put everything in the past, knowing I had this opportunity to be aggressive and play in this tournament . . . I just let everything go."

Roberson also was named to the all-tournament team, joining Jared Cunningham (Oregon State), Kyle Fogg (Arizona), Solomon Hill (Arizona) and Jesse Perry (Arizona). That trio led the Wildcats in scoring Saturday - Fogg with 14, Hill with 13 and Perry with 11.

Arizona coach Sean Miller was effusive in congratulating CU and Boyle: "I want to say the job that Tad Boyle has done at Colorado and what Colorado represents to the future of the Pac-12, I can make the argument that there's been no greater gift to college basketball in the Pac-12 than adding Colorado."

Miller said whoever draws CU in the NCAA Tournament "is running into a hungry, well-coached, disciplined team. I really believe that's the story of today. They beat us. They were the better team."

CU had 8- to 10-point cushions in the final 10 minutes of the previous two games and held on - barely against Oregon, handily against Cal. But could the Buffs stay composed in their biggest tournament game thus far?

Some doubt surfaced when Arizona scored five straight and cut its deficit to 50-43 on one of two free throws by Perry with 5:29 remaining. And no nerves were calmed when Tomlinson and Askia Booker both misfired badly on consecutive possessions from the same spot in the left corner.

The Wildcats capitalized on those botched trips with a layup by Hill to cap a 7-0 run and close to 50-45 with 4 minutes remaining. At the 1:41 mark, without a field goal in almost 8 minutes and seven consecutive missed shots, Boyle called a timeout.

It might not have been what Boyle had drawn up, but Roberson drove to the basket as the shot clock wound down and was fouled with 1:23 showing. He hit one of two, sending CU up 51-46.

At the other end, 22 seconds later, Perry sank two free throws, but Brown drove the lane and countered with a thunderous dunk to push the Buffs ahead 53-47 with 49 seconds to play.

CU's first trip to the NCAA Tournament in nine seasons appeared all but booked . . . but not quite. Fogg's pair of free throws at 34.5 cut CU's lead to 53-49, and Hill also converted at the other end to make the score 53-51.

Dufault, who let a pass from Tomlinson bound away from him for a turnover, also missed a pair of free throws with 14.4 to play.

"It would have been nice if we had ended the game smoother . . . if I could have knocked down a couple of free throws or caught that pass," Dufault said.

Arizona had a final chance, but Fogg's tightly contested shot with 1.4 seconds left was badly off to the left.

Continued Dufault: "We went down to the other end, and once again we just dug in defensively and got a stop."

It was done . . . CU in the Big Dance.

The season included an 11-game win streak during the nonconference schedule.

The Buffaloes' NCAA RPI on Selection Sunday was 35. The Pac-12, had a phenomenal season as a whole, had six teams ranked in the top 50 and 10 in the top 100. Colorado was 9-10 against NCAA RPI top 100 teams during the regular season and 4-8 against the top 50. The Pac-12 advanced seven teams to the NCAA Tournament.

Colorado led the Pac-12 in free throw percentage (.734), 3-point percentage (.398), overall rebounding (42.1 rpg) and defensive boards (29.0 drpg) while ranking second in rebounding margin (+8.6) and offensive rebounds (13.1 orgp) and fourth in 3-pointers made (7.4 3mpg).

Senior forward Josh Scott was named to the 2016 All-Pac-12 first team while sophomore wing George King was named the Pac-12's Most Improved Player of the Year.

2013-14

The Buffaloes earned their third straight NCAA Tournament bid with an eighth seed in the South Region played in Orlando. It was CU's highest NCAA Tourney seed since the 1997 when they were ninth in the East Region. The Buffaloes won 23 games, the third most victories in school history, in fact, it was the fourth straight season CU won at least 20 or more games in a season (a school record). The team won 10-straight games during November and most of December, tying for the fourth longest streak in school history. CU was nationally ranked for six straight weeks in the AP Poll (5-straight in the Coaches' Poll) reaching its peak at No. 15 with a 14-2 record. With a 3-0 Pac-12 record, junior guard Spencer Dinwiddie suffered a season-ending ACL injury to his left knee at Washington on Jan. 12. From there, the Buffs closed the season with a 9-9 record, however still defended their home court winning five of seven games. They still managed to reach the Pac-12 Tournament semifinals and finished the conference season with a 10-8 record, tying four other schools for third place. It was CU's highest conference finish in 18 years. The faithful Buff Nation reached a record number who attended games at Coors Events Center with a school-best 173,429 spectators over the 18 home games, and of the nine non-conference home games, another school-best of 84,133 fans were in attendance.

2012-13

The defending Pac-12 Tournament champions won their first six games of the season en route to being nationally ranked for the first time since the 2005-06 campaign. CU made the national tournament for the second straight season, a school-first in 50 years (since Sox Walseth). Head Coach Tad Boyle and his staff won 21 games, the third-straight season over 20 wins (a school-first) and the 69 victories over the last three years, are the most in any three-year span. The Buffs finished fifth in the conference standings and earned an at-large seed at No. 10 in the East Region falling to No. 7 Illinois, 57-49 in Austin, Texas. Andre Roberson was named Pac-12 Defensive Player of the Year as well as a first team selection. Spencer Dinwiddie led the Buffs in scoring, assists and free throw shooting, was also named to the conference first team, while Josh Scott was named to the freshman team. The fifth place conference finish was the first time since the Cliff Meely era (1968-71), the Buffs finished fifth or better in three straight years. The Buffs also set a number of attendance records including seven sellouts, 12 of 15 home games exceeding 10,000 fans, in addition to season total (155,884); season average (10,392); conference total (94,371); conference average (10,486). Over the last three years, there have been 16 sellouts with 13 wins. The Buffs would finish second Pac-12 attendance average (all games) and third in conference-only games.

2011-12

It was nine years since CU last danced in the NCAA Tournament and in one of the greatest seasons ever, second year head coach Tad Boyle equaled the previous season's win total (24), advanced to the NCAA Tourney second round, and won the inaugural Pac-12 Tournament championship by winning four games in four days as the No. 6 seed. The conference regular season had its ups and downs where at one point, CU could have ended the season as the number one or two seed in the tournament. However, losing three of its last four games and dropping to the No. 6 overall seed, the Buffs overcame No. 11 seed Utah, 53-41 on 34.9 percent shooting on the opening night at the Staples Center in Los Angeles. On the day two and against No. 3 seed Oregon, CU edged the Ducks, 63-62 for the second time in three meetings this season. A put-back field goal by sophomore forward Andre Roberson with 13 seconds remaining and a defensive stand by senior point guard Nate Tomlinson proved to be the difference in the one point win. In the semifinals, CU took care of No. 2 Cal, 70-59 on 59.1 percent shooting from the field in the second half. Senior guard Carlton Brown breakaway windmill dunk served as an exclamation point in the final minute of CU's victory. The play was No. 4 on SportsCenter's Top 10 plays of the day. In the finals, the Buffs held on again for another upset, edging No. 4 seed Arizona, 53-51 after leading the Wildcats by 12 points in the second half. CU scored only three points in the last nine minutes of the game, however, Brown had a highlight reel dunk in the final minute, snapping a streak of 8:19 without a field goal. CU became the first team to win four games in Pac-12 Conference Tournament history, and just the 10th team from the "Big Six" conferences to do so since 1952. At the NCAA Tournament, the Buffs, seeded No. 11 upset No. 6 UNLV in the first round, then fell to No. 3 Baylor, 80-63, two days later.

2002-03

The 2002-03 season was one of the most successful campaigns in Colorado history. Standards were set high as the team returned five of their top six scorers from a year ago. Rarely in athletic competition can a team live up to the expectations of the media, and the fans; but the Buffs were able to not only meet expectations, but surpass them. CU finished the season 20-12, the third time in school history that a 20 win season had been accomplished. That included a nearly perfect record at home, as they went 14-1 on Sox Walseth Court. The game of the year came on January 22nd when the Buffs were able to topple the #6 ranked Kansas Jayhawks; a feat not accomplished since 1991. Sophomore David Harrison had a breakout year, setting several school records. Harrison broke, and then re-broke the record for blocked shots in a game when he recorded 10 against Stetson, and then 11 at home against Nebraska. Harrison also added two triple-doubles that year against Stetson and Nebraska.

1996-97

The Buffs were back. Not since the late 1960s had CU basketball made the NCAA Tournament, or had an AP top 25 ranking. Both of those droughts ended during the season, as Colorado made it back to the big dance. Led by sophomore phenom Chauncey Billups, the Buffs stormed to a 22-10 record. Conference play did not change their winning ways, as they went 11-5 in the Big 12. The 22 wins, along with their 11 Big 12 victories each are school records. With their stellar record, break into the AP Poll for the first time since 1968-69 at #24. The season was highlighted by two upsets, as the Buffs were able to defeat #20 ranked Texas Tech, and then exactly one week later topple the #8 ranked Cyclones of Iowa State. Billups turned in one of the best seasons ever by a Buffalo. He finished the season with 555 total points, the first time a sophomore had scored that many points since Cliff Meely put up 667 points during the '68-'69 season. Electing for the NBA Draft, Billups left Colorado after his sophomore year, but not after becoming the 23rd all time scorer in school history in just two years.

1968-69

Coming off an uninspiring 9-16 overall record the previous year, Colorado was looking for a way to get the program back on track. A 3-11 conference record had coach Sox Walseth reeling. The Buffs were in need of a spark plug; and they found it in Cliff Meely. Never in school history had a first-year player given the program a jolt in the way Meely was able to do in the 1968-69 season. The Buffs tore through the season, finishing with a 21-7 mark and an 11-4 conference schedule. That record included a perfect 11-0 at home. The 21 wins were a school record that would stand for 27 years. Colorado earned a #18 national ranking for its success, the first time the Buffs were able to crack the top 25 since 1963. Meely finished the season with 667 points, the most ever by a sophomore and fourth overall. His ability to score was complimented by superb rebounding. Meely finished the '68-'69 campaign with 337 rebounds. This mark is also the most by any sophomore, and ranks second all time in CU history.

1962-63

The 1962-63 season opened with all eyes on the Buffs. Coming off an impressive 19-win campaign and NCAA Tournament berth the year before, Colorado was receiving national attention. Coach Sox Walseth knew his team was under the microscope from the very beginning. Some critics thought a team who was not used to being in the spotlight would crumble under the pressure; these Buffaloes proved them wrong. CU stormed through the season, accumulating a 19-7 record while going 11-3 in conference play. It was the second year in a row that Colorado had gone 19-7 overall. A perfect home record and a #10 national ranking helped to keep Boulder in a basketball induced frenzy. The previous year had ended with CU having 499 wins as a program, and they seized first opportunity they had during the '62-'63 campaign to reach that 500-win milestone. CU defeated Wichita State 79-69 in double overtime on Dec. 3, 1962, for the 500th win in program history. Senior Ken Charlton paced the Buffs in scoring for the season. En route to an All-American selection, the fifth in CU's history, Charlton put up 514 points and 214 rebounds. His point total was well above the rest of the team, outpacing the second best scorer, Jim Davis, by 154 points.

1961-62

A 19-win season was something the Colorado Buffaloes had seen only once in their history. The last time they won 19 games (in 1955), was the last time CU received a bid to play in the NCAA Tournament. With that goal in their heads, Sox Walseth and his Buffs marched to a 19-7 record, and a near perfect 13-1 mark in conference play. The #9 ranked Buffaloes finished the regular season on a torrid pace, winning 14 of their 15 final games. The one loss was their one conference loss as well, falling at Kansas State. That span included a 12-game winning streak, as CU decimated their Big Eight opponents. Colorado finished the season at #9 in the AP Poll, its highest-ever final ranking. Colorado scorers were paced by junior forward Ken Charlton, who finished the season with 498 points and 216 rebounds. Charlton was the only member of the team to record 400 points and 200 rebounds. One of the great storylines of the season was the play of senior forward Wilky Gilmore. Gilmore was the only member of the team to play in all 26 contests, as he accumulated 330 points and 163 rebounds. Gilmore left the program as the second all time leading scorer in CU history with 1026 career points.

1954-55 FINAL FOUR

It was a season of firsts for the Buffaloes. The year marked the first time in school history the Buffs were offered an invitation to the NCAA Tournament. Once they arrived, the success they had during the big dance is unmatched in school history to this day. Advancing to the national semifinals, they were eventually defeated by San Francisco. CU won the consolation game two days later, to finish third, the Buffaloes' highest NCAA finish. The season also saw the first time Colorado could put the number 19 in the win column. They finished with a 19-6 overall record, going 11-1 in conference play. The season opened with a bang, as CU set a school scoring record as they took down Brigham Young by a score of 88-66. Colorado had an amazing winning streak during the season, capturing 15 of 16 games spanning from December to March. Colorado was ranked #15 in the final AP Poll. The '54-'55 Buffs were blessed to have the single most dominating rebounder in the history of Colorado. Senior Burdette Haldorson tore apart record after record, many of which are still standing today. His accomplishments were highlighted by a 21-rebound effort against Oklahoma, and later a 22-rebound game against Nebraska. His season mark of 346 rebounds is still the school record, as his single season rebounds/game average. He also knew how to put the ball in the basket; his 1125 career points was the best in school history when he left.

1953-54

Under the direction of coach H.B. Lee, the Buffs finished the season with a less than stellar 10-10 regular season mark. It was their inspired 10-2 Big Seven record, however, that helped the Buffs reach the NCAA Tournament for the fourth time in school history. Colorado started its season by losing seven in a row. Fans and the media had already stuck the proverbial fork in the Buffs' season. After a loss at home to Iowa State though, a fire was lit under the Buffs, and they went flying to finish out the season. They won 11 of their next 13 games to storm back into tournament contention. That win streak was highlighted by a home win against the defending champion Kansas Jayhawks, along with road wins against contenders Iowa State, Nebraska, and Oklahoma. At season's end, the impressive winning streak was not enough to ensure an NCAA berth. The selection was eventually made when Colorado's name was literally pulled out of a hat. Talk about luck of the draw. CU was paced by junior center Burdette Haldorson. The 6'7 center led the team with 367 points and 199 rebounds. At the time, Haldorson's average of nine rebounds per game tied him for the all time high with Frank Gompert.

1945-46

One of the youngest CU teams to ever make the NCAA Tournament came in the 1945-46 season. The Buffs did not have one senior to help coach Forrest Cox direct the untested youth. Thankfully for Coach Cox, and for Buffs fans, they didn't need one. Colorado battled their way to a 12-6 overall record, and a 9-3 Mountain States Conference record. The season was highlighted by a five-game win streak during the heart of the schedule. During that span they were able to defeat conference foes Denver, Colorado State, Utah, and Brigham Young. The inexperienced Buffs were lead by center Hank Knocke. The sophomore transfer exploded out of the gates: scoring 49 points in his first four games as a Buffalo. With a sturdy 6-4 frame, Knocke was able to control the area under the basket, and maintain CU's distinction as a force to be reckoned with. Knocke's season was highlighted by two 26-point efforts; once against Utah State, and again just two weeks later against Denver. At the time, those stood as the third and fourth all-time, single-game scoring records. The Buffs ended their season with an NCAA Regional consolation game victory over Baylor.

1941-42 FINAL FOUR

Very little could stop Colorado in its march toward its second NCAA Tournament appearance. The Buffs decimated their competition, going 15-1 in the regular season. Behind the direction of head coach Forrest B. Cox, CU's explosive attack and stingy defensive work won them their first 14 games. The Buffs finally lost their first game of the season on March 3, a 40-39 loss to conference foe Wyoming. A perfect 6-0 home record had the fans in Boulder excited; and their 9-1 away record had the rest of the nation trembling. Colorado would eventually finish their season 16-2, as they took down Kansas in the NCAA Western Region semifinals. They would later bow out to Stanford in the regional finals. Their stellar play helped the Buffs capture their fourth Mountain States Conference title in five years. Two All-American players helped to pace CU during this dominating season: Robert Doll and Leason McCloud. Doll was the big play man for the Buffs. His imposing presence down in the paint allowed him to out rebound all of his opponents. He would later go on to play for the Boston Celtics in the NBA. Doll was supplemented by the stellar play of McCloud. The leading scorer on the team, McCloud was seen by coach Cox as the Buffs "go to guy." McCloud's inspired 19-point performance was the turning factor in Colorado's first round victory against Kansas.

1939-40 NCAA and NIT

Coming off of an impressive NIT championship, Colorado was invited to play in the NCAA Tournament for the first time in school history. Under the direction of coach Forrest Cox, the Buffs had compiled an impressive 17-2 record previous to the NCAA Tournament. This included a near perfect 11-1 record in conference play, a flawless 8-0 home performance, and a mid-season 12-game winning streak. Although CU had to bow out after the first round of the tournament, they did not end the season without some hardware to show. They had earlier defeated Duquesne University for the NIT championship. A 52-37 romping of the University of Denver had given the Buffs their third-straight Mountain States Conference title. Colorado was lead by Jack Harvey: a two time All-American selection. Over a two year span, CU went 31-8 with Harvey wearing the silver and gold. Harvey was a dominating presence in the defensive end of the court; as well as being the catalyst in an explosive fast break offense.

NIT TEAMS

2016-17

Colorado made its school-record seventh-straight postseason appearance after a seventh place finish in the Pac-12 Conference. The Buffaloes rebounded from an 0-7 start to their league season to win nine of 13 down the stretch to claim their 10th NIT invite. Colorado had its share of big moments throughout the season. The Buffaloes won three games against ranked opponents, including a 74-65 triumph over No. 10/10 Oregon at the Coors Events Center; a Ducks team that would eventually reach the Final Four. Colorado also took down No. 22/21 Texas in Brooklyn and topped No. 13/14 Xavier during the nonconference schedule. Senior guard Derrick White had one of the finest seasons by an individual in a Buffaloes uniform. White earned All-Pac-12 first team and All-District honors averaging 18.1 points, 4.1 rebounds and 4.4 assists per game. He joined Shaun Vandiver as the only CU players to score 30 or more points twice in a single postseason. White had 31 points in the Pac-12 quarterfinals vs. Arizona and then would score 30 in CU's NIT opening round loss at UCF. A former Division II All-American at UCCS, White catapulted into the national spotlight during his one year at Colorado and was selected 29th overall in the 2017 NBA Draft by the San Antonio Spurs.

2010-11

In Tad Boyle's first season as Colorado's head coach, the Buffs won a school-record 24 games (14 losses) in reaching the NIT semifinals at Madison Square Garden. Considered by most analysts to have been the NCAA Tournament's biggest snub, CU made the most of their NIT appearance by winning three-straight games before ultimately falling to Alabama in the semis. Led by senior Cory Higgins, who tied Richard Roby for CU's all-time career scoring title (2,001 points), and All-Big 12 unanimous first team selection Alec Burks, the Buffs boasted a potent offensive attack that ranked 12th nationally in scoring (79.6 ppg) and fifth nationally in free throw percentage (77.8 percent). Burks set a CU record for most points in a season with 779, surpassing Cliff Meely's mark that stood for 40 years. The season marked the first time that the Buffs had six players record over 100 made field goals in a season (Burks 251, Higgins 200, Levi Knutson 158, Marcus Relphorde 148, Austin Dufault 104, Andre Roberson 101). Roberson set a CU freshmen record by recording 297 rebounds for the season, and also became the first freshman in school history to lead the team in rebounds, steals (51) and blocks (42). Knutson was honored with the co-Big 12 Sixth Man of the Year Award.

2005-06

Led by a veteran roster of 10 seniors and an All-Big 12 first team selection, in sophomore Richard Roby, the Buffs tallied a 20-10 overall record to earn the school's eighth NIT berth. Coach Ricardo Patton's club ran off to one of the best starts in the program's history, with a 10-1 record before conference play. The season marked the first time three players had made over 50 3-pointers in a season (Roby 63, Andy Osborn 53, Chris Copeland 50). CU became nationally ranked for the first time since the 1996-97 season, coming in at No. 25 team in the country by the USA Today/Coaches' Poll for two straight weeks (Jan. 30-Feb. 12), and tied the school record for home wins in a season, with 14.

2003-04

Colorado won 18 games for the fifth time under coach Ricardo Patton, including 10 in conference play, the most since recording 11 back in the 1996-97 season, and earned a number four seed in the Big 12 Tournament in Dallas. The trio of David Harrison, Blair Wilson, and Michel Morandais each surpassed the 1,000 points in a career mark, en route to the Buffaloes' third NIT berth during Patton's eight years as head coach. Harrison would break the CU record for blocks in a career with a three-block performance against Utah. Harrison went on to block 85 shots during the season and after only three years in a CU uniform, would hold every blocked shot record category. Wilson also broke a bundle of records during the season, as the senior made six treys in a game against Iowa State to break or tie four school records, most notably the school record for career 3-pointers. The Buffaloes ended the year with a first round loss at Oregon, 77-72, in overtime.

The Buffaloes marched out to an 11-5 pre-conference record to start out the 1999-2000 season, led by senior guard Jaquay Walls' 17-point scoring average and Jamahl Mosley and Stephane Pelle's control of the point, with 7.1 and 6.9 rebounds per game, respectively. On Dec. 3 in Hawaii's Rainbow Classic, Colorado defeated Gonzaga 81-77, making it the Buffs' third-straight victory over 1999 NCAA Tournament teams. In what many CU fans believe to be the best game at the Coors Events Center, CU came from behind to defeat Iowa State 102-90 in overtime. Walls scored a NCAA-record 15 points in the overtime, on his way to an astounding 42-point performance. At regular season's end the Buffs were invited to play in the NIT, only to fall in the first round to Southern Illinois 94-92. The invitation marked the third time in four years the Buffs had played in post-season tournaments.

Colorado opened the 1998-99 campaign 9-3, where it would see five Buffs average double digits in scoring over the season. By the year's end, many Colorado players had established themselves as some of the elite in the Big 12. Junior Jaquay Walls was named to the All-Big 12 All-Underrated Team, as well as earning All-Big 12 Honorable Mention status. Senior guard Kenny Price was named to the All-Big 12 Third team, while also ranking third in the conference in points per game. Price's nine three-pointers in a Big 12 second round game against Texas would set a single game record, breaking his mark of eight from the year before. With his nine treys, Price would bring his total for the year to 97, the highest single-season total in CU history. In March, Colorado was selected to the NIT, marking the second time in three years that the Buffs made a post-season appearance. CU defeated first round opponent Pepperdine 65-61 in the tournament's opening round, before losing to intrastate rival Colorado State 76-86 in the second round.

Colorado started off the 1994-95 season with a 10-3 record, including a convincing win of the Mile High Classic. The Buffs beat Eastern Washington and Hofstra by a combined 39 points for CU's fifth consecutive victory of their home tournament. On Jan. 7 in Boulder, the Buffs ended their 16-game losing streak against ranked teams, when they defeated No. 16 Iowa State 71-57, forcing a school record 31 turnovers by the opponent. After throwing down a fast break dunk, senior guard Donnie Boyce surpassed Cliff Meely (1967-71) to become Colorado's all-time leading scorer, finishing his illustrious career with 1,995 points. Boyce remains the only Colorado player to lead his team in scoring for four consecutive years. On Jan. 17 against Texas-San Antonio, senior Ted Allen blocked five shots to become CU's all-time leader in blocks, finishing with 53 on the year. At the season's end, Colorado qualified for the NIT, for only the second invitation to post-season play in 25 years and the first since the 1990-91 season. The Buffs finished the year with an above .500 winning percentage, for the first time since coach Joe Harrington's debut season with the team.

1990-91

The inside-outside combination of Shaun Vandiver and Steve Wise led the way for the Buffaloes in the 1990-91 season, where the duo combined for an average 41 points per game. The Buffs scored a school record 124 points, twice, in pre-conference match-ups against Central Connecticut State and Tennessee State, both ending in CU victories. Colorado ended a 22-year post-season drought by receiving an invitation to play in the NIT. The Buffaloes beat Michigan (71-64), Wyoming (83-75), Arkansas State (81-75), and Massachusetts (98-91) en route to a third place finish. Vandiver finished the year averaging 21.2 points and 10 rebounds per game, which was good enough to earn the senior center first team All-Big Eight honors, and a spot on the NIT All-Tournament team. Colorado finished the season with a 19-14 record, the team's best in 21 seasons.

1939-40

The 1939-40 edition of the Buffaloes tallied one of the best records in school history, finishing the year at 17-4. The team, led by coach Forrest Cox, dominated the Mountain States Conference with a conference record of 11-1, the sole loss coming from Utah State 31-29. Colorado qualified for the 1940 NIT in New York City, beating DePaul 52-37 and Duquesne 51-40. The Buffaloes then went on to participate in the NCAA Tournament, losing close games to Southern California (32-38) and Rice (60-56 OT). Colorado was the first team, and one of a select few, to play in both the NIT and NCAA tournaments in the same year.

1937-38

The Colorado men's basketball program earned its first postseason berth in the 1937-38 season, under the direction of third-year head coach Forrest Cox, in which the Buffs went undefeated at home during the season. 1938 featured the debut of the Mountain States Conference, in which the Buffaloes stacked up a record of 10-2 in conference play. Colorado went on to the NIT in New York City, where the Buffs edged out New York University 48-47 in their first game, before succumbing to Temple University by a score of 60-34, turning in a 15-6 record on the season.

Balch Fieldhouse was the home floor for the Buffaloes during the 1937-38 season.

Members on the team were Byron "Whiz" White, Jim Schwartz, Jack Harvey, Jim Willcoxon, Don Hendricks, Don Thurman, Jim Hickey, John Ravenscroft, Mark Saunders, Gene Grove, Charlie Hikes, Don Sidwell.

He was named to the Pac-12's 2017 All-Conference First Team, All-Defensive Team and All-Tournament Team. He was also selected to the USBWA All-District VIII First Team and NABC All-District 20 Second Team. On the Pac-12 leaderboard, White ranked third in scoring, fifth in free throw percentage, sixth in assists, seventh in blocks (1.4 bpg), 10th in assist-to-turnover ratio (1.8), 14th in 3-point percentage (.396) and steals and 15th in field goal percentage. White was one of two players, joining the 2017 No. 1 overall pick Markelle Fultz, to rank in the Pac-12 Top 10 in scoring, assists and blocked shots. White was the league's second-leading scorer during the conference season at 18.5 points an outing. He had 14 games with at least 20 points, 11 of those coming against Pac-12 competition and included in that were three of his four 30-point outings. He's the ninth player with four or more 30 point games in a CU career and first with four in one season since Chauncey Billups in 1995-96. Following a memorable summer where he shined at the Portsmouth Invitational and NBA Combine, White was selected by the San Antonio Spurs in the first round with the 29th overall pick in the 2017 NBA Draft.

ALL-AMERICA SELECTIONS

Jack Harvey
1939 & 1940

In his back-to-back All-America campaigns, Jack Harvey led the Buffs to two conference championships and a trip to the NCAA Tournament in his senior season. During those two years, CU posted an amazing 31-8 mark and received recognition as the No. 1 team in the land. Known for his tough defense, Harvey proved to be key in numerous Buff victories. He was also an outstanding ball-handler for a big man and was a key component in the CU fast break. A solid All-Conference performer, Harvey is the only CU cager to be selected twice as an All-American

Robert Doll

Bob Doll was the big-play man for coach Frosty Cox's 1941-42 Big Seven Championship squad. Doll, along with fellow All-American Leason McCloud helped lead CU to a 16-2 record and the NCAA Western Tournament finals as a senior. He scored 168 points (9.4 ppg.) and was known as an outstanding rebounder and controlled the paint in many CU wins. He was also renowned for his shooting prowess, finishing second to McCloud in scoring. An unanimous All-Big Seven selection, Doll was selected to All-America teams by Look, Pic and Time magazines. He was also tabbed as MVP of New York's Metropolitan Tournament as a sophomore and was a huge factor in CU's three conference titles in a four-year span. After graduation, Doll went on to play for the Boston Celtics.

Jim Willcoxon

Known for his defense, Jim Willcoxon continued Coach Frosty Cox's tradition of talented cagers. Willcoxon helped anchor the 1937-38 and 1938-39 Big Seven Championship teams with tough play on the defensive end. He also led the Buffs to national prominence with strong showings on East Coast road trips. His hard-nosed style of play earned him both All-Big Seven and All-America honors as a senior.

Leason McCloud

The leading scorer for the 1942 Big Seven Champion Buffs, Leason McCloud was Coach Frosty Cox's "go-to guy." Known for his silky-smooth shot, McCloud was also a great passer and rebounder. McCloud was key in CU's NCAA Western Tournament semifinal win over Kansas, pacing the Buffs with 19 points. His play caught the attention of national media and he joined fellow Buff Bob Doll on the Look, Pic and Time magazines' All-America squads and was a unanimous All-Big Seven selection.

Burdette Haldorson 1955

Burdette Haldorson was virtually unstoppable in 1955. Prior to the season, Coach H.B. Lee said, "We'll be just as good as Haldorson. We need the big man to play well for us." And play well he did, leading CU to a conference championship and a third-place finish in the National Collegiate Tournament. The big man led the Big Seven in scoring at 23.9 points per game and set what still stands as a CU record with an amazing 346 boards on the year. For his efforts, the Amateur Athletic Union tabbed Haldorson a first-team All-American. Haldorson's talents were nationally recognized, as the standout was selected to the 1956 and 1960 U.S. Olympic teams. Upon graduation, Haldorson turned down a $7,000 contract with the NBA's St. Louis franchise. He did continue playing, however, and led amateur powerhouse Phillips 66 to a National Industrial Basketball League title. Haldorson joined Cliff Meely as the only two Buffs to have their jerseys retired in 1994, and was named to the CU Hall of Fame in 1999.

Ken Charlton 1963

Ranking No. 12 on CU's all-time scoring charts, Ken Charlton battled through a history of knee problems to lead Colorado to two Big Eight titles and in 1963, Charlton was named an All-American by the United States Basketball Writers Association and Look magazine. Along with his penchant for scoring, Charlton was also a force inside, ranking in the top 10 on the CU rebounding charts with 671 career caroms (No. 11 at CU). He also succeeded in the classroom and was named an Academic All-American in 1963 as well. Buff Coach Sox Walseth said of Charlton's play, "On a leg and a half, he's better than anyone else in the Big Eight." Charlton was elected to the CU Hall of Fame in 2010.

Cliff Meely 1971

In 1971, Cliff Meely was a scoring machine. He tallied a then-CU record 729 points and set a Big Eight record with 427 points in conference. Coach Sox Walseth said of Meely, "He is the most complete player I have ever coached." Known for his quickness and agility, Meely could play any position on the floor. He was named to several All-America teams as a junior and senior and played in numerous all-star games after graduation. Meely went on to play in over 300 games in the NBA for the Houston Rockets and the Los Angeles Lakers.

Chauncey Billups 1997

One of CU's top perimeter threats in hoops history, Chauncey Billups graced the CU campus for two seasons before departing for the NBA. As a sophomore in 1997, Billups was named a first-team All-American by Basketball News, becoming the eighth All-American in Colorado history. Known for his playmaking skills and ability to penetrate, Billups also led the Buffs to their first NCAA Tournament in over two decades, where CU topped perennial-power Indiana in the opening round. Billups went on to be the third pick in the NBA draft by the Boston Celtics. In 2004, Billups helped lead the Detroit Pistons to the NBA title, in addition was named The NBA Finals Most Valuable Player.

HALDORSON NAISMITH HALL OF FAME

Burdette "Burdie" Haldorson, one of the early stars in the history of the University of Colorado men's basketball program, was inducted along with his teammates from the 1960 United States Olympic team into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame. The 2010 class was inducted on August 13 in Springfield, Mass.

That 1960 team brought home the gold medal from Rome and also featured Jerry West (West Virginia), Oscar Robertson (Cincinnati), Jerry Lucas (Ohio State) and Walt Bellamy (Indiana). The 12-man squad cruised to an 8-0 record, the average winning margin a gaudy 42.4 points. The team beat Brazil, 90-63, to clinch the gold after disposing of the USSR (81-57) and host Italy (112-81) leading up to the gold medal contest.

The 1992 "Dream Team" also will be inducted, along with Karl Malone and Scottie Pippen, among others. The 1960 and 1992 squads are generally considered the top two men's basketball teams in U.S. Olympic history.

They will become the seventh and eighth teams that the Hall is inducting, the first Olympic ones, joining others that include the Harlem Globetrotters, the original Celtics, and the 1966 Texas Western team that shattered the race barrier when it beat Kentucky to win the NCAA title. Members of inducted teams go into the Hall as a full group, not as individuals.

"I don't really know that much about it yet, but it will be a real honor to go into the Hall with the group of players that was on that team," Haldorson said from his winter home in Scottsdale, Ariz. "There were 12 guys, and all but two of us went into the NBA. I was one of those two, and I had invitations to turn pro as well, but I was basically ending my career. Some of those guys were outright stars, and I really believe Jerry West and Oscar Robertson would be stars in the game today."

"I've run into Oscar and Jerry a few times, but we all really went our own directions, so most of us haven't really seen each other since we parted ways that summer," he added. "We've never had a reunion so we kind of lost track of each other, but I can't think of a better way to finally get us all together again."

Haldorson averaged 2.9 points and 4.3 rebounds per game on the '60 team, and also won a gold medal as a member of the '56 team, when he averaged 8.6 points per contest. With Haldorson as a team member, the United States went 16-0 in the two Olympic games.

Haldorson's uniform, No. 22, is one of just two retired basketball jerseys in CU history. He left quite an imprint in the school's basketball annals, and the 6-foot-7 Austin, Minn., native still holds four school rebounding records some five-plus decades after his CU playing days, including the most in a half (21), game (31) and season (346).

As a senior in 1954-55, he led the Buffs to the Big Seven Conference title by averaging 23.9 points per game, and was named a first-team All-American. CU eventually went on to finish third in the nation, losing in the Final Four to eventual champion San Francisco and the legendary Bill Russell.

He averaged 15.0 points and 9.5 rebounds for his CU career, and was the first of only eight players to this day to score at least 1,100 points and record 700 or more rebounds. He was inducted into CU's Athletic Hall of Fame in the school's second class in 1999; he previously had been inducted into the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame, the first with ties to CU's basketball programs, in 1977.

Haldorson went on to have a brilliant career in the National Industrial Basketball League as a member of the Phillips 66ers, the team entry for Phillips 66, who then hired him after his career. He then moved to Colorado Springs to form his own gas and oil distribution business. In October 2011, Haldorson was inducted into the 12th class of the Colorado Springs Hall of Fame at the Colorado Springs World Arena, and in March 2012, he was named to the Pac-12 Conference Men's Basketball Hall of Honor, recognizing former men's college basketball players and coaches who have made a significant impact to the tradition and heritage of the conference.

COLORADO ATHLETIC HALL OF FAME

CHAUNCEY BILLUPS

A first-team All-American and unanimous All-Big 12 performer as a sophomore in the 1996-97 season, he led the Buffaloes to a 22-10 record, including an 11-5 mark and a second place finish in the inaugural season of the Big 12, as well as their first NCAA Tournament appearance in 28 years ... In two seasons at Colorado before declaring for the NBA Draft, he averaged 18.5 points, 5.6 rebounds and 5.1 assists in 55 games played; he also connected on 120 three-point field goals and converted at 85.7 percent from the free throw line ... He averaged 19.1 points as a sophomore, and scored 24 in an 80-62 upset over Indiana and its legendary coach Bobby

Knight in the first round of the NCAA's ... In 1995-96, he set the school freshman records for points (465), scoring average (17.9) and assists (143), and was the second fastest player to score 500 points in a career, doing so in just 28 games (and is one of just two players to score 1,000 points in just two seasons in Boulder) ... The Boston Celtics made him the third pick overall in the 1997 NBA Draft, but would trade him to Toronto a little over halfway into the season ... Played 17 seasons in the NBA with seven teams (Boston, Toronto, Denver—twice, Minnesota, Detroit—twice, New York and the Los Angeles Clippers), but would rise to the ultimate stardom with Detroit, as he led the Pistons to the 2003-04 NBA title and would be named the Finals MVP ... In his second stint with the Nuggets, in 2009 he helped the team reach the Western Conference finals for just the third time in franchise history. ... A five-time All-Star, averaging 15.2 points, 5.4 assists and 2.9 rebounds per game, with his 89.4 free throw percentage the fifth-best in NBA history (his 38.7 percentage from three point range ranks 65th, but there's no ranking for game winning or clutch shots, as he would be even higher considering he earned the nickname "Mr. Big Shot") ... He retired prior to the 2014-15 season and lives full-time in his native Colorado ... One of just a handful of players to be named All-State four times as a prep at Denver's George Washington High School, and was named Colorado's "Mr. Basketball" three times ... He was on the North team that won the gold medal in the 1995 Olympic Sports Festival ... In 2013, he was inducted into the National High School Sports Hall of Fame (one of just four CU athletes to be honored, along with Byron White, Joe Romig and Bill Fanning), and in 2015, he was inducted into the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame, and in November 2015, the CU Hall of Fame.

DON BRANBY

Don Branby was one of the last three-sport lettermen in Colorado history, as he earned nine in all playing football, basketball and baseball ... His top honor was being named an Associated Press All American in football in 1952 ... A seventh round draft pick by the New York Giants in the 1953 Draft (the 79th player selected overall), he went on After his playing days, he went into coaching in college at Montana State, and then in the Canadian Football League with the British Columbia Lions and the Ottawa Roughriders ... In basketball, he scored 165 points in 45 career games in primarily a reserve role, though he led the Buffaloes in free throw percentage in 1951-52, making a then unheard of 39-of-48 tries (81.3%) ... In baseball, he played first base, third base and in the outfield; his 16 runs batted in were the third most on the team his senior year ... He also spent four years in the Air Force, playing service football in which he also earned high accolades.

KEN CHARLTON

Ken Charlton was a member of back-to-back Big 8 Conference titles and two straight NCAA tournament appearances under the late-Sox Walseth ... Often going out and scoring 20-plus points a day or two after having his knees drained of excess fluid, Charlton was CU's all-time leading scorer at the time of his graduation with 1,352 points in just three seasons ... Walseth often referred to him as, "the finest offensive player I ever coached." ... Thirteen on CU's all-time scoring chart, Charlton was named an All-American in 1963 by the United States Basketball Writers Association and Look magazine ... Two-time All-Big 8 Selection ... Along with his penchant for scoring, he was also a force inside, ranking in the top 10 on the CU rebounding charts with 671 career caroms (he's 15th today) ... He also succeeded in the classroom and was named a 1963 Academic All-American ... Charlton's 514 points scored during the 1961-62 season ranks 22nd today for most points tallied in a single season ... Owns a pair of 35-point efforts at Kansas (Jan. 5, 1963), and at Missouri (Mar. 5, 1962) that still rank among the top-20 scoring games in school history ... Walseth said of Charlton's play, "On a leg and a half, he's better than anyone else in the Big Eight." ... Inducted in the CU Hall of Fame in 1989.

FORREST "FROSTY" COX

The winningest men's basketball coach in CU history in terms of percentage ... Forrest B. "Frosty" Cox coached the Buffaloes to a 147-89 record (.623) in 13 seasons in Boulder (1935-42, 1944-50) ... He led Colorado to three NCAA tournament appearances (1940, 1942, 1946) and to a pair of NIT berths (1938, 1940), the latter considered the more significant postseason tourney at the time ... His 1940 won the NIT championship in New York City, defeating DePaul and Duquesne at Madison Square Garden (in 1938, the Buffs defeated BYU but lost to Temple in the title game) ... In 1942, CU defeated Kansas, 46-44, in the NCAA quarterfinals to advance to the Final Four, one of two appearances by CU to this day; the Buffs lost to eventual champion Stanford, 46-35 ... Colorado was considered by many to have the top basketball program west of the Mississippi during the first half of Cox's tenure ... His four teams that made the postseason were the most by any coach in CU history until Tad Boyle surpassed that with his fifth team in 2014-15 ... During Cox's tenure, CU won four Mountain State Conference titles (1938, 1939, 1940, 1942) and the 14-game winning streak by his '41-42 squad is still the longest in CU annals ... He coached CU's first four All-Americans in basketball: Jack Harvey, Jim Willcoxon, Robert Doll and Leason "Pete" McCloud ... Five of his former players are in the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame: Harvey, Byron White, Harry Simmons, Art Unger and Russell "Sox" Walseth ... He passed away on May 22, 1962 at the age of 54 ... Inducted into the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame (April, 2014).

JIM DAVIS

Three-year letterman under the legendary Sox Walseth, he earned first-team All-Big 8 honors from both the Associated Press and United Press International his junior (1962-63) and senior (1963-64) seasons ... CU was 53-24 in his career, winning two Big 8 titles and earning two trips to the NCAA Tournament ... Scored 1,110 career points, converting 411-of-841 field goal attempts for a 48.9 percentage, considered very good for the day ... Averaged 14.4 points per game over his career, including 18.5 his senior season, when he also averaged 12.7 rebounds for a second straight season, leading the Big 8 both years ... With a 13.8 scoring norm as a junior, that makes him one of the few players in school history to average a double-double for two seasons ... He averaged 11.2 rebounds per game over his career (77 games) ... At the time of his graduation, he was CU's all-time leading rebounder and third all-time scorer ... Fourth round selection by Detroit in the 1964 NBA Draft, but the 27th player overall in a 9-team league at the time ... Waived by the Pistons that September, he persevered and eventually signed as a free agent with the St. Louis Hawks in 1967; he went on to play for the Hawks, both in St. Louis and when they moved to Atlanta ... He was traded to Houston for a month during the 1971 season and finished up his career after being traded to Detroit ... He played eight seasons in all, scoring 3,997 points with his best year coming in 1969-70 when he averaged 13.6 points and 9.7 rebounds for Atlanta, helping the Hawks to a 48-34 record and first place in the NBA West Division ... From Muncie, Ind., where he prepped at Central High, and currently resides in Windsor, Ontario.

CARLIE GARDNER

A three-time letterman under the legendary CU basketball coach Sox Walseth, Gardner was a two-time first-team all-Big Eight Conference performer at center ... He was noted for having an excellent touch around the basket and a dangerous hook shot that made him an outstanding inside scorer ... The 6-foot-8 Gardner led the Big Eight in scoring in conference games as a senior in 1965-66, owning a 20.2 average (third in overall games), and the same year was second in rebounding (9.8) and field goal percentage (52.4) as well as fourth in free throw percentage (65.0); his finishing first or second in three categories and fourth in a fourth was the best all-around effort at the time in Big Eight history ... The 20.2 average was the second-highest in program history at the time and it still ranks as the 10th-best ... He scored 845 points in 70 career games (12.1 per), the fifth-most points in CU annals at the time; he had 456 rebounds (6.9 per), which ranked seventh at the end of his career ... He was a two-time Academic All-Big 8 team member and a honorable mention Scholastic All-American ... He played one year of professional ball with the Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association, playing in 42 games in the '67-68 season (averaging 4.7 points and 3.2 rebounds per game) ... He then spent four seasons as an assistant coach under Walseth (1968-72), and was instrumental in recruiting Cliff Meely to Boulder before entering private business ... He is a member of CU's National Buff Club Cabinet and is an annual contributor to the Sox Walseth Basketball Endowment.

BURDETTE HALDORSON

Burdette Haldorson, No. 22 is one of just two retired basketball jerseys in CU history, left quite an imprint in the school's basketball annals ... The 6-7, 210-pound Austin, Minn., native still holds a pair of school rebounding records some five decades after his CU playing days, including the most in a half (21) and game (31) ... As a senior in 1954-55, he led the Buffs to the Big Seven title by averaging 23.9 points per game, and was also named as a first-team All-American ... CU eventually went on to finish third in the nation, losing at the Final Four to eventual champion San Francisco and the legendary Bill Russell ... Haldorson earned two gold medals in 1956 and 1960 as a member of the United States Olympic team, went on to have a brilliant career in the National Industrial Basketball League as a member of the Phillips 66ers, the team entry for Phillips 66, who then hired him after his career ... He then moved to Colorado Springs to form his own gas and oil distribution business ... In August 2010, Haldorson and his 1960 United States Olympic teammates were inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass.

JACK HARVEY

Jack Harvey remains the only CU basketball player to be selected twice as a first-team All-American (1938-39, 1939-40), when he led the Buffs to two Mountain States Conference titles, and as a senior, an N.I.T. title and a trip to the NCAA Tournament ... Scored 27 points in CU's 52-37 win at Denver in 1940, at the time the most points scored by a Buff in a single game and virtually an unheard total west of the Mississippi at the time ... Known for his tough defense, he was a key performer in limiting the opponent to just 31.2 points per game his junior season and only 37.0 his senior year.

JAY HUMPHRIES

He was a two-time Associated Press honorable mention All-American as a junior and senior (1982-83, 1983-84), when he earned first-team All-Big Eight honors ... Arguably the best and most exciting Buff of the 1980s, he became the school's all-time leader in assists (562) and steals (309) ... He finished his stellar career averaging five assists and 2.8 steals per game ... On the scoreboard, Humphries became the then-fourth all-time scorer (1,306 points, or 11.7 per game — he is still 14th on the list), with his go-to shot being the top of the key jumper which in his day was only worth two points ... His specialty, however, was his defensive play, as he led the nation in steals with 115 for the 1982-83 season, which remains CU's single-season mark; his 101 thefts his senior year (1983-84), ranks second on the CU list and was third in the NCAA ... He had an incredible 10 steals against Wisconsin-Milwaukee as a junior ... Humphries also holds the second (174) and third (173) season assists totals, in addition to the school mark in assists in a conference game (14), and double-figure assist games for a career with eight ... He had 10 career games with six or more steals ... He owned a career field goal percentage of 49.8 percent, shooting .500 or better in three of his four seasons ... He named to the league's All-Freshman team for

1980-81 and was a member of the Big Eight's All-Decade Team for the 1980's (honorable mention) ... The Phoenix Suns selected him in the first round of the 1984 National Basketball Association Draft (the 13th player overall); he went on to play 11 seasons in the NBA with four teams (Phoenix, Milwaukee, Utah and Boston), playing in 794 games and finishing with an 11.3 scoring average; he racked up 8,938 points, 4,424 assists, 2,033 rebounds and 1,161 steals ... After his playing days, he went into coaching and has been an assistant coach with several NBA teams in addition to coaching in South Korea for five seasons and in China for one

BOB JEANGERARD

Three-year letterman (1952-1955) under head coach H.B. Lee ... Two-time All-Big Seven Conference first-team selection ... Member of two NCAA Tournament teams in 1953-54 and 1954-55 (Final Four) under coach H.B. Lee ... Averaged 12.4 points and 6.1 rebounds per game during his collegiate career ... His senior year, he averaged 16 points and 6.8 rebounds per game, ranking second on the team in both categories ... CU won a then-school-best 19 games and reached the national semifinals falling to eventual champion San Francisco ... Named the NCAA Tournament Regional Most Outstanding Player ... Also that season, member of the CU team that rallied from a 23-point first half road deficit to edge Kansas State. The 23-point deficit remains to this day, a school record ... As a junior, he was second on the team in scoring (12.8 ppg) and rebounding (6.1 rpg.) ... as a sophomore, his tip-in at the buzzer defeated Oklahoma, 56-55 (Dec. 20, 1952) ... Entering the 2015-16 season, ranks No. 43 in rebounding (413) and No. 46 in scoring (842) ... Member of the 1956 Olympic Gold Medal basketball team in Melbourne and scored a team-high 16 points in the gold medal game against the Soviet Union ... The U.S. team dominated the games and brought home the gold medal after going undefeated (8-0), winning those games by an average of 53.5 points; the U.S. defeated the USSR twice, 85-55 in the quarterfinals and 89-55 in the gold medal game ... The team was loaded, with CU teammate Burdie Halderson, his college teammate and close friend, and future NBA Hall of Famers, Bill Russell and K.C. Jones ... Jeangerard was the team's second-leading scorer when all was said and done, scoring exactly 100 points for a 12.5 average, behind only Russell's 14.1 ... In shooting a sizzling 60 percent from the field, practically unheard of in that day and age, he scored a team-high 16 points in the gold medal game, with a best of 21 points in a win over the Philippines ... In 1959, he was once again chosen to represent the U.S., playing on its team for the Pan American games ... Teaming again with Halderson and college basketball stars Oscar Robertson and Jerry West, the team again captured the gold medal ... Jeangerard went on to have an outstanding career in AAU ball ... He passed away in July 2014 at the age of 81.

BILLY LEWIS

The first African-American varsity basketball player at Colorado (and the first to letter), enrolling at CU in September 1956; at that time, freshmen were ineligible to play and he thus made his debut in the 1957-58 season ... As with his football counterparts, though treated well in Boulder, he often had to endure harsh racism on the road in pre-Civil Rights America and thus blazed the trail for all those who would follow him to CU ... The 6-3 forward played in 67 career games, scoring 244 points and grabbing 197 rebounds in lettering three times ... His best season on the court was his junior year, when he averaged 5.9 points per game with a career-high 21 against Nebraska ... In 1959, after the basketball season was complete, he decided to come back out for track in his specialty, the high jump; he cleared 6-6¾ and finished second in the CU Invitational (to Wyoming's Jerry Lane, who jumped an inch higher) which topped his previous personal best of 6-2 as a senior at Denver's Manual High School, where he was coached by CU great and Hall of Fame member Gil Cruter ... Just as important if not more so were his contributions as a student leader, becoming the first African-American elected by the student body as commissioner of the ASUC (Associated Students of the University of Colorado); he led a delegation of students and testified on the resolutions against discrimination in housing and employment practices and headed the SFHD, Students For Human Dignity, two of many causes he championed that helped change CU in a positive way forever ... Upon his graduation from CU in 1960, he clerked for a Denver judge, and after marrying fellow CU grad JoKatherine Holliman (the first African American woman on CU's homecoming court), they relocated to Washington D.C. where he would work for Colorado senator Peter Dominic in 1963 and 1964 while earning his Juris Doctor of Law degree from Howard University ... In '64, he was recruited by IBM and took a position as the first African-American corporate attorney at the company's headquarters in Armonk, N.Y., and returned to Colorado two years later (1966) to be the junior counsel for IBM in its Niwot offices ... He almost made a successful bid to become a state representative in 1968 against Tom Bastien, but lost by just 100 votes; he then opened a private law practice in Denver with partner Morris Cole.

settled back home in Colorado where he starred as a prep ... Is a longtime participant in the radio sports talk scene in Denver, and was the radio play-by-play voice of the Denver Broncos after several years as the color analyst ... Also worked several CU football games for KCNC-TV in the 1990s as the color commentator.

Two-time All-Mountain States performer (junior, senior seasons), he led the league in scoring both as a junior (14.1 per game) and senior (16.5, big for its day).

DAVE LOGAN

A first-team All-American as a senior in 1975 as selected by The Sporting News and a Playboy Preseason All-American prior to his junior season (1974), the lone Buff to ever make the squad as a non-senior ... Logan caught 68 passes for 1,078 yards in his CU career, numbers that both ranked second at the time of his graduation and remain in the top 20 all-time ... He led the Buffs in receiving in both 1974 and 1975, after finishing second to the late J.V. Cain as a sophomore in 1973 ... A two-sport star at CU (he also lettered in basketball, averaging 14.1 points in 58 career games), Logan is one of a handful to ever be drafted in three sports: he was a third round pick by Cleveland in the 1976 NFL

Draft (65th overall); the Kansas City Kings nabbed him in the ninth round of the 1976 NBA Draft; and the Cincinnati Reds had drafted him as an infielder and pitcher in the 19th round of baseball's June draft out of high school (longtime MLB outfielder Dave Winfield was also drafted in three) ... Played in 119 NFL games with Cleveland (1976-83) and Denver (1984) catching 263 passes for 4,250 yards and 24 touchdowns in his pro career. Logan

In exiting CU following his senior year with all the scoring records and as the runner-up in all the rebounding marks, some three-plus decades later Cliff Meely still holds the mark for a single game (47) ... Today he's third in rebounds (971) and fourth in career points (1,940) ... His name remains either at or near the top in over a dozen statistical categories, and he still owns the two top single season scoring averages in CU history: 28.0 as a senior in 1970-71, and 23.8 as a sophomore in 1968-69 ... The 12.1 rebounds per game average for his career remains one of the top numbers ever posted collegiately ... A three-time All-Big Eight team member, he earned first-team All-America honors as a senior, and set 16 school and eight conference records during his career ... Additionally, Meely's 24.3 points per game scoring average is still a school record ... Leader on the Buffs' last Big Eight Conference title team ... Overall, the Buffs won 49 games during his time on the CU campus under late coach Russell "Sox" Walseth, the fourth most over any three-year span in CU history, with his jersey number (20) just one of two retired in CU annals ... Went on to play six seasons in the National Basketball Association with the Houston Rockets and Los Angeles Lakers ... In 1995-96, Meely was named to the Associated Press' all-time Big Eight Conference

Basketball first team ... Along with Meely, the-late Wayman Tisdale (Oklahoma), Danny Manning (Kansas), Jo Jo White (Kansas State), and Rolando Blackman (Kansas State) were named to the team ... In addition the conference honor, Meely also earned the NCAA's Silver Anniversary Award presented to six former collegiate athletes who have gained recognition or done great work in their postgraduate careers.

SHAUN VANDIVER

A three-year letterman (1988-91) ... Two-time All-Big 8 and Associated Press first team selection (1989-90, 1990-91) ... His 668 points during the season became the most scored by a CU big man, a feat he surpassed as a senior in 1990-91 with 699 ... In the 1989-90 Big 8 Tournament, Vandiver earned most valuable player honors after he helped CU upset Missouri and Oklahoma State in back-to-back games, as CU became the first No. 8 seed to advance to the title game (he scored 75 points and had 41 rebounds in the three games) ... Other school marks he holds are career rebounds by a center (962); consecutive double-figure rebounding games (16); and is tied for first in career field goals made (750) ... He is third in career in field goal percentage (.574) ... Selected No. 25 overall in the 1991 NBA Draft by the Golden State Warriors, but would play nine seasons overseas in Europe ... Once returning to the states, he was an assistant coach at Wyoming, Bowling Green, Northern Colorado and Boise State before being named head coach at Emporia State ahead of the 2011-12 season (he has a 78-93 record in six seasons there).

CHUCK WILLIAMS

A three-year letterman at guard under Coach Sox Walseth for the 1965-66, 1966-67 and 1967-68 seasons ... Stood 6-foot-2 and weighed 185 pounds, one of the bigger guards in the nation for his day ... A floor leader, he was known for his precision passing, slashing drives to the basket and his tenacious defense, possessing exceptional quickness and speed ... Following a serious knee injury his junior year that cost him over a third of the season, he rebounded his final campaign to have an excellent year ... An honorable mention All-Big Eight Conference performer as a senior, when he was second on the team in scoring (18.0 points per game), along with averaging 5.1 rebounds per game (assists and steals were not official statistics at the time) ... Led the team that season in both field goal percentage (.439) and free throw percentage (.748) ... Scored a career-high 38 points against Iowa State in Boulder on Feb. 28, 1968; still tied for the 13th-most points in a single game in CU history, at the time it was the fourth-most ... His 802 career points were the ninth-most

Born Edward Williams in Pittsburg, Calif., on June 6, 1946, and currently resides in Denver, where he is the national business development manager for BELFOR Environmental.

RUSSELL "SOX" WALSETH

A player and long-time basketball coach at Colorado, Russell "Sox" Walseth was likely the first and one of just a few to have coached both the men's and women's program at the same NCAA school ... His time at CU spanned 38 years, starting as an athlete in the 1940s when he lettered in both basketball and baseball a total of six letters He then worked as the head freshman coach for five years (three under his coach, Frosty Cox, and two under H.B. Lee); after two years as head coach at South Dakota State, he replaced Lee for the 1956-

57 season and would proceed to coach 20 Buffalo teams ... The winningest coach in CU men's basketball history, posting a 261-245 record, the Buffs won three Big Eight titles under his direction, in 1961-62, 1962-63 and 1968-69 ... He was the Big Eight Conference coach of the year on five occasions, and his star players included Ken Charlton, Jim Davis, Cliff Meely and Scott Wedman ... Coached the women's team from 1980-83, then known as the "Lady Buffs," compiling an impressive 77-21 record ... That mark included an incredible 43-0 record at home, and once again, he earned coach of the year accolades ... The basketball floor at the Coors Events Center is named after him, and he is a member of the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame.

SCOTT WEDMAN

A three-time letterman for Sox Walseth at Colorado, he still ranks 20th all-time on CU's scoring charts with 1,251 career points (16.7 per game, which remains eighth-best for a player with 75-plus games in a Buff uniform) ... At the time of his graduation, he was CU's fourth all-time leading scorer and rebounder ... In 75 games, he converted 516 of 1,046 field goal attempts, a solid 49.3 percent ... He twice earned All-Big Eight Conference honors, leading the Buffs in scoring as a junior (17.7 per game in 1972-73) and as a senior (20.0 in 1973-74); he was second as a sophomore with a 12.8 average in '71-72 ... One of just 12 players in school history to average 20 or more points in a season ... Scored a career-high 32 points against Long Beach State his senior year ... Led the team in rebounds with 9.3 per game both his junior and senior campaigns, with his 684 career boards still the 11th-most ever by a player in a CU uniform (his career-high of 19 came against Nebraska his junior year) ... Selected as a second-team member of the conference's all-decade team for the 1970s ... Sixth overall pick in the 1974 NBA Draft by the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, he was just the second CU player in history at the time to be drafted in the first round, as well as the highest pick; to date, only Chauncey Billups has been a higher selection (third overall); he was the second pick in the '74 ABA Draft by Memphis but opted for the NBA ... 13-year NBA veteran with Kansas City, Cleveland and Boston, he played in 906 games with a 13.2 career scoring average, pouring in 11,916 points; he shot 48.1 percent from floor, 79.4 percent from the free throw line and averaged 4.8 rebounds per game ... Also played in 85 playoff games (with a 10.4 scoring average) ... The first former Buffalo to play on an NBA championship team, he won two rings with the Celtics (1984, 1986) as he participated in all three of the classic Celtic-Los Angeles Laker NBA Finals battles in the mid-80s ... A two-time NBA All-Star ... Shares the mark for field goal perfection in the postseason with two others when he hit all of 11 of shots, including four three-pointers, for 26 points in a win over the Los Angeles Lakers in Game 1 of the '85 NBA Finals (a 148-114 win come to be known as the "Memorial Day Massacre") ... His jersey was officially honored by CU in the spring of 2006 ... Inducted into the Colorado Sports Hall of Fame in 2007.

LARRY ZIMMER, Announcer

Larry Zimmer is the first inductee into the Hall who is not a former athlete, coach or administrator; but he's been a part of more football and men's basketball games than perhaps anyone else in school history, calling 478 for football, including a string of 251 in a row until he fell ill, along with 525 men's basketball contests ... He is a member of both the Colorado Sports and CU's Athletic Hall of Fames ... Almost as synonymous with CU as Ralphie, the school's live buffalo mascot, Zimmer has spent 41 years in the booth at Folsom Field and traveling with the team, broadcasting some of the Buffaloes' greatest moments ... "Zim" has missed only 12 football games CU overall; prior to the six due to illness, he had missed three bowls (two due to contracts forbidding teams to originate broadcasts) and three regular season games due to travel conflicts; his 400th at CU was also the 1,000 of his professional career ... At their current school, only Bob Robertson, Washington State (535) has called more games than Zim, who is tied for fourth in consecutive years calling major college football (41st) behind Robertson (48), Bill Hillgrove, Pitt (45) and Don Fischer, Indiana (42) ... Awarded an Honorary "C" in 1992, and was honored as the 15th recipient of the Chris Schenkel Award by the National Football Foundation in 2009, which recognizes those who have enjoyed a long and distinguished career broadcasting college football at a single institution.

SEASON NOTES

- The CU head-coaching job was taken over by 30-year-old Russell "Sox" Walseth, who replaced H.B. Lee.
- In his first season, Walseth was named Big Seven Coach of the Year.
- On Dec. 3, the Buffs stunned highly regarded Oregon State, 67-58, in Sox Walseth's coaching debut. Jim Jochems scored 18 points, Bob Helzer and Dave Mowbray each added 14. Jochems would be plagued by a knee injury the rest of the season, played in only 10 games.
- After upsetting Missouri, the Buffs set a Big Seven Christmas Tournament record shooting 42-of-49 from the free throw line in a 90-87 victory over Michigan State. This marked the first time a CU team reached the finals of the tournament. CU lost the title game to Kansas, who was led by Wilt Chamberlain's 45 points.
- CU guard Dave Mowbray was selected to the All-Big Seven All-Tournament second team. Mowbray led the Buffs in total points with 273, an average of 11.9 per game.
- After pre-season predictions labeled CU for not much success (five top scorers from a year ago did not return), the Buffs finished 14-9 and tied for fourth in the conference. Only six other CU teams had won more than 14 games.

SEASON NOTES

- On Dec. 7, the Buffs beat Montana and former CU coach Frosty Cox, 77-60.
- On Jan. 20, CU upset conference leader Iowa State to earn Colorado's first victory in Big Eight Conference play.
- On March 8, CU's Gerry Schroeder tipped in a shot at the final buzzer to beat Nebraska, 54-52, for a thrilling finish to the basketball season.
- Schroeder was the lone CU player to average over 10 points a game (13.2 ppg.). His 304 points was the most scored ever by a CU guard.
- On Feb. 10 against Kansas, the Buffaloes "held" Wilt Chamberlain to his lowest point total in his high school, college, and professional career of six points. Chamberlain deliberately held onto the ball choosing to pass the ball to his teammates opposed to shooting.
- Gerry Schroeder (8-of-14) and Larry Pitts (7-of-12) combined for all of CU's 15 made field goals (the rest of the team went 0-for-14) in CU's 59-45 victory at Missouri (Mar. 3). The only two players to score all of CU's points from the field, is believed to be a school record for fewest players to score a basket.

- On Jan. 31, CU upset Kansas, 66-64, in the Buffaloes' first nationally televised appearance.
- CU guard Gerry Schroeder was named to both the AP and UPI All-Big Eight teams. Schroeder finished a brilliant three-year career with a total of 813 points, the third highest career total for a Buff, only topped by and Burdette Halderson (1125) and Bob Jeangerard (842).
- Schroeder set a school-record for points scored in a season by a guard (321 points).
- Schroeder (13.4 ppg.) and Don Walker (13.1 ppg.) finished ninth and 10th, respectively in Big Eight scoring (all games).

Wilky Gilmore

SEASON NOTES

- Wilky Gilmore earned UPI All-Big Eight first team honors. He led CU in scoring (13.9 ppg.) and rebounding (10.6 rpg.). It's just the second time a Buff player averaged a double-double for a season (Burdette Haldorson (21.0 ppg, 13.8 rpg., 1954-55).
- On Feb. 6, CU, without two starters, managed to down Kansas State, 65-50, to snap the Wildcats 19-game conference winning streak.
- On Feb. 27, the Buffs lost to Iowa State, 83-80, in five overtimes, which was the longest game ever played in the Big Eight.
- On March 5, Wilky Gilmore ended the Buffs season on a winning note by tipping in a missed Russ Lind shot with two seconds remaining to give CU a 41-39 victory over Oklahoma State.
- Gilmore scored the most points (334) and rebounds (254) by a first-year player.
- Gilmore (13.9 ppg.), Russ Lind (11.8) and Stan Williams (10.0) ranked the top-15 in Big Eight scoring. Gilmore was seventh, Lind was ninth, Williams 14th.
- The 1959-60 team also marked the first time four players eclipsed the 200-point plateau in a single season.
- CU also played four overtime games (going 2-2), it's the most overtime games in any season.

%In a special ruling by the Big Eight Conference faculty representatives in September, Colorado was forced to forfeit seven victories during the 1960-61 season, six in conference play and the Buffs' lone victory in the pre-season tournament the previous December. The ruling came as a result of CU's Wilky Gilmore's playing in an organized summer league during 1960. At that time, such play was prohibited by conference rules, since rescinded. The ruling revised Colorado's record from 15-10 to 8-17, and the conference finish from a fourthplace tie to last.

- CU went unbeaten at home (12-0) for just the third time with a minimum of 10 home games (1937-38, 1961-62).
- Ken Charlton and Jim Davis became the third CU pair named to All-Big Eight Conference AP & UPI teams (Gilmore/Charlton, 1961-62; Halderson/Jeanerard, 1954-55).
- Charlton scored 514 points, only the second CU player to reach the 500-point plateau in a single season. He would be named to the All-Big Eight All-Tournament team and lead the conference in scoring (19.2).
- Davis led the Big Eight in rebounding (32.9). He would become the fourth CU player to average a double-double in a season (13.8 ppg., 12.7 rpg.).
- On Dec. 3, CU beat Wichita State, 79-69, in double overtime for the 500th win in CU history.
- On March 9, CU's 69-56 victory over Kansas State in Manhattan gave CU a share of the Big Eight title with the Wildcats. The Buffs advanced to the NCAA playoffs because they had more wins.
- On March 16, CU defeated Oklahoma City in Lawrence, Kan., 72-82, to advance to the NCAA Midwest Regional championship for the second straight year. CU would lose to familiar foe Cincinnati, who had beaten the Buffs in the Midwest Regional championship the previous year.

SEASON NOTES

- CU finished the season with a 15-10 record, marking the Buffs' seventh winning season in eight years. The Buffs also recorded their first second-place Big Eight finish.
- On Dec. 16, the Buffs set a new fieldhouse single game high in points with a 93-70 win over Arizona State. The previous high was 92 against Missouri during the 1962-63 season.
- CU set two new team scoring records during the 1963-64 season-1,812 total points (old mark 1,779 previous year) and 1,013 points in Big Eight play (old mark 947 previous year).
- Center Jim Davis finished his career as the Buffs' all-time rebound leader (836 boards). He left CU as the third highest scorer with 1,110 points (Ken Charlton: 1,352 and Burdette Haldorson: 1,125).
- Jim Davis led the conference in rebounding (184, 13.1 rpg.) for the second consecutive year and was selected to the All-Big Eight Conference AP & UPI first team.
- Sox Walseth was named the Big Eight Conference Coach of the Year, his second coaching honor (1956-57, Big Seven).
- Jim Davis was fourth (19.3 ppg.) in conference-only scoring, while Bob Joyce (12.6) and Mike Frink (12.2) were ninth, and tenth, respectively.
- Davis is the only CU player to have a pair of 300-plus rebounding seasons in career (1962-63: 329; 1963-64: 318).
- Davis would average a double-double (18.5 ppg., 12.7 rpg.) for the second straight season. It's the fifth time a CU player has accomplished that feat.

SEASON NOTES

- Injuries plagued the 1965-66 season: Pat Frink did not play due to an injury that he suffered at practice in early November; Lynn Baker injured his knee in the season opener against Texas Tech and was forced to sit out the remainder of the season.

- Chuck Gardner earned All-Big Eight first team honors (AP & UPI). He led the conference in scoring, finished second in rebounding and field goal percentage and finished fourth in free throw percentage. This 1-2-2-4 finish was the best the Big Eight had on record.

- Gardner became the third player in school history to score over 500 points in a season. His 506 total ranks third all-time.

- On March 5, CU defeated ninth ranked Nebraska 95-88 to knock the Cornhuskers out of a Big Eight Championship tie. CU forward Chuck Gardner drove Nebraska's middle defense crazy scoring 42 points to set a new school scoring record.

- Gardner led the Big Eight (conference-only games) in scoring (20.3 ppg.).

SEASON NOTES

- CU won 17 games, the most in four years, in addition winning 10 games in conference play.
- Although the Buffs and the Huskers had identical 10-4 records tying for second place, CU was snubbed by the National Invitational Tournament, despite beating tournament-bound Nebraska in the final game of the season.
- Pat Frink and Lynn Baker were both selected to the All-Big Eight second team.
- Bob Bauers capped his collegiate career leading CU in rebounding (7.4) and finishing second in scoring (13.5). Both were career highs for a season average.
- On Dec. 5, Frink scored 36 points in a 93-89 victory over Utah. This was Frink's first season back after a year of inactivity due to a knee surgery.
- On Jan. 7, CU shot 59.9 percent from the field and stunned highly touted Kansas State 71-68.
- On Jan. 17, CU upset Kansas 62-59 at the CU Fieldhouse. The Jayhawks suffered their lone conference loss and would finish the season No. 3 (AP) and No. 4 UPI in the final polls.

SEASON NOTES

- CU won 20 games for the first time in its history (21) and went unbeaten at home (12-0) for just the fourth time with a minimum of 10 home games (1937-38, 1961-62, 1962-63).

Matt Bullard

SEASON NOTES

- Matt Bullard was named to UPI's All-Freshman team, as he became only the second player ever to lead CU in scoring as a freshman. He was named an AP & UPI conference honorable mention.
- Bullard's 12.7 ppg. average was the second best ever by a frosh, topped only by Emmett Lewis (14.9 in 1975-76). Bullard also shot school record 60.4 FG%, that ranked second in the conference. Bullard is the fourth CU frosh to average 10+ or points a game.
- On Dec. 11, CU's 78-65 victory over Colorado State marked the 800th win in the program's history.
- On March 1, a 94-86 loss to Missouri gave Colorado the dubious distinction of being the only team in Big Eight history to go winless in league play.
- This was only the second 20-loss season in CU history, as the Buffs also ended the year with a seven-game home losing streak and a nine-game road losing skid.
- Mike Reid was named to the Big Eight All-Academic first team.
- The 1985-86 team had at least three seniors on the roster for the fifth straight year.
- Tom Apke coached the Buffs for four years from 1981-86 (59-81, .421).
- On April 2, Tom Miller was named CU's 14th head basketball coach.

Chauncey Billups

SEASON NOTES

- Chauncey Billups became the fourth CU freshman to lead the Buffs in scoring with a school record 17.9 ppg. He would score 31 points in his second career game, the most points by any CU freshman. He's the sixth CU frosh to average 10 or more points at the end of the season.
- Midway through the season, after suffering an 82-80 overtime loss to Southern Utah, head coach Joe Harrington resigned and Ricardo Patton was named interim head coach.
- On Jan. 29, 1996, Ricardo Patton won his first game as CU's head coach, as his Buffs beat Missouri 106-94. The game was televised on ESPN's "Big Monday," and the win was CU's first on ESPN since they upset No. 2 Oklahoma State in 1992.
- Billups earned Big Eight Freshman of the Year and the coaches All-Big Eight Second Team. He scored the most points by freshman (465) and the only CU frosh in history to break the 30-point in a single game (he did four times).
- On Dec. 2, Billups recorded the first ever triple-double by a Buff, and the sixth in Big Eight history with 24 points, 11 rebounds and 11 assists against George Mason.
- On Feb. 7, CU turned in one of its best performances of the year in a 64-63 overtime win at Kansas State. The win marked the first overtime road win in Big Eight play since beating Missouri 81-79 in January of 1973.
- On March 5, Patton was named head coach on a permanent basis, making him CU's 16th head coach.

SEASON NOTES

- In the opening game of the season, sophomore Jose Winston tied his career-high with eight steals, the second-highest single-game total in CU history.
- On Jan. 19, CU beat No. 17 Oklahoma 88-80, breaking an 11-game losing streak to the Sooners.
- With a victory in late January over Kansas State, head coach Ricardo Patton moved into sole possession of fourth on the all-time coaching wins list at CU with 68.
- In what many CU fans believe to be the best game at the Coors Events Center, CU came from behind to defeat Iowa State in overtime 102-90. Jaquay Walls scored an NCAA-record 15 points in the overtime on his way to an arena single-game record 42 points.
- The Buffs were once again invited to play in the National Invitational Tournament. They lost to Southern Illinois in the first round, 94-92. The invitation marked the third time in four years that the Buffs had played in a postseason tournament.

SEASON NOTES

- The Buffaloes youth of freshmen and sophomores attributed 72.3 percent of the team scoring, the highest percentage of any Buffs team since the Big 12 Conference began in 1996-97.

- CU fell short by single-digits 11 times, an average of 4.6 points; and in conference play on eight occasions by a 5.3 point margin. Four of those single-digit setbacks came against NCAA Tournament opponents, Texas (in overtime), at Kansas, at Oklahoma and Texas A&M.

- In two seasons, there have been 20 single-digit losses (15 in Big 12 play).

- All-Big 12 Conference Third Team selection Cory Higgins turned in a successful sophomore campaign that saw him become one of only 13 players nationally to lead or finish second on his team in five major statistical categories (points, rebounds, assists, steals, blocked shots). He also ranked nationally in a trio of categories (steals, FT%, scoring).

- Higgins' 538 points ranked the 13th best single-season mark in team history. It ranks third all-time among CU sophomores and seventh all-time among guards for a season.

- Dwight Thorne II made great strides putting together his best season-to-date recording 12 ppg. He made 48 percent of his shots and led CU from the three-point arc with 45.

- Levi Knutson was an All-Big 12 Academic First Team selection. During the spring 2009 semester, the men's basketball team achieved their highest grade point average on record a 2.926.

In his three years at CU, Andre Roberson was second nationally in rebounding during the 2012-13 season, and third nationally in 2011-12. He led the Pac-12 Conference on the glass (all games and conference-only) in each of those two seasons.
